FINANCIAL MARKETS

Sharp Decline of Stocks Follows Railway Union Demands—Money Rates Easy.

The blunt demand of the railway brotherhoods for Government ownership of the railroads was all that was necessary to upset a topheavy speculative position in the stock market yesterday, and the product was declines extending from 3 to more than 10 points in the active list. The amazing proposal that the carriers be operated in a way to give the railroad workers a share of surplus profits, if there were any, and to shoulder a loss upon the taxpayers was something which speculators had not counted upon in scanning the horizon for signs of disturbances. The news came at a time when the long account had been made nervous by difficulties in financing purchases on margin. It supplemented uneasiness previously caused by the widespread agitation over the cost of living, with the latter's tacit promise that measures would be taken which might have a definite influence upon profits in certain lines of business. Evidence that other factors were at work in the decline was well supplied by the tendency of industrial stocks to recede as fast as, if not faster than, the rails. An unusually large demand for stocks in the loan crowd on the Exchange after the close of business indicated that operations on the short side had helped the downward movement along, but this process is always a companion of sales of stocks held for the rise when the outlook turns bad. Dealings were in the neighborhood of 2,000,000 shares.

The combination of circumstances that affected securities was also noteworthy in other markets. Cotton dropped $11 a bale; on the Chicago market corn declined around 6 cents a bushel, and the quotations for hogs and pork products moved off rapidly from the opening. Surveyed generally, the markets reflected a decided revision of speculative calculations, a healthy development, in the opinion of many conservative bankers and business men, and indicative of a closer study of fundamental problems than had been seen until lately.

The demand for Government purchase of the railroads, to be operated for the benefit of wage earners in the main, was received with mixed feelings in banking quarters. It would not be too much to say that it was more welcome than unwelcome in some important quarters, inasmuch as the program of the brotherhoods calls for a judgment by the people at the next Presidential election. Confidence was voiced that, in the light of the vote in the major industrial States three years ago, when the forces behind the eight-hour law were clear to all, the voters would not be especially partial to the party which set out to perpetuate anything approaching the present situation of the railroads. At the same time, considerable reserve was noted in regard to the prospect for the roads during the balance of the year, what with pressure being exerted for higher wages and other complications which face legislation for the transportation system. The sharp declines of such issues as Atchison, Reading, Great Northern preferred, Southern Pacific, and Union Pacific seemed to disclose considerable liquidation of investment holdings as well as the lightening of speculative accounts.

The heavy sales of stocks naturally had effect upon the call money market, plentiful supplies being reported in the afternoon. Rates were 6 and 7 per cent. during the renewal period, and later loans on mixed collateral were negotiated at quotations as low as 5 per cent. Outside of a further softening of French exchange the exchange market was fairly steady throughout the day.

Prices Steady on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—Prices were steady on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 61 francs 25 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 32 francs 47 centimes. Five per cent. loan, 87 francs 57 centimes. The dollar ranged from 7 francs 33½ centimes to 7 francs 38½ centimes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Discussing Equipment Business.

Recent suggestions that the Government realizes the vital need for an arrangement of credits here, so that foreign Governments and foreign Government railroads may come into this market and buy locomotives and cars, which are one of their first requirements for rebuilding devastated areas, found some opposition in railroad circles yesterday. This was due apparently to the belief that if large foreign orders should be placed over a time of sufficient length to carry them into the buying, which is expected to develope among the railroads of this country as soon as they are returned to private operation, the important item of deferred maintenance will have to be put off again. This, it is understood, does not fit in at all with the plan of the corporate managers, who want their roads returned to them in substantially as good condition as they were when taken over by the President.

Railroad Legislation.

In local railroad quarters much attention will be given to the suggestions which will be made before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, beginning probably next week by railway executives. While at first the demands of the Brotherhoods for Government ownership caused some consternation, this quickly passed, and faith was placed in the plans which the representatives of the owners will offer before the Senate. While no definite date has been set for the Steering Committee of the Association of Railway Executives to present its ideas to the Senate Committee indications point to Aug. 14 or 15 as the date.

Lackawanna Compensation $15,749,476.

News of the closing of the compensation contract between the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company was a surprise to financial circles yesterday. This was due to the general belief that the road was far from satisfied with the allocation of equipment made to it, under the régime of former Director General of Railroads McAdoo, and that it was one of the big systems which had stated that it would not approve the plan for the financing of that equipment which was drawn up recently by a special committee of bankers headed by Jerome J. Hanauer, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. It was also generally assumed that, according to the precedents established by the Railroad Administration in similar disputes, a compensation agreement would not be signed until the contracting railroad agreed to accept equipment allocated.

American Telephone and Telegraph.

In yesterday's trading session, when stock prices throughout the general list were breaking sharply, the action of American Telephone and Telegraph shares, which in recent days have been subjected to "bear" rumors, was not particularly surprising. The stock closed ⅝ of a point off and this slight decline was pointed to as evidence that there has been but little speculation in "Tel. & Tel." All of the other issues in the general list which have moved to higher price levels because of speculative buying showed plainly that many holders were speculators purely when the break assumed large proportions.

Stromberg Pyrotechnics.

Stromberg Carburetor, the closely held automobile accessory stock, which has provided the market with spectacular movements in recent days, lost 18 points in the late trading yesterday on a turnover of less than 2,000 shares. The low for the day was 72.

Bond Market Eases Off.

Prices in the bond market yesterday declined sympathetically with the break in stock prices. The convertible issues lost ground easily while Liberty Fourth 4¼s on a turnover aggregating $4,247,000 sold down from 93.90 to 93.42, a net change for the day of nearly one-half a point. The Third 4¼s were also active but closed at 95.10, their high for the day.

Foreign Financing.

While there were no new developments yesterday in the foreign financing situation bankers again reiterated their assertions that the country as a whole should immediately co-operate in extending to Europe the aid she needs so vitally. In some quarters it has been said that the State Department is keenly alive to the situation and that as soon as possible steps will be taken to show the private bankers of the country what the Administration policy will be on this much-discussed point.

Professional Selling.

Professional selling—professional in the sense that much of the stock offering on the market was bought speculatively—was plain in the shares of Texas & Pacific Railroad yesterday. This issue has found favor with those who play the market and has attracted enough of a following to move up substantially since the activity in the stock began. Yesterday's net loss of 6⅞ points scared out a large number of weaker holders who wanted to sell before all of their paper profits disappeared.

Short Selling Rampant.

There is no question that liquidation of long stock was extensive yesterday, but combined with this, to force prices to lower levels, was short selling by the professional traders. Many of them have been nibbling on the short side for some time, but there was a buying demand on the part of the public that sent them to cover when it was asserted. The railroad situation offered the pretext for heavy short selling, which continued throughout the day with very little evidence of rallying power in the market. Many issues closed at almost their low for the trading session.

U. S. Steel Weak.

Despite the fact that all of the reports which have been forthcoming during recent weeks have indicated that the steel industry was rapidly getting into the stride of capacity operations, there was pronounced selling pressure exerted against all of the steel stocks yesterday, and a decline of 5 points was recorded in United States Steel, which aroused comment, as it was a net swing such as has seldom been recorded on the upward side this year. It is frequently asserted that when favorable news comes forth from the Steel Corporation the stock declines, and this seems to have been the case this time. Ever since the earnings statement for the second quarter, which was far better than anticipated, Steel common has been declining. At yesterday's close the stock was more than 10 points under its high for the year, made on July 14, when it touched 115½. The low for the year, made when the steel industry was facing its readjustment program, was 88⅝.

The Mexican Situation.

There is confidence among the oil companies operating in Mexico that the controversy with the Mexican Government over the much debated petroleum law will be terminated satisfactorily. The protestations which have been made against any confiscatory procedure have been so strong that it is believed to be certain that Mexico will digress from the avowed policy which was under consideration several months ago, and which provided that the oil properties were inherently the property of the Government. As yet the Mexican Congress has not taken up the petroleum question. President Carranza has announced that his recommendations are practically unchanged from those announced some time ago, but this might be even a good omen for the oil companies, as the Mexican Congress has not been especially tractable in accepting Presidential suggestions. In only one case has there been an endeavor to halt oil developments, and there are many wells being drilled now in defiance of the ruling which requires a license for the drilling of wells on a company's own property.

ALL STOCKS BREAK ON STRIKE THREATS

COTTON DROPS $10 A BALE

The stock market yesterday suffered its greatest decline of the year when heavy selling was precipitated by the demands of railroad brotherhoods for Government ownership of the railways.

After opening from 2 to 5 points below last week's final quotations, both railroad and industrial stocks were thrown over by holders, who feared that complications might arise from the attitude of railway workers, and the downward movement gained force as time passed.

Coming at a time when inadequate supplies of credit had weakened the speculative position, the possibility of continued Government operation and the threat of a great strike caused sales in large volume by both speculators and investors. The day's declines extended from 3 to more than 10 points. The turnover was more than 1,800,000 shares, making one of the most active sessions of the Stock Exchange during the year to date. Railroad bonds were weak, without being unusually active.

The abrupt demand for participation by railway workers in the management, and the profit of the country's railroads came as a complete surprise to the stock market. The disturbed sentiments of the Street were especially demonstrated in such declines as 4⅞ points in Atchison, 4¼ in Chesapeake and Ohio, 5⅜ in Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, 4 in Great Northern preferred, 5⅛ in Reading, and 5½ in Union Pacific. These stocks had not participated to a marked extent in the market's advance, which began last February, and so the heavy sales were credited largely to investment account. At the same time industrial stocks, including American Woolen, Anaconda, Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies, Baldwin Locomotive, and Mexican Petroleum, were pressed down further than many of the rails. This movement was interpreted as a drastic unsettlement of general speculative endeavor, which had previously been affected by other factors. The session was divided into fairly distinct periods, which contained sharp waves of selling, followed by moderate recoveries. Brokerage firms with telegraphic connections to interior cities were active all day long filling hurried orders from out of town customers to sell. The market gave its weakest display as business came to a close.

Declines of the Day.

American Can	51½	63	6
American Car & Fdy	112	121¼	3
American Locomotive	83	97½	5⅜
American S. & R.	77	89⅝	5⅛
Anaconda	68⅝	77⅛	4⅜
Atchison	92⅜	104	4⅞
Atlantic, G. & W. I.	153⅛	188¼	10¾
Baldwin	99½	124½	11⅜
Bethlehem Steel, B.	93	110¼	8⅞
Chesapeake & Ohio	60	68½	4¼
C., M. & St. Paul	42½	52⅜	5¼
Corn Products	85⅝	95⅝	7
Crucible Steel	130	149	6
General Motors	210⅜	243	7⅛
Great Northern, pfd.	89¼	100⅝	4
Marine	53⅛	67⅛	6
Mexican Petroleum	178½	205⅞	10⅞
New Haven	33⅜	40⅞	4⅝
Reading	82	93⅜	5⅛
Union Pacific	127	138½	5½
U. S. Steel	104⅜	115½	5

While the peremptory demand of the railroad unions was the direct cause of the day's decline, it seemed as though the widespread movement to check the rising tendency of living costs had a part. This was demonstrated also in the cotton market when prices fell $10 a bale, and in continued declines of the corn and provisions markets in Chicago. Comment of brokerage offices disclosed a feeling that measures to reduce prices of necessities might upset calculations in respect to corporation profits during the remainder of the year. Speculative activity on the constructive side of prices was also curtailed by further evidence of decreasing supplies of bank credit for market purposes. Time money was hard to get and, while call money was more plentiful than on certain days last week, rates continued at 6 and 7 per cent. during the time when the major part of the day's borrowing was being completed.

See Hope in Political Action.

The railroad situation was considered by the Street to be placed in a more serious position by the demands of labor than had already been produced by the monthly deficit in earnings. In some banking quarters, however, a favorable feature was found in the avowed intention of the union leaders to carry the matter of Government ownership into next year's election. The prediction was made by railroad bankers that such a step would result in a "show down," and that the public, which has learned a great deal about Government operation in the last twenty months, would snow under a proposal to continue the present program in any form. At the same time bankers and brokers alike were dubious over what might happen in Congress, viewing the situation over the next few months in terms of bond and stock quotations.

The financial community was evidently much concerned over the prospect for legislation looking to the return of the railroads to their stockholders before Jan. 1. This phase of the matter seemed to be complicated not only by the attitude of the railroad unions, but also by criticism of recent suggestions of Robert S. Lovett of the Union Pacific, by Forney Johnston of counsel for the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities. The intimation contained therein that railroad managers and security holders were still wide apart in their plans for seeking constructive action by Congress was evidently a factor in causing sales of railroad stocks.

COTTON IN BIG DROP DUE TO LIQUIDATION

LOSSES 195 TO 200 POINTS

High Cost Agitation and Weather Report Also Factors in the General Decline.

Liquidation on a broad scale, chiefly for New York account, but aided to some extent by selling from Liverpool, where there was a bank holiday, brought about a sharp break in the cotton market yesterday with losses of from 195 to 200 points on futures as compared with Saturday's closing quotations. Selling was insistent from the opening, with last prices only slightly better than the lows for the day.

At the opening the market showed but little appetite for the offerings of sellers, who were trying to unload large amounts of contracts and foreshadowed the subsequent softness with futures being quoted from 28 to 38 points down. There was a fair-sized short interest in the market on Friday, but longs were predominant yesterday after the treatment afforded the shorts at the end of last week, and there was little latent power evident to check the decline.

One factor, in addition to sales of contracts by Liverpool houses, was the general agitation for a cut in the price of all commodities. This was accepted as due to have an unsettling influence for some time to come, and when the Weather Bureau sent out its prediction for cloudy and unsettled weather over the cotton belt tonight and tomorrow selling became general.

October contracts sold as low as 32.30, as compared with the recent high of 35.20 at the end of last week. December got down to 32.50, and the proportionate decline in January, March, and May was about the same. There was little indication of a recovery, although bids for March and May contracts were slightly higher at the close.

	Open.	High.	Low	Close.	Prev. Day.
Oct.	33.85	34.00	32.50	Of'd 32.50	34.50
Dec.	34.15	34.25	32.50	32.52@32.54	34.50

May	34.02	34.06	32.50	32.42 bid	34.42

The local market for spot cotton was quiet at 32.80c for middling upland, 205 points decline; sales nil.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 33.25c; New Orleans, 32.50c; Savannah, 33.50c; Augusta, 32.50c; Memphis, 34.50c; Houston, 32.25c.

GETS TITLE TO NEW CARS.

Columbia Trust to Hold $300,000,000 in Railroad Equipment.

The Columbia Trust Company has been appointed by the United States Railroad Administration as trustee to hold title to new railroad equipment valued at between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 pending its delivery to the different carriers or until an adjustment of differences between the Administration and the roads has been effected.

In the equipment mentioned there are 87,000 freight cars, part of which have been constructed but not yet allocated. These cars will be lettered "Columbia Trust Company, Trustee, Owner," and put into service on the roads throughout the country. It is expected that placing these cars in service soon will add a great deal in moving the crops of the country.

New Hampshire Banks Gain.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 4.—Deposits with New Hampshire savings banks and trust companies increased in the year ended June 3 by $6,820,854.39, notwithstanding the Liberty Loan campaigns in that period, according to the report of the Bank Commissioner issued today. Only twice, in 1890 and in 1917, has a greater increase been recorded in any one year.

BUY $15,000,000 COPENHAGEN BONDS

TO YIELD 6.24 PER CENT.

Loan Is to be Redeemed in Yearly Payments of $750,000 from 1925 to 1944.

The purchase of $15,000,000 twenty-five year 5½ per cent. bonds of the City of Copenhagen was announced yesterday by Brown Brothers & Co., in conjunction with J. & W. Seligman & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co., and William A. Read & Co. The issue is to be offered to the public at 93½ and interest. The loan is to be repaid by means of yearly payments of $750,000 in United States gold, the redemption process to begin in 1925 and continue to 1944. The average yield on the offering price will be 6.24 per cent. to the investor.

The yearly redemption feature is somewhat unusual in the local investment market, although many issues of Government and municipal bonds have been floated in foreign markets under similar terms. That part of the issue which is drawn for redemption in 1925 will net the present buyer 6.84 per cent., in 1926, 6.68 per cent., with a gradual decline in the yield as the life of the bonds is extended. The bonds to be redeemed are to be drawn by lot and purchased at par. The borrower may increase the annual payments if he so elects.

The City of Copenhagen has agreed that no other foreign loan will be issued for at least a year. The city's loans have been popular with European investors. In normal times the loans were issued at rates of interest of 3½ and 4 per cent., and prior to 1914 sold on the London Stock Exchange close to par. The total debt of Copenhagen, according to a statement by bankers yesterday, is approximately $80,670,200, including the new loan. The city has the most important free port in Scandinavia, an advantage of much value in the commerce of northern Europe. From 1895 to 1913 the annual tonnage entering Copenhagen increased from 280,000 tons to 1,801,299 tons. The population of the city is 550,000.

Waltham Watch Co. Notes Sold.

The Waltham Watch Company has sold an issue of $3,000,000 five-year 6 per cent. notes to the National City Company, F. S. Moseley & Co., and the First National Corporation of Boston. The proceeds will be used to reduce the company's floating debt. The bankers are offering the notes to investors at 99, yielding about 6¼ per cent. on the purchase price. A statement yesterday said that the corporation's average net income in the last five years had been more than $750,000 annually.

$1,375,000

Central Power Company

First Mortgage Five-Year 6% Gold Bonds, Series "A".

Dated July 1, 1919 Due July 1, 1924

Interest payable January 1 and July 1 in Chicago or New York. Coupon bonds, registrable as to principal, are in interchangeable denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100, and are redeemable as a whole or in part at 100 and accrued interest upon 30 days' published notice.

Interest payable without deduction for Federal Income Taxes now or hereafter deductible at the source, not in excess of two per cent.

The Central Power Company through its own distribution system, or by long-term contracts running well beyond the life of these bonds, supplies electricity for light and power to some thirty-one Cities and Towns in eastern Nebraska centering about Grand Island and Kearney. It also supplies Grand Island with ice and Kearney with gas. In 1915 the aggregate population served directly or indirectly in these cities and towns was 51,930. In addition it supplies electricity for power and lighting purposes to a number of ranches reached by its transmission lines.

The electrical system is now entirely interconnected and in ideal condition, and is served by the Company's two hydro-electric stations, eliminating the necessity of steam operation, except under extraordinary conditions. The physical condition of all the properties is good and entirely adequate to take care of present business, and that immediately in prospect, as well as such business as will develop for several years to come within the reach of the present transmission lines.

These bonds, in the opinion of counsel, are secured by a First Mortgage on all of the properties, rights and franchises now owned or hereafter acquired by the Company.

The replacement value of the physical property of the company, as reported by our examining engineer, is largely in excess of the First Mortgage Bonds outstanding.

The territory served lies largely in the fertile valleys of the Platte River and its tributaries in Eastern Nebraska. The territory is well served by railroad transportation, and has enjoyed a steady and stable development.

The indenture under which these bonds are issued provides that additional First Mortgage Bonds may be issued at not exceeding 75% of the cash cost of the plant, equipment or other property and then only when net earnings are one and three-quarters times annual interest charges on all First Mortgage Bonds outstanding and those proposed to be issued.

The mortgage provides a fixed Maintenance, Replacement, and Depreciation Fund of 12½% of annual gross income from operation of mortgaged property, thus assuring adequate maintenance of the Company's plant during the life of the bonds. The Franchises of the Company all extend beyond the maturity of the bonds, all but two extending to or beyond 1940.

The net earnings for the year ended June 30, 1919, were 1.8 times the annual interest requirements on these bonds.

BARS $26,000 FEE IN WILL CONTEST

PENDING IN SUPREME COURT

Attorney Says He Braved U-Boats and Zeppelins for Data in de Ridder Case.

Surrogate Cohalan granted yesterday an application by Howard Taylor and Michael J. Egan, appointed three years ago by the Surrogate to be temporary administrators of the estate of Eugene de Ridder, to be relieved of their duties on the ground that they have been unable to get possession of any of the assets of the estate, estimated at more than $1,000,000.

The decedent, a war refugee, died in Holland in January, 1916, and an alleged will was produced by Mrs. Eloise Walter giving her three-fourths of the estate and leaving the balance to Stanislaus de Ridder, a brother of the decedent. The bulk of the property left by Eugene de Ridder consists of one-half the estate of his uncle, Guillaume A. Reusens, who left more than $600,000 in Westchester realty when he died at Oscawanna, N. Y., on Jan. 5, 1915. The Eugene de Ridder will was contested by the brother, and in this proceeding the two administrators were appointed, but they stated that although they have been paying a premium of $1,300 a year for the $500,000 bond they were required to give they have been unable to get possession of any assets. Mr. Taylor stated that claims aggregating $200,000 have been filed against the estate by creditors of Eugene de Ridder in Holland and Belgium.

The Surrogate, on the objection of Stanislaus de Ridder, declined to grant counsel fees out of the estate to his former attorneys, Leary & Goodbody, on the ground that he had paid them $16,000, while they have been suing for $26,000 more. The suit of the attorneys against Stanislaus de Ridder, which is now being heard by a referee, shows that the services for which they are sueing were performed under unusually perilous conditions, which accounts for the valuation placed upon them by the attorneys.

The attorneys state that when Eugene de Ridder died Mrs. Walter was sharing his home. They say that Stanislaus de Ridder, then their client, contended that his brother's death was suspicious. William U. Goodbody, member of the law firm, went to Holland in the Fall of 1916 with Stanislaus de Ridder to investigate the death and the facts relating to the execution of the alleged will. They say that the trip to Holland was dangerous because of the war and de Ridder found the situation in Holland so "unpleasant" that he returned home on the next steamer and left Attorney Goodbody there to obtain evidence.

The complaint states that Mr. Goodbody returned to England for additional information and the ship on which he embarked was captured by a submarine and taken to Zeebrugge, where the plaintiff was kept a prisoner with the other passengers until the State Department effected his release. He had to wait in Holland two weeks for another steamer. The trip to England was dangerous, he alleged, but he got the desired information there from refugees and relatives of the decedent.

The attorneys say that their client applied here for a commission to take evidence abroad concerning the will and the courts ordered it done at once. Germany just then declared her campaign of unrestricted submarine warfare, and the attorneys called that fact to the attention of their client, but he insisted that they represent him personally in Holland in taking the testimony, and requested Henry F. Leary of the plaintiff's firm to go, "promising to compensate him for the risk and danger."

Attorney Leary sailed in the Fall of 1917 and was on the trip twenty-five days. While under the protection of an allied convoy the steamer was attacked by a submarine. The passengers were ordered to the boats, but when the vessel did not sink they went back aboard. Mr. Leary waited six weeks in London for permission to go to Holland, and finally it was refused because the British Government disagreed with the New York courts as to the necessity of taking the testimony in Holland. He alleges that during all the time he was away his family, neighbors, and friends were annoyed by agents of the United States and Great Britain, and during the time he was in London the city was attacked by Zeppelins fifteen times, and many people were killed and injured near him. The attorneys stated that Mrs. Walter had made no attempt to have the will probated here, but it is possible now to get the testimony wanted by their former client in opposing the probate of the document. They contend that $26,000 is a reasonable fee for the perils and hardships they were compelled to undergo in the interest of their client.

RUBBER DROPS DESPITE WAR

Lower by 10 Cents a Pound, Due to Increased Production.

In contradistinction to the usual upward trend of prices during the last year, it is shown that the average price of crude rubber imported into the United States during the fiscal year ended June 30 was 40 cents a pound, or lower by 10 cents than the average price in the last five years, according to figures compiled by the National City Bank.

"The quantity of rubber imported in the five fiscal years since the beginning of the war," says the bank, "is greater than in the twenty years preceding the war, but the average price a pound during the war period is less than that of the twenty years before the war. The total quantity of rubber imported in the five years since the beginning of the war is 1,563,000,000 pounds, valued at $795,000,000, an average of about 51 cents a pound, while in the twenty years before the war the total quantity imported was 1,549,000,000 pounds, valued at $1,034,000,000, or an average of about 67 cents a pound. The average in the year just ended is less than that of any single year since 1890.

"The fall in price is due to the enormous increase in production. While the world's consumption of rubber greatly increased during the war, especially in the United States, the gain of production was even more rapid. The world's production in 1917 was 108,000 tons and in 1918 289,000 tons. Our own importation has grown more rapidly than world production, being practically three times that of 1913, while world production was doubling.

"Since the war the United States has continued to increase her rubber importations, the total quantity imported since the armistice being about 20 per cent. more than in the corresponding period of the preceding year. In fact, the United States, during most of the war period, has been consuming about two-thirds of the rubber of the world, and more than three-quarters of a billion dollars has been sent out of the country during the war to buy India rubber.

"A large proportion of the rubber consumed in the United States has been utilized for automobile tires, the value of tire production of the United States being now estimated at about $450,000,000, while a recent estimate of world expenditure for pneumatic tires put the grand total at about $600,000,000 a year."

INCOME TAX FRAUD ALLEGED

Accountants on Trial for Conspiracy to Make False Returns.

The first of a number of trials of persons indicted on charges of conspiring to defraud the Government through false returns for income taxes was begun yesterday before Federal Judge Rufus E. Foster and a jury. The defendants are Morris Rachmil and Abraham Lincoln Samuelson, partners in the Sterling Accounting and Audit Company, and Bernard Joffe, an employe. Morris Rosenblum, an agent of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, was also accused of being concerned in the alleged attempt at fraud. He is expected to testify for the Government.

The defendants are accused of accepting a bribe from the Coastwise Warehouses, Inc., the officials of which were acting in concert with Collector Edwards to trap the men accused. It is alleged that the defendants approached F. A. Page, Treasurer of the Coastwise Warehouses, with a proposal to prepare a return that would save the concern $60,000, for which the defendants were to receive $11,000. Mr. Page notified Collector Edwards of the proposal, and the Collector arranged for him to make the deal.

When the arrests were made $9,000 was found on Rachmil and Rosenblum, which, it is alleged, had been paid to them by the Coastwise concern. The total amount to be paid the defendants, it was said, was $11,000, $2,000 having been paid when the agreement was first made.

Shattuck Arizona Copper Report.

The report of the Shattuck Arizona Copper Company for the second quarter of this year shows a deficit of $98,010 exclusive of depletion. This compares with a deficit of $163,988 for the preceding quarter and a surplus of $116,883 in the June quarter of 1918.

EGGS.—12,666 cases. The market opened with only a moderate demand but a selective character. Strictly fancy goods were scarce and wanted at relatively firm prices, but the average best qualities obtainable in any quantity met only a moderate outlet and were freely offered at unchanged prices. Medium and lower grades were pressing for sale, and there was a considerable surplus of such unsold. The range of prices showed no material change. Values varied widely, according to the quality and condition of the stock. Nearby white eggs were in ample supply and there was a surplus of average good and lower qualities, some receivers having considerable accumulation of these, which were freely offered at comparatively easy prices. Extra fancy stock was scarce and holds steady, Californias moving slowly in the range previously quoted. U. S. Trade with Canada and Canadian Exchange

In the last twelve months Canada bought approximately $700,000,000 worth of goods from the United States and sold approximately $400,000,000 worth in the American market. Thus over one billion dollars worth of Canadian-American trade was affected by the fluctuations in Canadian exchange.
With 360 branches throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion, the Union Bank of Canada, through its New York Agency, is in a position to offer valuable advice, based upon an intimate knowledge of actual conditions, to all American importers and exporters desirous of protecting themselves against unfavorable fluctuations in the value of the Canadian dollar.

WANTS A RECEIPT FOR EACH TRANSFER

Corporation Counsel Would Have Income Segregated So Charges May Be Refunded.

BEMIS CUTS VALUATION

City's Agent Says Railways Property Is Worth About $45,000,000 Instead of $70,000,000.

At the hearing yesterday before Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon on the application of Corporation Counsel William P. Burr for a rehearing on the order of the Commissioner authorizing the New York Railways Company to charge two cents for transfers, Mr. Burr asked that the company be required to give each passenger paying for a transfer an acknowledgement, so that the money could be gotten back should the city win its contention that the charge was illegal. The suggestion was that a plan similar to that adopted by other public service corporations pending court decisions on the right to increase rates, be placed in operation, and that the money received by the company in return for transfers be kept in a separate account.

Mr. Burr read into the record a report from Prof. E. W. Bemis, an authority on values of public utilities, who was employed by the city at the outset of the fight for increased fares to appraise the railroad properties. The company says the value of its property used in the operation of its lines amounts to more than $70,000,000, but Prof. Bemis fixes the amount at $45,000,000. His report says the company has only 150 miles of running track, and that his estimate is rather over than under the fair value of the property, "for it means over $330,000 per mile, which is twice what I found to be the value of a similar system, with less difficulties of construction, however, in Washington, D. C." He says that the return of 6 per cent., or $2,700,000, might be a fair return on the $45,000,000, that even a 7 per cent. return would only be $3,150,000, and that the company earned much more than that prior to 1917. He incorporated in his report a table showing the operating income of the company for the fiscal years from 1913 to, and including, the current year, the latter being estimated. The figures, based on his own valuation of the property, show: 1913, operating income, $4,749,011, profit, 10 6-10 per cent. 1914, $4,008,759, 9 per cent. 1915, $3,805,476; 8 4-10 per cent. 1916, $4,392,350; 9 8-10 per cent. 1917, $2,693,285; 5 8-10 per cent. 1918, $2,179,430; 4 8-10 per cent. Ten months in the last fiscal year, $606,316, and for the current fiscal year, estimated, $1,200,000; 2 7-10 per cent.

Prof. Bemis points out that the return on his estimate of the value of the property has been, during the years enumerated, an average of 7 3-10 per cent., and that the profits earned in excess during the period amounted to $2,700,000. Then his report says:

"In view of the large increase of earnings in April, and the prospect that there will be a still larger profit in May, and in view of the large earnings in the past, it will certainly seem as if this company should have been forced to try the existing rates of fare a while longer."

Mr. Burr's argument for a revocation of the 2 cent order followed the line set forth in his brief asking for the rehearing. He contended that the commission was without power to issue such an order, that if it had the power it acted illegally in delegating to the company the power to fix the transfer points where the charge would be made, and that the company had stricken from its schedule of rates thirty-six points where its franchises make compulsory the giving of free transfers.

Colonel Henry L. Stimson, counsel for Receiver Job E. Hedges, said the commission had full power in the matter and that the charging for transfers at ninety-nine of the 113 points where they had been furnished without charge was necessary to aid the company in its dire necessity. He said that Mr. Burr had plenty of opportunity to examine the reports and schedules which formed the basis of the company's own valuation of its property, because they had been placed at his disposal six months ago.

Victor McLaughlin of the Franchise Bureau of the Board of Estimate testified regarding the franchises granted to the company and the points in which they stipulated that free transfers were to be given. Assistant Corporation Counsel E. J. Kohler insisted that the franchises clearly provided for the giving of free transfers. The hearing will be continued this morning.

The commission adjourned for one week the hearing on the application of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company for the privilege of charging 2 cents for transfers at ten of the fourteen points where they are now given free between surface and rapid transit lines.

Baltimore and Big Business

In thirty short days Baltimore established an extraordinary record.

The monthly report of the Industrial Bureau of The Board of Trade shows that in the month of June fourteen new industries with a total capitalization of twenty millions located within our gates; —that eighteen already established concerns planned additions and extentions.

—that the total cost of the new plants and improvements will entail an expenditure of eighteen million dollars.

—that work will be afforded ten thousand additional men and women.

Baltimore's natural and economic advantages—sound industrial development—ideal labor conditions—financial standing—and civic spirit are attracting the attention of industry's master minds.

THE CITIZENS NATIONAL BANK OF BALTIMORE takes pardonable pride in the fact that it has been so closely and largely identified with Baltimore's commercial and industrial growth; and reiterates its purpose to co-operate with its millions of resources in the still greater development of Baltimore Business.

We extend a cordial invitation to industries and enterprises locating in Baltimore to identify themselves with us.

On Old England's Highway

WHEN the London Mail and its galloping horses crashed into the family coach, there was nothing to protect the owner from inevitable loss. He had to pay for repairs himself as best he could.

MODERN automobiles meet with frequent accidents, but today insurance bears the brunt of losses from collision, fire and other damage. Protection in this form is the one safeguard not only from accidents but from the carelessness of others as well.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Large deals in the realty field now pending were not completed yesterday, with the result that the market was unusually quiet. Sales of apartment houses and private dwellings held up, but no strikingly important transactions were reported.

I. Portman of the Manport Realty Company has purchased two ten-story apartments on Broadway from 150th to 151st Street, on plot 200x150. The block contains twelve stores, 161 apartments, and 772 rooms. The rentals amount to $196,000 and the property was held at $1,500,000. A. H. Levy and M. J. Henschel were the brokers.

Simon Buys Two Lofts.

Robert E. Simon, who last week made his first downtown purchase, yesterday bought two more loft buildings, 47 and 49 Greene Street, a six-story building, 50 by 100, and 225 Greene Street, a six-story building, 20 by 87. Spear & Co. were the brokers. The Brown, Wheelock Company was associate broker in the sale of 225 Greene Street.

Business Buildings Sold.

E. M. Parsons, through William A. White & Sons, sold 201 Duane Street and 307-309 Washington Street, a four-story and basement dwelling, on lot 22.11 by 49.6. This is the second sale of this property through the same brokers within two weeks. The purchasers are Peter Paplia and Charles V. Smith, comprising the firm of Charles V. Smith & Co., wholesale fruit dealers.

The Burden Realty Company, Kenneth M. Newman, President, bought a six-story loft building as a speculation from the Bank for Savings. The property, a six-story structure on plot 48.4 by 100, valued at $75,000, was sold through Spear & Co. The bank came by the property through a foreclosure proceeding a few years ago.

Sherman Townsend sold to Richard S. Elliott the five-story loft building at 214 Front Street, adjoining the northwest corner of Front and Beekman Streets. Mr. Elliott is negotiating the resale of the property. The transaction was all cash. George A. Bowman represented the seller. The Charles F. Noyes Company were the brokers.

Apartment House Sales.

The Bona Vista, a ten-story apartment at 362 Riverside Drive, south corner of 109th Street, was purchased by Irving Judis from the Arrow Realty Corporation, identified with the Union Dime Savings Bank, for a reported price of $750,000. The building has a frontage of 151 feet on Riverside Drive and 100 feet on 109th Street. It rents for about $31,000 a year. The J. Romaine Brown Company was the broker.

The six-story elevator apartment, on a lot 26 by 106.8, held at $55,000, at 76 Irving Place, was sold by a client of Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft, through William A. White & Sons.

The Estate Leasing Company sold 119 West 142d Street, a six-story apartment house, 50 by 100, to the Antilean Holding Company, through B. W. Smith, Inc., and H. Price.

Frederick Brown sold to Joseph Greenwald 23 Arden Street, one block from Dyckman Street, a five-story flat on a plot 27 by 100, renting for $5,292 and held at $40,000. Butler & Baldwin were the brokers.

Heights Apartment Sold.

Philip Wattenberg and Abraham Nevins bought a six-story elevator apartment house, 97 by 111, renting for about $35,000 and held at $235,000, at the southwest corner of 169th Street and Fort Washington Avenue, from the Arrow Holding Corporation. S. Rosen was the broker and Philip D. Shapiro, attorney, represented the purchasers.

Private Dwellings.

The Clark Estates sold the five-story American-basement dwelling at 136 East Seventy-first Street to William C. Langley through William J. Roome & Co.

Mrs. Louis J. Watjen sold, for occupancy, 62 East Seventy-eighth Street, a four-story American-basement dwelling, on lot 17 by 102.2, between Madison and Park Avenues, to a client of Douglas Gibbons & Co.

Vera Rascovar sold 16 West Eighty-second Street, a four-story and basement dwelling, on a lot 21 by 102.2, between Central Park West and Columbus Avenue. The new owner will occupy. The property was held at $30,000, and was sold through the J. Romaine Brown Company.

The four-story dwelling, on a lot 20 by 102.2, at 119 East Seventy-first Street, between Park and Lexington Avenues, is reported to have been sold. Catherine C. Johnston is the owner of record.

Mrs. M. G. Titus sold the five-story American-basement dwelling, 18 by 100, at 309 West Eighty-fifth Street to a client of Pease & Elliman.

Novel East Side Improvement.

A novel improvement in the form of American basement dwellings with gardens has been arranged by the Ruland & Whiting-Benjamin Corporation, as brokers. It involves the twenty three-story and basement dwellings of the old-fashioned type at 227 to 247 East Forty-eighth Street and 226-238 and 242-246 East Forty-ninth Street, between Second and Third Avenues, which have been acquired by the Turtle Bay Holding Company. The company plans to start work immediately upon altering them into four-story private residences, and has already contracted for the sale of seven of the houses to intending occupants.

The facade of the houses will be changed and the interiors entirely remodeled. The back yards will be replaced with gardens and trees, and the old fences at the rear replaced [illegible] walls over which vines will trail.

Most of the houses involved in the sale were reported sold last June by the same brokers. The purchasers at that time had in mind the reimprovement of the property with modern apartment houses.

The Bronx Market.

The estate of Stephen Duncan Pringle and Louise Havemeyer Jackson sold the two five-story apartment houses, each on plot 42 by 150, renting for about $8,000 and held at $50,000 each, at 961 to 965 Hoe Avenue, near Aldus Street, to Louis James through Samuel Kronsky, Inc.

Vogel & Schultz sold a five-story apartment, with seven stores, on a plot 54 by 110, irregular, renting for $14,000, to an investing client of Alexander Selkin in an all-cash transaction.

Rubin & Sussman sold the five-story apartment house, 50 by 100, renting for $6,000, at 712 and 714 East 176th Street, to George Levine through William Karp. QUALIFY FOR

SENIOR ACCOUNTANT, NOVEMBER, 1920.

November 15 to January 1 is the period during which one-fourth of the year's business changes, readjustments and building-up of staffs are made.

If you have a faculty for figures and the crude stuff for the making of an accountant, there is just about time between now and November 15 of this year for you to qualify for a Junior Accountancy position that will pay at least $35 a week.

And ample time to qualify before November, 1920, for position of Senior Accountant, Auditor, or Income Tax Expert, at a salary of at least $75 a week with possibilities of more than twice that amount.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

During the three months ending May, 1919, 715 men and women who are being given specialized vocational training by our institution received important promotions and salary increases aggregating $422,660. Our records show that 171 of these 715 members have completed, or nearly completed, their training, while 372 are not yet half way through.

It is only a question of raw ability and industry, a resolute purpose to devote five or six spare hours a week to intensive training in accordance with the most successful business training system ever devised, under the supervision of a corps of eminent Certified Public Accountants who are renowned as practical teachers.

KILLED IN PRISON MUTINY.

Negro In Connecticut Penitentiary Is Shot by a Guard.

HARTFORD, Aug. 4.—Lewis Brown, 30, a negro convict, was shot and killed during trouble in the shirt shop of the State prison at Wethersfield today. Another negro, Leroy Robinson, and four Italians were injured, and three guards, who bore the brunt of the fighting to put down an incipient mutiny, were severely handled.

The trouble grew out of friction between Brown and a guard, and the latter, by order of Deputy Warden C. L. Parker, shot at Brown. None but these six prisoners were involved in the trouble, which apparently was aimed to bring about a strike among those working in the shirt shop.

WITNESSES MYSTIFY FORD TRIAL JURY

JUDGE CORRECTS COUNSEL

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Aug. 4.—Evidence presented by the plaintiff's attorneys Monday at the opening of the thirteenth week of the $1,000,000 libel suit of Henry Ford against The Chicago Tribune centred almost entirely around the first point raised in the testimony more than two months ago.

This was a statement made in the offending editorial calling Henry Ford an anarchist, the statement being taken from a dispatch from Detroit purporting to be based on an interview with Vice President Klingensmith of the Ford Motor Company that the company would not retain jobs for men who went to the Mexican border with the National Guard in June, 1916, and that it would not provide for their families while they were absent in the country's service.

The witnesses were virtually all in rebuttal of testimony.

John J. Henkel, Harry Summers, and W. L. R. Blakeley, who were in the Ford employment department at the time, denied to the best of their memory the testimony of John R. Lee, formerly organizer of the educational or welfare department; that he had talked with them on the first working morning after the President's call for the mobilization of the National Guard regarding the care of men and families in the emergency.

Mr. Henkel testified that he, and not Mr. Lee, instituted the system of giving specially marked re-employment discharges to those who reported out for military duty.

Maurice Foreman, connected with the Ford car agency at Hastings, Mich., added a complication to the tangled question of accuracy of statements by Lieutenant James A. Connors, whom the defendant's lawyers have unsuccessfully tried to get back for re-cross-examination.

Connors testified that while working a new field artillery battery at the time of the Mexican border summons he called the Ford company on the telephone, was assured that the men would be taken care of, and made the announcement at roll call in the Detroit armory about the same time the contrary story was sent to Chicago. Various witnesses affirmed that the recruits for the proposed battery were not occupying the armory at the time.

Lieutenant John Lefevre, now of the Michigan State police, said that Connors never had made such an announcement. He was confronted with a deposition bearing his signature and confirming Connors's statements. This he declared had not been read to him in the form it appeared. Foreman testified Monday that he heard the statements read in detail. The jury was left mystified.

Paul Wiggins and Lester H. Sammond, Ford men in the proposed battery, both swore that they heard the announcement made, but on cross-examination they were hazy on other details.

F. F. Clemett, former assistant to Dean R. S. Marquis at the head of the educational department, contradicted the testimony of Attorney S. D. A. Erwin of a telephone call during the week of the mobilization in which Clemett was reported to have said the company had not yet formulated its policy concerning care of its enlisted employes.

Charles H. Bassett, chief accountant of The Detroit Free Press, was called by the plaintiff in an effort to discredit the testimony of John H. Dunnewind, present assistant managing editor of The Free Press, and Herbert C. Walker, at that time city editor, but the court ruled out the exhibits.

Mr. Dunnewind had testified that he interviewed Mr. Klingensmith by telephone the same day as P. H. Williams, the Tribune correspondent, talked to him, and that Mr. Klingensmith told him substantially the same as he was reported to have told Williams. He said that as he remembered the incident after three years, he called Mr. Klingensmith at his residence. Mr. Klingensmith testified that shortly before the time he had moved to Birmingham, which would necessitate a long distance call.

Mr. Bassett was required to produce the telephone bills of The Free Press for the month when the conversation took place to show that the call was not made from Detroit to Birmingham, but Judge Tucker ruled this out as inconclusive.

Ford counsel asserted that the testimony of Mr. Walker that Mr. Dunnewind had turned in an item on the interview had been ruled out at the time. Judge Tucker corrected him in this, saying he had made no such ruling.

Ford employes were brought in to absolve the company of blame in the tardy relief afforded Mrs. Ernest Prail, whose husband was one of the guardsmen.

Attorney Alfred Lucking said after the session that he believed the Ford testimony would be completed early Wednesday.

Mother, Asks for Daughter Traced Here After Searching London.

After three trips to London during a five-year search for her young daughter, held there by her divorced husband, Mrs. Marion Briggs Dickerson of 32 West Fifty-eighth Street, Brooklyn, found her a short time ago in Quogue, L. I., according to testimony given yesterday in the Brooklyn Supreme Court before Justice Kapper.

Mrs. Dickerson has brought an action for a writ of habeas corpus to get possession of the daughter, Jullenne Marion Tainter, 14 years old, who, she says, has been kept away from her by the former husband, Louis Swift Tainter, in London, for the five years, contrary to an agreement made between them in May, 1909.

Mrs. Dickerson said that she obtained a divorce from Tainter in Texas, and that she received the custody of the child. Later, by a private agreement, forced upon her, she said, in the absence of a lawyer, by Tainter's threats to reopen the case, she gave Tainter the custody and guardianship of the daughter, but with the condition that she was to have the girl's custody every Summer, and that she was not to be taken to Europe by either without the permission of the other. Contrary to this agreement, Mrs. Dickerson said, Tainter took the girl to London five years ago, and, although she made three trips through submarine infested seas, searching for the girl, she was unable to get any trace of her until a few days ago. Decision was reserved in the case.

PLANE FALLS INTO OCEAN.

Navy Craft Rides Waves Until Rescued by Fishing Boats.

BABYLON, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The navy seaplane HS-2, which started from Montauk Point for Rockaway Beach late today, tumbled into the ocean at Oak Island Beach, opposite Babylon. The accident was caused by a broken propeller blade. The machine was not injured, nor were any of the three occupants injured.

After landing on the water the machine, in which were Ensigns Blackburn and Lamb, and Mechanic Smith, rode the waves until they were rescued by fishing boats. Captain Joseph Thomas of the Oak Island Life Saving Station towed the crippled seaplane to the station, where it was put on board of a revenue cutter and taken to Rockaway Beach.

HELD AS AUTO BANDIT.

Traffic Violation Leads to Capture of Alleged Robber.

Policeman Belvochi of the Traffic Squad entered the East Thirty-fifth Street Police Station early yesterday morning and turned in the stub of a summons for a traffic violation at Forty-second Street and Lexington Avenue by a chauffeur named David Goldstein of 62 Columbia Street just as Detective Guita came in with the report of an attack by automobile bandits on S. Chairononte, an aged cobbler of 200 East Fortieth Street, who was beaten in his shop and robbed of $100. Belvochi and Guita compared notes and decided the men in the automobile which had driven on the wrong side of the street were the men who had attacked the cobbler.

They found Goldstein, who insisted that he knew nothing about the robbery, but they forced him to drive along First Avenue, where the chauffeur pointed out a man on the street as one of his fares. This man, Charles Burgo of 435 East Fourteenth Street, was stopped by the detectives. After he had been questioned Burgo was charged with the robbery and locked up.

The Housing Problem

No. 8

The housing situation is really in the hands of the public itself.

If it will support the mortgage market, the Title Guarantee & Trust Company can be the agency of transmitting that support immediately into the construction of houses.

We sell the mortgages with payment of principal and interest guaranteed by the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company, a $10,000,000 guarantor, and on sales of such mortgages amounting to $700,000,000 no investor has ever lost a dollar.

We offer our services to the investing public and the owner and builder. We can go as far as the investing public permits us to go. The housing crisis can be taken care of if we act together. Neither one alone can do it.

Low Cost of Packard Truck Transportation

One Hundred Eight Quarts of Milk Carried a Mile for One Cent

TO "build better than you know" is responsible for an occasional lucky record in a motor truck as well as in anything else. But consistency is the jewel for which the business man is looking when he works out his motor transportation problems. And it is only achieved when builders of motor trucks know the high mark at which they must aim and refuse to place their name on anything lower.

Nearly everybody knows the high standard of automotive engineering that Packard Motor Trucks are required to meet before they are ever given to the public.

But comparatively few people realize that after Packard trucks have been delivered to their owners, their performance is subjected to the closest scrutiny by the Packard people themselves.

Co-operation between the Packard truck owner and the Packard organization is bound to result in the most efficient transportation and in costs which can be depended upon to stay low.

An instance of such co-operation is where a great Chocolate industry of Pennsylvania, is improving the routeing of its trucks and the other factors in its transportation system by working out the problems with representatives of the Freight Transportation Department of the Packard Motor Car Company of Philadelphia.

By means of carefully kept costs (National Standard Truck Cost System) they have shown to be possible to transport milk by Packard trucks at the marvelously low cost of 9 2/10 cents per ton mile.

Intelligent transportation engineering will improve the operation of any motor truck. But to insure dependable figures year in and year out, it is necessary to have a dependable motor truck—a truck with a practical record long enough to prove design and engineering perfectly sound.

That Packard trucks meet these requirements has never been open to question.

Add then the knowledge and ability of the Packard Freight Transportation Department and you have all the insurance a business man could ask that the very important delivery end of his business may be scientifically handled.

The Packard Freight Transportation Department is instituted for the benefit of all business men regardless of the make of the trucks they already own. We shall be glad to hear from them. No obligations.

WILSON TO ADDRESS CONGRESS SOON ON COST OF LIVING; BIG BROTHERHOOD FUND TO PUSH FEDERAL OWNERSHIP BILL; B. R. T. MEN VOTE TO STRIKE ON ALL LINES THIS MORNING

B. R. T. MEN VOTE TO STRIKE FOR UNION RECOGNITION

DEMANDS ALL REJECTED

Receiver Garrison Refuses to Treat with Any but Company's Employes.

POLICE READY FOR TROUBLE

Leader Says Power House Men Will Join — Subway and Elevated Motormen Are Not Included.

The members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, who are in the employ of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, met in the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum, Willoughby and Myrtle Avenues, last night and unanimously voted to strike at 5 o'clock this morning.

The meeting was attended by between 2,000 and 3,000 men and the strike resolution was adopted amid cheering that was heard for blocks. The motion to strike was put by Leo Beal, an employ of the B. R. T., who shouted above the din a proposal that "the strike take effect immediately and continue until such time as the officials of the B. R. T. recognize our union and agree to negotiate with it."

From all parts of the hall came a storm of seconds and when Edward Smith, Chairman of the Brooklyn local of the union, put the question a wild demonstration followed that lasted several minutes. If there was a single man in the house who was opposed to such precipitate action he kept his views to himself.

When first put the motion did not fix a time for the strike. After the adoption of the strike motion, P. J. O'Shea of Detroit, who is Chairman of the National Executive Committee, suggested that a second motion fixing the time should be put to the house. This was done and the hour of 5 A. M. today was agreed to.

The message of ex-Secretary of War Lindley M. Garrison, Receiver for the B. R. T., in which he refused to deal with the union was read by Mr. Smith. When he concluded reading the message the men began to shout "Strike, strike, strike," and they kept the demonstration going until Leal got the floor and presented the motion.

The following telegram was ordered sent to Receiver Garrison:

"We reject your answer and will go on strike until you are ready to meet committeemen and reach an agreement that will be acceptable to all parties."

The message was signed by the officials of the Brooklyn local.

"To hell with the B. R. T.," and "To hell with Garrison," hundreds of excited men shouted when Chairman Smith announced that the strike vote was unanimous and that the men would stop work at 5 A. M. Chairs were overturned, hats and caps hurled into the air, in the demonstration that followed the strike vote.

National Committeeman Shea took the floor after the question of a strike was settled.

"I want to congratulate you men," he said, "on the action you have just taken. I believe that you mean business this time, and I am convinced that your action will convince Garrison that you are not fooling. You have been paid miserable wages for years, and it has been almost impossible for some of you to make both ends meet. Some of you have had to work twelve hours a day to make a living. Conditions on the system have been rotten.

"You will win this time. Don't operate any cars. Be orderly and show the people that you are law-abiding citizens. Keep away from the company's property. The organization is going to back you up. Keep the cars in the barns. Victory is surely going to be yours."

Louis Fridiger, attorney for the union, also attended the meeting and advised the men as to their activities after they stop work. Harry Jones, a union official of Paterson, N. J., and William Wetnet, of the Manhattan local, also made speeches. Both have been active in recent strikes, and gave the men information as to the best means to be followed in winning against the B. R. T.

"The decision of Receiver Garrison to refuse to meet representatives of the union," said Chairman Smith of the Brooklyn local, "was what we expected. We did not expect Garrison to do anything for us and so we are going on with the strike."

Smith also said that the signalmen, who number about 250, had voted to strike in sympathy with the other em-

Staten Island Carmen Threaten to Tie Up Service

The employes of the Richmond Light & Railroad Company met last night in New Brighton and voted to go on strike at 4 o'clock tomorrow morning unless five motormen who turned their cars into the barn after sixteen hours' continuous duty did not receive the day's pay they had been docked for their action. Company officials said they did not fear a strike, but the men declared that if a strike order were issued enough men would go out to completely tie up all the trolley lines on Staten Island.

A committee was appointed to call upon the management this morning and deliver to them the ultimatum of the workers. According to the men the officials entered into an agreement with them last April that ten hours was to constitute a day's work. Since that time, the union men say, the agreement has been disregarded by the company. The men who were laid off a day and thereby lost their pay, worked about 16½ hours and then ran their cars into the barn and went home.

PRINCE OF WALES SAILS FOR CANADA

King and Queen Accompany Him to Portsmouth, Where He Boards a Cruiser.

EAGER FOR HIS VISIT HERE

Will Live on Battleship, Which Has Been Decorated for Entertainment Purposes.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PORTSMOUTH, England, Aug. 5.—The Prince of Wales, aboard the British cruiser Renown, sailed for Canada from this port at 6 o'clock this evening. The Prince was accompanied here by the King and Queen and other members of the royal family, who arrived on a special train from London.

Before the Renown left her pier the Prince told his friend among the army and naval officers that he was looking forward with the keenest interest to his visit to New York, because he had heard such wonderful stories about the city. He was anxious about the weather at the latter end of October, and had never heard of an Indian Summer.

The Prince appeared in the best of health and spirits. He wore the uniform of a Captain in the Royal Navy.

One of his aides told the correspondent that the Prince would live aboard the Renown in New York, so that he could give entertainments during his stay there. The ballroom decorations have been arranged with the greatest care. The Renown has a speed of thirty-five knots, and with the exception of the Repulse is the fastest ship of her size in the world.

The Prince of Wales occupies the Admiral's quarters on the Renown, which are aft under the superstructure and plainly furnished from fittings of yachts taken over by the Admiralty during the war. Above the Prince's quarters there is what naval officers term the superstructure deck, which will be reserved for his private use. The Prince has a dining room, sitting room, and cabin fitted with an ordinary bunk, with wire mattress such as is used by naval officers.

The officers said today that the Renown would steam about twenty-three knots to the coast in order to have something in hand in case of a fog on the other side.

See Prince on World Peace Mission.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The Prince of Wales left England today on his visit to Canada and the United States, with the heartiest good wishes of the press and the public for the success of what, it is pointed out, is not a pleasure trip but a working tour of high consequence for the British Kingdom and Empire.

The Westminster Gazette says:

"The British Empire is held together by no paper constitution or legal formula, but by bonds of ancient tradition and common history. Among those traditions are personal loyalty and common history. Personal loyalty to the throne and to the royal family occupy a conspicuous place in that loyalty. The Prince of Wales has already done much to stimulate loyalty, and we have no doubt that during his visit he will increase his own popularity and the affection for his house already felt by the Canadian people."

The Evening News, which refers to the young traveler as Prince Charming, says:

"The future peace of the world depends on the solidarity of the British Empire and firm friendship between it and the United States. It is in the cause of the peace of the world that the Prince of Wales sets out on his journey."

King George will miss the Prince, who latterly has done a good deal in the way of relieving his father of some of his multifarious public duties. The Prince has done this work with remarkable success. He has shown a grasp of detail which recalls Edward VII. and enjoys an extremely good memory.

In connection the following story is told by a court official: A short time ago the King and the Prince were discussing some current topic when the Prince quoted a remark and attributed it to some one who did not make it. The King set him right, and added: "Always verify your references, as Lord Beaconsfield once remarked."

"Quite so," agreed the Prince cheerfully, "only it was Lord Salisbury who said that, was it not?"

ALLIES INSTRUCT RUMANIANS TO LEAVE BUDAPEST

And Serbian Army to Halt—Jugoslavs Also Reported Advancing on City.

FERDINAND EXPECTED THERE

30,000 of King's Troops Occupy Hungarian Capital and Seize Ministers as Hostages.

PLUNDERING IN SUBURBS

American Officials Warn Economic Support Will Stop if Allies' Orders Are Not Heeded.

PARIS, Aug. 5, (Associated Press.)—The Supreme Council devoted most of its time today to a discussion of the Hungarian situation. Instructions were framed for the interallied military mission in Budapest, which is ordered to effect a withdrawal of the Rumanians from the Hungarian capital as soon as the Hungarian Red Guard is disarmed.

A copy of these instructions has been forwarded to Serbia and Rumania, and the Serbian Army, which is approaching Budapest from the South and is reported to be ravaging the country, has been requested to cease its advance.

American officials have warned Rumania that economic support will be withdrawn unless the orders of the Allies are heeded.

Advices from Budapest say that King Ferdinand of Rumania is expected to arrive there shortly, so that the already acute political situation will be sharpened. The Intransigeant's Geneva correspondent hears from Bucharest that the King is with his army in Hungary.

The new Hungarian Government, through Lieut. Col. Romanelli, Chief of the Italian Mission in Budapest, has sent Premier Clemenceau, as President of the Peace Conference, a communication saying it is willing to observe the terms of an armistice, and asking that each of the great powers send a regiment to Budapest.

It is impossible for the Allies to comply with this request, as the troops are not available. Small detachments, however, will probably be sent with the generals composing the interallied Commission to arrange the armistice, to give an international complexion to the military forces as a guarantee that the Rumanians are not directing affairs. British monitors in the Danube, it is believed, will be sent to Budapest to steady the situation.

Looting in Budapest Suburbs.

Telegrams from American officials at Budapest state that Rumanian troops upon entering Budapest yesterday started plundering in the suburbs. Fifteen civilians were killed during the day.

The American reports said that the Rumanians were demanding hostages, and threatened to kill five hostages for each Rumanian soldier injured in Budapest.

Some members of the new Hungarian Ministry had been arrested by the Rumanians, who had mounted machine guns in various parts of the city and demobilized the local police. The city was absolutely under military control.

Vigorous representations, it is said, are being made to Rumanian officials, both at Budapest and Bucharest, but means of communication are so bad that Peace Conference officials have been unable to learn if their messages are reaching the Rumanians.

Most of the newspapers, commenting today upon the Hungarian situation, expressed the belief that it would be unwise not to take every advantage of the present circumstances to establish a stable Government in Hungary.

The Excelsior indorsed the suggestion that peace in Central Europe depended on thorough disarmament of Hungarian troops and suggested that the victorious Rumanian Army should undertake this disarmament.

Nothing better could be wished, according to the Gaulois, than that the Rumanians should be the gendarmes of civilization in Hungary.

If the Rumanians were to revert to diplomacy, the Echo de Paris said, all elements of Magyar resistance, apparent or concealed under the cloak of Bolshevism, would be roused quickly.

Report Budapest Was Shelled.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—A wireless dispatch from Budapest reports that the city was bombarded before the Rumanians occupied it. Twenty-one shells were fired, one house being hit.

Army Paraded Through City.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 4, (Associated Press.)—Thirty thousand Rumanian troops, including infantry, cavalry and artillery, entered the city today with a blare of trumpets. The Rumanian forces, led by General Marghascu, passed through Andrassy and other streets.

Japan Formally Denies Intention to Hold Shantung

TOKIO, Aug. 5, (via London.)—Viscount Uchida, the Japanese Foreign Minister, in a statement issued today declares that Japan does not intend to claim any rights affecting the territorial sovereignty of China in Shantung. He promises that the Japanese troops will be withdrawn immediately an agreement is concluded with China.

Japan, moreover, the Foreign Minister's statement adds, is considering the establishment at Tsing-tao of a general foreign settlement instead of a purely Japanese settlement.

Viscount Uchida begins his statement by saying that it appears despite the official statement of the Japanese delegation in Paris May 5, which he fully indorsed, and a subsequent interview given by him to the press, Japan's policy with regard to Shantung was little understood or appreciated abroad.

The Foreign Minister then recalls that Japan by an ultimatum in August, 1914, demanded the surrender by Germany of the entire leased territory of Kiao-chau, without condition or compensation, within a month, with a view to its eventual restoration to China.

"The terms of that demand never elicited any protest on the part of China or any other allied or associated power," says the Foreign Minister. "Following the same line of policy, Japan now claims as one of the essential conditions to peace the accomplishment of that surrender without condition or compensation.

"At the same time, abiding faithfully by the pledge she gave China in 1915, she is quite willing to restore to China the whole of the territory in question and to enter upon negotiations with the Government at Peking regarding the necessary arrangement to give effect to that pledge at the soonest possible time after the Versailles treaty has been ratified by Japan."

FOOD CRISIS HERE REACTS ON FRENCH

First Effect Is to Intensify Anxiety Over Scarcity and High Prices.

RELIEF WILL TAKE TIME

French Economists Point Out Principal Causes of Trouble in That Country.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—When it was first announced here that Congress had abandoned its recess to tackle the economic situation the news caused something like a panic in the minds of the French public. If prosperous America, whom they regard as the source of inexhaustible supplies, is short of food, what could invaded and impoverished France expect save a regular famine? The later news quieted the alarm, bringing a realization that, as here, it is a question in America of high prices and their effect on labor conditions, rather than a dangerous shortage of food itself. In fact, America's difficulties are a part of the world food problem, which in France has been a matter of great and general concern for the past three years and, ever since the armistice, of universal and passionate interest.

Whatever be the case in America, the high cost of living is to France an absolutely vital question. It has become the touchstone of politics, industry and finance, and on its solution depends ruin or reconstruction, order or revolution.

Not only French economists but men in almost every department of national and municipal life have been intently studying the causes of the high cost of living and seeking remedies, many of which have been applied with varying degrees of success. Their investigations have led to the conclusion there are four causes why food is dear. Three of them arise from the efforts of the war on the food supply, from its first production right along the line to the purchase by the ultimate consumer.

The fourth cause is entirely an extraneous one, independent of food but also due to the war, and in the opinion of most French economists it is chiefly responsible. It is the unprecedented inflation of currency. Whereas in 1906 the floating quantity of paper money in France amounted to 7,500,000,000 francs and 12,000,000,000 in 1914, it is now 40,000,000,000. According to economists one should not say that food is twice as dear but rather that money is twice as cheap. They reckon that currency depreciation accounts for fully 50 per cent. of the apparent rise in French food prices—which have quadrupled during the five years of war. The remaining 50 per cent. increase is due, first, to the huge diminution of food production in Eastern Europe and decreased production in Western Europe owing to the lack of labor, which combined to bring about the world shortage.

A second cause is the deterioration and reduction of transportation by sea and

INSIST ON FULL PROGRAM

KEEP CHECK ON MEMBERS

Assert They Are in Full Sympathy with Other Industries Being Nationalized.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The railroad workers, headed by the four Brotherhoods, and with the approval of the American Federation of Labor, have begun a campaign to raise a huge propaganda fund to "educate" the country concerning the advantages of the so-called Plumb plan for the nationalization of the railroad systems.

Officials in charge of the movement, among them Glenn L. Plumb, author of the Plumb plan, and Bert M. Jewell, acting President of the Railway Employes Department of the American Federation of Labor, said today that they expect to obtain at least $2,500,000 by Labor Day, when it is planned to stage demonstrations in many parts of the country, and that the total might be considerably greater.

There has been a report here that it was expected to raise not less than $10,000,000 to carry the fight into the next Presidential election, if the demands of the advocates of the Plumb plan are not met in Congress by that time, and that Mr. Plumb had mentioned that sum as the objective in an address he made before a convention of the railroad workers in Denver last June.

When Mr. Plumb was asked about a $10,000,000 fund, he said:

"I don't think it is probable that we will get that much, but it is not impossible. We are going to do our best in this educational campaign. We intend to get every phase of this question before the people."

It is understood that the railroad employes already have a large reserve fund in hand to carry on their fight. Mr. Jewell told a NEW YORK TIMES correspondent today that there was no lack of money for present purposes.

A. B. Garretson, Chief of the Brotherhood of Conductors, left his sick bed today, and is hurrying here from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to appear before the joint committee of Congress which will begin hearing testimony of the Plumb plan advocates tomorrow.

Garretson is the man who held the watch on the Senate when the Adamson bill was forced through Congress by the Brotherhoods in September 1916, and it is expected by the Plumb plan workers that he will add great strength to the forcefulness of the present movement.

Mr. Garretson will probably arrive here tomorrow, but it is doubtful if he will be called for a day or two. The men to appear, in the order called, are W. S. Stone, Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Engineers; Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor; Glenn L. Plumb and Garretson.

Contemplate Plumb-Plan Congress.

The scope of the fight which the railroad men plan to make, according to the statements of their leaders, is so broad that a very big fund will be needed to carry it out.

Mr. Plumb said today that it contemplates the election of a "Plumb-plan Congress" if the present Congress refuses to grant the demands of the workers, and that unless the principles of the plan are put into effect before the next Presidential election, that it was certain to be one of the issues.

"It is going to be a fight to the finish," he said. "If Congress will not recognize the inherent right in this program we will go out among their constituents and beat them. If this Congress won't stand with us, we shall try to elect a Congress which will favor our program.

"We will not stand for any modification of the principles and the proposals set forth in the plan, although we might accept suggestions which would improve the terms of phraseology."

Mr. Plumb was asked if legislation such as Congress has been working on would be acceptable if certain concessions were made.

"There is not going to be any different legislation," he said. "There could be no legislation passed without the incorporation of the principles we are asking which would be other than temporary. There can only be one outcome.

"We would be satisfied if this question went to the people at the next Presidential election, and we would accept their verdict. We know what it would be, and so does everyone else except the few who have special interests which they are seeking to preserve."

He was next asked if it was hoped to

British, Too, Studying High Cost of Living; Wider Control of Prices and Supplies Recommended

LONDON, Aug. 5.—George H. Roberts, the Food Controller, testifying today at the first sitting of the House of Commons as a select committee to inquire into the high cost of living and profiteering, said, his department had had difficulty in definitely defining cases of alleged profiteering. He added that where persons were clearly found guilty of profiteering they should be punished more severely than at present is the case.

Mr. Roberts said he had reached the following conclusions:

First—That there should be an effective control of food prices always and of supplies and their distribution at all stages.

Second—That the same method could be applied to other articles, such as shoes and household utensils, if they could be standardized. Whether it should be applied was a question of politics.

Third—That the costing department (which fixes prices) could do for other articles what it had done for food.

Fourth.—That a single department should be responsible for publishing facts regarding the cost of living here and in other countries.

Fifth—That with a reduction in working hours and without an increase in output a further increase in prices seemed inevitable, without control.

Mr. Roberts said that 94 per cent. of the food in England was subect to maximum controlled prices. Part of the balance, he added, was more costly, but a part was lower in price since control had been lifted.

The Food Minister said that unfortunately much of England's food had come from America because other sources had been shut off, and that in America the exchange rate had worked hardships.

Mr. Roberts said the Ministry was unable to do anything regarding an alleged American meat combine. He suggested that this situation called for international action. The Board of Trade, Mr. Roberts added, was inquiring into what might be done to protect the country against high meat prices.

In cases of flagrant profiteering Mr. Roberts said he favored sentences of imprisonment and the permanent withdrawal of the licenses of guilty persons.

PARTISAN ROW AGAIN IN HOUSE

Igoe, Balked Once More on Shoe Inquiry, Again Blocks Three-Day Recess.

RESENTS SPEAKER'S STAND

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Partisan politics again occupied the limelight in the short session which the House held today. The House met for not more than three-quarters of an hour. But, during that time, all the bitterness which broke out Saturday night between Democrats and Republicans, following a ruling by Speaker Gillett, was renewed.

Once more, today, Representative Igoe, Democrat of Missouri, who was balked Saturday night from calling up his resolution to investigate shoe prices, asked that the resolution be brought up. Speaker Gillett, instead, recognized Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee. When Floor Leader Mondell asked to have the matter of three-day recesses considered, Mr. Igoe objected. The House immediately adjourned to meet again tomorrow, when, in all probability, the same procedure will be repeated.

The feeling between the two sides of the House was brought to a head Saturday, when Speaker Gillett, after recognizing former Speaker Clark, refused to put a motion by Mr. Clark, calling up the Igoe resolution. Speaker Gillett, alluding to Mr. Igoe's desire to force his resolution, said that no one man should be allowed to "bulldose" the House.

Both these actions were gone over today in detail. Mr. Clark said that the ruling of the Speaker was an "outrage," a statement which met with great applause from the Democratic side. Mr. Igoe rose to a question of personal privilege, declaring Mr. Gillett's characterization of him was "unfair and unjust." Mr. Gillett explained that he believed the "overwhelming majority" of the House favored three-day recesses, and therefore he refused to recognize Mr. Igoe.

When the House met today, and Speaker Gillett recognized Mr. Fordney instead of Mr. Igoe, recognition on the ground of personal privilege was secured by Mr. Igoe. He proceeded to argue that he was entitled to this recognition.

"Newspapers throughout the country," he said, "including several in my State, and one in New York, quoted the Speaker as saying he did not intend that one man, (meaning Igoe,) should bulldoze the House. I think that is an unwarranted and unjustifiable characterization of my attitude on Saturday."

Mr. Mondell endeavored to shut off Mr. Igoe by a parliamentary argument, but Representative Garner of Texas, a Democrat, championed his party member.

"Inasmuch as the matter affects what the Speaker is reported to have said, the Speaker, of course, will be very liberal, and will hold that it is a matter of personal privilege," said Mr. Gillett.

Speaking directly to the question of personal privilege, Mr. Igoe said:

"I tried to get the resolution up. It

PROMISES TO REPORT BILL

Sub-Committee of Interstate Commerce Committee Formed to Recommend Procedure.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—During debate in the Senate today on the railroad situation, as related to the high cost of living, Senator Cummins, Republican, of Iowa, Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee, insisted that President Wilson has ample authority to handle the demand for wage increase of the brotherhoods of railroad employes without going to Congress for more power. Senator Cummins resented what he felt was an insinuation that Congress had been remiss in not having tackled the problem itself.

The Senate, Mr. Cummins declared, would not shirk any responsibility that lay before it in an effort to solve after-war problems. The upper body, he said, was as anxious as the President to "bring order out of chaos," but he wanted the country to know, he said, that there was nothing that Congress could do concerning the railroad wage question that the President and the Director General of Railroads were not already empowered to do.

Under the law of March 21, 1918, by which the railroads were turned over to Federal control, Mr. Cummins contended, the President and the Railroad Director received authorization to fix wages of railroad employes, as well as to fix rates for freight and passenger transportation. That law still prevailed, he said, and the President could act immediately under it, if he saw fit.

Senator Pomerene, Democrat, of Ohio, attacking the Railroad Administration for failure, as he alleged, to provide adequate car facilities for transportation of coal and other commodities, declared that the Administration appeal to Congress to solve the railroad wage problem was a "shift of responsibility." The Ohio Senator said that if he were Railroad Director he would either handle the thing himself or resign.

The debeate lasted almost three hours, nearly every Senator being in his seat.

Forces Treaty Into Background.

The railroad problem, linked with the cost of living situation, threw the debate on the Peace Treaty, with the League of Nations covenant and Shantung, into the background. The only discussion on the League was by Senator Watson of Indiana, in a speech in which he devoted himself principally to an attack upon the Shantung award.

Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Colorado, during debate on the railroad and cost of living issue, suggested that the country was more eager to have the Senate adjust its domestic problems than to ponder indefinitely over the treaty. He intimated that the Senate would perform a service if it would come to speedy action on the treaty.

Prior to the Senate debate, the Interstate Commerce Committee took its first step toward considering the railroad problem, as related to the cost of living, when a sub-committee with Mr. Cummins at its head was appointed to map out a program of procedure. The sub-

WILSON PROGRAM SHAPED

Cabinet Sub-Committee Completes Report—President to Propose Legislation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—President Wilson will appear before Congress within two or three days and deliver an address on the cost of living, embracing recommendations for legislation. This announcement was authorized at the White House late this afternoon after a day of official concentration on the subject.

Rigid enforcement of laws relating to profiteering and food hoarding will be instituted at once by Attorney General Palmer, following consideration of means to reduce living costs by a subcommittee appointed by the Cabinet. This sub-committee has recommended a general program of action to meet the situation, of which the more vigorous enforcement of laws is a part. It is composed of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Leffingwell, Director General Hines of the Railroad Administration, and William B. Colver, a member of the Federal Trade Commission.

The Administration will not adopt a program of selling wheat below the guaranteed price of $2.26 a bushel, which the subcommittee had unanimously recommended. Julius Barnes of New York, head of the United States Wheat Corporation, had a conference with President Wilson, following which this decision was announced.

Mr. Barnes issued a statement dealing with the world wheat situation in which he set forth reasons why, as he viewed it, wheat could not be sold at this time below the guaranteed price. This statement was issued by Mr. Barnes after the President had approved his firm recommendation that there be no reduction in the price.

Upsets Plan for $1.50 Wheat.

The approval of Mr. Barnes's recommendations at the White House followed his success earlier in the day at a conference at the office of Attorney General Palmer, where he succeeded in forcing a temporary veto of the unanimous proposal of the sub-committee that the Government should purchase this year's wheat crop at the guaranteed price of $2.26 and place it on the market at $1.50 a bushel.

Mr. Barnes's opposition to this recommendation necessitated his conference late in the afternoon with the President, at which he went into the world wheat situation, explained how wheat was selling abroad higher than in this country, and presented facts which resulted in the President sustaining his position. In his statement Mr. Barnes said that the wheat corporation would begin to buy new flour at less than the market prices and sell it to the public at $10 a barrel, no more and no less, in any community where dealers sought to charge more for the product.

Except as to wheat it is understood that the program recommended by the sub-committee composed of Messrs. Leffingwell, Colver, and Hines was approved at the Cabinet conference to which it was submitted, and that the program was generally indorsed by President Wilson, who will make it the basis of the address he will deliver to Congress. The statement was made at the White House that any declaration which the President intended to make on the cost of living problem would be embraced in his address to Congress. The nature of the new legislation which he will propose could not be ascertained.

Those present at the conference which considered the program at the meeting in Attorney General Palmer's office were the Attorney General, Secretary Glass, Secretary Wilson, Secretary Houston, Federal Trade Commissioner Colver, Julius Barnes of the Wheat Corporation, Assistant Secretary Leffingwell of the Treasury, Judge Ames of the Department of Justice, who is its new official "trust buster," Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, and Victor Murdock of the Federal Trade Commission.

Report Move Aimed at Packers.

This conference covered a period of approximately three hours, following which the four Cabinet members present went to the White House for the regular Cabinet meeting. After the Cabinet meeting, Attorney General Palmer submitted to the President the recommendations of the Cabinet sub-committee for the more vigorous enforcement of all the wartime powers of the Lever act for the punishment of hoarders and profiteers. The announcement was then made by Mr. Palmer that every agency of the Government would be utilized to uncover food hoarders, speculators, and those guilty of unfair practices and that vigorous prosecutions would follow.

There was a strong impression tonight, although no official of the Government would admit it, that the Department of Justice might turn its attention first toward the packers on the basis of the allegations made in the report of the Federal Trade Commission as a result of its investigation of the situation. It was considered significant that Charles F. Clyne, District Attorney of Chicago, and Judge Ames, who were in conference today, and again until a late hour tonight, with Attorney General Palmer in his offices at the department.

"Of course, it concerned the food situation."

"What of the reported plans for prosecution of the packers?" he was asked.

"You will have to ask the Attorney General about that," was the answer.

Palmer Wants "Immediate Effect."

Discussing the Cabinet conference in his office, Attorney General Palmer said to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent:

"This conference met with Governor Harding, Judge Ames, and Mr. Barnes present in addition to those who were present at the last previous meeting. We prepared a memorandum of an advisory nature for the President's use, in which we stated what the executive branches of the Government are doing and proposed to do under existing laws to meet the situation developed by high prices. We also made some suggestions as to possible additional legislation to enable us to cope more effectively with the situation.

"All of the elementals of the plan are intended to have as immediate an effect as possible on the situation.

"The Department of Justice is using all of its machinery throughout the country to seek out violations of the penal sections of the food control act, to seek out hoarders, profiteers and others alleged to be guilty of violation of these penal sections and bring about their punishment. Alleged hoarding and profiteering is now being investigated with a view to action. They will be investigated to the full limit of our powers, and I am hopeful that the action proposed to be taken to reach them will have a most salutary effect on the situation, and prove to be a wholesome lesson."

The Attorney General explained that the penal statutes of the Food Control act were part of the criminal law of the land, and that so far as the enforcement of these sections was concerned the department would be merely enforcing vigorously the law on the statute books. He said that the program for dealing with the situation was not confined to trying to reach those who were criminally responsible for the high price of food, but that it comprised a plan of action against those profiteering in other necessities of life than food.

Asked as to the new legislation proposed the Attorney General replied:

"I will not anticipate what the President may recommend as to legislation."

As the full conference opposition to the sub-committee's plan so far as it related to wheat quickly developed, and it is understood that Secretary Houston was active in opposing the plan for the Government to buy this year's wheat crop at the guaranteed price of $2.26 a bushel and put it on the market at $1.50.

Members of the sub-committee did not conceal their disappointment over the turn that events had taken. While they did not dispute the contention of Mr. Barnes that a free wheat market might mean ultimately higher wheat prices (in view of the world conditions, they continued to insist that the proposal to buy and sell wheat was intended as an expedient to meet the present immediate situation, and argued that it was a sound emergency measure which should have been adopted.

Text of Barnes Statement.

Here is the full text of the statement issued by Chairman Barnes after he had made it plain that the decision had been reached not to lower the guaranteed price of wheat:

"Our people should understand the salient facts regarding the world's wheat situation.

"1. Shrinkage in North American promise since June 1 of probably 400,000,000 bushels.

"2. Shrinkage, the result of lesser acreage and of soil deterioration, in European wheat and rye production, promising, outside of Russia, a total bread grain yield of 1,500,000,000, against a normal production of 1,900,000,000 bushels.

"3. The elimination by war and famine of Russia, Rumania, and India, formerly contributing to consuming Europe 300,000,000 bushels of bread grains.

"4. The advance in Argentine prices under world demands until today, with longer voyages and higher freights, Argentine wheat costs delivered in Europe are fully 50 cents per bushel more than American wheat delivered in Europe.

"5. A broad survey of the world wheat price, actual and guaranteed, in various countries, indicates:

"Average farm price to American wheat growers under the guarantee price, $2.03 per bushel.

"Average farm price in the United Kingdom during the last calendar year, $2.28 per bushel.

"Average farm price for big producing countries, United States, Canada, Argentina, and Australia, producing 1,500,000,000 bushels, $1.94 per bushel.

"Average grower price (largely guaranteed) of Europe's fifteen consuming countries, producing 800,000,000 bushels of wheat, $3.75 per bushel.

"Average price for all wheat growers rated according to the size of their contribution to the total crop of the world, works out an average world grower price of $2.46 per bushel.

"6. The farm movement, this new crop to July 25th, has already totaled 108,000,000 bushels, and of this, at the guarantee price, the Grain Corporation has bought not over 15,000,000 bushels. It has no authority in law to get it except by purchase from growers who cannot find a better buyer. For four months, there have been buyers above the guarantee basis.

Denies Effect on Other Prices.

"7. Nothing supports the theory of intimate relation and influence between wheat price and other foods. In 1917 wheat sold, Chicago, in May, at $3.45, while corn sold $1.74. In September the stabilized fair price of wheat was inaugurated at $2.17 and continued for months, while corn had advanced, selling during September at $1.95 to $2.24, and continuing during the succeeding months of October and November in the neighborhood of $2.

"Flour fell from a May price of $1.08 per 1-18th barrel, to 89 cents, in September, and thereafter ruled in the neighborhood of 80 to 85 cents for almost two years, while the combined price of bread, corn meal, sugar, beans, rice, onions, butter, cheese, steaks, bacon, pork chops, ham, lard, prunes, salmon and eggs, rose from 4.02, in May, to 4.35 in September, and then successively advanced until the high point of December, 1918, of 5.495, since which time there has been a moderate and steady fall. Meantime, flour was still, in December, 82 cents per sack.

"8. Britain, France, and Italy all have artificially reduced flour and bread prices, buying their raw material at the world's price and absorbing the loss by national taxes. Any sale of wheat or flour by us at reduced prices to them would only mean that national treasury as a while depleting ours and without any possible reflection in the bread price to their people which is already fixed.

"9. In America flour is 50 per cent. of the final wholesale cost of bread, and 50 per cent. is made up of labor, other ingredients and delivery. Roughly speaking, to reduce the ten cent loaf of bread to nine cents, 65 cents per bushel must be taken from the price of wheat if flour were supplied to bakers free, (the present cost of labor and other materials remaining the same,) we could hardly attain a retail five-cent loaf.

"Bread, fortunately, is already the cheapest item in the diet. At 265 pounds of flour per person per annum, flour alone covers between 35 and 40 per cent. of the entire diet, in terms of salaries. In other words, about $18 per year buys over one-third of the individual's food, and if all other foods were at the same rate, the total cost of food per person per year would be about $50, or a total national food bill of $5,000,000,000, instead of $18,000,000,000 at present calculated. This, of course, is impracticable, but let us spend a few millions in teaching housewives, and through our schools, how to get food value at reduced expenditure, and without sacrifice of taste and palatability.

May Readjust Rates Later.

"Fortunately, even with our crop deterioration, America has secured a large crop, and if with later developments a world price is indicated lower than the guarantee basis, the wheat director will not hesitate to readjust American flour prices at the expense of the national treasury, as authorized by Congress, but the wheat facts outlined herewith and not generally understood, would perhaps create the impression that higher prices than the guarantee basis are to be expected.

"Indeed, it is true that European buyers desire today to contract their supplies for some months in advance at the guarantee price, but we shall protect first our home requirements. We feel sincerely, however, that the guarantee price is a continuation of the fair price expression of the Presidential Commission of 1917 as being 'fair' between producer and consumer. Their expression of $2.20, Chicago basis, succeeded an uncontrolled Chicago market of $3.45, which had become unbearable.

"In the present disjointed state of world influences of supply and demand we are justified in definite plans to try and stabilize wheat from rising above the guarantee basis if possible. There is no authority for maximum prices, but there is natural protection for the consumer. We shall, during the crop-moving period, accumulate a national surplus as a stabilizer against later, perhaps, insufficient farm deliveries, and for re-sale without national profit. Last year 80,000,000 bushels of grain corporation reserves were resold in the Spring to American mills, and did control flour prices within bounds. This reserve will be maintained and our shipments abroad governed for the protection of our home requirements.

"The grain corporation is now buying new-crop flours lower by $1 per barrel than any price ruling in the last four months, and these flours will be for resale in any city where prices are found improperly high. Retail prices of flour will soon reflect the influence of the new crop now moving."

Tinkham Wants Inquiry by Experts.

A broad and thorough survey of the cost of living, with a subsequent report, was urged today by Representative Tinkham of Massachusetts, in a letter to President Wilson. Representative Tinkham has pending a resolution which provides for a commission to make a preliminary investigation.

His letter to the President reads:

"Aug. 5, 1919.

"My dear Mr. President:

"In view of the great interest concerning the question of the cost of living which has been aroused by the attention you have directed the Cabinet to give to this problem, I venture to suggest for your personal consideration the desirability of attempting a somewhat thoroughgoing analysis of the problem in order to secure a broad and sound basis for any legislation which may later be thought desirable.

"I have given much thought to this problem of late, and was recently led to introduce a joint resolution, a copy of which I have the honor to inclose, with a view to surveying the situation in a broad and thorough manner as the first step toward the elaboration of a practical national policy.

"I realize that it is not a problem which will admit of much delay, for it is pressing the great majority of our people more and more gravely each day. Nevertheless, while remedial measures may be taken to improve the present situation without any investigation, the real difficulty, it seems to me, will remain just where it is, a source of unlimited mischief, unless an effort is made to work out a construction program upon principles defined by representatives of all groups of producers and consumers, as well as by economists and financiers.

"It would seem as if the lessons of national consciousness, and the hard but gradually absorbing the cost of the war have not yet sufficiently penetrated our national consciousness and the hard but imperative obligation to adjust ourselves as individuals and as a nation to the circumstances of the next few years requires that we should address ourselves to the problem in a resolute and unflinching manner.

"In the resolution it is proposed that a preliminary report be drafted at an early date which would in fact propose those remedial measures and the outline of the program later to be developed in detail in the final report of the committee. It seemed as if a committee constructed along the lines suggested would be able in four or five months to present a detailed and scientific analysis of the situation with complete suggestions and with due emphasis upon our national or individual obligations.

"I trust, Mr. President, that you will find this resolution to have been drawn in a sufficiently practical spirit to justify the recommendation that it be adopted; and I feel sure that you will be able to give effect to this resolution by the choice of eminent economists, producers, distributers, and consumers of foodstuffs, and financiers, so as best to justify the confidence of the American people.

"I remain, my dear Mr. President.

Very faithfully yours,

"GEORGE HOLDEN TINKHAM."

The assertion that the market price of wheat is now higher than the guaranteed price was made today by Representative Young of North Dakota.

"If the members of the President's new high Cost of living Cabinet are as ignorant upon other subjects as upon that of wheat there is little relief in sight," said Mr. Young in a prepared statement. "For several days news statements have been handed out suggesting that wheat be bought at the guaranteed price and resold to millers at the market price, with the mistaken notion that the market price is lower than the guaranteed price. Winter wheat is selling at substantial premiums and hard Spring wheat at large premiums over the guaranteed price. When Mr. Barnes gets here from New York today he will probably break the facts gently to those would-be advisers of the President."

Riddick Puts Blame on Wilson.

Blame for the high cost of living was laid entirely upon the shoulders of President Wilson today by Representative Riddick of Montana. Mr. Riddick gave out a statement headed "Passing the Buck," and his idea was, he asserted, that the President was trying to "pass the buck" to a Republican Congress.

The statement by Mr. Riddick was in the form of a proof sheet, and embodied in addition to a resolution a prepared speech, which the statement said, Mr. Riddick would deliver today "unless he is prevented through Democratic objection." The House met for but a short time, and whether "Democratic objection" was made is yet unknown. However, Mr. Riddick gave his speech to the newspapers in form of a statement. His resolution reads:

"Whereas, The primary causes of the high cost of living, due to and correctible by Administrative action, are:

"1. Government extravagance and waste, creating fictitious prices, and causing heavy taxation to be loaded on the cost of the necessities of life.

"(2) The purchase and hoarding by the War Department of vast quantities of food, clothing, and other materials acquired at profiteer prices and causing general prices to rise in sympathy.

"(3) The exportation in vast quantities of necessities for the relief of foreign populations, thus decreasing the supply of staples in the United States.

"(4) The continued inflation of the currency under the management of the Federal Reserve act, causing a depreciation of the value of the dollar.

"(5) The encumbering of the payroll with hordes of unnecessary and unproductive Government employes.

"(6) The failure and refusal of the Administration to enforce existing Federal statutes prohibiting combinations in unfair restraint of trade; therefore, be it

"Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring, that the President is hereby requested to employ the means directly within his power for the relief of the people of the United States from exploitation by profiteers and from high living costs imposed by administrative methods, before asking Congress for additional legislation which will be powerless to remedy the situation in the face of the failure and neglect of the Executive Department to utilize the means of relief within its immediate power."

The tenor of the prepared speech was "that profiteering had been going on for four or five years" without the slightest effort by either President Wilson or his Democratic Congress to prevent it. More millionaires, it was asserted, have been created during the Wilson Administration than during the previous history of the country, this wealth increase being due principally to profiteering.

Wilson Sees Obstacle in Strikes.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5, (Associated Press.)—Administration officials feel that one way to decrease the cost of living is to increase production, and President Wilson is understood to feel that strikes now or threats of strikes will interfere materially with any solution of the problem sought by Government agencies.

Conferences with Republican and Democratic Senators on the League of Nations have been definitely abandoned by the President until the problems of the high cost of living be solved, Secretary Tumulty announced. The President, Mr. Tumulty said, is going "to give his whole time to the question of the high cost of living."

F. E. White, Vice President of Armour & Co., appearing today before a Senate committee investigating the high cost of living in the District of Columbia, denied that his company was profiteering or using unfair methods in the distribution and sale of meat. He said that the company had made no profit on its beef business this year and that it would welcome an investigation of its books and records.

Mr. White denied that his company participated in exorbitant profits in eggs, saying that the egg storage business was carried on more as an accommodation than anything else, and that the company's average profit was not more than 2 or 3 cents a dozen. He told the committee that yesterday his firm sold meat at a loss of from 1 to 1½ cents a pound in Eastern cities.

The high cost of living, Mr. White said, was as serious to business interests as to the people. In this connection, he stated, the cost to his company of production and distribution had greatly increased, labor costs alone having advanced 134 per cent. in four years.

Members of the committee asked why meat prices were higher in Washington than elsewhere. Mr. White replied that his company shipped better grades of meat to this city than to other Eastern cities, because of a demand here for higher grades.

CHICAGO PRICES DROP IN SELLING STAMPEDE

Fear of Lower Wheat Causes Semi-Panic Among Holders of Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Efforts to anticipate a quick switch in the Government's policy for the disposal of the 1919 domestic wheat crop knocked the bottom out of values today on the Board of Trade. Downward plunges in the price of corn, the chief trading commodity, did not stop until the market was $2 cents a bushel lower than when the campaign against the high cost of living began a week ago.

It was not until there remained only a single hour of business activity before the time set for a conference between President Wilson and Julius Barnes, Federal Wheat Director, that the grain and provision trade appeared to give serious credence to reports circulated for days that the Government would make a radical cut in the price of wheat to consumers. The most definite of these reports was that millers would get wheat from the Government 50 cents a bushel cheaper than the Government had guaranteed. This would make flour less expensive than at present by $2 a barrel.

Corn prices have been largely based on a prevalent belief of farmers that $3.26 a bushel for wheat meant $2 a bushel for corn, and that the value of all other cereals and, consequently, of all livestock and meat products had a similar substantial relation.

Wholesale throwing overboard of holdings of all commodities made the Exchange a scene of confusion not often rivalled in peace times. Although the wildest of the flurry had passed when the gongs cleared the pits, the outlook was that, regardless of what the Washington conference decided, the market tomorrow would furnish further excitement.

The most spectacular tumble was in December delivery of corn, which under furious selling dropped 10¢ to $1.41, but rebounded and closed at $1.42½ to $1.43¾. At the same time pork plunged down $2.50 to $44.50 a barrel for September delivery, and, unlike corn, displayed no power whatever to rise again from the bottom price reached.

Flour Drops in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—Wholesalers announced today a reduction of 40 cents a barrel in the price of flour. This followed a similar reduction a week ago.

SEEK $2,500,000 BY SEPT. 1

have the nationalization plan, if it became a Presidential issue, appear in the platform of a political party.

"That would be the effort," he said, "but not a new or third party."

He was asked if he meant that a fight would be made, if Congress balked now, to get the plan into the platform of the Democratic Party.

"As to that I can't say now," he replied.

"You would scarcely expect to have it accepted by the Republican Party, would you?" he was asked.

He smiled, but agreed that at this time such a contingency seemed improbable.

"It seems apparent," he was told, "that the majority of Congress now is opposed to accepting your plan."

"I admit that," replied Mr. Plumb.

Questioned about the extension of the nationalization principle to other industries, Mr. Plumb said that it was a matter for the other branches of organized labor to take up and develop. The railway workers, he felt, were in full sympathy with such a movement, and would give their support to it.

Mr. Plumb said that the billions needed to finance the Plumb plan could be raised at a low interest rate "despite the protests of financiers who oppose the scheme."

"A campaign to raise the money would be just as enthusiastically received by the nation as were the Liberty and Victory loans," he said. "There is not the slightest doubt that the money could be raised."

The amount of money which the Plumb Plan League is spending in the propagation of its principles is said already to be considerable. Among the steps contemplated is the formation of organizations in every State with headquarters in the principal cities. The work also will be extended on a large scale to the farming districts, as the advocates of the plan claim to have the farmers with them. They expect to reach the climax of their campaign on Labor Day, and through the agency of a speakers' bureau, organized along the lines adopted by the Anti-Saloon League, they intend to send forth an array of speakers to address mass meetings in hundreds of communities.

Hope to Enlist Prominent Men.

It is also the hope of the workers to obtain the services of men prominent in public life who may be won over to their cause, and whose names would command attention.

The task of checking up on the members of the Senate and House of Representatives already has begun. It is understood that the views of each man will be sought, and a check made on his utterances in and out of Congress, so that the Plumb plan workers in various districts will have a complete history to aid them in their work among the constituents of the official.

In order to raise the large funds to carry on the campaign and arouse a more intense personal interest in the fight Mr. Lewis said today that plans were already in progress to obtain 2,000,000 or more members to the Plumb Plan League by Labor Day, and that this goal was put a start.

Each of these members is to subscribe $1 to the fund. There is to be a fee of $10 for each organization that is granted membership in the league.

The representatives of the brotherhoods will distribute the pledge cards of the Plumb plan through branches of the American Federation of Labor in all parts of the country, it was said today, thus giving the effort the advantage of a tremendously powerful organization. The pledges bear in one corner the name of Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, as Honorary President of the league. Below Mr. Gompers's name are those of A. B. Garretson, as Honorary Vice President, and Warren S. Stone, Chief of the Brotherhood of Engineers, as President.

The strike situation as regards the shopmen was considered somewhat improved today. Mr. Jewell said that every effort was being made to hold the men in check pending the final decision of the strike vote. He believed the men who had gone out were returning to work.

The shopmen sent a second communication today to Director General of Railroads Hines. It is understood that the shopmen reiterated their former position, stating that they must have temporary cash relief, and suggesting to Mr. Hines that he could obtain the money necessary to prevent a strike if he went about it in the right manner.

The threat of a strike by Sept. 2 which would tie up the railroads remained. No reply was received by the shopmen today from Mr. Hines.

The railway clerks and affiliated trades, who are threatening to call out 450,000 men, are to see Mr. Hines tomorrow.

CHAMBER HITS PLUMB PLAN.

National Commerce Body Says It Means Politics and Disaster.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States vigorously protested today against any action on the part of Congress which would bring into operation the Plumb plan of Government ownership for the railway systems. The Chamber states that a vote just compiled shows that 90 per cent. of its organizations are opposed to Government ownership and that in the opinion of the Chamber such a course would throw the roads into politics and spell disaster.

"The National Chamber is a federation of 1,120 commercial and trade organizations with a membership of 670,000 business men. It goes on record against Government ownership for the following reasons:

"1. Under Government ownership the development of railroad facilities would depend upon congressional appropriations which would not be made in the amount and at the time needed to insure adequate development of the railroads. Political considerations might also control the amount of appropriations and the objects for which they were made.

"2. To acquire the railroads, the Government would have to pledge its credit for from eighteen to twenty billions of dollars, at a time when other large financiering must be done. It would be difficult for the Government to dispose of the securities required to purchase the railroads, and it would be necessary for the Government to secure from five hundred million to one billion dollars of new capital each year. If the Government were to assume the burden of financing the railroads at the present time when the war debt is so large, its interest rate would necessarily be as high as, if not higher than, the rate at which corporations could secure capital.

"3. Government operation is seldom, if ever, as efficient as corporate management. Competition, the incentive to efficiency and progress in private enterprises, is absent from the Government administration of affairs.

"4. While the Government would presumably select officers and employes by means of efficiency tests, political influences would almost certainly be given weight.

"5. Unless the Government adopted the policy of fixing low rates and fares with the intention that any resulting deficits from operation should be placed as an increased burden of taxes upon the general public, rates and fares would be higher under Government than under private operation.

"6. The political effect of Government ownership and operation of railroads in the United States might be serious. There are now about 500,000 civil employes of the Government. The addition to the public service of 2,000,000 railroad employes, the majority of whom are voters, would constitute a force of about 2,500,000 Government employes interested in controlling the policy of the Government as regards wages, hours, and conditions of service.

Boston Business Men Say It is the Nation's Greatest Menace.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Resolutions setting forth unqualified opposition to Government ownership or operation of the railroads under the plan proposed by the Railroad Brotherhoods were adopted by the Executive Committee of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts today. The resolutions characterize the plan as "the most serious menace to the welfare of the nation of any legislation presented to Congress since we became a republic."

They favor "an immediate return of the roads to their owners."

The officers of the Boston Chamber of Commerce issued a statement in which they said that the brotherhoods were "entitled to fair consideration of their plan by Congress," but added:

"If a strike should be threatened to enforce the acceptance of their plan by Congress, we ask the Senators and Representatives of this Commonwealth in Congress to stand for the rights and liberties of the whole people against the demands of any class which seeks special privileges by coercive methods."

The statement expressed opposition to Government ownership of railroads, but favored representation of labor on the directorates and a "just system of profit sharing."

committee will consider whether it is advisable for the entire committee to take up an investigation. The members are said to be almost united on its advisability.

The sub-committee will inquire, for itself, into the relation between the wages of railroad workers and the increased cost of living since the last advance in wages was granted. This inquiry will embrace living conditions in fifteen or twenty communities, but the hearings will be conducted at the Capitol. The sub-committee's report on this phase of the investigation is expected to be made within a week's time. After that, if considered desirable, the entire committee will hold an exhaustive inquiry into the entire railroad situation, but particularly with respect to the wage and cost of living phase.

In bringing up the railroad wage and cost of living problem, Senator Cummins urged that the Senate approach it "not hysterically," so that nothing be done that would make a bad situation worse.

Senator Nelson asked if the railroad men's demands for an increase of wages was "made the basis, directly or indirectly, for Government control and operation."

"I do not know," replied Mr. Cummins. "The railroad executives have been demanding an increase in rates for a long time, and no one, I think, has denounced them for believing that rates of transportation should be increased, whatever differences of opinion there may be upon the subject. Just so we ought not to denounce the railway workers for insisting upon an increased pay until we have informed ourselves as to the justice of their demands."

"I do not know," answered Mr. Cummins.

Senator Cummins at this point read the letter from President Wilson to him last Saturday urging that Congress investigate the railroad situation with a view to determining upon legislation.

Says Demands Total $500,000,000.

Senator Thomas asked if the suggested increase of 1 per cent. an hour in the wages of railroad employes, as suggested in their demands to Director Hines, would not approximate $800,000,000 a year.

Mr. Cummins replied that Mr. Hines estimated them at that amount.

"Then the position of the trainmen virtually is that their wages shall be increased at the rate of $800,000,000 a year in order to meet the increased cost of living," suggested Mr. Thomas.

"If a proportionate increase is awarded the railway workers, the increase annually would be $800,000,000," assented Mr. Cummins.

"And I think the Senator will agree with me that the effect of such a raise would merely be to proportionately increase the cost of the necessities of life," argued Mr. Thomas.

"Unquestionably," agreed Mr. Cummins.

"While the public, as usual, pays the bill," said Mr. Thomas.

"Unquestionably, that would be its effect, and its effect in that respect is fully recognized by the railroad men," said Mr. Cummins. "Their demand is either such an increase in their compensation or reduction in the cost of living so that their present wages will be relatively the same as though increased.

"Personally, while I think many things might be done that would have some effect upon the cost of living, we will have to depend mainly upon the natural development of commerce and business, and, in some way that no human being can now fairly anticipate, resume the relations which were established before the war, and which will take a long time to re-establish. We must bear the consequences of this war. They will not be borne simply by paying the expenses of the war. The whole world is dislocated; all its relations are deranged, and just how we will reach the point of safety and again feel the security of the old-established relations between employers and employes, and between the various transactions of commerce, I do not know, nor do I believe that any human being can foretell."

Senator McKellar of Tennessee asked if Mr. Cummins could say when the Interstate Commerce Committee would have a report on the advisability of restoring the railroads to private control or of adopting any other policy. Mr. Cummins replied that he would not discuss control of the railroads at this time.

"I do not believe any system of railway regulation or control will meet the emergency which confronts us," Senator Cummins went on. He added that the Interstate Commerce Committee had before it more than thirty distinct, independent plans for the readjustment of the relations between the Government and the railroads.

Expects to Report Bill Soon.

"We have made gratifying progress in the discussions over them," said the Senator. "All that I care to say at this time is that long before the Senate has disposed of the League of Nations the Committee on Interstate Commerce will be ready to report a bill. And we all fear that the Senate would be in no frame of mind to consider this very vital subject until the League of Nations and the treaty with Germany are disposed of. If the Senate could find time to take up some of our domestic problems for the safety of our own people, and to avert a catastrophe which thoughtful men believe may occur at any moment, and not spend so much of its time on foreign affairs, I believe the country would be better satisfied."

"In other words, the Senator believes that if we must choose between the two, peace at home is preferable to the peace abroad," inquired Mr. Thomas.

"I am thoroughly of that opinion," said Mr. Cummins.

"So am I," agreed Mr. Thomas.

Senator Kirby of Arkansas, understood, he said, that the Government is operating the railroads at a loss of about $30,000,000 a month, and that if the wage increases were allowed the deficit would be that much greater.

"If the wages are increased as demanded, and there are no increases in revenue, the deficit will be just so much more," agreed Mr. Cummins. "I am assuming that an advance in rates will ensue, meaning an advance in revenues."

The Iowa Senator wanted, he said, to emphasize that the railroad administration has full power to deal with the situation without appeal to Congress.

"We have already given to the President and the Director General," he said, "all the powers to deal as their judgment may suggest with the very condition that has now arisen.

"As for Mr. Hines, I think he is one of the ablest men who have ever attempted the management of railroads. I am bound to say that he is a great improvement over his predecessor (Mr. McAdoo) although I do not care to criticise his predecessor save that he did not know the business in which he was engaged.

Senator Cummins took up the statement attributed to Director General Hines in a newspaper interview that the railroad administration lacked authority to raise railroad rates to meet any advance in wages. Disputing this, Mr. Cummins declared:

Says Duty Devolves on President.

"The Government of the United States is the employer. It can hire, it can discharge any employe. It can determine precisely what each employe shall receive for the service he renders. There can be no question whatsoever with regard to its power in that regard. The President can fix the rates which shall be charged for transportation and make them effective at any time he may determine. All this power is expressly given to the President and to the Director General in the act of March 21, 1918, respecting Federal control of railroads."

"Is it not more than power?" asked Mr. Lenroot. "Does not the duty devolve upon the President, as well as the power?"

"It is impossible for me to conceive of power without duty," said Mr. Cummins.

"But we have taken away from him the right to initiate rates," put in Mr. Overman.

"No, that is a misapprehension which has been created," replied Mr. Cummins. "We have not taken from him the power to initiate rates. We have not taken from him any power. It is true that a month ago or more the Senate passed a bill, which I introduced, restoring to the Interstate Commerce Commission the authority to suspend rates which might be initiated by the President or the Director General, but it has not become law. It has been obstructed in the House of Representatives, by the Railroad Administration itself."

In reply to a question of Senator Fletcher, the Iowa Senator said there had been an increase of from 25 to 100 per cent. in rates, according to different localities, since the Government assumed control of the railroads. The average increase, he said, was 25 per cent. Senator Pomperene said that in some sections of the South there had been an advance of 500 per cent.

Senator King expressed the view that, in the face of complaint throughout the country against the high railroad rates, the President and Director of Railroads ought not "attempt to saddle any more expense on the people," and might better wait for action by Congress regarding the railroads.

Holds Director General Responsible.

"No matter what law we pass, the Director General will be compelled to decide for himself whether the rates for transportation shall be raised or lowered," replied Mr. Cummins. "No one can share that responsibility with him. The Interstate Commerce Commission, reviewing the entire situation, might, if it saw fit, suspend those rates for examination. If it should suspend the rate, then the Director General would be relieved of responsibility and it would fall upon the Interstate Commerce Commission, where, in my judgment, it ought to rest.

"The only thing we can do that would share the responsibility with the President, so long as Federal control shall continue, would be to pass a law authorizing the President to appoint a board to determine wages. That the President has the right to do now.

"All I am trying to do is to inform the American people that there is nothing that Congress can do in the matter that it has not already done, except to authorize the appointment of a board. I am not saying whether we ought to do that or not. I am endeavoring to dispel the illusion, or misapprehension, that has gone abroad throughout the country that it is up to Congress to do something, and that the Administration cannot act."

Senator Thomas read into the record an editorial published in THE NEW YORK TIMES of yesterday, entitled "Brotherhood Demands," characterising it as a "very temperate, independent, thoughtful, and just criticism of the Brotherhood demands."

Senator Thomas spoke of the recent race riots in Washington and Chicago, the Bolshevist and I. W. W. propaganda, and "other disturbing phases in American life," as showing a condition of unrest.

"It is all of serious import," said Mr. Thomas, "and it is something that must be handled temperately but decisively. The railroad brotherhood situation is another serious one. It concerns the American people in the threat it conveys as much as the treaty of peace does.

"The country today faces a difficult situation in the matter of its currency. The circulation of specie has almost trebled since the war began, and with our hard problems of finance ahead of us and our other difficulties, along comes the brotherhood with its threat that unless it gets the demand for more wages and a practical confiscation for private exploitation of $20,000,000,000 of railroad property, it will further upset the chaotic situation already upon us.

"With the Government it is a game of battledore and shuttlecock. Wages are increased at the demand of its railroad employes and cost of living goes up. And the brotherhoods say that this vicious circle will continue. Congress indeed has a grave problem ahead of it."

15,000 MORE SHOPMEN OUT.

Chicago Leaders Insist Strike Will Not Be Called Off.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Further spread of the railroad shopmen's strike was reported tonight by union officials, who declared some 15,000 additional workers in the Middle West went out today and that a strike of 10,000 men on the Norfolk & Western Line had been set for tomorrow.

L. H. Hawver, President of the Chicago District Council of the Federated Railway Shopmen's Union, which called the strike of shopmen, received a telegram from E. C. Chase, the boilermakers' representative on the National Agreement Committee of Seventy-eight, saying that conditions "do not warrant holding men any longer." Hawver said Chase had opposed the strike until a referendum of the workers had been taken. The Agreement Committee has been negotiating with the Railroad Administration in Washington.

Union officials said that while the strike was called in defiance of the grand lodge officers of the unions involved, it was in compliance with the wishes of the rank and file of the federation. It was stated that they will refuse to take a strike vote on Aug. 24, as ordered by the grand lodge officers, and that the Railroad Administration must treat with them and grant their demands for 85 cents an hour for mechanics and 60 cents for helpers if the strike is to end.

The railroad yards in the Chicago district have become congested with cars, and union officials declare all railroad service will be more seriously affected in a few days.

The 700 shopmen employed in the West Springfield (Mass.) shops of the Boston & Albany Railroad have been notified to meet tonight to take a strike vote on enforcement of wage demands, it was announced today.

Reports received from Terre Haute said 200 shopmen employed by the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad quit work at noon today.

Decision of 1,800 electrical workers on Southern railroads to go on strike Thursday, Aug. 7, together with approximately 15,000 other shopmen, was reported today to Charles P. Ford, Secretary of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

VOTE FOR INQUIRY ON PRICES OF MEAT

WHEAT QUESTION ALSO UP

Gronna Urges Action on Peace Treaty Before Presenting Food Legislation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The groundwork was laid by the Senate Agricultural Committee today for an inquiry into the prices of meat, as a vital feature of the investigation of the cost of living problem.

It was voted to begin hearings on the Kendrick and Kenyon bills to regulate the meat-packing industry on Aug. 18. Later the committee will go into the wheat situation and other phases relating to the cost of living.

Most of the committee members wanted to begin hearings on the Kendrick and Kenyon bills at once, but Senator Gronna of North Dakota, Chairman of the committee, objected on the ground that some of the Senators wished to participate in the debate on the League of Nations covenant in the Senate.

Senator Gronna felt, he said, that the Senate ought to get the Peace Treaty out of the way at once so that it could devote itself to the cost of living problem as well as other questions of after-war reconstruction. The country, he said, was getting impatient over the Senate delay in coming to a vote on the treaty.

Other members of the committee agreed with him that the treaty should be quickly disposed of, but the opinion was expressed that there was no indication of speed on the part of the Foreign Relations Committee, which still has the treaty under consideration.

Reach Compromise on Delay.

The North Dakota Senator thought that the Agricultural Committee should wait until the treaty was voted upon before submitting any suggestions on the cost of living. The majority of the committee, however, felt disposed to proceed with the inquiry into the packing industry and as a compromise Aug. 18 was fixed as the day to begin hearings.

The committee will investigate profiteering as one phase of the cost of living, several members expressing the view that if lay back of the entire problem. Drastic legislation against excessive profits will be considered. Senator Gronna remarked that the situation would have to be handled with hard gloves. The feelings of profiteers, he said, would not be spared.

The way to get at facts, in my opinion, is to call a spade a spade and not approach the matter timidly," said Mr. Gronna.

In urging that the committee postpone its investigation until after the Peace Treaty was disposed of Mr. Gronna said that he feared it would be difficult to get all the members of the committee together while the debate was on.

"No one listens to the speeches anyway," replied Senator Kenyon of Iowa. "If we wait until the treaty is out of the way it will be sixty days or more before these bills can be considered."

Ransdell Calls for Action.

Senator Ransdell of Louisiana said:

"Other committees are not waiting, and we have got to have legislation on the high cost of living immediately. There is tremendous unrest throughout the country, and it may be quieted somewhat by hearings at once that will bring us the thought from all interests of the country as to what should be done.

"The high cost of living is interrelated with everything," said Mr. Gronna. "It will require from sixty to ninety days to hear all the interests that ought to be heard. We have got to consider labor, the products of the farms and factories, manufacturing, railroad transportation, and money problems if we are going to effect a real change in the high cost of living.

"I believe that the public will be impatient if we allow these hearings to drag along," said Senator Capper of Kansas. "The question is overshadowing everything else, and will continue to do so for three or six months."

Johnson Hints at Revolution.

"It is the one great question," said Senator Johnson of South Dakota. "If we do not have immediate and drastic action we are going to have a revolution; you may jest about it, but it is in the air."

Senator Johnson favored a law, he said, to limit profits in all business, as bankers are limited in interest rates.

Mr. Capper asserted that three-fourths of the retailers in Washington were getting double what their goods cost them.

"We found one cut-rate dealer who was only getting from 50 to 60 per cent., but he was making a lot of money," Mr. Capper said.

Senator Smith of Georgia criticised the railroad brotherhood demands as partly responsible for the present situation.

"Railroad workers and city laborers want half work and double pay, and we have got to have the courage to tell them no," he said. "For the last four years we have run from every demand made by city laborers and the railroad employes."

A letter was presented to the Senate today by Senator Harris of Georgia from a constituent, who said that one of the meat packers had sent a telegram protesting against the Kenyon bill and had signed the constituent's name without authority.

"I want this letter read, to show the methods the packers are using," said Senator Harris.

HOGS AND FLOUR LOWER.

Possibility of Legislation and Strike Cause in Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 5.—Impending legislation to reduce the high cost of living is believed to have been responsible for a drop of 60 cents a barrel in the wholesale price of flour and a falling off of from 75 cents to $1 a hundred on hogs here today.

The possibility of railroad strikes resulting in a general tie-up is also said by stockmen to have influenced the hog market. The plan contemplated by the Government of buying wheat at the guaranteed price, the head of one large mill said today, had brought down the price, as millers had been paying a premium of as much as 20 cents a bushel over the guarantee price.

Local bakers asserted that the reduction in flour would not affect bread prices.

Seek Prosecutions in Nebraska.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 5.—Governor McKelvie of Nebraska today requested Leo Stuhr, Secretary of the State Department of Agriculture, to begin at once an investigation of the costs of food products, and furnish information by Aug. 14 for a meeting with the State's Attorney General. "We are ambitious to bring forth a vigorous prosecution of those who are committing offenses against the rights of the consuming public," the Governor said.

New Hampshire Starts Inquiry.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 5.—An investigation of the high prices of necessaries in New Hampshire was started by Attorney General Young today under orders from Governor Bartlett. The Attorney General was instructed to initiate prosecutions if his findings warranted them and to give all assistance possible to the investigations conducted by Federal authorities.

DEFENDS JUGOSLAV CLAIM.

Dr. Yovanovitch Replies to Statements of Senator Sherman.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Dr. Voyslav M. Yovanovitch, Chief of the Jugoslav Bureau in Washington, issued a statement tonight in reply to declarations made in the Senate yesterday by Senator Sherman of Illinois concerning the Fiume question. The statement, which said that Senator Sherman had doubtless been misled as to facts, continues:

"From incorrect, imaginary, forged, and misquoted documents and facts it was not difficult to draw such conclusions as Senator Sherman gave utterance to. 'Fiume is Italian in blood, language, and traditions,' said he, in spite of the fact that an overwhelming majority of Fiuman people (of Italian and Slav origin) has sent petitions to the Peace Conference in Paris declaring themselves against the annexation of their city by Italy. 'The Jugoslav State is an experiment,' he said, in spite of the fact that such a State existed successfully in the past and was recreated recently not by the Peace Commissions but by the free will of the people.

"He calls the Jugoslav people 'a polyglot people' in spite of the fact that the Serbs, the Croats and the Slovenes are a people of the same race, speaking the same language, and having the same national characters as the American people from Illinois, Indiana and Nebraska. He calls their country 'another Mexico,' with no more right than one would have to style in such a manner the Australian Commonwealth, and with less right than one has to style in such a manner Italy herself. And he forgets the most essential fact (a fact admitted now in history) that the last war was largely provoked by German ambition to open her road to the East through the Balkans, and that the only way to preserve the peace in the Balkans and in Europe is to set aside Italy from the Balkans and to forbid Italian Imperialists in their childish ambition to imitate the German game."

was said that it could wait until later. I then objected to the motion for three-day recesses, and stated why I objected. All I asked from the House at any time was the privilege of asking unanimous consent to take up the resolution.

"I never intended to attempt to 'bulldoze' the House into anything except that I exercised my right and privilege to secure consideration. I think in trying to call up the resolution I was doing no more than my duty as a member."

To enable Mr. Gillett to address the House, Mr. Campbell of Kansas, the Speaker pro tem. took the chair.

"I did not recognize the gentlemen," said Mr. Gillett from the floor, "because I believed the proposition to adjourn for three days' recess represented the overwhelming sentiment of the House. Other gentlemen had resolutions that I approved of as highly as I do this resolution, but the others were willing to the great majority of the House should have its will, and then take their chances of securing unanimous consent.

"The gentleman from Missouri was the only one not willing. I did not think it an attitude he should take. If one man took that attitude there was no reason others should not. I do not think I used the expression in the chair—maybe I did, but I do not recollect it—that the gentleman should not be allowed to 'bulldoze' the House. That expresses in not very elegant language the general feeling I had."

TO SELL ARMY FOOD IN 500 PLAYGROUNDS

OPENING TO BE DELAYED

Held Up by War Department, but Will Be Ready by Middle of Next Week.

Under the direction of Mayor Hylan a number of city departments were brought into line yesterday for cooperation in the sale of surplus army food to the people of the city at 20 per cent. less than market prices.

The playgrounds of more than 500 school buildings will be used as distributing centres, to each of which two policemen will be detailed, one to act as receiving clerk and the other as cashier. Bookkeepers from various departments will keep the accounts, under the direction of Robert L. Colligan, chief accountant in the Purchasing Department of the Fire Department.

Inspectors from the Health Department will examine the food and pass upon its quality, and men from the office of the Commissioner of Accounts will check up the consignments as they arrive. Employes of the Street Cleaning Department will load and unload the cases, and volunteers from various organizations will assist in the actual sale.

Delay by the War Department in notifying the city of the prices to be charged, according to Deputy Commissioner of Markets Edwin J. O'Malley, will prevent the food being placed on sale Monday. It is expected that by the middle of the week the public will be enabled to make its purchases. The first consignment to the city will include:

Three carloads ham.
Two carloads bacon, (canned and slabs.)
Two carloads canned tomatoes.
Two carloads baked beans, (tomato sauce.)
Two carloads baked beans, (plain.)
One carload wax beans.
Two carloads string beans.
One carload lima beans.
One carload pumpkin.
Two carloads canned peas.
Two carloads canned corn.
Half car hominy.
Half car dried white beans.
Half car cereals.

The first borough to organize its forces to assist in the sale is the Bronx. President Bruckner has arranged to open forty public schools and ten parochial schools, the Eighth Regiment Armory at Kingsbridge Road and Jerome Avenue, and the Second Field Artillery Armory at 166th Street and Franklin Avenue. A meeting will be held in Borough Hall tonight to perfect plans for a permanent organization.

Taking advantage of Commissioner O'Malley's offer to consign food to organizations for distribution among their members, Ned D. Jacoby, Vice President and General Manager of the Black and White Taxicab Company, which employs more than 1,000 men, has pledged the co-operation of his company in distributing the food to its employes. Franklin Union No. 23, through Peter J. Brady, Supervisor of The City Record, has offered its headquarters at 3 West Thirteenth Street as a distributing centre for its 3,000 members.

Asked the cause of the high prices in this city, Mr. O'Malley said it was his belief that the sugar interests were in combination with the canning interests to keep up the price. He said many retail dealers had told him they could not get enough sugar for their customers and had had to limit sales to one and two pounds for each customer. Mr. O'Malley pointed out that both the cane and beet sugar crops have been large this year. He thought the shortage would become as acute as it was two years ago. He also pointed out that there were bumper crops of corn, wheat, oats, barley, potatoes, and hay, and these prices also remained high.

Mr. O'Malley and Deputy Commissioner of Markets William W. Smith will go to Albany today as representatives of Mayor Hylan to attend the conference of Governor Smith to arrange for distribution of the army food through the State. Mrs. Julian Heath, President of the National Housewives' League, wrote to the Governor yesterday asking him to give the milk situation special consideration at this conference.

"The State has supported numerous milk commissions for years," she wrote, "but up to this time no definite finding has been returned by those commissions as to the consumer.

"We acknowledge that the producer must receive a fair profit for his milk, and that the distributers must be recompensed for their services. Conflicting testimony leaves the consumer in the dark as to what should be paid for safe milk in our cities. According to newspaper reports there has been collusion between the producer, the distributer, and the New York Cental Railroad. This information, coupled with the suffering caused by the high price of milk, is causing serious unrest among the housewives."

AUSTRIA TO SUBMIT HER ANSWER TODAY

Renner Will Then Go to Vienna and Return for the Allies' Final Reply.

PARIS, Aug. 4, (Associated Press.)—The Austrian delegation formally notified the Peace Conference today that it would submit its complete observations on the treaty to the conference at 6 o'clock in the evening tomorrow, which the last day allowed the Austrians for their reply.

Dr. Karl Renner, the Austrian Chancellor and head of the peace delegation, will leave for Vienna tomorrow night, he said, returning here about Aug. 12.

The Peace Conference probably will take about eight days to consider the Austrian suggestions. It is said to be likely that at that time Austria would receive about five days within which to make a final reply as to whether she would sign the treaty.

TO DISCUSS RHINE REPUBLIC.

Opinions of Various Parties to be Offered at Paris.

BERLIN, Aug. 5, (Associated Press.)—Dr. Theodor Lewald, Under Secretary of State, is going to Versailles soon to resume his discussion with the Peace Conference relative to the establishment of the Rhineland republic, according to Cologne advices.

Dr. Lewald is negotiating with parliamentary circles in the Rhineland for the purpose of ascertaining the wishes of the people, desiring to submit any consensus of opinion which may be reached. Delegates from Wurttemberg, Baden, and Hesse have expressed numerous wishes to be presented to the Peace Conference. The Centrist Party delegates for the voting districts of Upper Homburg and Usingen have again expressed a desire for the establishment of the Rhineland republic, while the Majority Socialists from Upper Wiesbaden and Upper and Lower Taunus unanimously oppose the plan for the republic.

TELL RUMANIANS TO LEAVE BUDAPEST

mission, an allied representative, informed the Hungarian Cabinet that the Rumanians would remain to keep order. He requested, also, that the demobilization of the Soviet army be continued.

The Rumanians have taken possession of public buildings and have assumed military command of the city. Hostages have been taken, and it was announced five of them would be shot for every Rumanian killed. So far there have been no disorders.

Serbian troops, according to reports here, are advancing toward Budapest from the south, supposedly to protect their interests.

VIENNA, Aug. 4, (Associated Press.)—It develops that strong efforts were made by the Allies to stop the Rumanian advance upon Budapest. Stephen Pichon, the French Foreign Minister, telegraphed this morning to the French Minister a Bucharest instructing him to tell the Rumanian Foreign Minister that the Rumanian Army must comply absolutely with the request of Lieut. Col. Romanelli, the allied military representative in Vienna, and not advance another step.

It was reported from Budapest also that the Rumanian commander openly flouted Joseph Haubrich, the Hungarian War Minister, the Rumanian officer saying he was now commander in Budapest and that Haubrich was a civilian in his eyes.

BERLIN, Aug. 4, (Associated Press.)—Troops of the Szegedin Government of Hungary have advanced to within twenty-five miles of Budapest and expect to reach that city tonight, and Jugoslav forces are also advancing upon Budapest, according to a Vienna dispatch received here. It is stated that the Rumanians have captured many Communist leaders at the Hungarian capital.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 5.—Lieut. Col. Romanelli, chief of the Italian Mission in Budapest, who is acting as the representative of the Allies, in addition to demanding a reduction of the Hungarian Army, has also demanded that the civil population surrender all arms and ammunition. Lieut. Col. Romanelli stated today that disarmament and reorganization of the Red forces would be taken in hand at the earliest possible moment.

Freedom of the press has been restored in Budapest.

FRENCH BACK RUMANIANS.

Americans and British Regret Occupation of Budapest.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—The factor today as far as the Hungarian situation is concerned is a difference of opinion among the Allies as to which is the more stable and secure thing to depend on—the new Hungarian Government or the Rumanian Army which got into Budapest despite instructions from Paris for it to stay out.

France gives its faith to the Rumanian Army which is largely officered by Frenchmen. Americans and British see a source of great possible danger in the presence of Rumanian troops in Budapest and sincerely regret their being there. But no further move will be made by anybody in Paris till after receiving the report of the Allied Military Commission. General H. H. Banholtz Provost Marshal, American forces in France, was selected this morning as the American member of this mission and will start for Hungary at once.

The British appointee is now on his way there. They are to examine the situation as it exists under the new Peidli Government, report on the effect of the presence of the Rumanian troops, and also on the advisability of sending Allied troops, as requested by the Hungarians themselves, to help maintain order while the government is getting established. The Hungarians would have one regiment each of Americans, British, and French. There is not the slightest inclination at this moment on military authorities in France to send American soldiers to Hungary for police duty.

The disposition of the American and British peace delegates is to have as much faith as possible in the Peidli Government and give it full opportunity to prove it is worth dealing with. Their faith does not seem to be entirely blind. Much confidence is based on the fact that the new Hungarian leaders have the support of the laboring elements as distinguished from the agitators who have been trying in vain to bring about an alliance of the Hungarian and Russian Bolsheviki.

It is because of this willingness to give Peidli a chance that the military mission sent today will have power to act in a preliminary diplomatic capacity, later on supervising compliance with the armistice terms and perhaps making negotiations for bringing Hungarian delegates to Paris to sign the Peace Treaty with the Entente. That, however, is the extreme of American and British hopes of the situation and it is too early to be sure of anything.

But if these hopes are frustrated, not by failure of the Hungarians themselves so much as by the presence or misconduct of Rumanian troops in Budapest, there is bound to be punishment meted out to Rumania by the Allies. This punishment will take the form of economic restrictions. In the meantime the blockade has been lifted from Hungary and there is opportunity to restore much normal Danube traffic.

BUDAPEST AWAKENING FROM RED NIGHTMARE

Agoston Says New Cabinet Has Honestly Turned Its Back on Communism.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 5, (Associated Press.)—Count Julius Andrassy, former Austro-Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs; Ernst Garami, and Dr. Wilhelm Vazsohy have arrived in Budapest from Switzerland.

Count Andrassy had a conference today with Hungarian politicians, and expressed his preference for a purely bourgeois government. He said, however, that he recognized the necessity for a coalition ministry, which he promised to support, though under no circumstances would he participate in it.

The restoration of the country and an effort to move the Peace Conference into changing the peace terms [illegible] Hungary to retain more of her former territory are among the many problems now facing the new Cabinet which, according to Peter Agoston, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, has honestly turned its back on Communism.

It has appointed business men to posts in its membership. Among them, Max Fanyu has been named for the Department of Commerce, and M. Lovassy for the Department of Instruction. The latter has just been released from a Communist prison, where he had been held as a hostage.

Less than a coalition government, it is stated, is impossible under the present state of mind of the proletariat. The people, it is asserted, were glad to see the Bela Kun Soviet go, but are uneasy at the prospect of losing all the offices the proletariat once had. They are bitterly resisting disarming, especially since the Rumanians arrived preceded by tales of terrible cruelty.

The Communists have disappeared entirely, but it is feared that they are merely laying low and will appear actively if the new government is too reactionary.

Captain Gregory, the chief allied food administrator in Central Europe, has come here by automobile from Vienna in order to see to the re-establishment of communication and secure coal for the hundreds of locomotives tied up with miles of idle freight and passenger cars. It is desired to set this rolling stock in motion so that food may be moved from the Banat region to Vienna and to enable trade to resume its normal routes.

It was stated today that the Italian regiments of troops, Italian, French, and British, respectively, are to be billeted here for the purpose of maintaining order. It was thought, however, that this possibly would be unnecessary.

This beautiful city is slowly reawakening. The hotels are being filled rapidly by refugees returning from Vienna and elsewhere. Many of them expressed amazement at the thoroughness with which the Soviet had stripped parts of the city.

The Hungaria Hotel, which masqueraded as the Soviet House for three months, and was occupied by a band of persons who lived on the favor of Bela Kun and other leaders, is now housing anti-Communists.

Many things are difficult to get here. A waiter in the Hungaria Hotel begged the correspondent for a collar. He said he had but one, and it was wearing out rapidly because of its constant use and frequent overnight washings.

Along the country roads, when automobiles stopped so the passengers might show the military guards news of the new Government in the Vienna and Budapest papers, women, ragged and barefooted, sought to exchange their shoes, which they carried, for meat for their families.

In Budapest, in the ante-rooms of Premier Peidli, and in other rooms once luxuriously furnished, callers sit on handsome antique furniture, which, however, is battered, and chairs have arms or legs missing.

The negro chauffeur of an American party, after a few hours' stay here today, remarked: "This sure is a dead town; I want to go home."

BERLIN, Aug. 4, (Associated Press.)—"The Hungarian Peoples' Republic" is the official title of the new Government at Budapest, it was announced at Vienna yesterday by members of the Hungarian Government after a conference with allied representatives there.

A program of policies agreed upon at the conference was given to the correspondents by Dr. Peter Agoston, the new Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs. He announced the Budapest Government would change from the Soviet system to social democracy. The new Government, he said, guaranteed the Allies that a new constitution would be created, a constitutional legislature elected, industries already socialized would remain in public service until the legislature met, and laws and acts of the Soviet be kept in force until changed by the new legislature.

Complete amnesty for all political offenders punished under Soviet rule has been granted, it was announced.

Dr. Agoston said he had issued an order for special protection of foreigners in Budapest.

One of the things to be determined by the legislature to be elected will be the degree of socialization to be adopted.

The feeling is said to be growing that the Communists considered culpable must be put on trial for certain acts of the Soviet régime, even though it is admitted in many circles that their action was taken from political conviction. The charge of confiscating private property would lie against many of the people's commissaries.

The demand for the trial of the Communists, now reported, is one of the principal reasons for the decision reached to effect speedily a coalition of the Socialists, temporarily in power, with the bourgeoisie, as it is seen that an entirely Socialistic Government, guided by Socialistic principles, would not feel that it could take the responsibility of trying the Communists.

Budapest dispatches state that the Hungarian authorities today asked permission of the Entente to hold elections for the Constituent Assembly on some date in September in territories now occupied by Entente forces but belonging to Hungary.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 5.—The new Hungarian Government, according to Budapest dispatches received here today, is determined to maintain unaltered the suffrage law introduced by the Karolyi Government and to call elections immediately for the Constituent Assembly, which would determine to what degree landed property should be socialized.

Until the National Assembly is elected the present administration proposes to continue the present order of things so that production may not be disturbed.

KUN HAD 5,000,000 CROWNS.

Confiscated in Luggage of Deposed Hungarian Dictator.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Bela Kun, the deposed Hungarian dictator, took 5,000,000 crowns with him when he left Hungary, says a Berne dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company today. When he reached Austrian territory, it is declared, this amount in crowns which had been confiscated was found in his luggage.

An Associated Press dispatch from Vienna mentions 5,000,000 crowns as having been discovered in the luggage of Eugene Landler, M. Varga, and M. Vago, former members of the Hungarian Soviet Government, who accompanied Bela Kun to Vienna. This was in addition to Russian rubles and Swiss francs.

BAR SZAMUELY'S BODY.

Jewish Cemetery Officials Refuse Burial, Calling Him Murderer.

VIENNA, Aug. 4, (Associated Press.)—The Board of Management of the Jewish Cemetery at Wiener Neustadt, Lower Austria, has refused to allow the burial in that cemetery of the body of Tibor Szamuely, the Hungarian Communist leader, who was shot and killed as he was trying to cross the Austrian frontier. The reason given by the chief official was as follows:

"The Mosaic law contains no provision against the burial of murderers in consecrated ground, but Moses knew that murder was foreign to the nature of the Jews, and therefore passed no ordinance. It decreed that he who with his own hands murdered forty men at least. Therefore I forbid the burial."

The body was taken to the frontier town of Sauerbrunn, near which Szamuely died, for burial.

Jersey City to Invite de Valera.

The Rev. William T. McLaughlin, pastor of St. Lucy's R. C. Church in Grove Street, Jersey City, requested the City Commissioners yesterday to invite Eamonn de Valera, "President" of the so-called "Irish Republic," to visit Jersey City, and to offer him the freedom of the city. The Commissioners agreed, and Mayor Hague told Father McLaughlin the commission would send the invitation to him to deliver to de Valera.

SMASH RED FLOTILLA ON LAKE ONEGA

British-Russian Land, Sea, and Air Forces Combine in Successful Raid.

TWO STEAMERS CAPTURED

Others, with Exception of One Which Fled, All Driven Ashore, Official Report Says.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The following official communication from the commander of the allied forces on the North Russian front was made public this evening:

"Our combined land, sea, and air forces Saturday carried out successfully a raid on the enemy's (Bolsheviki) lake flotilla on Lake Onega, at Fort Talvoiske, forty miles southeast of Medvyagora. Two of the enemy's steamers were captured, a third ran away, while the others were forced ashore.

"The captured ships were armed with three-inch guns and many [illegible] guns. The newly formed Russian flotilla cooperated with the British flotilla.

A Bolshevist official report received here today by wireless says that the allied forces which landed at Onega, attempting to recapture it, were driven out after sixteen hours' fierce fighting in the streets.

The Bolshevist statement said the allied troops re-embarked under a hurricane of fire from their ships and that the warships steamed northward. One of the allied vessels, it was reported, was set on fire by the Bolshevist artillery.

Ukrainian Red troops have occupied Aleshky, the message adds.

The dispatch also announces that the Congress of Soviets held at Nizhni Novgorod decided to close all the monasteries and send the monks to work in the rear of the army.

OMSK, July 21, (Associated Press.)—The Siberian Army is concentrating on the Tobalsk River and reorganizing, preparatory to renewing operations with substantial reinforcements. Other forces are holding the Bolsheviki at the Misk River and chain of lakes, fifty miles west of Cheliabinsk.

The American Red Cross contingents have been recalled from Cheliabinsk, south of Ekaterinburg, and from Tiumen, east of Ekaterinburg, because of the near approach of the Bolsheviki to those places. The entire personnel of the contingents has reached Omsk.

The country to the west is overrun with refugees, mainly intellectuals and peasants, even many of those who had remained through the previous Bolshevist occupation now fleeing from a renewal of the régime. On the roads from Ekaterinburg to Tiumen there are, in round numbers, some 17,000 carts, averaging three persons to the cart, together with led horses and cattle, while already 375 railway cars, carrying an average of thirty refugees each, have arrived at Tiumen.

It is estimated that 20,000 refugees have reached Omsk, and hundreds more are arriving daily. The Russian authorities have established a camp on the edge of the town, and the Red Cross is assisting in the feeding and caring for of emergency cases. The problem of supplying aid is assuming vast proportions.

Roland S. Morris, American Ambassador to Japan, and Major Gen. William S. Graves, the American commander in Siberia, arrived here today at 10 o'clock for a series of conferences with officials of the All-Russian Government. They called first at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and then visited Admiral Kolchak, head of the Omsk Government.

land. A third is profiteering. The bad effects of all three are aggravated and augmented by high wages due in the first instance to the demon of currency inflation which is at work in every stage of the game.

French Have Learned by Experience.

In French history there have been too many unsuccessful attempts to dispose of this troublemaker by artificial means—from confiscation of fortunes of a tax on capital to the arbitrary calling in of paper with the resultant financial panic—for economists to suggest anything but a normal and gradual remedy. Professor Gide of the Institut Economique declares that nothing can be done save to gradually reduce the floating debt by repayment and that this is only possible when the national revenue exceeds expenditure. Very much the reverse is the case in France today, so that half of the cause for high cost of living must persist until the return of prosperity permits the country to get back to a cash basis.

As regard the three causes which contribute the other half of the increase the situation is more hopeful. As far as Western Europe is concerned demobilization will bring production back around normal in a year or two, and even in the East—with the important exception of Russia—things are looking brighter. Similarly in respect to transportation. Here, too, the release of ships and railroads from the transport of war material—to say nothing of the elimination of mines, submarines and traffic interference by enemy shell fire—will improve conditions just as the release of men from fighting will improve production. In both cases the improvement can be artificially hastened by use of labor saving machinery, better methods and better seed or stock as regards food production, and by international co-operation and closer working to schedule, more and newer ships, freight cars, locomotives and automobile trucks.

France is working hard along these lines, but it is bound to take time. There are two immediate improvements. The first is a mutual agreement between the workers and masters to postpone all strikes, say for a period of six months. The majority of French workers have come to the realization that strikes for better wages and shorter hours do not get them out of the vicious circle of higher operating expenses and higher prices. Some, however, are still unenlightened, and today there are serious traffic tieups as a result of strikes at the principal French Atlantic ports. Railroad men here declare that in the present down at the heel condition of rolling stock and roadbeds one single day's tieup and delay takes ten days to straighten out. How much worse when as now the greater part of incoming merchandise is cumbering the wharfs or blocking the freight yards in western ports.

"It will take us six months to get the traffic stream running properly again," said the director of one of the principal French railroads a few days ago, "even if there are no more strikes. No one outside of the railroad business can imagine how difficult it is to unravel a bad tangle like this unless (and this is the second improvement suggested) the Government will return for a stated period to mobilization conditions—that is, to running every train in the country at the same rate of speed. France carried out her enormous mobilization program without a hitch by abolishing almost all civilian railroad traffic for a whole fortnight and running all trains at a uniform speed of thirty kilometers an hour. If that system is repeated now it would cause a certain inconvenience to passengers, but it would straighten out the freight muddle rapidly by obviating the necessity for sidetracking freight trains. I'll guarantee that in a month we would hear no more of perishable goods wasting en route or consignments going astray, or any of the thousand and one other mishaps that now make my life a burden and contribute to the increase of prices."

Profiteering, Wholesale and Retail.

Whether this plan be as successful as with mobilization or not, it certainly is a fact that dealers, both large and small, in foodstuffs claim they are forced to make a higher percentage of profit than usual on what they sell because of the abnormal percentage of loss on perishable commodities from transportation delays. It is a sad fact that insurance rates on perishable stuffs are so high as to warrant the belief that losses are abnormal.

But much of the profiteering has no such justification and contrary to the general notion it is more flagrant in the case of small retailers than with big men who have more to risk and over whom control is far easier. One of the latter buys half a million francs worth of goods and sells them weeks later for 600,000. The profit is sensational and would cause an outcry if it got in the papers. But it is only 20 per cent., whereas street vendors buy a barrow-load of fish or tomatoes for 50 francs at the Halles and sell it for 100 every day.

The greatest French economist, the late Professor Leroy-Beaulieu, once laid his finger on the true cause of profiteering which is now rampant in France from the wholesaler to the retailer.

"Have you ever noticed," he said, "that when an import duty of say 20 cents per hundred pound is placed on coffee, the retail price to the consumer will jump 2 or 3 cents per pound? That is, that the four or five persons through whose hands that hundred pounds of coffee passes from importer to consumer will divide the extra benefit of 200 cents or more. They argue correctly that the consumer's psychology will lead him to accept an apparently trifling increase from 75 to 80 or 85 cents a pound just because he has heard there is a new duty of 20 cents to be paid somewhere.

"The war has had just that effect again and again. Each time the wholesale price made a legitimate advance as a result of war conditions every dealer along the line took advantage of it to increase it illegitimately for his own benefit. If the ultimate consumer ever objected he was easily satisfied with the explanation: 'C'est la guerre. Haven't you seen that wholesale prices have been augmented?'

"The only remedy I can see for this is a wide publication of average prices right along the scale from producer or importer to retailer, with a fair allotment of profit to each, so that the consumer can protect himself."

This is exactly what Minister Noulens aims to do with a daily publication of price lists allowing a profit of 15 per cent. only. But, as he points out, the final benefit therefrom rests with the consumer himself—he must decline to buy when the retail prices exceed those of the lists.

In this direction there is an interesting experiment being tried in the Eighteenth City Ward in the shape of a consumers' league to compel retailers to mark prices on all foodstuffs according to law, and where they are too high to bring peaceful persuasion to bear for their reduction. The league only began operations yesterday, and met with great success, prices being reduced from 10 to 50 per cent. in many cases. Co-operative and municipal food stores have also accomplished useful work in the same direction, but they are limited in extent, and their success depends on good management.

It is hoped that Mr. Noulens's lists will enable every one to insist on fair dealing and reduce profiteering to negligible proportions.

Temps Fears Hopes Based on Our Resources Will Fail.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—In reading the leading article in The Temps this evening, entitled "The American Crisis and European Duty," you wonder if the editor was not laughing in his sleeve when he wrote it.

"Despite their wonderful prosperity, their limitless resources," says this writer, "the United States shows in its turn the economic difficulties which follow the war. They have their cost of living crisis. They have a railroad problem which exceeds in dimension, perhaps in gravity, all industrial conflicts we can see from this side of the ocean.

During the negotiations for peace the people of Europe easily forgot the embarrassments of America. Europeans thought only of the riches of America, and got in the habit of thinking that America could, by a simple gesture, remedy all their ills. Present events have given us a more exact appreciation of the American situation.

"We have found out that Americans are not without merit when they aid us. We should also realize we must help ourselves as the allied nations of Continental Europe."

The Temps then goes into the details of the project for the United States to buy the railroads calling attention to the fact that the whole expense of such a purchase would be charged to the public but that only half the returns of the investment would go to the public. The other half would go to a small class of railroad employes in addition to their wages. The Temps is not astonished to learn the plan is supported by the railroad unions.

The paper then raises the questions as to what Congress will do with the plan and if serious strikes will not grow out of the agitation over such a project.

The trouble, present and prospective, in America and England, the writer thinks should stimulate the European nations, in order to help themselves and each other.

"At the beginning of last month," continues the Temps, "Mr. Hoover said that the forces of production of Europe were demoralized and that the remedy was to increase individual efforts and avoid useless expenditures. These statements are true, but the spectacle of the United States shows us that Mr. Hoover has not exhausted the subject. It seems that the industrial crisis so justly denounced by him is not confined to Europe.

"It is also apparent that individual discipline and other remedies prescribed by Mr. Hoover, necessary as they are, would not suffice to establish European prosperity. Let us have the courage to declare it—the demoralization of productive forces is due in part to the fact that we have been deceived by false hope."

The writer then declares that last year, even after the armistice, France was assured, with the war over and no American troops to bring east, the United States would immediately have an abundance of raw material, an abundance of shipping, an abundance of all things to place at the disposal of Europe for rehabilitation.

"But these hopes are not realized," says the Temps, "in the measure we expected, and from that fact comes our anxieties and suffering."

For the lack of tonnage, continues the writer, France and Italy suffer in a manner particularly cruel and unjust, and should receive an immediate allotment of tonnage necessary to meet their shipping needs for as many years as required during reconstruction, and also the railroads of Europe should be so managed as to contribute to the same end under the direction of an international company.

FRANCE CUTS FOOD PRICES.

PARIS, Aug. 5, (Associated Press.)—The plan recently adopted by the French Food Ministry to reduce food prices is working successfully in some of the French cities. At Havre, eggs have been reduced from $1.20 a dozen to 60 cents; onions, from 10 to 5 cents a pound, and potatoes from 4 to 2 cents a pound. The reduction in some foodstuffs vary from 20 to 50 per cent.

A local committee has been created, representing both the dealers and consumers, which determines fair prices and accredits dealers who accept the prices specified. This results in virtual blacklisting of unfair dealers by public opinion, without any formal legislation.

The lowering of prices obtained by the Montmartre Consumers' League Sunday, when members paraded through the district and dealers voluntarily cut their prices, has been maintained and generalized. Tomatoes today sold at from 30 to 50 centimes a pound, Sunday's prices of 60, 70, and 80 centimes a pound having disappeared. Peas were 60 instead of 80 centimes, French beans sold at 1 franc 20 centimes and 1 franc 40 centimes, where Sunday's prices were 1 franc 70 centimes and 1 franc 80 centimes.

Potatoes retailed at 30 centimes instead of 40 centimes. Sole brought 5 francs a pound and whiting 1 franc 30 centimes to 1 franc 50 centimes. Butter prices also declined sharply.

Other wards in the city are now following the example of Montmartre in compelling dealers to reduce prices.

ployes. He said that 60 per cent. of the men employed in the power houses were members of the union and would respond to any strike order directed to them. The strike of the union power house men, he added, would make it impossible to operate the cars.

No one about the hall last night seemed to know what specific grievance the power house men had against the company. Chairman Smith, when asked when these men had met and decided to stand by the action of the other employes, said he did not know where they met or when, and admitted also that he did not know whether the men in the power houses had made separate demands upon the company.

"All I know," said Smith, "is that the men in the power houses, which are about 60 per cent. unionized, have notified us that they are with us and will go out if the others do."

Police Prepare for Trouble.

Immediately following the strike order the police made arrangements to meet any emeregency that may arise after the men quit work. All vacations and leaves were canceled and every Brooklyn policeman was ordered on active or reserve duty forthwith, the orders being for them to remain on call at stations. Reserves were ordered to report for duty at all barns in Brooklyn, while large reserve forces were mobilized at strategic points ready to answer calls from any part of the city. Borough Inspector Thomas H. Murphy is directing the work of the police.

The strike order issued last night affects all the lines, surface, elevated and subway, in Brooklyn. It does not affect the motormen of the elevated and subway lines, however, for these men are not members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, but belong to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which is not affiliated with the association.

Efforts were made at the home of Mayor Hylan in Brooklyn last night to get a statement from him on the B. R. T. situation, but through his Secretary, John P. Sinnott, the Mayor said he had nothing to say on the subject, but that he might issue a statement this morning from the City Hall.

Mr. Sinnott said the Mayor was at dinner at the time and did not care to be disturbed.

The positive refusal of Receiver Lindley M. Garrison to treat with representatives of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, or any other "outside" organization, was given to the committee of the carmen's union yesterday afternoon. In response to a telegram, Mr. Garrison, who was on a vacation in the White Mountains, had hastened back to town to deal with the situation which had developed in his absence. He sent his answer to Chairman Edward Smith of the union committee after a long conference at his Manhattan office with Frederick P. Royce, General Manager for the receiver; Timothy S. Williams, and other officials of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company.

Plan to Fight Strike.

At the same time, the superintendents of the various divisions of the system met at the company's offices in Clinton Street, Brooklyn, and discussed plans for keeping the lines in operation, in the expectation of a strike this morning. It was resolved to put forth every effort to have cars running on all lines today on the theory that if the strikers could not effect a complete tieup at the start their chances of eventually winning the strike would be greatly lessened. The plan was to keep some cars moving on every line of the system, notwithstanding any attempt which the strikers might make to stop the service. The operating heads of the road seemed to be confident that enough men would remain loyal to prevent the cars from being tied up in the barns this morning after they had been turned in by the night crews.

The company is counting on the subway and elevated motormen, who are members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, to stay at work. Although the leaders of the carmen's union have been asserting that the Brotherhood men would go out in sympathy, the officials of the company declared that the Brotherhood members were bound by contracts, which, it was believed they would respect.

The Police Department, it was said last night, was prepared for a possible strike, and ready to give protection to passengers and to men operating cars. As the property of the transit company, through the receivership, is in the custody of the United States Courts, United States Marshal Hower was also taking steps to safeguard the receiver's interests, if directed to do so by the Federal Court. He said last night that if needed he would ask Washington for authority to employ 500 special deputies to protect the property in the hands of the receiver.

Garrison's Reply.

New York, Aug. 5, 1919.

Mr. Edward Smith, Chairman,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

My Dear Sir.—I have the communication from your committee, delivered on Aug. 4, 1919, informing me of a mass meeting held on Friday night, Aug. 1, and of a resolution passed at such meeting. In your communication you state: "This resolution embodied a number of requests, chief among which are:

"(1) Reinstatement of all employes heretofore discharged for union activities;

"(2) Recognition of the union to which the employes belong;

"(3) An increase in wages for all employes, 75 cents an hour for all trainmen, and a similar and proportionate increase for all others employed in different capacities. This applies to all women employes as well as the men;

"(4) An eight-hour day."

You further inform me that another meeting "of the employes has been called for Tuesday night * * * at which we have been instructed to report a result of our interview with you."

I am informed that when this communication was delivered an answer was demanded by 6 o'clock, Tuesday evening, and also that Article 2 was your principal demand.

The mass meeting referred to by you was called and held under the auspices of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America, and I am informed, was attended by less than 1,000 of the 13,000 employes of the system, and that only a small minority of the employes are members of the association.

Your association is fully informed of my attitude in respect of recognizing it. As you are aware, this matter was raised last March, and I then took the position, which I now maintain, that I will not deal with outside organizations such as your association. I am always willing to deal with the employes of the system in respect of any matter affecting them, but I will not deal with outside organizations.

Your frank statement that the second article of your demands, namely, the recognition of the union, is your principal demand, rids the situation of any confusion, and as that is the main issue, it is not useful to take up in detail the other matters adverted to in your communication.

Briefly referring to them, I know of no instance where any employe has been discharged for union activities. I will not countenance discharge for that reason. If what you mean is that I must not discharge men who commit offenses if they happen also to be members of the union, I certainly cannot accede to this.

Sees No Justice in Demand.

In respect of the matter of wages and of decreased hours of labor, which is merely another form of increasing wages, it is the fact that recent increases have been made in all departments, and our men and women are being paid the highest wages ever paid in Greater New York to street railway employes. There have been no substantial advances in the cost of living since the increase in wages, and no legitimate basis, therefore, would seem to exist for any renewed demands in this respect. In addition thereto, the financial situation of the system is such that it has not the money under existing conditions to pay increases.

I cannot believe that the employes of the system will lend themselves to this attempt of an outside organization to intrude itself into their affairs, for if they do so are certainly not acting in their own interests, as it will only result in their losing their present positions.

Those who travel on the system, and the public in general, convinced as they must be that under present conditions we are doing all that is possible, will not look with favor upon the great loss they will suffer if the issue of recognizing your association is forced at this time, and a strike results with all its attendant losses.

Those who have the interests of our employes sincerely at heart will realize that this is not the way to go about helping them. We stand ready to do whatever it is possible for us to do for our employes. For reasons which are too obvious to require restatement, we cannot surrender the right thus to deal with our employes to an outside organization.

If your organization proposes to force the issue of union recognition we can do nothing more than have done, namely, candidly state our position and trust that good sense and good judgment will avert the general loss and trouble with otherwise will ensue. Sincerely yours,

LINDLEY M. GARRISON,
Receiver.

Timothy S. Williams, President; John J. Dempsey, Vice President; William Seibert, Superintendent of Surface Transportation, and several other officials of the B. R. T. were in conference at the company's head offices, Remsen and Clinton Streets, Brooklyn, early this morning. Colonel Williams said that arrangements to meet the situation caused by the strike had been made.

"We are waiting for 5 o'clock," said Mr. Williams, "and not until then will we know how seriously the operation of the company's lines is affected as a result of the strike.

"In the event that all of the 2,500 men who attended the strike meeting go out will you be able to replace them?" Colonel Williams was asked.

"We will cross that bridge when we come to it," he answered.

Mr. Dempsey, in answer to questions, said that the company had a force of operatives in reserve totalling about 20 per cent. of the regular force. This would mean about 2,500 persons. It was admitted that some of those in reserve were women.

It was stated that Receiver Garrison had conferred with Mayor Hylan yesterday afternoon with reference to police protection for the B. R. T. It was also said that the company had a reserve force of guards of its own.

The regimental colors of the 302d Engineers, formerly of the 77th Division, will be decorated with the Croix de Guerre with a palm by a representative of the French High Commission tomorrow evening, Aug. 7, at 8:15 o'clock, at the 77th Division Association clubhouse, 435 Lafayette Street. This citation of gallantry to the regiment as an organization was conferred by Marshal Pétain of France in recognition of the splendid achievement of the engineers in throwing a bridge across the Vesle River near Fismes a year ago. Advancing over this bridge, French artillery was enabled to harass the Germans more effectively.

Colonel Frank A. Giesting, commanding officer of the regiment when it was mustered out of service at Camp Upton, is making arrangements for the ceremony. All members of both the regiment and its auxiliary are invited to attend the exercises. Colonel Robert Alexander, who as Major General commanded the 77th Division, and Colonel C. O. Sherrill, former commanding officer of the 302d Engineers and now attached to the staff of the Chief of Engineers in Washington, are expected to witness the ceremony.

FORD CASE NEAR END, EVIDENCE ALL IN

EXPECT VERDICT TUESDAY

Superintendent Describes Ford School, Where Pupils Are Taught to Speak "American."

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Aug. 5.—A verdict in Henry Ford's $1,000,000 libel suit against the Chicago Daily Tribune is expected by next Tuesday night, Aug. 12, just three months from the day the hearing began here before Judge James G. Tucker.

The evidence was all in the record today. Tomorrow the jury will be excused while the lawyers, of whom there are fourteen, discuss the matter of the court's instructions to the jury with Judge Tucker. While the judge will not instruct the jury formally until he sends it to its deliberations it is expected he will indicate his ideas to the lawyers tomorrow. Great importance is attached by the attorneys to what definitions of "anarchy" and "anarchist" Judge Tucker instructs the jury it may consider, for the suit was instituted by Mr. Ford because the Chicago newspaper characterized him as an anarchist in an editorial published June 23, 1916.

The hearing is said to have been one of the longest on record. It produced a searching analysis of libel laws and precedent and an immense amount of testimony. Approximately 120 witnesses were heard, including Mr. Ford himself and the publishers and several editorial writers of the Tribune, and 408 exhibits were put in.

Arguments will begin Thursday and continue Friday, Monday, and Tuesday.

Vigorous methods were required to complete the presentation of testimony today. Editorials were filed for use in argument without first being read and cross-examination was virtually abandoned. Four witnesses placed on the stand by counsel for the plaintiff were not permitted to testify. Judge Tucker ruling that the subjects on which they were called already had been adequately covered.

William J. Cameron, co-author of "Ford's Own Page" in The Dearborn Independent, was sworn to refute the intimation that Mr. Ford, who refused to do any reading while a witness, could neither read nor write.

"I have heard him read and seen him write," said Mr. Cameron.

C. C. De Witt, Superintendent of the Ford English school at the automobile plant, was one of the last witnesses called by the plaintiff. His testimony was designed to refute the charge of anarchy. Mr. De Witt testified that the school was instituted by Mr. Ford in 1914 to teach foreigners to read, write, and talk English, and that in 1915 the word "American" was substituted for "English."

The whole purpose of the school, witness said, was to make good Americans of the foreign-born, and every exercise by which they learned to write and speak American, he said, was designed also to instill sentiments of patriotism and give knowledge of the fundamentals of the American form of Government. Mr. De Witt said that Mr. Ford signed the diplomas.

A nine months' course, he said, gave the pupils about the same knowledge of America as would ordinarily be in possession of the average native born 8-year-old boy. The graduates automatically progress into a club where the education to make good Americans out of them continues, the witness said.

Mistaking a side driveway for the approach to the Madison Avenue Bridge, James Duffy of 31 South Ninth Street, Mount Vernon, riding in a small touring car with a party of four friends, drove the machine into the Harlem River at 137th Street yesterday morning. The five men were rescued by Patrolman Jeremiah Smith of the West 135th Street Station, and left for their homes without medical attention.

The party came to New York Monday night and were returning to their homes when the accident occurred. When they were carried into the river they called for help and clung to dock pillars until Patrolman Smith arrived and rescued them. The touring car was not recovered

2D DIVISION PARADE TO BE HELD FRIDAY

25,000 MEN WILL BE IN LINE

To Start from Washington Square—Will Equal Those for 27th and 77th.

Arrangements were completed yesterday by the Mayor's Committee of Welcome to Homecoming Troops, working in conjunction with the military authorities, for the parade of the famous 2d Division of Regulars, one-third of whom are marines, which has been set by Secretary of War Baker for Friday afternoon. The Mayor's Committee announced that every effort would be put forth to make the parade as gala an occasion as marked the victory parades of the 27th and 77th Divisions.

The parade will be reviewed by Secretary Baker, Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt, and Major Gen. Barnett, Commandant of the Marine Corps.

Mayor Hylan also has extended invitations to President Wilson, members of the Cabinet, and prominent army and navy officials to view the parade from the official grand stand, which will be erected in front of the Public Library.

Major Gen. John A. Lejeune, commander of the division, accepted Mayor Hylan's proffer of offices in the Hall of Records for a headquarters, and yesterday Colonel H. B. Myers, Chief of Staff of the division, detailed a staff of officers and enlisted men to arrange for the various details of the parade. A small stand will be built for the use of the friends and relatives of the men, few of whom come from this State.

The parade, which is to commence at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, will start, as did the victory marches of the 27th and 77th Divisions, at Washington Square and proceed up Fifth Avenue as far as 110th Street, where the men will be dismissed. Of the 25,000 or more men in line, only Major Gen. Lejeune, his staff—who will lead the parade—and the brigade commanders and their staffs will be mounted during the review.

The fighters will be brought from Camp Merritt and Camp Mills, where they have been quartered, to armories in Manhattan tomorrow night. After the review the 8,800 marines will start for the Marine Barracks at Quantico, Va., while the infantry and artillery forces will be sent to Camp Merritt for demobilization. More than 3,000 members of the division, belonging principally to the 2d Ammunition Train, arrived here yesterday on the Finland.

$1,000 FINE AND JAIL FOR SALOON MAN

GRANTS STAY OF TEN DAYS

Counsel for Defendant, in Plea, Declares Proof of Intoxicant Was Not Shown.

Ruling that the wartime prohibition law is constitutional, Federal Judge Wilson yesterday fined John H. Voege, proprietor of the saloon at 112 Centre Street, known as "Tom Foley's," $1,000 and sentenced him to six months' imprisonment for selling a glass of whisky on July 3, three days after the law went into effect. The court granted a stay of ten days to permit counsel for Voege to appeal to the Circuit Court.

The complainants against Voege were Pasquale Pigniuolo and Joseph Tucker, special agents of the Department of Justice. Their testimony was to the effect that they had entered the saloon together, that Pigniuolo had ordered whisky, and that Tucker had ordered vichy and milk. A bottle had been placed upon the counter, out of which Pigniuolo had poured a drink into a glass, and had afterward transferred the liquor to a vial which he had brought along for the purpose. Pigniuolo had not tasted the liquor, but had carried it away with him and submitted it afterward to a Government chemist named Hubbard. The latter stated that he had analyzed it and found that it contained alcohol. This was all the evidence submitted to the jury by Federal Prosecutors Matthews and Fine, except a statement by the Government agents that the liquor served Pigniuolo smelled like whisky.

John M. Moore, counsel for the defendant, asked the court to direct the jury to acquit his client on the ground that the material served was not intoxicating and that the Government had failed to show that it contained enough alcohol, if any, to cause intoxication. He also founded his motion to the court to direct an acquittal on the ground that the law prohibited the sale of intoxicants and that the sale and purchase of them as evidence were not prohibited.

The jury shortly returned a verdict against the defendant, and the court remarked that no matter what private opinion might be, one has no right to disobey a constitutional statute. Pending the appeal Voege was paroled in the custody of counsel.

The severity of the sentence occasioned surprise, because Federal Judge Foster recently imposed a fine of $10 on a man who had pleaded guilty of violating the law.

A fact: Not only at leading hotels such as these, but at literally hundreds of other prominent places, where one would think only expensive cigarettes would be popular, Fatima, an inexpensive cigarette, is one of the leaders.

In fact, our sales records show more and more places, such as fashionable summer and winter resorts, colleges, and leading clubs, at which Fatima is now in first place.

"Just enough Turkish"

Hotel statistics such as these are, of course, rather conclusive, since they show the smoking preference of so many men, whether traveling or at home.

These men can afford any cigarette they like. Hence the fact that at so many of these prominent places Fatima now outsells all expensive straight Turkish cigarettes is very significant.

It proves unmistakably that these smokers find something in Fatima's famous "just-enough-Turkish" blend* that other cigarettes (even the more expensive ones) do not give them. They like Fatima; and more than that, they find that Fatima treats them right—gives them the option of smoking at will, without worry about "when" or "how many".

BOARD VOTES FOR CITY BUS LINES

TO BE REVENUE PRODUCER

Proposal Is for Municipally Controlled System in All Five Boroughs.

If a proposal made yesterday by Mayor Hylan to the Board of Estimate goes through, the city will establish in all five boroughs a municipally controlled motor bus system to compete with the traction companies. The board voted unanimously in favor of the plan, and the proposal was left to the Commissioner of Plant and Structures to make it feasible.

The subject came before the Board in the form of a resolution which the Mayor had prepared, together with a letter in which the Mayor said the only quick solution of the transit problem was for the city to enter the transit field. When the Commissioner of Plant and Structures makes his report, the Board of Estimate will authorize the money to put the plan in operation. The Mayor believes his plan will be a revenue producer for the city. This is the resolution:

Resolved, by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, that the Commissioner of Plant and Structures be and is hereby directed to proceed to make a comprehensive study of the existing transit facilities in all boroughs, and the available statistics relating thereto, and to submit to this board a report thereon, with recommendations for the establishment of motor bus lines of transportation throughout the five boroughs, to be owned and operated by the city in order to meet the needs of the people; such report to indicate the routes of such lines, the estimated cost of equipment and of annual operation, with estimated revenue, as well as a request for the authorization (on a "revenue producer" basis) which would be required to effect the establishment of such routes; and be it further

Resolved, that the Corporation Counsel be directed to assist the Commissioner in the matter.

Move Against Fare Increases.

"City of New York,
"Aug. 5, 1919.

"To the Members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

"Gentlemen: The question of providing adequate transit facilities for the people is becoming more acute as the time passes.

"The traction interests have been permitted to charge the people for transfers, and are proposing to increase fares. I intend to fight to the last ditch any attempt to increase fares, as there is no necessity for such increase.

"From various sections of the five boroughs there is continuous complaint of overcrowding during rush hours and of too few trains at other periods of the day and night.

"It appears to me that the only quick solution of the problem lies in the city entering the transit field. This may be accomplished, I believe, without excessive or prohibitive expenditure, and should, with proper planning and adequate supervision, become an immediate source of revenue to the city.

"The Commissioner of Plant and Structures, who now has under his jurisdiction the bridges, ferries and bridge car line, should also have under his jurisdiction such additional transit facilities as are to be operated municipally. He should be directed to immediately proceed to make a comprehensive study of the existing transit systems in all boroughs and the available statistics relating thereto, with the object of reporting to the board, as soon as possible, his recommendations for the establishment of motor bus lines of transportation throughout the five boroughs; these to be owned and operated by the city in order to meet the needs of the people by abolishing the existing overcrowding and providing proper and sufficient service at all points.

"His report to the board should indicate the proposed routes of such motor bus lines, with the estimated cost of the necessary equipment, together with the probable annual cost of operation and the estimated revenue, as well as a request for the authorizations, (on a "revenue producer" basis) which would be required to effect the establishment of the proposed routes.

"The Corporation Counsel should also be directed to assist the Commissioner in the matter.

"When the Commissioner's report is received by this board authorization in accordance with Section 189 of the Charter to the extent of the sum available in the debt limit could be approved for those routes which the board would sanction.

"In order to give effect to the above suggestions, I attach for the consideration of the board a resolution which, if adopted, will direct the Commissioner of Plant and Structures to proceed as indicated above, and also direct the Corporation Counsel to assist him in this matter.

Very truly yours,
"JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor."

Moran Praises Mayor.

Before the resolution was adopted Robert L. Moran, President of the Board of Aldermen, said:

"It is about time the city took some drastic action which will prevent private companies continuing outrageous monopolies of our streets. Mayor Hylan deserves the thanks of the people for his stand."

The Commissioner of Plant and Structures, Grover A. Whalen, is in Europe, and Deputy Commissioner John Mara is in charge. How many buses would be put in operation if the plan is established no one seemed to know. It was recalled that at a recent meeting of the Board of Estimate a letter from Police Commissioner Enright was read, complaining that the number of buses on Fifth Avenue interferred with street traffic, and asking that it be reduced.

The first of the many inevitable attempts to dramatize the social and political unrest with which the whole world is a-tremble came last night to the Selwyn Theatre, when that luxurious playhouse was reopened for the season with a new three-act play by Eugene Walter. It is called "The Challenge," and gave every evidence of having been written in the same state of indecision, unresolved thought, and bewilderment which afflicts the world to which it is addressed.

Out of the welter of the play it can at least be gathered that Mr. Walter wants to lift his eloquent voice in warning to those who, from their honest yearning for social justice, would summon the proletariat to leadership—a warning that they are calling into power men unfit and untrained for leadership, men bringing in their train a very swarm of ignorance and violence and destruction, men ushering in a day when the little chap who asks only for "a little home and two kids and a nickel trolley ride on Sunday" won't have a chance.

To put his warning into play form, Mr. Walter has brought back from the wars a wounded and much decorated Captain of aviation who, even in the days of his convalescence at a far away French hospital, had asked for nothing but strength to help dethrone the invisible masters of the world who had ordered the war.

He plunges into politics, gathers a labor committee about him, elects a Socialist to the Governorship of the State—and then, when that Governor sells out to the old ring, finds himself an outcast from his own followers who, distrusting him because of the class that bred him and bitter in their disappointment, turn from him to follow the preachers of violence and destruction. All this in a play too preoccupied with its own unassimilated propaganda to be a particularly good play but which has several scenes of extraordinary dramatic power because Eugene Walter wrote it.

There are a good many evidences that Mr. Walter has tried to play fair in "The Challenge," but it is probable that the radicals in its future audiences, representing rather the touchier and more suspicious wing of political opinion, will be profoundly irritated at some of his goings-on. It will infuriate them, for instance, to have the Socialist Governor turn out to be venal for Mr. Walter's convenience, and they will hiss loudly at the suggestion made by one of the characters, with the playwright's connivance if not his assent, that the mere election of a Socialist Governor means a reign of terror in which all radicals will stick their heads out of windows at their peril. The radicals will also be restive under the disposition of "The Challenge" to regard radicalism and dirty collars as inevitable associates.

The conservatives, on the other hand, might prefer to have their wing represented by at least one character who could present their case well, and by at least one character who uses something besides bribery and corruption to defend society.

The ex-soldiers at "The Challenge" will be a little surprised to find themselves all suspected of revolutionary infection, whereas most of them, of course, are so unaffectedly delighted to get back into civilian life that they cannot see anything the matter with it. The feminists, too, will be exasperated by having the heroine of the play one of the slinking and weepy sort who simply cannot understand what it's all about.

Oh, there are a lot of people who will be annoyed by "The Challenge." Possibly Holbrook Blinn will be among them, for whereas he is presented as the star of the play, that is just one of the little and not altogether unfamiliar fictions of the billboards and the programs. The indisputably stellar rôle of Mr. Walter's play is not that entrusted to Mr. Blinn, but rather the one so admirably played by the gifted Allan Dinehart. Mr. Blinn is acceptable in a distinctly secondary part and, though Jessie Glendinning took the leading feminine—ever so feminine—rôle at the eleventh hour, she comes of too good stock in the theatre to be troubled by that. Her performance is altogether charming. David Landau and Charles A. Sellon do wonders with two little parts, and, indeed, "The Challenge" is generally well played.

Its second act is the best newspaper office scene staged in New York in many a day, though, of course, it was not as wildly applauded last night as the scenes upholstered with flowered cretonne. For some inscrutable reason, a first night audience on Broadway is always moved to great enthusiasm by the sight of flowered cretonne.

AGREEMENT MAY RESULT.

Equity Actors and Managers Are to Confer Again Today.

A meeting of the Actors' Equity Association, at which the results of the present conferences with the managers will be communicated to the members, will take place at the Hotel Astor tomorrow afternoon. The second conference between the actors and the managers is scheduled for this afternoon, and it is generally believed that an agreement will be reached. Should such not be the case, however, the actors' meeting tomorrow will decide upon further action.

The actors' organization announced yesterday that John Drew and Robert B. Mantell were the latest players to express approval of the stand taken by the association. Sixty-three members, it was said, were added to the association yesterday.

Schuyler Ladd Back from Overseas.

Schuyler Ladd, who is remembered here for his performance as The Daffodil in "The Yellow Jacket," has returned to New York after two years' service overseas. He was first a Sergeant in the hospital service, and more recently has been playing before the American troops in France and Germany at the head of his own company.

RUNYON'S PLATFORM OUT.

Says He Will Fight New York Tax Law for Commuters.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 5.—Governor Runyon today took up the subject of the commuters' interests, in announcing the platform upon which he expects to win the Republican nomination for Governor at the coming primaries.

He came out for suffrage and declared that prohibition is a national, not a State issue. He favored immediate improvement to highways and bridges, and the construction of tunnels. Regarding the commuters' interests, the platform reads:

"The interest of those citizens of New Jersey doing business in New York were seriously jeopardized recently by the passage of a law in the latter State which not only imposed a burdensome tax upon our citizens, who must, of necessity pay taxes in their home State, but unjustly discriminated against New Jersey citizens by denying them the same exemptions afforded the citizens of New York under the same law.

"It was my duty and privilege to protest to the Governor of New York against this condition, with the result that the unfairness to New Jersey citizens in the matter of exemption was admitted, and the probability of remedy was indicated. The Legislature of New York met in special session and adjourned without action upon the subject, and it is apparent that the Legislature will not be again convened before the regular session next Winter.

"New Jersey has already undertaken to contest the law in question in the courts, and I favor such legislation as may be necessary to bring about a different attitude on the part of New York toward a matter of such grave concern to so many of our citizens."

Chinese Friends of Irish Freedom.

Fifty Chinamen made application to the Malachi, the great branch, of Rockaway Beach, Friends of Irish Freedom, to become members of that organization. The application was presented by Charles Priestly, President of the local branch. Applications will be acted upon at the regular meeting of the branch next Friday night.

300 IN TRAFFIC COURT.

Illinois Attorney General Appears for One Defendant.

More than 300 persons appeared in the Traffic Court yesterday to answer charges brought against them. Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb presided.

One of those who appeared before him was Attorney General James Todd of Chicago, Ill., who appeared to defend his son, James Todd of 72 South Street, Flushing, L. I. The younger Todd was charged by Patrolman Patrick Crowley of Traffic R with failing to obey his signal at Sixth Avenue and Forty-fourth Street. After the son had been fined $2, Magistrate Cobb explained the workings of the court and the traffic regulations to Attorney General Todd, who said he was in New York in connection with a case being tried in the Supreme Court.

When Patrolman William M. O'Connor arraigned Harry Levine of 61 Clinton Street for leaving a horse and wagon unattended for forty minutes in front of 134 Delancey Street, he said: "His Honor, the Mayor, is particularly interested in this thoroughfare." To this the Magistrate replied: "As citizens, we are all equally interested in every thoroughfare. Whether the Mayor is or is not of no moment."

FINDS ALCOHOL KILLED 3.

Jersey Physician Reports on Investigation Into Recent Deaths.

Dr. Arthur P. Hasking, Assistant County Physician of Hudson County, reported to Police Chief Battersby in Jersey City yesterday the result of his investigation into the recent deaths of several men who had symptoms of wood alcohol poisoning. He said the autopsies revealed wood alcohol in the stomachs of three of the men.

The use of this kind of alcohol was a serious menace to the community, Dr. Hasking said. He believed its use was largely due to ignorance. Alcohol that was poison could be purchased openly and legitimately, he said, the Government allowing the use of denatured alcohol, which was 90 per cent. grain and 10 per cent. wood alcohol, for use in the trades.

OUSTING THE CAPITALISTS.

The spokesmen of the railroad Brotherhoods are frank in explaining their purposes. They say in their latest statement: "We demand that "the owners of capital, who represent "only financial interest, as distin-"guished from operating brains and "energy, be relieved from manage-"ment, receiving Government bonds "with a fixed interest return for "every honest dollar that they have "invested in the railway industry." "The owners of capital" invested in railways are not, as the Brotherhood Chiefs seem to imagine, all assembled in Wall Street. The capitalists they propose to dispossess are the 12,000,000 owners of the six billions of money deposited in savings banks; the 12,000,000 holders of life insurance policies to the amount of some $25,000,000,000; the multitude of private owners of railway bonds and stocks and the owners of shares in investment institutions.

These capitalists are represented in railway management—or were until the Government took over the lines—by men elected by their votes, directly or indirectly, to be members of boards of directors. It is the opinion of the Brotherhood Chiefs that among these millions upon millions of persons interested or actively concerned in railway management there is neither skill, energy, nor brains. The Chiefs say that the men actively engaged in conducting the railroad industry must be chosen "not from Wall Street, but "from the railroad offices and yards "and out on the railroad lines," for "these represent all the brains, skill, "and energy that there is in the busi-"ness." The men of the offices and the yards and the lines undoubtedly have skill, brains, and energy, they also have experience in the business of operation. That business, however, would be to the very last degree easy and simple compared with the financial problems that would concern the new "democratic" management of the railways.

As the Brotherhood men see it, this, too, would be simple. Perhaps they underestimate the magnitude and difficulty of financing the railroads under a system of joint control by Government directors, labor party directors, and officials. Their plan is to get rid of the present owners of railway capital by giving them Government bonds in exchange for their securities. They talk of a 4 per cent. bond. As the savings banks, insurance companies, and private owners might not accept a 4 per cent. Government bond, the transaction would have to be put through by a forced exchange. This would be taking property without due process of law, but when "democratization" of industries is in the wind the Constitution, of course, would have to be set aside.

In the literature of the "Plumb Plan League" we are assured that "the "public can obtain the money to pur-"chase the lines at 4 per cent., where-"as the public is now charged rates "to guarantee the roads 6½ per cent. "on their money." Where would "the public" obtain money to purchase the lines at 4 per cent.? Nowhere but from itself; there is in all the world no other source from which it could be drawn. What it means is that the Brotherhood Chiefs would have the Government issue bonds at 4 per cent. in exchange for the eighteen or twenty billions of outstanding railway securities, and whenever money was wanted to operate or extend the lines more bonds would be put out. Men skilled in finance and of such absolute integrity of mind that they would not attempt to deceive the Brotherhood Chiefs will enlighten them, if they wish for enlightenment, as to the certain consequences of an attempt by the Government to issue 4 per cent. bonds to the amount of $20,000,000,000 in addition to its present war debt of more than $25,000,000,000. For national defense, to deliver the Government of the United States and the liberties of the citizens from dire peril, that great sum might be obtained, but not at 4 per cent. But this new debt is to be incurred not for national defense, but for an adventure in Government ownership and in the "democratization" of industry which every man of observation and common sense knows would be foredoomed to disastrous failure. To get money at 4 per cent. the investment must be secure beyond all chance or question. With the Russian example of democratization of industry fresh in mind and still before its eyes, the American public would not be very eager to supply money at 4 per cent. or any other rate for the purpose of putting the railroads into the hands of the representatives of labor and the politicians.

It is very evident that the radical wing of the labor party in England has imparted its ideas to the representatives of the Brotherhoods. The program of that party declares that "the "individualist system of capitalist pro-"duction, based on the private owner-"ship and competitive administration "of land and capital," has or will have "received a death blow." Also "the labor party stands not merely "for the principle of the common "ownership of the nation's land to be "applied as suitable opportunities oc-"cur, but also specifically for the "immediate nationalization of rail-"ways, mines, and the production of "electric power."

It is plainly a venture into radical socialism that the Brotherhood Chiefs propose; more than that, it is a very long step toward the principles of LENIN and TROTZKY and of Soviet Government. The plan is so violently at war with all human experience and human reason that the impression gains strength that the Brotherhood Chiefs, who are men of undoubted intelligence, do not for a moment believe that they are going to put it through. It is coming to be looked upon as a method they have devised for frightening Congress into granting their new demands for wage increase, which it is estimated would call for an appropriation by Congress of about $800,000,000 of the taxpayers' money.

THE AMERICAN ARMY.

It may be assumed that the bill introduced in the Senate by Mr. WADSWORTH of New York to provide the nation with an army of 1,250,000 men immediately available for defense has the approval of President WILSON, who laid down this principle recently: "If you say, 'We shall not have any "war,' you have got to have the "force to make that 'shall' bite." He was speaking of the League of Nations. "The rest of the world, if "America takes part in this thing, "will have the right," he observed, "to expect from her that she contrib-"ute her element of force to the gen-"eral understanding." And those who lament this may be reminded that if there were no League, or if America should stay out, we should need a much larger army.

The bill presented for the consideration of Congress was framed by the General Staff. It proposes a regular army of 510,000, to be raised by enlistment, and intensive military training for three months of youths in their nineteenth year, the number of whom in the country fit for instruction is estimated at 600,000 annually. This simple plan would supply material for a large army, since it is not to be supposed that the United States will soon be involved in another great war. In the preparation of the measure General PERSHING was not consulted, from which it may be inferred that the proposal is tentative. He will be heard, of course, in due time. Any sincere attempt to solve the problem of universal training is welcome. Those who have advocated putting all young Americans between the ages of 18 and 21 into camps for a term of instruction annually may think that the Senate bill is not comprehensive enough, but they should remember that in the event of a sudden war in the next two or three years most of the 4,000,000 men who fought in France or were being held in readiness for active service would be available if they should be needed.

This bill as drafted aims to create a military policy for the United States and looks to the future. In operation it would lightly touch the industrial welfare of the country. Six hundred thousand youths of 19 could be spared for three months from the farm, the factory, and the shop. Those in the colleges could surely be excused for so short a time of service, and if the training were to be carried on during the Summer they would miss nothing of the academic course. It would be superfluous to expatiate upon the physical benefit the young men of 19 would derive from three months' intensive training under competent drill masters and instructors.

In introducing the bill Senator WADSWORTH said that he did not approve of all its provisions, but as a "decided step" in the direction of a national army he commended it emphatically. The term of training will be criticised as too short. Six months has been more in favor, but General LEONARD WOOD can be quoted as saying that the 10th Division was well trained in four months. However, it must be considered that it was prepared for immediate service, and that every man from Major General to private was concentrating all his faculties upon the work soon to be done upon the battlefields of France. Congress may decide to extend the training course for a month or more. The fact of the matter is, that for modern warfare soldiers cannot be trained too much, particularly the infantry. But no one wants anything approaching militarism in this country; a short period of intensive training is all that can be expected. Perhaps a defect in the measure is that it provides that "no person upon the completion of "his training shall be liable for fur-"ther training or any service in time "of peace without his consent." The good effect of three months in camp might wear thin in many cases, and it would be well to add a month in a second year. Certainly the young soldier would be the better for a brief supplementary term.

It may be doubted whether a regular army of 510,000 men could be raised by enlistment. In the pacific years before the war it was hard work to keep an army of less than a fifth of that strength going. A small regular army and a large number of young men intensively trained has been the plan of some very good authorities for an American defense force. There will be a demand in Congress to sanction no larger regular army than would suffice for the continental United States and its possessions overseas, but if the regular army is to be kept down to two or three hundred thousand men there should be more young men intensively trained than is proposed in this bill. We should have a force exceeding a million soldiers ready for a call to the colors in a great emergency.

MR. HENDERSON'S PREDICTION.

Mr. ARTHUR HENDERSON tells his fellow-Socialists in conference assembled at Lucerne that "a terrible spasm of "rage and despair among the peoples "of Europe" is due in a few months, and that what is left of civilization is likely to go down under the shock. It would seem that he thinks this terrible spasm will be caused by reaction against the terms of a treaty which aims at the securing of European safety against German vindictiveness, and by sympathy for the evangelists of the new day who still flourish in Russia.

His colleague M. VANDERVELDE is not so optimistic. Having seen Belgium overrun by the German armies, and having observed that no Socialists gave way to terrible spasms of rage and despair on that occasion, he observes that the Internationale cannot be reconstituted until the question of responsibility for the war is settled. At the Socialist conference at Berne this question was evaded by the Germans, who showed much agility in dodging away from it. Mr. HENDERSON did not seem much perturbed over the responsibility for the war on that occasion, nor is he now. But if the responsibility for the war is dragged out into the light, so that the Germans are forced to admit that it lies in varying degree on the whole German people—Kaisers, Industrialists, Junkers, Socialists, and all—there will be somewhat less reason for the rest of Europe to go into spasms of sympathy for Germany. Mr. HENDERSON knows who started the war, but he seems to be willing to pass over the matter in the interests of harmony, and let the spasms come.

M. VANDERVELDE also points out that there is no meeting-ground between the old Internationale, the orthodox Socialists who expected the proletarian dictatorship to come about peacefully when the great majority of the people were proletarians convinced of the desirability of a revolution, and the Third Internationale, assembled not long ago at Moscow. This new Internationale of LENIN'S would have immediate revolution by tanks and machine guns, put through at once by any class-conscious minority which has machine guns enough. Mr. HENDERSON is a lay preacher. On which side will he be? Or will he still try to reconcile the irreconcilable and do what he can to stimulate the spasms?

THE HISTORIC CALM.

Upon nerves rudely jangled by strikes and the rumors of strikes, by the high cost of living and the higher cost of dying as foreshadowed by the undertakers' association, the cabled accounts of England's boating pageant on the historic Thames falls like a remembered smile. It is not well to forget that this world is rather old, and that it has somehow managed to conserve much of the nobility and beauty of the past.

The barge which led the procession was itself historic, having previously been used on the Thames by no less than nine monarchs of England. It was decked in scarlet and gold, and was propelled by eight oarsmen in red coats, modern reminders of the once famous watermen of Blackfriars and Bankside. Under a canopy in the stern sat the present King and Queen. Through the water behind it another barge carrying the Lords of the Admiralty drove its great golden prow, surmounted by a lofty figurehead. But not everything was of the ancient day—England is modern or it is nothing. The whole pageant, in fact, was a commemoration of the men of the navy who, such a little while ago, fought the undersea pirates of Germany, together with the merchant sailors who never hesitated to take ship even when the peril was greatest. For each company in the merchant marine there was only a single lifeboat of sailors; yet the procession stretched out as far as eye could reach until it seemed there was no end to them—seventy transatlantic companies were represented. Large vessels were, of course, impossible on that miniature river; but there were an armored motor launch and two "decoys" of the kind so successfully used in trapping submarines. And the whole waterway was policed by "scooters," the fastest submarine chasers afloat. There are times when it seems that the peace may be lost; but no one who saw that pageant, even in the distant light of imagination, can doubt that the war is won. Over the universe, at least for the moment, brooded the great, historic calm.

There were other reassuring details. The strike among the London Bobbies once loomed black in the offing. Well, the familiar bluecoats were present as heretofore in the crowds that lined the shore, though there was nothing whatever for them to do in that radiant, peace-acclaiming throng. An England is unthinkable in which the Bobby is militant; but the London in which he walks repentant among an orderly populace is the London of old. On this other side of the Atlantic we have a less ancient lineage, a less colorful pageant of history. But it is well to remember that among the five great Governments that fought the war ours is the second in age.

THE SENATE'S NEGLECTED DUTY.

Secretary TUMULTY announced yesterday that Mr. WILSON will hold no more conferences with Republican and Democratic Senators on the League of Nations, but will "give his "whole time to the question of the "high cost of living."

The Senate should profit by an example which is an unconscious but evident reproach to the bitter partisan opposition, the long, rambling shilly-shallying of the Republican Senators, that has prevented the ratification of the Treaty of Peace. In these weeks and weeks of ineffectual denunciation and dawdling, the Republicans have worked themselves into a state of extreme irritation. They have created in the Senate and in the country a feeling of impatience. The people have waited vainly for action on the Treaty. It might long ago have been disposed of and the Senate could have been at work on the instant domestic problems to which it can now turn only a divided mind, heated by political prejudice, querulous, suspicious, without proper sense of proportion.

If the Republicans had not worked themselves into this narrow and intransigent spirit, if they had complied with the public desire and need for quick ratification, they might before this have planned and accomplished something practical toward the reduction of the cost of living. Lessening of Government expenses and appropriations is one obvious form of such reduction. Senator PENROSE, the wisest head on the Republican side, saw the importance of doing that. Senator LODGE, who seems to inherit something of the arrogant egoism of CHARLES SUMNER, has led the Republicans, so far as a flock straying in all directions can be said to be led, into a futile, blind, and barren antagonism to Mr. WILSON. The Republicans in the Senate have left undone the things they should have done. They approach the economic problem of the increased price of the necessaries of life in the same condition of exacerbated partisanship in which they have considered the League of Nations.

So long as the Treaty is unratified the public will be uneasy, nervous, anxious. That cause of public uneasiness, nervousness, anxiety, can be and should be removed immediately. The domestic reasons for public concern, the matters that come to every man's business and bosom and pocketbook, the perilous schemes of Socialism, Syndicalism, and not too deeply cloaked Bolshevism that are now proposed are more than enough in themselves gravely and deeply to perturb the public. They are more than momentous enough to require from Congress its serious, undivided thought and effort, its best energies, a patriotism devoid as far as possible of partisanship. The Treaty should be ratified at once, to the end that to these grave matters Congress should give, as Mr. WILSON is giving, its whole time.

THE MIDDLE-CLASS PROTEST.

Very impressive is the evidence of social injustice which is focused in the three letters published in yesterday's TIMES. Railway shop workers who are receiving $140 a month or $1,680 a year demand $175 a month or $2,100 a year, and demand in addition a lump sum of back pay at the increased rate, which amounts to $245. "A Real American" states that he lives on less than $140 a month and points to the fact that millions of other professional and business men do likewise and make no complaint, though their life is "a hard job." A skilled stenographer who receives $30 a week, or less than the present pay of a shop worker, sees people all about who receive more than he does for what used to be called "cheap labor," and wonders at a world that sets so little value upon ability, diligence, and loyalty in brain labor. A young law clerk of 28, who, at the expense of seven years and of at least as many thousands of dollars, has graduated from college and the law school, receives $15 a week for his services as A. B. and LL. B. What makes the statements of these writers impressive is the fact that they utter little or no complaint against the size of the salaries they receive. The bitterness of their lot lies in the fact that the ever-increasing demands of the hand laborer are reflected in the price of commodities, so that they are in effect robbed of their incomes.

There is a deeper injustice involved of which, as it seems, none of the writers is even dimly aware. As a nation we give no heed to the economic condition of the brain worker. In the current number of The Monthly Labor Review the United States Commissioner of Labor Statistics, ROYAL MEEKER, reports as the result of an exhaustive scientific inquiry that the laborer with three children, in order that all may be "fully nourished" and "properly clothed," must be paid over $1,800 a year. This is perhaps $200 a year more than "A Real American" spends, and many a professor in our leading universities; yet if any bureau at Washington considers their plight the fact has not been promulgated. Our official investigators limit their inquiries to a single class, and they blandly publish results that give that class official, and professedly scientific, sanction for its demands. The case of the university teacher seems in a fair way to betterment through the efforts of loyal graduates. But the case of doctors, ministers, and professional and business men generally is utterly neglected.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

His Crime Excites No Horror.

When a considerable number of a town's influential citizens go to the trouble and expense of hiring a band to head the long procession in which they escort to the jail door a man who has been sentenced to ten days' imprisonment for contempt of court, and when they promise in eloquent orations, as he stands on the gloomy threshold of his dungeon cell, that when he has "served his time" his liberation will be celebrated with even more impressive ceremonies—when all this happens, it might be expected to be to the Judge who imposed the sentence a cause of rather serious thought.

The Judge has more than excuse, for instance, to ask himself if he has not made a mistake. Should he answer that question in the negative, it is hard to see how, in consistency, he can refrain from imposing at least equal sentences of imprisonment on all of the influential citizens who took part in these obviously invidious proceedings. Every one of them, by marching in the procession and applauding the speeches, made public and defiant expression of approval of what the Judge had declared contempt of court, and that, whether or not it be contempt of court as technically defined, was nothing else in reality and was intended to be just that.

There are practical reasons, however, why large numbers of people cannot be adjudged in contempt of court, or at any rate why they cannot be punished for it in the usual way. These reasons the Judge who sent the Memphis editor to jail—and fame—is pondering, no doubt somewhat disconsolately, in full realization of his helplessness.

A Plausible Claim of Privilege.

What EDWARD T. LEECH, the Memphis editor, did to earn his not altogether unhappy fate was to write an article for his paper dealing in a general way with political conditions in his city. He mentioned no names and he used no terms distinctly unparliamentary. He claims, not without a certain plausibility, that his purpose was to protect and serve public interests and to bring about a reform of long-standing abuses, some of them connected with the exercise of judicial functions and the execution of the law.

So far as can be seen from a distance, Mr. LEECH did no more than use the privileges of a free press as they have always been used in this country. The Judge whom he offended decided that more than this was done—that the contempt, though committed out of court, was of the court, and of that particular Judge's court, too, and penalized it.

He may have been right. On general principles one wants to think so, but to do it is made a bit difficult by the manifestation of public sentiment that marked the beginning of the editor's incarceration. For a bad man and a miserable sinner, he seems strangely popular among his fellow-citizens—strangely, that is, unless they, too, are all bad men and miserable sinners, which does not seem quite as probable as do some other things.

His Truth Seems Irrelevant.

Senator GRONNA of North Dakota is one of those who do not share the high opinion of Mr. HOOVER'S abilities, purposes, and achievements that is entertained by several millions of people in more than a few countries. Those millions believe, whether correctly or not, that Mr. HOOVER saved the lives of a good many of them, and made tolerable for many more life that otherwise would have been desperately hard to bear.

But Senator GRONNA made in the Senate, this week, a statement which, unlike most of those made by Mr. HOOVER'S other enemies and critics, is unquestionably true. He said that "never in the history of this country has the consumer had to pay higher prices for certain articles than during the time Mr. HOOVER was at the head of the so-called Food Department."

All of us had noticed that fact—noticed it with regret and even with pain in that peculiarly sensitive viscus, the pocketbook. But, unlike the Senator, most other people have ascribed high prices to other causes than Mr. HOOVER'S administration of the so-called Food Department, and had no more thought of blaming him for them than for the exceptional number of deaths on the battlefield that also were contemporaneous with his control of foods.

On the contrary, it has been, and is, a common assumption that while Mr. HOOVER could not prevent the prices of food from being high, while the war was on, he did exercise an appreciable, even a considerable, influence, while his power lasted, in the way of preventing those prices from reaching the dizzy altitudes to which there is more than excuse for believing they would have risen had not he or somebody else taken the measures he did to prevent it.

A Deserter Goes Unpunished.

For once the iron of military law has been softened by the solvent action of common sense. Four years ago a certain JOHN E. SHEA, a private in the Thirtieth Regiment of United States Infantry, deserted. There is no question that he deserted—none that he is guilty of an offense about as serious as a soldier can commit.

But he deserted to Canada, joined a Canadian regiment, went to France, saw active service in France all through the war, and for gallantry in battle was promoted to commissioned rank. Now, honorably discharged from that service, he has returned to the United States and has been awaiting what he considered the inevitable court-martial. Probably he didn't expect to be shot at sunrise, but it would not have been at all surprising if he had been sent to jail.

Instead, he has been restored to good standing on our army records and is again a private, this time in the Fiftieth Infantry.

JOHN E. SHEA is a lucky soldier as well as a good one. It would have been quite natural for somebody with a belief that "regulations are regulations" to punish him for his "crime."

STRIKE AGAINST STRIKES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wonder if it has ever occurred to the railroad employes that they have no moral right to lay down their work in which the general public has an interest, and continue to enjoy the fruits of the labor of the balance of the general public.

All of the different divisions, sections or classes of the citizens of the country are dependent upon one another. Each gets the benefit of the work of all of the others. Now, if the railroad man while trying to increase his income, instead of adopting methods in keeping with organized society, quits his work and thereby makes transportation for the farmer and the farmer's produce impossible, why should not the farmer during the strike refuse to sell the railroad striker food?

Why should not the physician refuse to attend the striker when sick? Why should not the merchant refuse to sell the striker groceries, clothes, and other goods? Why should not the lawyer refuse to serve the striker in his line?

The striker during the strike has ceased to function as a part of the body politic—generally goes further and sees to it that nobody else functions in his place—why should he expect to draw his share of the benefits of organized society during the strike?

The labor unions, particularly those operating the railroads, have grown more persistent and more defiant of law by leaps and bounds of late (see resolutions passed at Atlantic City recently); they have respected no other appeal; listened to no other argument. Is it not time the balance of the people gave them an opportunity to learn by experience what it is to be cut off from part or all of the benefits of society; that they may thereby be induced to use methods used by other people for obtaining their ends, and while at it continue to do their duty by the public if they wish to get the reciprocal benefits from the public?

When they declare themselves outside the law by their resolutions in their strikes, why not take them at their word?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While we are vociferously shouting for self-determination of foreign peoples, I feel it may not be amiss to give heed to the disfranchised citizens of our own country—the traveling men, who cannot vote because their work takes them away from the polls.

With every anarchist, illiterate, anti-American, and un-American voting, is it not a reflection on our State that a set of men most eminently fit for the franchise are treated like aliens or worse?

ALBERT ABRAMS.
New York, Aug. 3, 1919.

OUR ENEMIES.

Oh, humankind, all you who must agree
On what is progress and true happiness,
Rise in your might and earnest faith confess
In this brave Treaty, which on land and sea
Protects all interests and all sovereignty!
Rise in your horror of war's pestilence—
Its devastation, sacrifice and cost!
Denounce our traitors ere the cause be lost
And strife return with fouler consequence!
Shall suffering, dying, doomed humanity
Shall Politicians rule our noble land
While still our flag, the emblem of the brave,

Oh, humankind, all you who know the pain
Of brutal warfare, all its agony,
The gaping wounds it leaves, the treachery
'Twixt land and land, will you permit again
Such wretched contest? What, pray, will restrain
The hand of hate, save this, a holy pact
That binds the nations? What will render weak
The swords of fiends? What other power wreak
Complete disaster on the first vile act
That threatens danger? They who strive and strain
To kill the Treaty are our enemies!
Our country's foes who, with conspiracies,
Struggle to see a Party's flag unfurled
Though it may wreck the peace of all the world!

Oh, humankind, all you who burn with fire
Of great ambitions, honest purposes,
Sensing the full of human energies
And thralled with righteous, vigorous desire,
Say you with truth that your torn souls require
A further scourging? Has not war sufficed—
Grim, bloody war, beset with savageries,
Outrageous plottings, foul atrocities?—
A war whose dastard practices enticed
The very fiends of Hades to aspire
To make earth hellish? Must again this be?
Must history repeat this page of misery
Because these few whose hearts have gone astray
Put politics above men's lives today?

Settles Here "Gentleman's Agreement" for Aviation Supplies.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Payment was made in New York City Saturday of $35,176,123.10 by the British Government in liquidation of the amounts due the War Department for aviation supplies. This settlement was based on the liquidation agreement made by Chester W. Cuthell, special representative of the Secretary of War, with Lord Inverforth, British Minister of Munitions.

In announcing the settlement the War Department made public this report, in part, from Mr. Cuthell to Secretary Baker:

"My Dear Mr. Secretary:

"I have the honor to report to you that in accordance with the agreement negotiated by me as your special representative with Lord Inverforth, the Minister of Munitions of War for Great Britain, on May 10, 1919, I received payment in New York on Saturday of the full amount owing to the War Department.

"The payment was made in checks drawn by the First National Bank of New York on the Federal Reserve Bank to the order of the Treasury of the United States.

Liberty motors..............	$13,672,518.90
Airplane spruce..............	13,274,550.20
Wood distillates..............	2,887,554.00
Nitrocellulose powder..........	4,690,000.00
Cotton linters pool............	651,500.00
Total....................	$35,176,123.10

"There are still a few matters for discussion with the British War Mission relating to war supplies furnished by the War Department, but they are merely invoicing matters and present no unusual difficulties.

"The settlement is, I believe, without precedent in that a Government has recognized obligations, based almost entirely on verbal statements, to contribute to losses sustained by an ally in the production of war materials beyond its own needs. It is likewise without precedent in our country as to the amount of money involved, and because of the fact that no recourse was had to any international tribunal.

"I believe the result which has been accomplished has justified your expressions of approval of the work of my assistants, Mr. Ralph W. Gwynn of New York, Mr. Miller D. Steever of Pittsfield, Mass.; Mr. William Fisher of Pensacola, and Mr. F. C. Weems of New York.

"Very truly yours,
"CHESTER W. CUTHELL."

National Chairman is Pleased with Swope's Victory in Kentucky.

Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, who returned yesterday from a two weeks' visit in the West, said that the Republican victory in the Eighth Congressional District of Kentucky, could not be regarded except as a good omen for the Republicans.

"This district," Mr. Hays said, "was carried by the Democratic candidate last November by 1,597. It has long been Democratic. The Republican candidate was elected last Saturday, at a special election, by about 1,700. Think it over."

The Eighth Kentucky District recorded a Republican victory once before. This was in 1896—the year William J. Bryan was the Democratic candidate for President.

The successful Republican candidate last Saturday, was Captain King Swope, who ran on an anti-league and soldiers' bonus platform. His opponent was Circuit Judge Charles A. Hardin of Harrodsburg, who is Chairman of the Democratic State Committee.

FOSS TO SEEK 4TH TERM.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Eugene N. Foss, who served as Governor in 1911, 1912, and 1913, announced today that he would be a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination at the primaries next month on a platform of public ownership of public utilities.

"Citizens from all over the State, irrespective of party, have signified their belief that I could be of service to the people in advocating public ownership of street railways and the re-establishment of five-cent fares," Mr. Foss's announcement said.

"I know that a plan can be worked out which will be equitable and fair to everybody, by which the fare shall not exceed 5 cents. This can be done only through public ownership.

"Public ownership of public utilities, in my judgment, is the issue of the hour. The transportation question plays a very important part in the cost of the necessities of life. Primarily I am advocating public ownership of public utilities in the interest of a better democracy."

GERMANS REBUKE PRINCE.

BERLIN, Aug. 5, (Associated Press.)—Commenting on the letter written recently by Prince Henry of Prussia, brother of former Emperor William, to King George, in which he asked the British monarch "in the name of justice and in his own interests" to desist from demanding the extradition and trial of the former Emperor, saying that the truth about the war might be had from allied statesmen, the Tageblatt says it is an exhibition of "unsurpassable clumsiness."

The Vorwärts remarks that Prince Henry's charge that the principal guilt for the war may be attributed to Great Britain is without a jot of evidence. This newspaper, which is the Socialist organ, terms Henry "a danger to the German people."

Die Freiheit considers it a disgrace that a scion of the Hohenzollerns "at this time has the impudence to use such language."

Knights of Columbus Open Peace Convention at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 5.—The Peace Convention of the Knights of Columbus opened with Pontifical high mass at St. Joseph's Cathedral today. Bishop William Turner was the celebrant and the sermon was delivered by Bishop Thomas S. Shahan, rector of the Catholic University of Washington. Bishop Shahan's message was a tribute to the Knights of Columbus as a truly American and Catholic order.

At the opening business session, the principal speaker was Admiral William Shepherd Benson. James A. Flaherty, Supreme Knight, submitted his annual report. A nation-wide education plan and an extensive program to fight Bolshevism, Supreme Knight Flaherty said, were the outstanding features of the order's plans for the next year.

"The Knights of Columbus always have been and always will be on the side of order," he said. "We shall fight to the uttermost of our strength the forces of extreme radicalism and the crazy doctrines of false foreign philosophers who seek to spread their pernicious propaganda on our free soil."

HEARING ON TREATY BECOMES HEATED

DENY EUROPE'S CLAIMS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—A clash between Norman H. Davis, a financial adviser of the American peace delegation, and Republican members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee marked today's hearing before the committee on the Peace Treaty.

The trouble began when Mr. Davis ventured the opinion that the people of Europe "expect a great deal from the League of Nations."

"How do you know they do?" asked Senator Johnson of California.

"By public sentiment throughout Europe," replied Mr. Davis.

"What is the sentiment there on the League?" asked Senator Johnson.

"It is strongly for the League," responded the witness.

Then several Republican members asked in the same breath how Mr. Davis, at work in Paris, had learned that sentiment was for the League in Europe.

He replied that he had talked to a large number of well-informed persons who had been about considerably. Questioning by Senators Brandegee, Johnson, and Fall disclosed that Mr. Davis had obtained his information partly from bankers and partly from some of Herbert C. Hoover's food relief agents, stationed at various places.

"Isn't it a fact that there has been a decided change of sentiment regarding the League in England and France?" asked Senator Johnson.

"Not that I know of," replied the witness. He said the same in reply to Senator Brandegee's question regarding Italy.

United Attack on the Witness.

The questioning assumed such a turn at this point, with Mr. Davis the target for a rapid fire of inquiries from several Senators at once that Senator Hitchcock, ranking Democratic member of the committee, demanded that Senators "quit cross-examining the witness as though he were a criminal."

Senator Knox asked Mr. Davis concerning some portions of the League covenant and Mr. Davis replied he was not an expert on those. In response to Senator Knox's inquiry as to whom the committee could call who could qualify as an expert, Mr. Davis said "President Wilson."

Senator Lodge thereupon, with great heat, said:

"The President has never offered to come before this committee. He only sent a telephone message saying he'd be glad to have the committee come to the White House. We have called for paper after paper and he has not sent one."

Senator Pittman, a Democratic member, came to the President's defense by saying that in his speech to the Senate he "offered to come before the committee, and the committee paid no attention to the offer."

Resuming their discussion of European sentiment on the League, Senators Johnson and Brandegee inquired whether their great expectations regarding the League led the French people to demand an alliance with the United States and Great Britain for defense. Mr. Davis said, in his opinion the alliance was demanded rather by French Government leaders than by the people.

"If the Senate ratifies the treaty and leaves the League out, chaos will ensue in Europe?" asked Senator Brandegee.

"Without doubt the result would be terrible," replied Mr. Davis.

"Europe got along without the United States for several centuries," commented Senator Brandegee.

"But it couldn't get along without us in 1917," said Senator Hitchcock.

"Well, having saved a drowning man, we don't at once have to adopt him," replied Mr. Brandegee.

Lodge and Hitchcock Clash.

Mr. Lodge and Mr. Hitchcock also quarreled heatedly over this point, the Chairman waving his gavel so that it threatened to collide several times with Senator Hitchcock's brow.

When calm was restored, Senator Moses questioned the witness regarding the probable effect on the high cost of living in the United States of the shipment of food to Europe. Mr. Davis said, in his opinion that it would not necessarily involve any increase in prices here.

Earlier, before the League had been touched upon, Mr. Davis pointed out to the committee that the Reparation Commission, in determining the size of Germany's war bill, must be guided by "what the Allies can afford to have Germany pay."

He explained this by saying that too sudden expansion of German production and export, as a means of raising money to pay the reparation bill, would cause a "squeal" from other nations, whose foreign trade would be interfered with.

"If Germany offered to pay $40,000,000,000 the other nations would be squealing for her to stop by the time she had paid $10,000,000,000," said Mr. Davis. "Such a sudden expansion would mean that England and France would become the dumping ground for German goods."

He pointed out that Germany's war losses in territory and the payments she must make in reparation total between $30,000,000,000 and $40,000,000,000, even if no increase is made in the reparation amount. He illustrated by saying that the loss of Alsace-Lorraine meant $5,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000; loss of the Sarre Valley, $200,000,000; loss of colonies, $15,000,000,000, and bonds to be issued in reparation, $15,000,000,000, or a total of $35,200,000,000 or more.

Germany, Mr. Davis said, offered to pay about $24,000,000,000, but it was found that, with deductions she asked, this would have netted but $7,000,000,000 or $8,000,000,000 in cash, and the offer was rejected as much too low.

DEMANDS JAPAN WITHDRAW.

Senator Watson Wants Shantung Freed Before Ratification of Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Senator Watson in a Senate speech today declared the treaty provision giving Japan control in Shantung Province was "as monstrous a proposition as has ever been proposed to civilization," and said he could not vote for ratification if the Shantung section remained unamended and if Japan gave no more definite promise of restoring the province to China. In reply to a question from Senator Borah as to what sort of declaration from Japan would be satisfactory, the Indiana Senator said it would have to be one providing for withdrawal of Japanese forces prior to the Senate's action on the treaty.

Senator Hitchcock, Democrat, Nebraska, asked to what court China could bring her claims should the treaty and the League of Nations fail. In that case, Mr. Watson replied, China would have to fall back on the moral support she always had received here and elsewhere in past times, "when we had an American for President who thought of America first."

Senator Lodge said he understood that within two hours of the signing of the treaty at Versailles the Chinese delegates had offered to sign if assured they would have the right to bring the Shantung case before the League later, but that "even that was denied them."

Senator Lodge gave notice today that he would address the Senate next Tuesday on the League. As the leader of the opposition to acceptance of the covenant in its present form, he is expected to sound the keynote of the fight against unreserved ratification.

The statement from Tokio regarding Japan's intentions in Shantung reached Washington too late to receive the attention of Senators tonight. It is expected to have careful consideration in view of President Wilson's repeated statements that the complete facts in the case would place the Shantung settlement in a new light.

GEORGE W. RECTOR, PAYING ALIMONY, WEDS

George W. Rector, of restaurant fame, and Miss Mabel Sullivan, a daughter of Thomas and Mary Govern Sullivan of 2 West Sixty-seventh Street, were married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the City Hall in Jersey City, by Mayor Frank Hague. George Rurode was the official witness. Mr. Rector, the bride, and a party of friends motored in from Long Beach, L. I., filling two automobiles. As forty-eight hours must elapse, according to the law in New Jersey, after the obtaining of a license before the marriage ceremony can be performed, the license was taken out at 11 A. M. Saturday. Mr. Rector gave his age as 41 and Miss Sullivan hers as 21. After the marriage Mr. Rector and his bride, accompanied by their friends, left the City Hall, saying they were going to the Ritz-Carlton to have dinner there. They are to spend the honeymoon at Atlantic City.

Mr. Rector was divorced last year by his first wife, Mrs. Bertha Ellen Curtiss Rector, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Curtiss of Meriden, Conn., whom he had married in June, 1900, and who a few years before had been one of Anna Held's show girls, her stage name being Maud Hunter. The final decree was awarded her on July 12 last. At the time of the entering of the interlocutory decree, in May, 1918, Mr. Rector was ordered to pay Mrs. Rector $250 a month alimony. He filed an affidavit stating his income was only $2,500, and asked that the alimony be reduced to $75 a month. However, on signing the final decree on July 12 last, Judge McAvoy directed him to pay alimony to the amount of $1,000 a year.

On June 27, 1918, J. D. Kelly, the referee appointed by the Supreme Court to determine the amount of alimony, reported Mr. Rector's income as only $1,500 yearly, and stated that in 1913 Rector entered the last restaurant business, at Broadway and Forty-ninth Street, that bore his name. He was to receive a third of the profits as long as the restaurant bore his name. He received from $2,400 to $3,000 until 1916, and in 1917 he made $30,000. On the last day of June, 1918, his name was dropped, and for the six months previous he received $8,000.

He now, his affidavits state, has very little property, a place at Long Beach, L. I., a small car, which he drives, and an income insufficient for his own expenses.

THE ADVENTURES OF A NOVEL [TWO]

¶ After Mr. Sell, there was a chatty column about "The Choice" in the New York Tribune by Mr. Heywood Broun; a review headed "A Welcome Newcomer" in The Evening Sun, New York, and then came this review in The Chicago Herald-Examiner, headed "A Real Love Story":

"Here, amazing to discover, is a new novel all about respectable people behaving in respectable fashion, and yet legitimately interesting! Can the author, Maurice Weyl, of 'The Choice' be flying in the face of fiction? . . . It startles by its very simplicity, its even reality. It holds the reader absorbed while following the simple love affairs of the telephone girl, backgrounded against life as it actually is in many American homes. One recognizes these people, these homes and these states of mind . . . Like a brisk wind from the hills comes the whole thing, fresh, invigorating, stimulating. 'The Choice' is a desirable book to have on your reading table, to pass on to your friends."

¶ I am very grateful to the writer of this review.

To the Buyer who said "It can't be done?"

The opening of our ready-to-wear department created a stir in buying circles. Many buyers doubting our ability to operate successfully on a 5% profit basis remarked that "it can't be done." Some were of the opinion that we could not deliver in quantities the garments shown in this remarkable display. But,

We're doing it every day in our

Women's Ready-to-Wear Department

Not only delivery, but style—absolutely the cream of the market. And in quantities that will surprise you.

Come in and examine the lines which include dresses, coats, suits, skirts and leather coats. Compare the garments with those you may have seen elsewhere. From the standpoint of quality, of price and of delivery this merchandise cannot be excelled in this or any other market.

A Chip-on-the-shoulder attitude. Come in and we'll explain why!

Buyers Look at Ostrich Feathers.

It was estimated last night that about 100 buyers of ostrich feathers, chiefly manufacturers and importers, had visited the warehouse of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, 48-52 Great Jones Street, to examine the merchandise that will be put under the hammer there tomorrow, beginning at 10 A. M. The sale, which will include 325 lots of feathers, valued at close to $200,000, will be the second of its kind ever held here. The offerings embrace about 4,500 pounds of wings and about the same amount of body feathers, including many prime "Western marks." At the first sale 285 lots were sold in three hours and thirty minutes. This is slightly less than two lots a minute, which is the European record established after a very long period of selling feathers at auction. It is hoped to equal this mark at the coming sale. Officials in charge of the sale predict a very successful one. Fashion favors ostrich very strongly at the present time, and in Paris it is not only being used for trimming hats, dresses and other garments, but shoes as well.

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday ....5¼ p. c. for the best names
Monday ....5¼ p. c. for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

The American Woolen Company will open its lines for Spring, 1920, tomorrow. These lines, it is understood, will consist entirely of fancies. No staples will be shown, and it is believed to be the intention of the company to make no staples for the lightweight season. Allotments will be made to buyers at the time they are shown the new lines, and these allotments will be on a basis of 10 per cent. of the quantity ordinarily placed by the customer. The opening prices will show much higher ranges, it is said, than wartime values.

Woolens Open Tomorrow.

Crude Rubber Prices Easier.

Things have quieted down again in the local crude rubber trade after a little spurt for a week or ten days. Yesterday's trading was confined principally to sales between dealers, with the result that prices showed some easing off. For spot and for August and September shipments up-river fine was quoted at 55½ cents a pound, with up-river coarse and upper Caucho ball priced at 32 and 31½ cents, respectively. Spot prices on the plantation rubbers included 41¾ cents for pale crêpe and 40 cents for smoked sheets. At these quotations the local market was said to be lower than London.

Offers a Novel Vanity Case.

What is called by its makers the vanity case de luxe, and what is asserted by them to be the flattest and most commodious case of its type ever offered to the trade, has been put on the market by a local concern. It is about five inches long, three inches wide, and one-half inch thick. It is equipped with a large beveled mirror, and has receptacles for coins, bills, visiting cards, &c. The new case is offered in vachette, ecrasé, grained and Japanese leather, and also in velvet and brocaded silk. It is lined with silk moiré, and has a silver "foxtail" handle. The retail price ranges from $5 to $6.

American Lingerie for Export.

American lingerie seems to be coming a popular article in the list of items purchased in this market by foreign buyers. According to the Underwear Department of the Bush Terminal Sales Building, calls for such merchandise have been made lately with increasing frequency. Australia, Chile, England, and Hawaii are some of the countries that have been represented by buyers here to purchase the American styles. As a result of this export demand, coupled with the domestic business, these lines are reported to be very active.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Jacob Auerbach, formerly connected with the American Importing Company, 484 Broadway, is now located at 409 Broadway under the firm name of Jacob Auerbach & Son. The firm converts and jobs cotton goods.

BUSINESS WORLD

Working on Simple Fabrics.

The tendency among the woolen mills at present, it was stated yesterday, is to confine their lines to the simplest materials. One concern, for instance, that has always been known for its fine constructions—among them some satin back styles—has eliminated all such materials that are difficult to produce. This mill has cut down its sample line to one-quarter its original size by the process of elimination described.

Can't Use Cheap Goods.

Even though the consumer demand was not for high-quality fabrics in clothing, the manufacturers cannot see their way clear to use low-priced materials at the present time. The reason given for this is that with the cost of making a suit at the level it is today it would be impractical to use the cheaper goods that could have been utilized a few years ago. The same reason is said to govern the policy of the mills. With labor costs constantly increasing, the mill men choose to make fabrics of the better sort where the comparison between raw material and labor prices are more nearly on the usual basis.

Bothered Over Financing.

Some of the large mail order houses, as well as the retailers handling lines of goods that have increased considerably in value are somewhat worried over the question of financing their operations for the coming six months. This is expected to be a rather critical period for the houses that have not given deep study to the financial end of their business. The chief point in the problem is how to get money to replace stocks that are now owned. An advance of 50 per cent. in costs, it is pointed out, will mean that banks have to supply just so much more capital and, to some students of the matter, it appears doubtful if the banks will want to furnish the additional amounts.

Big Season for Women's Socks.

Predictions were made here yesterday by one of the most experienced men in the hosiery trade that the Spring, 1920, season would be unique in that it would witness the heaviest demand for women's silk socks that this market has ever seen. So big will be the call for them, he asserted, that sales will be limited only by the amount of merchandise turned out by the machines which can be devoted to them. They are made on the same machines that produce men's goods, after necessary changes have been made, and because of this the supply is expected to be considerably less than the demand. He further predicted that the socks most wanted by women would be those that retail from $2.50 a pair up, and that they would embrace all kinds of plain and fancy ribs, stitches, "clocks," &c.

Gray Goods Very Quiet.

Yesterday the local market for gray goods was distinguished chiefly by "watchful waiting." First-hands continued to hold aloof, and buyers for the most part were about as disinterested as the former. Selling pressure increased among certain second-hands, but even with them there was little disposition to sell for shipment beyond the end of this month. Some additional business was put through on 39-inch 68-72s at 22 cents, and there were reports of sales of 38½-inch 64-60s at 18 cents. It was thought that both prices could be shaded by large buyers. Sheetings sales of importance were few and far between, and the same was true of fine-yarn goods and specialties. First-hands held fine goods firmly on the basis of 30 cents for 40-inch 88-80 8.50-yard combed lawns.

COL. PATRICK DENIES AIRCRAFT WASTE

GOOD PARTS ALL SALVAGED

Usable Liberty Motors, Instruments, &c., Carefully Removed—Costly to Ship Frames Home.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Colonel Mason M. Patrick, former Chief of the American Air Service in France, today wrote a letter to Representative Johnson's sub-committee, denying that any usable airplanes were burned or destroyed in France by his order.

Colonel Patrick, lately a Brigadier General, testified yesterday before Representative Frear's sub-committee, and made, to a large extent, the same statements as embodied in his letter of today.

Mr. Johnson's sub-committee, which is a sub-division of the special committee investigating the War Department, held a hearing recently in New York City, at which allegations were made that a million dollars' worth of airplanes were burned in France. The Colonel was called out of the city today and instead of appearing in person wrote the following letter to Representative Flood of Virginia, the Democratic member of the sub-committee:

"My dear Mr. Flood:

"The following are facts concerning the disposition made of airplane engines and other aviation material in France:

"When hostilities ceased there were in possession of the American service planes of varying types and in all stages of repair, from new and unused planes to those which were complete wrecks. The question of their disposition was given careful study.

Ordered Good Ones Returned.

"I at once gave orders to return to the United States all DH-4 planes and all Liberty engines which were serviceable. I cabled to the United States telling the numbers of other types available and asking what I should ship. An answer was received conveying the desired information. In addition, an officer was sent to France charged to examine all material there and to advise me what to send to the United States.

"About the disposition of the remainder, I consulted with the duly appointed sales agent of the Liquidation Commission and recommended a method of procedure, which was approved.

"I appointed Boards of Survey, each composed of three officers of ability, who were conscientious and careful. Their orders were to inspect every plane in our possession and to recommend to me what should be done with each one.

"This material fell, broadly, into four categories: Planes which had crashed and which were damaged beyond repair. There were many of these. Some had been crashed in battle, some in training at the schools, some in transferring from the assembly plant or acceptance park to France. All of these crashed planes have been gathered in, so as to salvage any part which might be used in repairing other planes or which might have any sale value.

"A considerable number of planes had been used at the schools, had been many hours in the air, repaired time after time, and were virtually worn out.

"There were others which had deteriorated in storage. The airplane deteriorates rapidly, whether in use or in storage. If stored for any length of time, the planes and their spare parts cannot be kept in usable condition, unless in storehouses virtually dampproof and in which the temperature can be kept quite uniform.

"After the armistice and in the damp French Winter climate, and with the pressure to send our men home, it was a physical impossibility to keep them in a usable condition. And it is to be remarked that such planes may seem in good order to the casual observer and yet it would be murderous to send men up in them.

Some Planes Were Obsolete.

"Then there were some planes which, though usable, were virtually obsolete. For example, our own DH-4 planes would have soon given way to the DH-9 type. The Spad XIII., the best pursuit plane we had, would have been replaced by the English Snipe, the Martynside, the Sopwith Dolphin, or by the Bechereau Spad. The Handley-Page night bombers might have been displaced by the Vimy, or even by the American Martin bomber.

"After having examined each of these planes the Boards of Survey arranged them in classes and recommended, in general, that they be offered for sale, and, if unsalable, that they be salvaged.

"By salvaged is meant the taking off of all of the valuable parts, such as motors, tires, instruments, and the like. The remainder of the planes, the wooden parts and the covering, virtually worthless, would be offered for sale as firewood, or used by ourselves as fuel.

"I approved the recommendations of these boards. I inquired of the French Government and was told that they would not purchase any of this material. It was offered by sale by poster advertisements and as much publicity given to the proposed sale as possible. There was no market for this material. It was, therefore, salvaged as outlined above.

"It was required that all parts of value should be removed from the planes with care. Most of this salvage work was done at Pomerantin. A comparatively small amount was done at Colembey-les-Belles. I did not personally see any of this salvage work at the latter place, but I did see much of it at Pomerantin being done properly.

"I do not know of my own knowledge that a single usable plane was destroyed at Colembey-les-Belles, but I am well satisfied, knowing the men I had there, that no plane was destroyed which could be disposed of in France, or which would have brought as much money in the United States as it would cost to get it here.

"Matter of shipping any of this material to the United States was fully considered. I had estimates made of the cost of storage, of packing and of transportation, and I am quite convinced in the cases of all of the planes which were salvaged, that this would have been decidedly uneconomical.

Didn't Bar Photographers.

"I gave no orders prohibiting the taking of photographs of any of the salvage operations. I sanctioned the giving of such orders by no one and I have no knowledge that any such orders were given.

"The salvaging of this material was part of the inevitable waste of war, but the American Air Service in France did everything possible to reduce this waste to the minimum. It is apparent that it was necessary to decide whether it would pay to ship material to the United States. Attention may be called to the fact that the packing of a single DH-4 plane in the United States for shipment to France costs about $289.

"Estimates made in France showed that it would cost there not less than about $300 to pack a plane; that prior to packing it there would be a considerable expense while the planes were in storage in order to keep them in condition; that there would be the cost of rail transportation and cost of ocean transportation to the United States, with further freight charges and charges for handling after the packages arrived here. Some of the cases which contained the planes which were actually shipped to the United States occupied a space not less than one thousand cubic feet."

Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, who came to the public attention by his investigation of aircraft production in America which resulted in the investigation by Judge Hughes, filed several photographs of parts of planes purported to have been burned.

Mr. Borglum made the statement to the committee that it was impossible to tell from the photographs whether a plane or its parts were actually serviceable and safe for fliers.

TOPICS OF WOOLEN MEN.

Discuss Admission of Foreign Wool and Licensing of Dye Imports.

A resolution was passed yesterday at the semi-annual meeting of the American Association of Woolen and Worsted Manufacturers in which the mill men present signified their desire to see increased supplies of foreign wools received in this country. The meeting was held at the Waldorf-Astoria and was preceded by a luncheon. The chief topic of discussion was that of dye legislation. Dr. J. Merritt Matthews of the Dye Institute presented the case for the domestic dyestuff manufacturers, who have favored the licensing plan for foreign dyes where they come in competition with similar products being developed in this country.

Colonel John P. Wood, former President of the National Association of Woolen Manufacturers, took up the question of dyes from the standpoint of the textile manufacturer, and argued in favor of protective rates in distinction to a licensing plan. The members of the association who were present took no action on the matter, although the general sentiment of the meeting was that the necessary steps should be taken to protect the domestic industry in its efforts to make this country independent of foreign supplies of dyes.

Besides the resolution on increasing the supplies of foreign woolens, which contained the suggestion that the British Government ship such supplies direct to this country from Australia and New Zealand, a resolution was passed pledging the association to ask Congress to take steps toward lengthening the number of hours of work of the mill employes. Such action in connection with the provision of additional wool supplies would, it was believed, have the effect of causing fabric prices to remain reasonable instead of reaching record levels, and tend to reduce the cost of living, which at present is a source of universal complaint.

A resolution was also passed calling upon the executive committee of the association to investigate the reports that certain mills were demanding advances over original prices paid by buyers when ordering goods.

It was brought out at the meeting that the Government now has on hand a total of 25,000,000 yards of cloth, which will be sold as surplus material. Sealed bids on a part of this material will be opened shortly.

Colonel Wood announced that arrangements have been made so that American buyers may obtain limited quantities of the wools offered at the London auctions.

A report reviewing the work of the association was issued.

HARMONY AT CLOSE OF LABOR CONGRESS

NO REVENGE, SAYS LEGIEN

Resolutions Demand the "Socialization" of Means of Production Through Strong Unions.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 2, (Associated Press.)—The International Labor Congress, at which a new international federation was formed, came to an end shortly before 10 o'clock tonight with many speeches from the representatives of the various nations. From the speeches it could be gathered that even after four years of war workingmen could meet to consider their welfare without more than an occasional exchange of sharp words.

It cannot be said that a great amount of practical work was accomplished at this first meeting. But ground was laid for the future which promises to prove fruitful in reforms in social questions upon which the workers of all nations are urging action. The last hours of the Congress were spent in discussing a number of important resolutions with regard to the League of Nations, the socialization of means of production, and the blockade of Russia and Hungary, all of which were accepted by the Congress. Only the American delegates voted against the resolutions, while the British were absent, owing to the necessity of catching a cross-Channel steamer. Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, explained that the Americans agreed almost entirely with the spirit of all the resolutions, but that, owing to their mandate, they could not vote for them.

The entire governing body has changed since the last international, the Germans and Austrians at present taking no part either in the presidency, vice presidency, treasury, or secretariat. Many of the members expressed sorrow at the disappearance of Carl Legien, the most prominent German labor leader and organizer, from participation in an official capacity.

Several delegation leaders spoke of their hopes for the future, Mr. Gompers saying that the Americans would do all in their power to further legislation for improvement of the condition of the workers of all countries.

Herr Legien told the correspondent that he thought the international movement would prove successful and that the workers of all countries would act together. He was totally against any idea of a war of revenge, he said, as were all the German workers.

In one resolution the Congress declared:

"The economic disorganization, accentuated by the war, was caused by the impotence of capitalism to reorganize production in such a way as to insure the well-being of the masses. The Congress declares it imperative that the efforts and activities of the working classes of all countries should be directed toward obtaining complete trade union organization as a necessary basis for realization of the socialization of means of production."

The bureau of the International Trades Union Federation was instructed to obtain information on the result of socialization and to report to the national centres, the report to be accompanied by affidavits. The resolution further states:

"Even when the means of production are socialized, it is only by normal production, scientifically and continually developed, that general and individual well-being can be obtained and guaranteed for all everywhere."

Another resolution declares: "The League of Nations should be founded on the will and co-operation of all the peoples. Nations may no longer launch their own cases by force. On the other hand, the League must become a judicial community, free from oppression." The resolution declares that the working classes should prevent the League from becoming a centre of reaction and oppression. It says the workers should organize internationally and "attain the way to power. Then they will become the effective controlling organ of the League of Nations."

WILLIAM J. BURNS ON STAND.

Detective Testifies at Inquiry Into His Agency.

William J. Burns, head of the Burns Detective Agency, which is being investigated by Deputy State Controller William Boardman on charges of improper practice made by Edward W. Edwards, Secretary of the Allied Printing Trades Council, was cross-examined yesterday at the hearing before Mr. Boardman in the Woolworth Building. After his testimony, adjournment was taken until tomorrow.

Meier Steinbrink, of counsel for Edwards, questioned Mr. Burns regarding the character and ability of his operatives. He replied that there has been a material improvement in the personnel of the agency from year to year. He admitted that in the last year the agency has not been as careful in selecting its operatives as it is wont to be, owing, he said, to a scarcity of material.

Mr. Edwards, in filing charges, sought to have the license under which the agency operates revoked in New York State.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Delay in the appointment of a British Ambassador to the United States was the subject of a question in the House of Commons today.

Mr. Bonar Law said that the place had been offered to a man whose acceptance would be worth this delay. He hoped to announce the appointment soon.

Education Notes.

The Board of Education will meet at 4 P. M. today. The luncheon and teachers' salary questions will be considered. This evening at the Board of Education Hall the departmental budget for 1920 will be discussed.

Supt. Snyder of the School Building Bureau has called the attention of the Board of Education to the encroachment of buildings adjoining the Manhattan Trade School for Girls.

Contractors have requested that they be relieved from executing their contracts for alterations and repairs to heating and ventilating apparatus at P. S. 47 and 53, Manhattan, because the increased cost of labor and material would overbalance their estimated profits on the jobs.

The Corporation Counsel has given it as his opinion that teachers and employes of the Board of Education, honorably discharged from military or naval service, are entitled to a leave of absence, with pay, for two months from the date of their discharge or release.

Native workers setting out rubber tree seeds in a plantation "nursery". When the rubber trees reach a height of four or five feet they are transplanted to permanent fields where they mature in about six years.

Many methods of tapping rubber trees are employed by different growers. Probably the most scientific is the herringbone method used by this native girl to extract the milky juice from the tree.

On plantations the milky juice of the rubber tree is coagulated, or congealed, in large vats by means of a weak acid. This process of removing the water has largely superseded the more primitive method of smoking the fluid over fires made of palm nuts.

After rubber is skimmed from the congealing vats it is dried thoroughly before being baled or boxed for shipment. Plantation rubber reaches the rubber manufacturer practically pure.

Many people believe that rubber heels are made by pouring liquid rubber into moulds. This is not the case. The heels are stamped out of rubber dough or "compound" in the exact size to fit the moulds. Then they are put into the moulds and baked under pressure.

Rubber for your heels is mixed and baked like bread

The SPRINGINESS and DURABILITY of a rubber heel depend on the DOUGH, or "COMPOUND"

JUST as good flour is necessary to make good bread, so only good quality rubber will make good heels.

But good bread depends upon more than good flour—it depends on the dough, or the mixture of flour with other ingredients. It is the same with rubber heels.

Rubber itself is an elastic, resilient substance derived from the milky juice of certain tropical trees. In its crude state it is not at all suited to practical use. Heat and light are its natural enemies. It becomes soft and tacky in hot weather and stiff and brittle in cold. Only by mixing it with other ingredients, and then "curing" or baking it under pressure can rubber be made really useful.

Why "compounds" differ

The mixing or "compounding" process is not the same, however, for all articles made of rubber. Each of the 30,000 different rubber products in use today must have individual characteristics to meet the use for which it is intended. One must be hard as in pipe-stems and combs, another soft and spongy as in pencil erasers. One must endure steady pressure, another continuous pounding. Still others must withstand the grind of abrasion.

The final character of any rubber article depends upon its "compound". In perfecting the "compound" the rubber chemist works backward. He first determines the use to which the article will be put, and the work it will have to do. Then he chooses from among a hundred varieties of rubber and thousands of compounding ingredients until, by experiment, he has established the correct "compound" for the required use.

Why O'Sullivan's Heels have so much "life"

O'Sullivan's Heels—now universally recognized as a practical necessity of city living conditions—put an exacting demand upon the "compound". O'Sullivan's Heels must have both resiliency and durability—the springiness to endure continuous pounding, and the toughness to withstand daily grinding on hard pavements.

To secure the resiliency and durability of O'Sullivan's Heels the highest grades of rubber are combined, by a special process, with the best toughening agents known. The "compound" is next rolled into long strips and the heels stamped out just as biscuits are cut. Then the heels are placed in moulds and baked in vulcanizing presses the exact length of time to effect the "cure".

It is this special process of mixing and baking that has, since the making of the first rubber heel, established O'Sullivan's Heels as the standard of rubber heel quality.

Guaranteed to outlast any other heels

O'Sullivan's Heels are guaranteed to wear twice as long as ordinary rubber heels; and will outlast three pairs of leather heels.

Go to your shoe repairer today and have O'Sullivan's Heels put on your shoes.

O'Sullivan's Heels are furnished in black, white or tan; for men, women and children. Specify O'Sullivan's Heels, and be sure that you get O'Sullivan's—avoid the disappointment of substitutes.

Rubber is not always resilient. Any man who has ever broken a pipe stem knows just how hard and brittle rubber can be.

As prepared for the pencil eraser, rubber is soft and crumbly. Its resiliency is slight and it wears away rapidly.

The difference between ordinary rubber heels and O'Sullivan's Heels

If an O'Sullivan Heel is cut along the side, as shown at the right, so that a thin strip of rubber is left attached at one end, that strip will have great elasticity—it can be stretched several inches. With an ordinary rubber heel the material snaps in two before it has stretched to any great degree. This test proves the remarkable resiliency and durability of O'Sullivan's Heels.

ENTER NEWBURGER IN BOTH PRIMARIES

VOTERS EAGER TO SIGN

List of Aspirants for Full City and County Tickets Now Complete.

Additional petitions containing several thousand signatures designating Supreme Court Justice Joseph E. Newburger as candidate in both the Republican and Democratic primaries on Sept. 2, were filed yesterday with the Board of Elections by the Republican County Committee and the committee representing the four Bar Associations of the city. The petitions of the Republican and Democratic candidates for the full city and county tickets also were filed, midnight being the last hour for filing.

Justice Newburger has formally announced he will enter the election contest as an independent, but will not compete for the Democratic nomination.

Clarence H. Fay, Secretary of the Republican County Committee, said the Newburger petition contained many more names than the petition filed by the organization Saturday, and that it was plainly evident from the way the voters inscribed their names, that there was deep resentment at the action of Tammany Hall in refusing Justice Newburger a renomination.

Friends of several Supreme Court Justices whose terms expire next year, took exception to the statement of Charles S. Guggenheimer, law partner of Irwin Untermyer, who was selected by Tammany in place of Justice Newburger, that no criticism could be found with the Tammany method of refusing renomination to judges within a few years of the age when they are required by law to retire from the bench. If this rule is generally applied by Tammany, it will affect at least four Supreme Court Justices whose terms expire next year.

Warning to Other Justices.

William F. Schneider, head of the Cleveland Democracy, who is leading the fight for the renomination and reelection of Justice Newburger and City Court Judge Richard Smith, likewise "turned down" by Tammany, said:

"Mr. Guggenheimer gives warning to Justices Platzek, Giegerich, Guy, and Hendrick that they may expect to be refused renomination next year if some 'young, vigorous' unknowns come along and satisfy the leader of Tammany Hall that there are paramount reasons why they should have places on the Supreme Bench. These Justices, who have served faithfully and honorably for one or more terms, will be set aside. All will be in positions analogous to that occupied by Justice Newburger this year.

"The question is: How does the public like that sort of thing? This year, a 'young, vigorous' unknown—the adjectives are Mr. Guggenheimer's—is picked to take Justice Newburger's place. The reasons for the selection can be imagined. Next year, there will be four places to assign to 'young, vigorous' unknowns, and the reasons so potent this year will be multiplied fourfold.

"Justices Platzek, Giegerich, Guy, and Hendrick, who were required by law to give up active practice when they ascended the bench, might as well hire law offices and try to build up new practices, if the voters are going to let the Tammany leader select 'young, vigorous' Supreme Court incumbents when he pleases."

Judge Smith, who is a member of the Tammany Hall General Committee, announced that he had determined to request every Tammany district leader to accord to him the privilege of addressing each district club in Manhattan and the Bronx, that he might set forth his claims for re-election to the City Court.

Finneran, President of the Democratic Club of Massachusetts, has forwarded to Homer Cummings, Chairman of the National Democratic Committee, a new set of "Fourteen Points," in which President Wilson is bitterly attacked as having wrecked the party. "Point thirteen" accuses him of disregarding the right of Southern negroes to vote.

"Point fourteen" charges him with helping boost prices in America by shipping vast amounts of food to Europe.

AIRPLANE SHOT DOWN HAD TREASURE ABOARD

BERLIN, Aug. 5, (Associated Press.)—A special dispatch to the Lokal Anzeiger from Rybnik, Upper Silesia, says a large German airplane belonging to a German airship works fell yesterday morning near Ratibor while crossing the Polish frontier, all of its seven occupants, including the pilot, Bindereif, being killed.

An official announcement says the airship was shot down by Polish border troops.

Among the passengers was former Finance Minister Witousky of the West Ukraine Republic, who attended the Peace Conference and later visited Berlin for a few days, and had expressed his intention of returning to Breslau by airplane.

The airplane carried 3,000,000 rubles in Ukrainian money and a sack of Russian money. Important documents belonging to the Ukrainian Government were also found.

GIRL CHANGES POISON TALE.

Now Says She Thought Drug She Gave Baby Was Medicine.

Frances Sulinski, 13 years old, who confessed Monday to having poisoned Solomon Kramer, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Kramer of 589 Sheffield Avenue, Brooklyn, yesterday asserted that she administered the poison in mistake for cough medicine. She admitted putting some of the drug in the teapot used by Brandel Nussbaum, the aged nurse of the child, but said she did not realize what she was doing.

The mother of the dead baby was present while District Attorney Harry E. Lewis questioned the girl. When the girl told how she poisoned the baby Mrs. Kramer screamed and seized her by the throat. It took the efforts of several persons to restrain her. The girl was arraigned again in the Children's Court before Justice Charles J. Dodd, and on the motion of the District Attorney the case was adjourned for a week and the prisoner remanded to the care of the Children's Society.

The girl will face a charge of murder. Officials who examined her said she is intelligent and fully responsible for her acts.

EX-CONVICT TELLS OF SUDDEN RICHES

Enemy Alien, After Serving Two Terms, has Risen from Poverty to $100,000 a Year Since 1913.

FREE THROUGHOUT THE WAR

Relates History on Witness Stand While Testifying in Income Tax Fraud Case.

Testifying yesterday as a Government witness before Federal Judge Foster in the trial of Morris Rachmil and Lincoln Samuelson, partners in the Sterling Accounting and Audit Company, and Bernard Joffe, an accountant; Adolf Pricken, Vice President of the Coastwise Warehouses, Inc., told how he had risen from poverty to riches in six years. He had served two prison terms for larceny and forgery, and when he emerged in 1913 he was without friends or money. Then he became connected with the Warehouses concern, acquired 85 per cent. of its stock, and for several years has been enjoying this proportion of its business which yields a net income of $150,000 a year.

The complaint against the defendants charges them with having offered to make out for the Warehouses a false return of its income, which would save it, approximately, $65,000 in Government taxes for a payment of $11,000. This offer was made known to Internal Revenue Collector Edwards, who advised that an arrangement on the proposed basis be completed with the defendants. This was done and when the last installment of the money was paid to Rachmil and Morris Rosenblum, an agent of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, they were arrested. Rosenblum, who was also indicted, is to testify as a Government witness.

Pricken's story of his career was told while he was being cross-examined by William J. Fallon, counsel for the defendants. In reply to many questions, he said he was born in Germany, that he had never been naturalized, and that on suspicion that he was a dangerous enemy alien he had been investigated at various times during the war by representatives of the army and navy Intelligence Bureaus, by the Department of Justice, by United States Marshals, and by other officials who considered him a fair subject for surveillance. But he had escaped unscathed, although he had found it necessary to transfer some of his interests to others who were not likely to fall under Government suspicion.

Pricken admitted that on a charge of falsifying the books and accounts of an estate and for forgeries he had been sentenced in June, 1905, to serve eight years in the penitentiary in Philadelphia. The term was afterward reduced to six years. After serving four years and five months, he was released.

"And when you came out," Mr. Fallon asked, "you intended to do right, but in a year or so you were again sentenced for stealing goods worth $30,000 from the firm of Park & Tilford?"

It developed that Pricken's sentence for the last offense was three years in Sing Sing and that he was freed in September, 1913. The witness said he paid Park & Tilford the value of the goods he was charged with stealing and that he had offered to return to the Philadelphia estate the $50,000 which he had been accused of taking from it. But representatives of the estates, he said, wanted interest amounting to between $15,000 and $18,000. The settlement is still pending.

Mr. Fallon wanted to know if Pricken did not deceive Judge Mulqueen when he was arraigned for sentence in the General Sessions for the Park & Tilford incident by asking for a light sentence because he wanted to marry a young woman and lead a decent life. The witness denied this, and said that when he was released from Sing Sing he went to Europe. Asked why he entertained the alleged proposal of Rachmil and Samuelson to falsify the accounts of the Coastwise concern, the witness replied that it was because he wanted to prove that he desired to lead an honest life, and that the exposure of the scheme might foster trust in his good intentions.

Then Pricken was questioned about his personal tax return filed in this city, which gave the amount at $100,000. He admitted that the return was inaccurate, and explained that he had paid the Sterling Company $500 for making it out. He explained this transaction by saying that he was compelled to consent to this false return in order to induce the defendants to go on with the plot to defraud the Government in the matter of the income of the Coastwise Company. He said he knew that he could not own property as an enemy alien, and admitted resorting to a subterfuge by transferring two of the warehouses of the Coastwise Company to F. A. Page, Treasurer of the concern, who was also associated with Louis Gross of Newark. The latter, he said, paid $25,500 for the two warehouses. Page paid nothing.

Asked if he had ever obtained a loan of $60,000 from Levenson & Co., Pricken replied that he had and explained that the money was needed to buy out the interest in the Coastwise Company owned by a man named Cole.

"I had to buy him out," said the witness, "or he would have got me out of the company."

The loan, the witness said, was secured by assignment of leases of warehouses and by personal notes. It was the settlement with Cole, the witness said, that first brought the Sterling Company into contact with the Coastwise Company. The latter had been employed at $150 a month to examine the books in the interest of Levenson & Co. Asked if he did not know that the Government could take over any property of which 50 per cent. was owned by an enemy alien, Pricken replied:

"If that is so then why did they not take it over? I knew nothing about it. At the time I was investigated by the Department of Justice as an enemy alien I did not own any of the stock of the Coastwise Warehouses."

The witness said that when Levenson & Co. lent him the money they knew he was an ex-convict. The same firm, he said, had also made him other loans. The trial will be resumed today.

TOLD KAISER TO ABDICATE.

Refusal on Nov. 8 Strengthened Uprising, Says Prince Max.

BERLIN, Aug. 5, (Associated Press.)—The new Berliner Zeitung today publishes excerpts from a description by Prince Max of Baden, former Imperial German Chancellor, of a telephone conversation he had with Emperor William on Nov. 8, 1918. The conversation lasted twenty minutes.

"The Kaiser was very violent and frightfully unaware of the attitude of the troops to him," says the description. "We spoke of a military expedition against Berlin, but he refused to listen to my recommendation that he abdicate. Had the General Staff told him Nov. 8, as it did Nov. 9, the truth about the army, I have no doubt that the Kaiser would have abdicated the evening of the 8th.

"Then it would, in human calculation, have been possible for the majority socialists to keep the workingmen in the factories. Certainly there would have been an uprising, but only by the radical element. The troops in Berlin would have conducted themselves more reliably.

"One of the most dangerous points of contact between the rioting workmen and the soldiers was the fact that the Kaiser had not abdicated."

Armed Deputies Guard American Miners Where Aliens Strike in Ohio

BELLAIRE, Ohio, Aug. 5.—The Fort Pitt mine of the Central Coal Company, below Sunnyside, Ohio, near Bellaire, was under a heavy armed guard tonight to prevent the recurrence of rioting between American miners and striking foreign miners. Twenty armed deputies guarded the Americans at work, following an attempt by the foreigners, numbering more than 200, to keep them from going to work this morning.

According to advices received here, the strikers, who are demanding a six-hour day and a large wage increase, incensed at the American element for returning to work, tried force to prevent them. Sheriff John W. Osborne of Belmont County sent a score of armed deputies with instructions to shoot to kill if necessary.

The mine employs about 400 men. The foreigners are in the majority, and their decision to strike kept the Americans idle. Their demands being in violation of the United Mine Workers' agreement with the operators, the strikers were ordered to return to work by the union. The order precipitated the trouble.

Sheriff Osborne said tonight that he had evidence that there were five miners of the Fort Pitt plant who were connected with Bolshevist and other radical organizations, but they left this morning when the armed deputies arrived. He said that many other miners were in sympathy with these men.

SUSPECT ARRESTED IN COHEN MURDER

Mitchell and McDonald, Wanted in Hoboken Killing Case, Await Extradition Here.

Jacob Oradner of 184 Rivington Street, Manhattan, was locked up in the Coney Island Police Station, late last night, on a charge of homicide, the police asserting that Oradner had been identified by Harry Korman of 19 Clinton Street, Manhattan, as the man who on Sunday shot and killed Joseph Cohen, a furrier of 673 Broadway. Korman, who was with Cohen at the time of the shooting, was also shot three times. Oradner faced Korman in the Coney Island Hospital last night and Korman declared that he is the man who killed Cohen.

Detectives Callinan, Ryan and Blake of the Coney Island station made the arrest. They found Oradner in a saloon at Suffolk and Rivington Streets, and arrived at Coney Island with him shortly after 10 o'clock. When Oradner was conducted to Korman's bed the latter accused him of the crime. Korman said that he could not be mistaken. Oradner was then taken to the police station and formally charged with homicide. The prisoner protested his innocence. He was still being questioned by the police at an early hour this morning.

Patrick Mitchell of 104 Bedford Street and Peter McDonald of 432 West Forty-eighth Street, who were arrested on Monday in connection with the killing of Robert Shore in Hoboken on Thursday night, are being held here, awaiting extradition to New Jersey. At least two other men are being sought by the police.

Detectives Joseph Cornilli and Daniel J. Kelly of Hoboken visited Assistant District Attorney John F. Joyce yesterday, and the former said that he had identified Mitchell and McDonald as men he had seen in the vicinity of the shooting just previous to the killing of Shore and the wounding of George Lewis, his companion. Mr. Joyce said that other witnesses had been found who would testify as to the whereabouts of the two men on Thursday night.

Mr. Joyce said that late information would tend to show that at least four men came to Hoboken looking for Shore in an automobile. It is believed that one of these fired at Shore after he lay on the sidewalk. Both prisoners prior to their arraignment in General Sessions, where they were held for extradition, denied having any part in the killing of Shore, a crime which the police asserted was to avenge the killing of "Tanner" Smith in this city only a few days before the Hoboken crime. Mitchell and McDonald declared they were not in Hoboken when Shore was shot and said they had alibis to prove the truth of their stories.

EASTMAN FOUNDS MUSIC SCHOOL TO AID MOVIES

Rochester Institution to Cost $3,500,000, Will Combine Highest Types of Both.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Announcement of the gift by George Eastman, head of the Eastman Kodak Company, of $3,500,000 for the establishment of a school of music in connection with the University of Rochester which will aim to aid the development of an appreciation of the highest type of motion pictures as an ally of the highest type of music, was made at a dinner given in the Genesee Valley Club tonight by Mr. Eastman for members of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry who held their third annual convention here.

The institution, to be known as the Eastman School of Music, has been endowed by Mr. Eastman for $2,319,000. He has purchased a site near the centre of the city at a cost of $381,000 and provided $1,000,000 for construction.

The building will comprise the school of music and an auditorium capable of seating 3,000 where motion pictures of the highest type will be shown accompanied by the music of a symphony orchestra, for the maintenance of which Mr. Eastman has provided. Proceeds from the exhibitions will go toward the maintenance of the institution.

7 HURT IN ELEVATED CRASH.

Rear-End Collision Near South Ferry Causes Slight Damage.

Seven persons were slightly injured shortly after 6:30 yesterday morning in a rear-end collision between two southbound elevated trains of the Sixth and Ninth Avenue lines, near the terminal at South Ferry. According to witnesses, a Ninth Avenue train had been halted in the block between the Battery Place and South Ferry stations, when a Sixth Avenue train just behind crashed into it.

The speed of the second train was reduced considerably by the application of the emergency brakes, and the only damage to the cars was the smashing of the protective steel gates. The impact was sufficient to throw the passengers in the forward car of the Sixth Avenue train and the rear car of the Ninth Avenue train off their feet.

Patrolman Michael J. Hurley of the Old Slip station, who saw the accident, sent a hurry call to the Broad Street Hospital for medical aid. Those whose injuries required medical attention were Daniel Olsen, 27 Varick Street, Jersey City; Carmine D'Orio of 32 Thompson Street; Mitchel Miller, conductor of the Sixth Avenue train, of 2,463 Eighth Avenue; Abe Goldman of 246 West 106th Street, Julian Veranini of 228 Sullivan Street, Louis Graemo of 120 West Third Street, and Pietro Cologero of 130 Thompson Street.

NEW LABOR TROUBLE RISING IN BRITAIN

HENDERSON CALLED HOME

"Triple Alliance" Taking a Vote on "Direct Action"—Bonar Law Again Promises to Oppose It.

LONDON, Aug. 5, (Associated Press.)—With the Yorkshire strike still unsettled, the bakers' strike continuing, a number of minor sporadic strikes in other trades in sympathy with the smoldering discontent of the police at the failure of their strike to obtain the withdrawal of the Police bill, and the possibility of another big railway strike, the labor situation has again become so threatening that it is stated that Arthur Henderson, the Labor leader, who is attending the Socialist conference at Lucerne, has been hurriedly summoned to London.

Liverpool was quiet today, but it remains the centre of agitation, for a strike of the dockers is now being threatened in support of the striking policemen. The executives of the Dockers' Union met today and passed a resolution demanding reinstatement of the dismissed policemen, failing which they will give wholehearted support to the police.

Another meeting of trade union organizations of all trades was convened at Liverpool tonight to consider the advisability of calling a general strike in support of the Police Union and to elect a Strike Committee. It is stated that Tom Mann, President of the Workers' Union, will go to Liverpool to take charge of the situation.

Railway Strikes Looming Up.

Negotiations between the Government and the Associated Locomotive Engineers and Firemen to arrange a new scale of pay for engine drivers have been in progress for six months. The Government has just issued what is described as a final adjustment of the scale, as a result of which the executive of the union has been snowed under with indignant protests, as to the inadequacy of the scale, from all parts of the country. The executive has arrived in London from Leeds to interview the Board of Trade on the subject, and the outlook is considered serious. Further, there are the beginnings of strike movements on the Scottish railways, owing to a local dispute.

The number of men out on the London Southwestern Railway almost doubled today, and passenger service is suffering severe inconvenience. This strike is described by James Henry Thomas, member of the House of Commons and General Secretary of the National Union of Railway Men, as a grave mistake and quite unauthorized.

Lord Robert Cecil, in the House of Commons, today inquired as to the Government's policy in the face of a threatened general strike in favor of direct action, to which Andrew Bonar Law, the Government spokesman, repeated his statement that the Government would resist such a movement with all forces at its disposal. As the ballot of the triple alliance—the railway men, transport workers, and miners—on the question of direct action is being taken this week, it is believed in responsible quarters that a test of the power of the advanced sections of the new movement to dictate the alliance's policy will speedily be decided.

Ten thousand miners at twenty collieries in Midlothian and East Lothian, Scotland, were called out tonight to begin a strike a week hence in support of strikers at another Midlothian pit, who, after a strike of ten weeks, failed to attain their object.

Liverpool tomorrow will be without bread, owing to a bakers' strike. The position is so serious that Charles A. McCurdy, Secretary of the Food Ministry, left for Liverpool tonight to arrange ameliorative measures.

Motormen of the South London subway went on strike today in what labor leaders said was an extension of the sympathetic movement to support the striking policemen.

London is on short bread rations because of the continuance of the bakers' strike. No buns or cake are available except for the hospitals.

The national balloting by the bakers, it was announced today, showed the offer of arbitration was rejected overwhelmingly. Another conference of the bakers' leaders with the Ministry of Labor will be held tomorrow.

Liverpool Employes Threaten.

Woman and Son Arrested for Taking Stolen $2,000.

Mrs. Lily Honeyman of 508 West Fifty-third Street and her 17-year-old son, John, were locked up in the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station last night charged with criminally receiving two $1,000 stock certificates of the United Light and Railways Company, which were stolen several weeks ago from the safe of Harris J. Bowne, who is in the publishing business at 29 Broadway. The certificates were included in a batch of seventeen, representing $17,000 of stock in the Kansas City Light and Power Company and the United Light and Railways Company. The certificates were stolen, according to the police, by John Farrell, 15 years old, of 239 West Forty-eighth Street, who was employed as a messenger by Mr. Bowne.

Farrell disappeared about three weeks ago. Last Friday the police found him in Garden City, and he is now a prisoner in the House of Refuge. The boy returned eleven of the certificates and said he had given two of them to Mrs. Honeyman and her son John. Mrs. Honeyman, according to the police, hid the certificates in her apartment. Farrell said he tried to dispose of some of them and that he left two in the hands of a broker who promised to try and sell them. The broker's name was not made public last night.

REPORT ARGENTINA AND BRITAIN AT ODDS

ENVOYS LEAVING POSTS

British Ruler Has Not Received Newly Appointed Ambassador from Argentine Government.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 4.—Diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Argentina, as a result of the purchase by Argentina of the German steamship Bahia Blanca, are delicate, according to La Nacion. In tomorrow's edition the newspaper will say:

"Regarding rumors which from the beginning have been founded on more than supposition, we have received versions the gravity of which are self-evident, and according to which the return to London of Sir Reginald Tower, British Minister to Argentina, and the departure of Francisco Alvarez de Toledo, Argentine Minister to England, from London are not disconnected. On the contrary, it appears the retirement of both ministers is traceable to the purchase by Argentina of the steamer Bahia Blanca from the Germans, which purchase the British Government refused to recognize.

"Following this refusal, Argentina attempted to solve the difficulty by appointing as minister at London Senor Toledo, who, as Minister of Marine, handled the negotiations for the purchase of the ship. He presented his credentials to the British Foreign Office some time ago, but a considerable period has elapsed without King George receiving him. It is reported there is no probability of his reception in the near future.

"It appears this might have been expected, as the British Government never stated that Senor Toledo was persona grata. It will be remembered the Argentine Government has waited a long time for a response to its inquiry as to the purchase of the Bahia Blanca, and there now appears reasons for believing that Sir Reginald's favorable intimations relative to the deal were solely his personal impressions."

Another newspaper, Las Noticias, in commenting on the situation, says: "Sir Reginald Tower is being recalled, and Senor Toledo is returning because King George has not received him.

"The occasion for the present situation is the refusal of the British Government to recognize the purchase of the Bahia Blanca, but the real cause underlying the crisis is the Argentine Government's hostile attitude toward British capital invested in Argentina."

Before Señor Toledo sailed for London it was announced he would go on the Bahia Blanca. A day or two later, however, a British cruiser took up a position off the River Plate. Señor Toledo subsequently went to London on a regular liner.

According to a current version of the matter, an effort is being made to enlist the aid of the United States in settling the question of the purchase of the Bahia Blanca, for which Argentina paid 7,000,000 pesos, the deal being made through the Swedish Government. It is said this was one reason that Tomas A. Le Breton, Argentine Minister to the United States, went to Europe early this year. According to reports, he and Marcello de Alvear, Argentine Minister to France, failed in their efforts to help Señor Toledo solve the difficulty.

Barthou, in Report to Chamber, Also Shows German Responsibility in a Strong Light.

PARIS, Aug. 5, (Associated Press.—Louis Barthou, former Premier and Foreign Minister, read his report on the Peace Treaty to the Treaty Commission of the Chamber of Deputies today. The report was laid on the table of the House before it rose, so that the printing of it could begin at once.

The Chamber will decide on Thursday whether the debates on the treaty will open on Aug. 25 as proposed, which would insure its ratification about Sept. 3. However, according to the latest news, the Committee of Presidents of Groups and Committees of the Chamber are understood to have decided to postpone the debates until Sept. 2.

The report of M. Barthou, of fifty pages, concludes in favor of ratification. At the same time it formulates certain reserves. M. Barthou commends the action of the negotiators in departing from old-time methods of procedure, but regrets that they did not from the outset decide upon a complete destruction of Bismarck's work by breaking up political Germany into separate parts.

On the question of responsibilities and punishments the former Premier grouped in striking fashion quantities of documents hitherto scattered, from which he develops new considerations establishing the crushing responsibility of the former Kaiser and Germany, and declares that international morality will not be satisfied unless the chief guilty persons are punished.

After studying the economic reparation and military clauses, M. Barthou concludes by recalling the sacrifices of France, "which has not been killed by war and cannot be ruined by peace," and proclaims that united France will face the problems of the future with the four great peoples who united all their efforts to defend justice. He declares it impossible that France, glorious but impoverished, will not obtain from all the allied and associated peoples the support which she herself so vigorously gave on the day the destinies of the world were at stake.

Special to The New York Times.

PROFILE HOUSE, N. H., Aug. 5.—Harry Clauson, 19 years old, of 690 East Eighth Street, South Boston, and Jack Lonigan, 21, of Union Park, Boston, were instantly killed today on Mount Washington when they attempted to slide down the track of the Mount Washington railroad on two railroad ties bound together with rope. Their companion, John P. Jansky, of 213 North Street, South Boston, tried in vain to dissuade them from the hazardous venture.

Passengers returning to the base upon the afternoon train saw the body of one lying beside the tracks. The train was stopped and the body of the other was found near by. The bodies were brought to Fabyans, where Dr. J. Blake White of New York announced that the necks of both had been broken.

Ends Round-Trip Flight From Sea to Sea Over Andes

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 5.—Lieutenant Locatelli, an Italian aviator, who last week flew from Buenos Aires to Valparaiso, today made a nonstop flight from Santiago, Chile, to this city. The time of the flight was 7 hours and 10 minutes.

Several aviators belonging to the Italian Aviation Mission, which is visiting Argentina, went out in planes to meet Locatelli and escorted him to Buenos Aires.

FINLAND'S CAPTAIN DIES ON TRIP OVER

Lieut. Commander Rague, 23 Years Old, Takes Bridge of Big Transport While at Sea.

BANDS MUTE ON TRIP UP BAY

Member of Food Commission, Back from Finland, Says 2,000,000 Children Are Being Fed.

With her flag flying at half mast in honor of Captain James B. Hill, her commander, who died at sea on the way across, the transport Finland steamed into port yesterday in command of Lieut. Commander William J. Rague, 23 years old, who, it is said, is the youngest skipper ever to navigate a 12,000-ton vessel across the Atlantic. In view of the death of the veteran skipper, the band on the welcoming boat of the Mayor's Committee, which took several hundred friends and relatives of the members of the 2d Division on the Finland down the bay, did not play.

Captain Hill collapsed on the bridge of the Finland when the steamer was only an hour and a half out of Brest. At first it was decided to return to Brest, but Captain Hill expressed a wish to continue on the trip with the vessel, which was making its last voyage as an army transport. He died a few hours after his collapse, which was due to heart trouble. His body was sent to Pitman, N. J., where he lived when here with his wife and three children.

Captain Hill was one of the old commanders of the Red Star Line and International Mercantile Marine, having been skipper at various times of six liners. Since the Finland has been in the army transport service he had made seventeen trips across the ocean, with more than 60,000 troops.

Lieut. Commander Rague, who succeeded Captain Hill, was formerly executive officer on the Finland, and therefore ranking officer. He modestly declined to talk of his new position.

In addition to the 3,525 officers and enlisted men on the steamship the Finland brought over forty-six soldiers' wives and eight children. Seven of the young women were the brides of the following residents of Greater New York, all enlisted men: William A. Baker of 1,528 Amsterdam Avenue; Joseph M. Czech of 915 Eagle Avenue, the Bronx; Joseph Dow of 159 Carroll Street, Brooklyn; Birgio Boisi of 518 Morgan Avenue, Brooklyn; August Shalkham of 502 Jackson Avenue, the Bronx, and Stanley Baer of 1,182 Bushwick Avenue, Brooklyn.

The brides were in charge of Sergeant Jesse W. Taylor of the regular army, who said he was a member of the President's guard in Paris and was stationed for a while at a prison camp.

The Norwegian-American liner Bergensfjord docked yesterday afternoon with twenty first-class and more than a hundred second and third class passengers. Among those on board was Magnus Swenson of Madison, Wis., a member of the Food Administration, who said he had been sent abroad by Herbert Hoover to study food conditions in Finland. The American Relief Commission is feeding 2,000,000 children in Finland one warm meal a day, he said.

Mrs. Rebecca Kessler, another traveler, who was accompanied by her two sons, said she had come from Mittau, Courland, a port in Russia, near the German border, to join her husband, who is in business in Michigan. Speaking of her experiences in Russia, Mrs. Kessler declared that she and her sons barely escaped with their lives, bribing their way from place to place until they got out of the country.

Others on board the Bergensfjord were Herbert L. Griggs, President of the Bank of Manhattan, who said he had been for the last ten weeks in Scandinavian countries on business, and Louis G. Firmell, an automobile salesman, of 4,441 Broadway. Mr. Firmell, who had been in Russia for three years, declared that children were dying on the streets and that contagious diseases were spreading rapidly. Mr. Firmell said that he had been instrumental in saving the lives of 44 Poles by appealing in their behalf to the Bolshevist authorities and that he himself had been sentenced to death on two occasions but freed at the last moment.

VOTE HIGHER CABINET PAY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The House of Commons tonight carried by 176 votes to 83 the second reading of the bill which raises the status of several Ministerial offices and increases the salaries of the occupants from £2,000 to £5,000 yearly, but not without considerable opposition.

Bonar Law said that a Minister receiving £2,000 yearly had either to get in debt or live on a lower scale than he had been accustomed to.

Sir Donald MacLean asked the House to decline a second reading of the bill until the Government had declared its policy regarding a reduction of the Government departments to a scale conducive to national efficiency and economy.

General Page Croft said that the whole country was looking to the Government to exercise economy and that the passage of the bill would be a fatal mistake. Sir F. Banbury said that the passing of the bill would lower the House in the estimation of the people. Captain Wedgood Benn declared that the bill would create the worst impression in the country. Mr. Wallace asserted that reckless expenditure by the Government would bring about its downfall.

Mr. Seddon warned the Government that it was playing into the hands of the revolutionaries. Instead of raising the salaries of Ministers, he contended, they should be reduced, in order to show an example in economy. Other members spoke similarly.

GUARDSMEN OPPOSE UNIVERSAL SERVICE

CALL IT CONSCRIPTION PLAN

HINT AT MILITARY DICTATOR

Declare Proposal Is the Swan Song of the General Staff—Say Scheme Will Be Costly.

The National Guard Association of the United States at a meeting held in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory yesterday denounced the proposed Chamberlain-Kahn Universal Service bill as "the swan song of the General Staff" and as an act, which if passed, will be a stigma upon "the citizen soldiery which bore the brunt of fighting as shock troops" in the European war. Adjt. Gen. C. W. Berry of this State presided at the conference, which was attended, it was said, by guardsmen from nearly every State in the Union.

The views of the association regarding the proposed legislation which would provide military instruction for all the youth of the country are embodied in the following telegram which was sent to Secretary Baker and to the members of the Senate and House Committees on Military Affairs. The telegram, addressed to Secretary Baker, read:

"Four million veterans of the great war are a sufficient nucleus for the organization of any army which may be required for some time to come. The American people will not tolerate the ruthless abandonment of a policy which created that great civilian army which answered the call, never flinched in the face of the severest fire, and whose record of achievement stands as a guarantee of its ability to handle any situation which may confront it.

"The Chamberlain-Kahn bill abolishes the citizen soldiery of the United States, which public sentiment demands shall be the backbone of its military strength, and at a time when the people are struggling under the burden of excessive taxation creates at enormous expense the machinery for the establishment in America of that detestable Prussian system which is abhorrent to the American people.

"The League of Nations and the Chamberlain-Kahn bill can never go hand in hand. Either the League of Nations is a snare and a delusion, or there is no necessity for the passage of the Chamberlain-Kahn bill.

"The Chamberlain-Kahn bill is the swan song of the General Staff. Failing utterly in its efforts to secure necessary recruits for the regular army, it now attempts in time of peace, under the guise of a universal service bill, to resort to conscription and to seize from their homes the youth of America for service in the regular army in the Philippines, in Hawaii, in Porto Rico, in the Canal Zone, and even in Russia, should the military dictator created by the provisions of this vicious bill determine that the emergency demanded it.

"The Chamberlain-Kahn bill destroys and places a stigma upon the citizen soldiery which bore the brunt of fighting as shock troops, and creates a centralized military oligarchy, with dangerous potentialities for political abuse and the destruction of the freedom which is vital to the existence of the country.

"Therefore, the National Guard Association of the United States, through its officers, Executive and Legislative Committees, in conference assembled, representing that great body of citizen soldiers whose record of efficiency entitles it to the fullest measure of support, opposes the passage of the Chamberlain-Kahn bill."

It was pointed out at the conference that the maintenance in a civilian army is 10 per cent. less per capita than maintenance in the regular army under the regular army plan. The members of the national association in conference and the committees are:

Colonel Bennett C. Clarke, President of the association; Generals C. I. Martin, J. Van Holt Nash, Frank E. Beary, Harvey J. Moss, Louis C. Covell, H. B. Smith, Frank S. Dickson, James J. Barree, B. S. Royster, George M. Presson, Albert H. Wilson, all of whom are Vice Presidents of the association. Major Norman B. Comfort, Secretary; Colonel Perry M. Hoisington, Treasurer. The Executive Committee includes General C. W. Berry, General Charles D. Gaither, General Angus Frazer, General W. A. Moore, General John L. May, Colonel Edward Logan, Colonel Claude V. Birkhead; the Legislative Committee, General John A. Hulen, Chairman; Colonel John B. Rose, Colonel Bibb Graves, Colonel W. A. Colston, General H. C. Clark, Colonel A. Linxwiler, and the Law Committee, Colonel Ransom H. Gillette, Colonel Walter J. Carlin, and Colonel Claude B. Birkhead.

ARMED MEN NEAR PREMIER.

Two Suspicious Characters Arrested Near Clemenceau's Home.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—Two laborers, one of whom had two revolvers and the other a large knife, were arrested today near the residence of Premier Clemenceau by detectives who said their manner excited suspicion.

As they were being taken to the police station, a detective said, the men offered money for their release. When they were questioned they gave their names as Ernest Vallée and Alexander Bonnard. They said they had an engagement with friends and relatives at a café in the street where M. Clemenceau resides.

The possession of weapons they explained by saying that some one whose name they did not know commissioned them to sell them for him. The men were held for trial on charges of carrying concealed weapons and attempted bribery.

Vallée, the police stated, is believed to be a deserter.

SPURN AMERICAN INTRUSION

British Feel They Can Settle Their Own Liquor Problems.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Answering a question in the House of Commons today as to whether the Government considered informing Americans here for a prohibition campaign that "the British electors prefer to settle their domestic questions for themselves," Edward Shortt, Secretary for Home Affairs, said:

"I am disposed to agree with the suggestion that the British people can settle this matter for themselves, but, as I have stated, I do not think this step by the Government necessary."

JOHNSON STATEMENT DENIED BY RUPPERT

Navin, Detroit Chief, Thinks Other Clubs May Decline to Meet New York—Johnson Leaves.

The developments in the Carl Mays case yesterday included the sudden withdrawal of President Ban Johnson from the scene of battle, the starting of the legal machinery to obtain an injunction to permit Mays to play with the Yankees, and a statement by President Jacob Ruppert, in which he takes exception to several of the assertions made by Johnson in his statement on Monday. Johnson went back to Chicago yesterday without making further comment on the case.

The point which Colonel Ruppert brought out yesterday was that some of the clubs which Johnson says objected to the negotiations which the Yankees were conducting for Mays were themselves carrying on negotiations for the player after the date on which the American League President says they registered their objections.

The attorneys for the New York Club yesterday prepared the papers in the case and today will make application in the United States Court for a temporary injunction restraining President Johnson from carrying out the suspension which he placed against Mays on July 31. If this temporary injunction is granted Manager Huggins may use Mays in the game against St. Louis this afternoon.

The sudden departure of Johnson yesterday was a source of disappointment to both Colonel Ruppert and Colonel Huston, the owners of the New York Club. They hoped that the American League President would remain in New York until the legal action in the case had been concluded. It is also evident that Johnson has no intention of granting the club's request to lift the suspension in the face of the injunction threat.

Frazee Also Makes Denial.

The granting of a temporary injunction in baseball is not new, for several years ago John T. Brush, then owner of the Giants, obtained an injunction in Boston restraining President Harry Pulliam of the National League from carrying out a suspension of Manager McGraw. This temporary injunction was granted and McGraw was permitted to manage his players.

There is a wide variance of statements as to the facts relating to the withdrawal of Mays from the Boston club. According to the statement made by President Ruppert yesterday, Mays was hit by a ball and was injured at the time he left the Boston club in Chicago on July 13. He also maintains that Manager Barrow did not suspend the player, because he did not consider that there was any occasion for such action. Both Barrow and Frazee deny that they received any order from Johnson to suspend Mays.

The strongest denial in Ruppert's statement, however, is the one relating to Johnson's statement that Colonel Huston of the Yankees told him that the New York club would not negotiate with Mays after Johnson had informed him that the other clubs had registered objections. Colonel Ruppert maintains that Johnson's statement is untrue, as Colonel Huston himself emphatically states that he made no such statement to Johnson.

Mr. Johnson has not stated the real facts of Mays's leaving the Boston Club in Chicago on July 13. Mays was struck by a thrown ball from Schang. He left the game in a serious condition, went to his hotel, and later left for Boston, where he reported at the Boston office and then went home. Manager Barrow did not send from the bench for the player, as he knew he was hurt. The Boston Club did not report the incident nor suspend the player, for the reason that he had done nothing that would call for such action.

Calls Club Owners Inconsistent.

Mr. Johnson was told by us that we would attend no meeting of five clubs that were on record as having negotiated for Mays and then (if Mr. Johnson's statement is true) protested his employment by the New York Club. The action of certain American League Club owners in the interest of "protecting the integrity of the game," if true, as stated by Mr. Johnson, is not consistent with their known action in carrying on negotiations for the player. The Cleveland Club withdrew from the negotiations when it found it could not trade off, in a deal for Mays, a couple of sore-arm pitchers.

Neither Mr. Frazee nor Manager Barrow ever received any message from Mr. Johnson asking why Mays was not suspended. Mr. Johnson telegraphed me on July 23, as he states, but we never received any answer from him in response to our request for the names of the six protesting clubs.

Mr. Johnson's statement that Colonel Huston told him New York would not negotiate for Mays is not true, and is absolutely without foundation.

On July 26 Manager Jennings sent Manager Barrow a telegram, as follows: "Have no players to give for Mays. Will consider cash proposition." Manager Jennings undoubtedly consulted Mr. Navin in dealing for the player. The telegram above quoted was sent three days after Mr. Johnson says Mr. Navin had protested the transfer of Mays.

The foregoing facts, taken with the calling off of the proposed New York meeting, bear out the prevailing impression that Mr. Johnson is acting for Mr. Johnson and not for the American League, for we do not believe the club owners in question would stultify themselves to the extent Mr. Johnson would have us believe.

Colonel Huston and myself, acting by advice of our counsel, Messrs. Davies, Auerbach & Cornell, and Messrs. Fitch & Grant, have nothing to say at this time relative to our legal proceedings in the case.

Suspension Damages Yankee Club.

Colonel Ruppert pointed out yesterday that the suspension of Mays would be damaging to the patronage of the New York Club. He says that the pitcher would strengthen the club and the Yankees would naturally win more games with the aid of Mays. This would naturally tend to increase the crowds and would also keep the Yankees in the pennant fight. Colonel Ruppert said yesterday that the American League President, he believed, left himself open to damages on this score.

President Harry Frazee of the Boston Red Sox yesterday submitted to the New York Club all the telegrams from the various clubs negotiating for Mays. All this evidence is in the hands of the attorneys, who will present it to the court today in applying for the temporary injunction.

It is believed that Johnson left the city so suddenly yesterday to confer with Charles W. Comiskey, the owner of the Chicago White Sox. Comiskey and Johnson were friends for many years until a serious breach about two years ago. Both have been so closely identified with the affairs of the American League that Johnson regards the Old Roman's advice as valuable. It is believed that Johnson will endeavor to make peace with Comiskey and ask his advice in his present difficulty.

As the case now stands, Colonel Ruppert says, Comiskey is with the New York and Boston Clubs in the fight against Johnson. Johnson admits that Comiskey never objected to the New York or any other club trying to make a deal for Mays. Chicago had no players to offer and offered cash, and it was for that reason that Chicago was out of the bidding.

"I have always been a stanch supporter of President Johnson in our league," said Colonel Ruppert yesterday, "but I told him after our conference on Sunday night that this was a fight to a finish. I told him plainly that I believed that his belated suspension of Mays, eighteen days after his leaving the Boston club, was actuated by a personal grievance against Harry Frazee of Boston, and because the Cleveland club had been unsuccessful in its effort to make a deal for the player. It is not right that the New York club should suffer because of any difference which Johnson may have with Frazee. We are in this thing now for keeps and we mean to see it through."

NAVIN HINTS YANK BOYCOTT.

DETROIT, Aug. 5.—President Frank Navin of the Detroit Americans tonight denied that he had negotiated with the Boston Club for Pitcher Carl Mays prior to Mays's recent suspension by President Ban Johnson of the American League. Mr. Navin said he knew of no negotiations between Manager Barrow of the Boston Club and Manager Jennings of the Tigers. As for Jennings, he said, he had no authority to bid for Mays's services.

"When the Boston team was here last month," Mr. Navin said, "I told Manager Barrow I would like to have Mays, but for various reasons would make no offer for his release. I believe Mays should be punished for jumping his team and that no club in the league should have tried to pry him away from Boston."

Mr. Navin intimated that other teams might refuse to play with the Yankees if they attempt to use Mays.

"I think the New York team is making a big mistake in resorting to court action in the case," he said. "The injunction may be obtained, but it is no surety that any of the other clubs in the league may be forced to play New York."

MAY FOOLS GIANTS; LARRY DOYLE HURT

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5.—McGraw's Giants tasted the bitter cup of defeat today, for, strange as it may seem, the Cardinals won the first game of the series by the score of 6 to 2. Instead of Rickey looking on and watching his hurlers being bombarded, McGraw had that discomfort.

The Cardinals showered 13 blows on Phil Douglas, late of the Cubs, and Jean Dubuc, while Jakey May reigned master through nine innings. May's exhibition was one of the few good games hurled by a Rickey twirler since the Cardinals' return to their home lot. Jake's slow curves twisted past the New Yorkers' bats, and, although the little port-sider worked his way into several bad holes during the contest, he pulled out of the difficulties. Jake at times was as wild as a green apple, passing six batters.

McGraw nominated Phil Douglas to start the fracas on the slab, but Phil did not tarry long. He was touched for a couple of runs in the first inning, another in the second, and one more in the fourth. Then McGraw decided that Phil had had enough, sending Lew McCarty in to hit for him in the fifth, after which Dubuc ascended the mound and remained until the finish. With Umpire Bill Byron and Heinie Zimmerman in the same lot, there was plenty of action for the fans. Heinie got further than the fans expected, lasting until the last part of the eighth. Zim tried to steal second in the eighth, and when Byron called him out Zim put up an awful howl. Going over to pick up his glove, Zim shot a remark at Byron, upon which Bill ordered him off the field.

Cards Get Two in First.

The Cardinals started off with a boom, scoring a brace of markers in the first rounds. After two were out, Hornsby sliced a single to left. McHenry laced a blow to centre, and when Benny Kauff fumbled in trying to pick the elusive pellet off the green, Hornsby went to third and McHenry reached second. Dilhoefer continued the bombardment with a base hit to right, scoring Hornsby and McHenry. Dilhoefer went to second on Chase's error.

The Cards broke loose with another rally in the second, Lavan went out, Douglas to Chase, but Jack Smith bounced a double over Zimmerman's head. May fouled to Chase. Shotten shot a single to right, scoring Smith.

The Giants threatened to score in the first and second innings, but did not come very close until the fourth, when Doyle started off with a hit to right. Kauff drew a base on balls and Zimmerman sent a long liner to Smith, Doyle going to third after the catch. Chase popped to Stock in short right, and Doyle was doubled at home on Milton's toss to Dilhoefer. Doyle was injured sliding into the plate and could not resume his place at second. Al Baird taking his place. Doyle may be out of the game some time.

Giants Creep Up a Bit.

The Cardinals scored another run in the fourth. Miller reached first on Fletcher's boot of an easy grounder. Lavan singled to left, Miller halting at second. Smith sacrificed the runners along, Douglas to Chase. May grounded to Fletcher, whose throw to Gonzales stopped Miller at the platter, Lavan taking third. Shotton got his second straight hit, a single to centre, scoring Lavan.

Dubuc relieved Douglas in the fifth. Jean floated along first rate, and, to give him more confidence, his mates hit May for a couple of tallies in the eighth, putting the Giants within striking distance of the Cardinals' early lead. Young opened the eighth by getting in the way of one of May's curves. Fletcher singled to centre, Young stopping at second. With the call three and two on Baird, May struck him out.

Kauff grounded to Miller, who fumbled long enough to let Young score, but Miller stepped on first, getting Kauff. In the meantime, Fletcher went to third, scoring on Zimmerman's blow to centre. Zimmerman tried to stel second, but was out. He protested to Byron and was ordered to the clubhouse.

MEADOWS BLANKS PIRATES.

Effective Pitching Wins for Philadelphia by Score of 2 to 0.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Aug. 5.—Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh today, 2 to 0, as a result of the effective pitching of Meadows, who kept the five local hits scattered. Adams was hit for three singles and a double in the first inning, which produced the two runs, after which he held the visitors to two hits. The game was an hour late in starting, owing to the fact that the Philadelphia team had been held up by a washout on the way from Chicago.

Robertson Hitless in Chicago Debut, and His Team Loses, 3 to 1.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Boston bunched hits off Carter today and defeated Chicago 3 to 1 in the first game of the series. Rudolph was hit freely, but tightened in the pinches and was given perfect support.

Dave Robertson, who came to Chicago from New York in the trade for Pitcher Douglas, played his first game for the locals, and Pick and Mann, who figured in the trade for Herzog from Boston, reported to Manager Stallings. Mann immediately went into the game.

TIGERS DEFEAT SENATORS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Detroit took the opening game of the series from Washington today, 2 to 1. With the score tied and two out in the eighth inning, Picinich let the fourth ball pitched to Veach go for a passed ball and made no effort to recover it. Veach sprinted to second, scoring with the winning run on Hellmann's single o' centre.

REDS BEAT DODGERS AND INCREASE LEAD

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 5.—With the stands so lately crammed with tens of thousands of frenzied rooters yelling themselves hoarse over the Giant-Red series, the 5,000 in attendance today for the first Brooklyn game looked small indeed. But they rooted hard, just the same, and were rewarded by seeing the league leaders swamp the strong outfit by the lopsided score of 7 to 2. It was a dull and dreary day and a drizzle fell during the early innings, but not enough to have time called.

Things came the Reds' way after Jimmy Ring once got started, for the curves of Clarence Mitchell were at no time a puzzle to the locals, and he was finally removed to make way for Sherrod Smith. Sherrod was also hectically greeted and was also very wild, but it made little difference, for the game had already been won off Mitchell and the Dodgers seemed to have lost all pep and pugnacity with the avalanche of Red bingles in the sixth.

Jimmy Ring worked the entire route for Moran, pitching a beautiful game of ball after an extremely wobbly start, and holding Robbie's men to one lone hit after the second inning. He was very steady throughout, not the least pleasing feature of his performance being that not a single pass marked the regularity of his offerings.

Olson sent his clan away to a good start by doubling to centre, a difficult looping hit that Roush all but caught. Johnston sacrificed and Griff flied short to Neale, Ivan not daring the try for the plate. Zack Wheat then cracked one to right, and Olson was in with the Dodgers' first run. Roth threw out Myers.

The Reds went this one better in their half. Rath flied to Wheat, but Daubert was safe when Myers dropped his easy fly. Groh singled to centre, Daubert stopping at second. Then Rousch fanned but Neale combed a triple to left centre, scoring Daubert and Groh. Neale then essayed a burglary of the old dish-pan, but was out by an eyelash, Mitchell to Miller.

The Dodgers promptly tied the count, and smacking three hits, tottering Ring in the so doing. Konetchy was out on a foul to Rariden. Ward beat a single to Kopf. Miller flied to Rousch, who made a very nice catch. Mitchell beat a hit to Rath, Olson singled to left, Ward scoring. Johnson flied to right.

Ring settled firmly after this and was practically unhittable for the balance of the session. But three men reached first base thereafter, two on errors and one on the only hit Jimmy allowed. With one out in the fifth Kopf fumbled Olson's grounder, and with the same number gone in the sixth Larry Wheat again turned loose a flivver, tossing Wheat's grasser wide after a miraculous one-handed stop. Miller doubled to left with one out in the seventh, but did not advance, and that is the meager tale of Dodger attack.

But the reds were busy as birddogs with Mitchell. Mitchell held them to a couple of innocuous bingles in the second, third, and fourth rounds, and it appeared that a hill duel would be the result.

But Moran's pets would not be denied, and with the score board showing that the woolly lambs in St. Louis had become raging lions and were lambasting the Giants, they went after the Dodgers in the sixth and made it a shambles, rolling up three tallies. They did it again in the seventh for two.

CHESS MATCH FOR JAFFE.

Special to The New York Times.

TROY, N. Y., Aug. 5.—With four experts from New York City competing the annual tournament for the State chess championship was begun at the meeting of the New York State Chess Association at the Y. M. C. A. here today.

Three games were disposed of, A. Kopchik playing both of his with J. Bernstein. The first, a queen's pawn opening in which Kopchik was white, was drawn after thirty-seven moves. Kopchik defended the second game irregularly and nursed a slight advantage in the opening until the end was reached, when Bernstein found his position untenable and resigned after forty-two moves. This gave Kopchik the lead with a score of 1½ to ½.

Charles Jaffe and Oscar Chajes fought stubbornly for over four hours under a time limit of eighteen moves an hour and eventually, after forty-six moves had been recorded, Jaffe, who had adopted a Petroff defense, won the game. Jaffe accomplished his object by suddenly switching his attack from the queen's side of the board to the king's wing, where he took possession of an open file.

Oneida County today won the Genesee Cup by defeating Saratoga, 3 to 1, after having won against Albany by 3½ to ½, and Rensselaer by 3 to 0, with one adjourned. The members of the winning team were R. J. Guckemus, L. A. Haynes, and N. Weber of Utica, and D. T. Searle of Rome.

Counties.	Won.	Lost.
Oneida	3	0
Albany	2	1

STAR SWIMMERS DUE HERE.

Australian Girl Champions to Compete in Chicago and New York.

The Australian women's swimming stars, the Misses Fannie Durack and Mina Wylie, holders of several world's records, will open their United States tour in Chicago on Sunday, it was announced yesterday at local A. A. U. headquarters. Word was received from San Francisco that the women swimmers had left the California city for Chicago, where they would arrive some time Saturday. They will compete against Central A. A. U. rivals in the closing events of the two-day carnival which is to be held in Chicago beginning Saturday.

Following their appearance in Chicago the visiting mermaids will journey to this city, where they will appear in competitive and exhibition events at Manhattan Beach Aug. 16. The addition of the Misses Durack and Wylie to this program will make it one of the most extensive of the local season. The card will be conducted under the auspices of the Women's Swimming Association, the membership of which includes many of the country's leading women swimmers. The principal event will be the women's national quarter-mile swim championship.

The visiting swimmers will remain in this vicinity thereafter until Sept. 8. In the interim they will appear in a number of events especially arranged for them, in which some of America's leading women swimmers will match strokes with them. On Aug. 23 the touring pair are scheduled to swim at Belmar, N. J., and three days later they will appear in a carnival in Philadelphia. Aug. 30 will find the Misses Durack and Wylie at Rye Beach, Rye, N. Y., where two national title swims, one for men and the other for women, will be decided. The stars will swim in Bridgeport, Conn., on Labor Day, making their farewell appearance in the East. Then they will journey to the South, swimming in Atlanta Aug. 8 and at New Orleans Aug. 12. After these events the Australian mermaids will strike a trail for the West, stopping off en route for races at St. Louis, Omaha, and Salt Lake City.

GOLF HONORS WON BY MISS LOUNSBERY

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 5.—The Shenecossett woman's championship, which began here today, looked more like a national affair than a local tournament, with so many well-known players competing. The honors of the day went to little Miss Beatrice Lounsbery of Bedford, who turned in an 88, beating Mrs. W. A. Gavin, Miss Elaine Rosenthal and Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow by two strokes, as this trio was tied at 90.

Although Miss Lounsbery deserved a lot of credit for playing good golf all the way, it was Mrs. Gavin who played the best game after she once got under way. The ex-metropolitan champion started out with a 6 on the first hole, and then, to make matters worse, took an 8 on the second. After this discouraging start she settled down and played exceptionally well. Miss Lounsbery, who played with her, started with a 5 and a 4, getting a jump of five strokes on two holes. Miss Lounsbery picked off a birdie 4 on the long fifth. Miss Rosenthal took 6 on the short eleventh, spoiling a good card, and this same hole added a penalty of two strokes to the card of Mrs. Ralph Hammer of Flushing, the present holder of the Shenecossett title. She hit the flag pin when within sixty feet of the green.

Mrs. Barlow had one or two bad spots in her round. She took 8 on the long thirteenth hole, where most of them fell down. Miss Glenna Colket, the sixteen-year-old golfer, from Providence, had two eights on her card, thanks to the numerous traps, and just managed to get under 100.

The summary:

Practice Round at Siwanoy Brings Him Card of 77.

Oswald Kirkby of Englewood, Metropolitan amateur champion and one of the many golfers entered in the Victory Tournament which starts today over the Siwanoy links, led the field that practiced yesterday over the Mount Vernon course with the respectable score of 77. The links was fairly covered with those who were tuning up for the big silver trophy. J. W. Sweetser, the Ardsley youngster who won the medal at Apawamis, was right on the heels of Kirkby with a 78, as was also his running mate, G. L. Conley of Siwanoy, Westchester champion, who turned in a like card for the day's work.

All the other golfers ran from these figures up to a point where the players refused to commit themselves other than to admit that they ran into bunkers and other golf course trappings which caused them to take strokes they otherwise would have gladly dispensed with. The course is in fine condition, but was a little heavy yesterday, due to weather conditions.

Max Marston will find himself in the unusual position of a spectator at this tournament. He has lost a great deal of weight recently, and was ordered by his physician to abandon the Siwanoy tournament if he wished to play in the national event at Oakmont.

Pitcher Breaks Non-Glass Arm.

PRICE ARRIVES AT CALDWELL

One-Armed Crack Shot to Compete for Leech Cup.

CALDWELL, N. J., Aug. 5.—John Price, 22 years old, the one-armed crack rifle shot who last year won the intercollegiate rifle championship, representing the Iowa State University, and who the year previous, at Jacksonville, Fla., carried off first honors in the national individual championship match, arrived at the range this afternoon. He announced that he would compete for honors in the Leech Cup match. A. J. Canpieri, of the Rumford Rifle Ranges, who won the individual championship last year, is not to compete in the Leech match.

A number of individuals and teams from various States arrived today and had preliminary practice at the ranges here. The competition for the Leech Cup, open to any American citizen, begins tomorrow. It promises to be one of the most interesting events of the meet, which is to last all month.

BRITISH BAR ROSS RIFLE.

Dissatisfaction Caused by Ban on Canadian Arm at Bisley.

Widespread discussion, and considerable dissatisfaction in some quarters, has been aroused in England over the barring of the Canadian Ross rifle from Bisley competitions. The Shooting Committee of the National Rifle Association has prohibited the use of the arm in question. Some of the crack Colonial riflemen, particularly the New Zealanders, are highly displeased as a result, while there is also displeasure among shots of the British Royal Air Force and the Marines.

The Council of the National Rifle Association asked a ruling from the British War Office as to whether or not the Ross rifle was a general service arm. The War Office ruled that it was not. The London Morning Post states that the War Office so decided because the Ross rifle has been withdrawn from service.

Nevertheless, as The Post points out, this rifle was authoritatively issued to troops during the war and played its part in killing Germans. It was used by the Canadians in the first battle of Ypres; it was issued to the British Marines during the war, and members of the Royal Air Force used it. It was eventually withdrawn from the field because of the danger of the breech action becoming choked with trench mud.

The British conditions governing service rifles in the series of competitions open to rifles of different pattern state that rifles which comply with the following particulars may be used: "Any .303 magazine rifle (not fitted with magnifying or telescopic sights) issued by the British Government or by any British overseas Government for the general arming of the troops for service in the field; or similar rifle of Government or of private manufacture, of bona-fide Government pattern and bearing the Government Viewer's mark."

RECORD LIST OF GUNNERS.

About 900 Marksmen to Compete in Grand American Handicap.

With 698 trapshooters already entered and stragglers coming along in each mail, Secretary Stoney McLinn of the American Trapshooting Association announced recently that the Grand American Handicap, to be held in Chicago on Aug. 15, would be a record-breaker from a point of the number of contestants. It is practically assured that a field of 900 or more will start in the annual clay target shooting classic. These trapshooters will represent every State in the Union as well as Canada. There will be a number of women, two men 80 years of age, two boys under 12, and at least a score of soldiers and sailors.

The Grand American Handicap Tournament will open on Monday, Aug. 11, and there will be championship events each day, with the big handicap ending the shoot on Friday. Championship Day, Wednesday, will see contests among trapshooters 70 years of age and more, among boys under 18 years of age, and among the champions from forty-six States and two Canada divisions.

To Contest Jersey Coast Titles.

Competition in the New Jersey coast championship tennis tournament will begin Aug. 18 at the Bay Head Yacht Club, Bay Head, N. J. Singles and doubles will be played for both men and women. Entries close on Aug. 16 with R. H. Metcalfe, Chairman. The event has proved popular in other seasons, and is expected to attract a good entry this year.

Terse News of Sports in Town and Out.

Stanford and California to Play.

After a lapse of five years Stanford and California Universities are to resume football relations. Stanford stuck to Rugby when California took up the American gridiron game, and the Palo Alto collegians pursued their style of game until recently, when the discontinuance of the sport by Santa Clara University left Stanford without opposition at Rugby. The Santa Clara collegians took up American football and now Stanford has followed suit. A full schedule of games has been arranged against the leaders of California 'varsity as well as games with other coast schools.

Woman Weeps When She Loses.

Not all women who take up sport can stand the sting of defeat. This was demonstrated recently at Chicago when Miss Bobbie Esch of Cleveland was eliminated in a clay court tennis tournament by Miss Marie Qualey of Chicago. Miss Esch took the defeat to heart and found consolation in tears.

Reisler Has Son of His Own Heart.

John J. Reisler, formerly a local boxing promoter, has a fighting son whom proud Papa Reisler predicts will bring fame and pelf to the Reisler family through his fistic prowess. The youngster is boxing under the name of Young Reisler and has participated in fourteen contests to date. In ten of these bouts Young Reisler has disposed of his rivals. He is competing in the bantamweight class, but Papa Reisler has visions of his offspring quickly advancing to the heavyweight ranks and administering a beating to Jack Dempsey, against whom Papa Reisler has an old score to settle.

Kreuger to Compete with Schroth.

Harold Kreuger, a Hawaiian swimming champion, and George Schroth, Pacific Coast title-holder, will compete for the Oakland A. C. of San Francisco, Cal., in the national ten-mile championship swim which will be held by the Riverton Yacht Club in the Delaware River, Aug. 16. Irving Singer, Secretary of the Oakland A. C., has notified Charles B. Durborow, Chairman of the Swimming Committee of the Riverton Y. C., to this effect. With this notification came the information that the swimming authorities of Honolulu had deferred their important race meet until Oct. 4, in order that there will be no conflict with the Delaware River swim. Buddy Wallen and Mike McDermott of Chicago, with Leo Giebel of this city, will also compete in this race.

Leonard and Cline Meet Aug. 11.

Boxing promoters of Philadelphia are planning one of the biggest ring carnivals ever conducted in the Quaker City for Aug. 11. Lightweights will occupy the limelight, and it is expected to bring the leading boxers in this class together. Already three bouts have been arranged. They provide for competition between Benny Leonard, champion, and Irish Patsy Cline of Harlem; Johnny Dundee, the local championship contender, and Joe Welling of Chicago, and Charley White of Chicago and Eddie Moy, a Philadelphia boxer.

Jim Rice Coaching Arundel Crew.

Jim Rice is directing some of his time to preparing the Arundel Boat Club oarsmen of Baltimore for the Middle States regatta, which will be held at Philadelphia Sept. 1. Coach Rice has a contract which stipulates he must instruct a moving picture actress in the art of propelling a boat through water through the medium of a well-shaped pair of arms and two simple looking blades. The veteran Blue and White rowing mentor attended the recent Southern Rowing Association regatta, and announced then he would aid the Arundel B. C. oarsmen for the Labor Day regatta.

$25,000 Will Not Buy Cox's Horse.

Walter Cox of New Hampshire has refused $25,000 for his four-year-old trotter McGregor the Great, regarded as the leading stake trotter of the season. This was disclosed recently following a trot at North Randall, where McGregor the Great captured a heat in a veritable sea of mud in 2:06¾. Following this performance S. A. Fletcher of Indianapolis, owner of Peter the Great, sire of the Cox trotter, offered $25,000 for the latter, but the offer was promptly refused.

Hughes Leaves Baseball.

The baseball career of Long Tom Hughes, former Boston Braves pitcher, has ended. Hughes was with the Los Angeles Club in the Pacific Coast League when he became aware of the truth of the assertion that "they never come back." Two years ago Hughes's arm first went back on him. This season he started out with the Los Angeles Club, but he gave up the ghost after three months of daily effort and one disastrous trial on the mound.

AUSTRALIANS ABSENT, BUT OTHER TENNIS FAVORITES TURN IN VICTORIES AT NEWPORT NETS

McLOUGHLIN EASY WINNER

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 5.—There was disappointment at Newport today over the delayed arrival of the Australians, who cannot possibly appear at the Casino until Thursday. All four names have been scratched from the singles draw, but by presenting the Brooks-Patterson and Thomas-Lycett teams with byes it is hoped that their places may be held for them in the doubles. In addition to starting the latter event, the third round of the invitation singles was reached this afternoon, with sixteen players remaining in the draw, practically every one of them representing top class in tennis.

As was the case yesterday, no upsets or surprises disturbed the consistent progress of the tournament, although several of the important contenders found the path of advancement far from the primrose variety.

The grandstand court was allotted this morning to ex-champion William M. Johnston and Harry C. Johnson, the present Massachusetts title holder, and the former won an interesting four-set struggle, 6—2, 6—3, 4—6, 6—2. The Californian's great forehand drive was again the leading factor in his success, and he used it constantly, either as a clean point winner or to force the openings for his crisp volleys. His gamesake put up a strong argument at the start, using his slicing strokes for accurate placements and fully earning the set which fell to his credit.

Johnston Gets Good Start.

Johnston started with a rush, taking four games in a row before his opponent scored and then alternating with the service to the close of an impressive 6-2 victory. He drove through again on the third game of the second set, increasing his lead to 3—1 and then 4—1, with another break through service after a game in which deuce was called seven times. With a 5—1 advantage on his own delivery, the set seemed over, but the Boston star upset Johnston's service after winning his own and carried the set to a 6—3 score before resigning it. Johnson continued his effective play in the third, eventually gaining a lead of 5—3, and, although the 1912 champion served a love game, he could not save the set, which went against him at 6—4.

The final set was short and to the point. Johnston broke through on the second game, when Johnson drove out of court twice in succession. It was 6—6, with another break against Johnson's service, and then 5—0, with the decisive point for game coming as the Bostonian slipped going after his rival's passing drive. Johnson then began another belated rally, winning his serve and breaking through Johnston's, when the latter twice missed the side line by inches. Leading at 40—30 on his own delivery, Johnson still seemed to have a chance, but a great drive by the Westerner brought the points to deuce, and two successive nets finished the struggle at 8—2.

The point score of this match was as follows:

FIRST SET.

W. M. Johnston	5	5	4	4	1	4	2	4—29—6
H. C. Johnson	3	3	1	2	4	2	4	1—20—2

SECOND SET.

W. M. Johnston	1	4	4	4	11	4	1	1	4—34—6
H. C. Johnson	4	1	2	2	9	1	4	4	2—29—3

THIRD SET.

H. C. Johnson	2	4	2	4	4	4	5	4	0	4—83—6
W. M. Johnston	4	1	4	1	6	2	0	2	4	2—29—4

FOURTH SET.

W. M. Johnston	4	4	4	4	4	2	3	5	5—30—6

Tilden Has Hands Full.

On the court nearest the clubhouse, William T. Tilden, 2d., had his hands full in disposing of Robert M. Kinsey, winning only after three long sets, 6—4, 7—5, 12—10, a score similar to that which he recently registered against the Californian in Chicago. The turf was heavy from last night's rain, with a thick fog as an added handicap, and it was difficult for the players to get set for their strokes. Both resorted to chopping and accurate placing, with many long rallies resulting. Tilden ran into a lead of 3—0, but grew careless and was caught by Kinsey who made a strong bid for the set before losing 6—4. In the second session, the Philadelphian fell into a similar streak of indifference, after again leading 3—0, and this time Kinsey ran five games in a row and seemed about to square the match. A brilliant uphill fight, however, in his characteristic style, saved the set for Tilden at 7—5. The final ran to deuce games on service after which Kinsey broke through for the lead only to lose it in turn, finally dropping his own delivery for the set and match, 12—10.

The longest set of the day, however, was played by Arthur S. Gragin, of New York, and the Philadelphia junior Carl Fischer. These two started their match early in the morning and were at it for four full hours before reaching a decision, the final score being 15—13, 6—3, 4—6, 6—3, in favor of Cragin, with the total of games exactly even. Fischer's game fight in the exhausting opening session won the hearts of the crowd and he was loudly applauded when he eventually tied up the match. The rubber was close all the way with Fischer once in possession of the old game. But the veteran's court craft was a little too much for the youngster, who finally succumbed after a remarkable 74-game struggle. The loser showed a fine, natural style, with plenty of speed and control, and should be heard from in the future.

R. Lindley Murray ran into some real opposition today when R. C. Seaver of Boston held him to a 10—8 score in the opening set, covering court with wonderful steadiness and returning the hardest of shots. Murray gradually increased the speed of his serves and drives, however, and by rushing the net more and more succeeded in capturing the remaining sets at 6—1 and 6—3.

Plain Sailing for Favorites.

The 1916 champion, R. N. Williams, 2d, found Cragin too weary from his morning match to offer great resistance and won at 6—4, 6—2, 6—1. Kumagae had an even easier time with Dr. William Rosenbaum, whom he defeated, 6—3, 6—2, 6—2.

McLoughlin, Griffin, Bundy, Niles, and Wallace Johnson all won their second round matches in straight sets. Washburn dropped a set to R. N. Dana, and F. C. Boggs had all the better of a 4—1 section with Axel Gravem, but was unable to chop his way through the Californian's speed in the others.

The best doubles match on the day came late, with Murray and Niles facing Kinsey and Gravem, the former team winning after three hard sets, 6—3, 6—4, 6—2. It was the champion's terrific overhead hitting that decided the issue, one of his kills winning the final point after the ball had eluded Niles on an easy chance. McLoughlin and Bundy, former national champions, looked strong in their straight-set victory over Inman and Major Harpan, although the Comet is still playing under wraps and showing an awkward hitch in his service motion which is very different from the smooth machinery to which his admirers are accustomed.

Williams and Washburn, the Eastern champions, won without difficulty, while the national titleholders, Tilden and Richards, as well as the former champions, Johnston and Griffin, postponed their opening matches until tomorrow.

LANG AND LE GROS VICTORS.

Jerry Lang and Travers Le Gros will represent the Forest Hills district in the junior national championship tournament to be played at the West Side club later in the month. Lang and Le Gros, after a hard battle, defeated E. Rogers and T. Vail yesterday on the courts of the West Side club, in the qualifying tournament, 5—7, 6—4, 3—6, 6—2, 6—2.

Brilliant tennis was displayed by both pairs, and the comeback staged by the losers in the third set and fourth set was strong. In the fifth and deciding set, however, Lang and Le Gros displayed a brand of tennis which has marked them as stars in the metropolitan district, and captured the set handily.

The boys' singles, between Vail Gress and Frank Ross, will be decided today. The match was started yesterday, but was called on account of darkness, the sets standing one—all. The finals of the junior singles will be played as soon as Cecil Donaldson returns from Newport, where he is playing. He will meet P. Vail in the deciding match.

FAIRY WAND BEATS SUN BRIAR BY NOSE

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, Aug. 5.—Gifford A. Cochran's fleet but fractious Fairy Wand ran one of the best races of her career here today. She captured the Delaware Handicap from a field which contained some of the best handicap horses in training and, in doing so, equalled the track and American record for a mile in competition, 1:35 1-5, which was set by W. S. Kilmer's Sun Briar in this same event last year.

Fairy Wand, which had run second to Purchase in the Saratoga Handicap on the opening day of the meeting, just managed to keep her nose in front as she passed the judges' stand, and it was probably fortunate for her that there was no more distance to go. She was forced to make record time to beat Sun Briar, which had been trained especially for this race and was about to make another attempt to equal or lower the mark. Sun Briar finished second, only a nose out of winning position, and in a few more strides would surely have been the winner. His stable mate, Exterminator, winner of the Kentucky Derby a year ago, was third.

There was one scratch in the race which was much regretted by the patrons. J. E. Widener withdrew the entry of Naturalist almost at the last moment. Widener waited until the last moment because there had been a threat of rain all day. Had it rained enough to make the track heavy, Naturalist would have started, as he is particularly fond of the mud. As it turned out, it did rain some about the time the race started but not enough to affect the track or to coax Naturalist into the competition.

The withdrawal of Naturalist made Sun Briar favorite. The Klimer racer was known to have improved greatly in his work-outs at the Spa since he was last seen at Empire City. He was in much better racing condition today, and ran a very good race, despite his defeat. Others that started in the event were Hollister, Tippity Witchet, The Porter, Hannibal, and Crank. R. T. Wilson, Jr., had his Hannibal carefully prepared for this event, but the colt disappointed him.

Fairy Wand Leads All the Way.

Fairy Wand, which is usually a bad actor at the post, was on her good behavior today, and was ready when the barrier was sprung. She made it a winning race at every post. Kummer sent her to the front at the very start, and, making the first turn into the back stretch, she opened up a gap of three lengths on the others. Sun Briar was in second position, and Knapp was content to let him trail and follow the pace. But he was not prepared for the pace that Fairy Wand set. She raced through the back stretch and into the far turn without yielding any of her advantage. Knapp then saw that it was a real race and moved up with Sun Briar.

Reaching the turn into the stretch Sun Briar was brought up to within a length of the fleeing mare, and Knapp attempted to take the lead. But Fairy Wand, though tiring from the speed she had displayed throughout the race, was game and stuck it out to the finish. As the two neared the wire it was just a question whether Fairy Wand could last another stride or two. Sun Briar was apparently fresh and gaining slowly but surely. Fairy Wand must have felt relieved when she reached the wire, for she did not have much left.

While the Delaware Handicap was the only real feature on the card the other contests brought out good fields and provided spirited competition. This was particularly true of the two-year-old events.

In the first of the dashes for the youngsters the Harry Payne Whitney colors were brought home first by his fleet filly Afternoon, which beat Rai Parr's Violet Tip and Walter J. Salmon's Betty J. among the others in a large field. W. R. Coe's Masked Dancer was made a second choice because of her race on Saturday, but the youngsters were so uneasy at the post that the start was not good, and the Coe entry, which also included Sweet Music, suffered by the break.

Afternoon was away none too well herself, but she made up for the lost advantage with a fine show of speed over the five-furlong route. Betty J. set the pace after the barrier went up and raced nicely to the turn into the stretch, when she had done her best and could not stand the pace longer. At this point she began to drop back, and Afternoon, which had been brought from far back by Ambrose, raced into the lead as the horses were being straightened out and came in a very easy winner. Violet Tip, which had been lightly regarded, came through with a rush and took second place from Betty J., which, though tired, was good enough to hold third.

Smart Guy Takes the Fifth.

The fifth race, which was also for two-year-olds, went to Ralph Parr's Smart Guy, with Beck and Call second and Cormeran third. Smart Guy was the favorite, and ran a very good race. F. E. Goldsmith's Who Cares, which was in big demand, failed to get off well, but raced to the front for a time, only to finish well back in the field. Smart Guy was rated well back during the early running, but made a strong finish and came through half the field to win.

The presence of so many horses at the Spa brought out big fields again today. The first race, for three-year-olds and upward, had seventeen starters out of thirty which had been named over night This field gave Starter Mars Cassidy a good deal of trouble, and it took seven minutes to get the horses away from the post. When they did finally get away the start was very bad, and three were left several yards behind. J. H. Louchheim's St. Quentin had the advantage of a good start and went to the front, where he remained to the finish. Thomas F. McMahon took the place from Alverd.

G. W. Loft's Gath proved best of the three-year-olds and upward which went to the post in the second race. Gath took the lead in this mile event in the backfield and won handily from Hong Kong, which beat Leapfrog for second.

H. Remmer's Huttontrope took the final event on the card, a mile race for maidens three years old and upwards. Huttontrope beat H. P. Whitney's Vexatious, which ran a good race and finished second in front of War Rocket.

Harvard Freshmen Will Be Compelled to be Athletic

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 5.—Every young man entering the freshman class at Harvard University this Fall must participate in some form of athletics.

This compulsory ruling, just announced, is declared to be in harmony with the new military service plans of the Government. The university, quick to recognize the trend of the times, has installed a new system of freshman athletics to begin in October. William H. Geer of Albany, N. Y., will be director of the work. Mr. Geer has been Director of Athletics with the New York Military Training Commission.

"The basis of the system of compulsory freshman athletics will be the holding of outdoor sports, which will be competitive and at the same time good fun, and can be kept up after graduation," said Mr. Geer today. "At Harvard we believe that physical training in its best sense should be part of the college requirements. We are going to emphasize rowing and sports such as swimming, tennis, and that kind of thing, rather than football, though the game will be accepted as a definite participation in exercise."

RUMSON WINS POLO MATCH BY ONE GOAL

Special to The New York Times.

RUMSON, N. J., Aug. 5.—In the closest contested match of the Rumson Country Club polo tournament, played today on Prospect Field, the Rumson four defeated Whippany River by the score of 9 to 8 goals. The winners received cups presented by W. Strothers Jones, Sr.

This was the final match of the tournament, and the result was a surprise. Rumson, conceded a two-goal handicap, got away in the lead with three goals in the first period and two in the second. Whippany was outplayed in the first half, but held Rumson from scoring in four periods.

Benjamin Gatins, whose all-around play was a feature, was unhorsed in a collision, but continued in the game. Leland H. Rose, who tallied six of the eight goals for Whippany, tied the score in the final period, and Peter Hauck, who played a strong game for Rumson, saved the game by knocking the ball away from a sure goal by Thomas S. Field. Gatins a short time later tallied the winning goal.

Thomas S. Field and J. Berens Waters substituted for George O. Sherman and R. A. Grannis for Whippany.

1—J. Ford Johnson.	1—Thomas S. Field.
2—Peter Hauck.	2—L. H. Rose.
3—Ben J. Gatins.	3—Arch Kinney.
Back—C. J. Waters.	Back—Berens Waters.

Goals, Rumson—Johnson 2, Gatins 5, Hauck 2; allowed by handicap 2; total—9. Whippany—Ross 6, Kinney 1, Waters 1; total—8. Referee—Harry East.

POLO PLAY BEGINS AUG. 23.

Thousand Island Club Receives Many Entries for Tourney.

With entries already assured from the London, Canada, and Montreal clubs, the Miami Valley Club of Dayton, Ohio, the home team, and two or three from about New York, the third annual tournament of the Thousand Islands Polo Club, at Wellesley Island, Alexandria Bay, N. Y., from Aug. 23 to Sept. 6, promises to be an international fixture. The entries will close on Thursday, Aug. 14, with the Polo Association.

TROTTERS TO COME EAST.

Circuit Horses Will Be Shipped at Close of Cleveland Meet.

The Grand Circuit horses which are now making their second appearance at Cleveland will be shipped on Saturday night or Sunday to Philadelphia for their campaign over the eastern loop of the circuit, which includes one week meetings at Belmont Park as well as at Poughkeepsie, Boston, Hartford, and Syracuse. Then will follow the racing carnivals at Columbus, Lexington, and Atlanta.

Eighty-four races were contested at the first four meetings, forty-nine of them being for trotters and thirty-five for pacers. Of this number, Murphy won seventeen, Cox ten, Valentine eight, Geers seven, Thomas five, Fleming, Allen and McMahon three each, while McDonald, Lyman Brusie, Hyde, and Sturgeon were each credited with two winning mounts.

The favorites were bowled over regularly at Columbus last week, the defeat of Single G., Peter Billiken, Belle Alcantara, and Frank Dewey giving every one a jar. At the close of the Toledo meeting, Frank Dewey, whose front legs are not any too sound, was rated as a free for all prospect with only Miss Harris M. or Single G. in sight to trim him, but when the bell tapped at Columbus last Friday Geers came out and delivered the goods with Goldie Todd. He had the two-minute speed and turned it on at the proper place. Geers also won both of the colt races at Columbus with Molly Knight and Dudette and finished second with Binland to Ante Guy. It was their first appearance in a race this year, and Ante Guy won in 2:04¾. She is now at top form and will no doubt be given an opportunity to meet La Princeton at some point before they appear in the free for all at Hartford on Labor Day.

Ante Guy and Direct C. Burnett were Murphy's only winners at Columbus. His stable, however, was credited with another first when Valentine won the Neil House Purse with Wilkes Brewer, after making a new six-heat record of 2:05¼. In this race she defeated her stable companion, Royal Mack, and The Toddler, whose third heat in 2:03¾ is the fastest mile made by a trotter this year.

Valentine drove in twelve races at Columbus. He won with Wilkes Brewer, Jack Keith, and Gold Quartz and was in the money with Peter Coley, Peter Maurer, and Gladys B., while he also whisked Single G. in one heat, making Miss Harris M. pace in 2:00¾ to win. Cox landed in front with his splendid trotters McGregor the Great and Mignonia, the latter being the only horse that won at the first four Grand Circuit meetings this year.

Boxers' Training Club Is Planned.

A boxing club which will furnish an ideal training site for pugilists is being planned for Atlanta, Ga., W. V. Miller, a Georgia promoter, is fathering the idea. He plans to construct an open-air arena with all modern accommodations, where boxers can train for important matches. In addition to the training facilities Miller plans to install seating sections, and to conduct at least two bouts a week.

Stillman Takes Singles at Lenox.

LENOX, Mass., Aug. 5.—Mrs. Elizabeth Fenno and Rudolph Kissel, Jr., won the mixed doubles in the Lenox Club tennis tournament today, defeating in the finals Miss Ellen Bullard of Boston and James Stillman of New York, 6—3, 6—3. James Stillman won the men's singles, defeating Norman Davis of Stockbridge in the finals, 6—4, 9—7.

Unusual Investment Opportunities

MEN in their forties or fifties seeking to become financially independent, can ill afford to neglect to accumulate long-term bonds around present prices. It is the judgment of investment experts that the time is bound to come when many well secured bonds that can be purchased today to yield around 5½% to 6½% will sell at prices which will not yield anywhere near so much income. To men in their forties or fifties this is an important consideration, since every dollar of additional income means just that much more financial independence.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The second half of yesterday's stock market developed rallying power of a substantial order, although the sharp declines which occurred at the opening of business and for some time afterward were too extensive to be overcome in later operations. The result of trading was a highly irregular price list, in which declines outnumbered gains and in most cases were greater in size than the net advances. This was especially noticeable among the railroad shares, recessions among them running as high as 2 points. The continued liquidation of such stocks as Chesapeake & Ohio, Chicago & Northwestern, Delaware & Hudson, Northern Pacific, and Southern and Union Pacific betokened considerable disturbance over the railroad outlook. Trading was again on an unusually heavy scale, the turnover reaching upward toward the 1,900,000-share level, and in the first hour, when selling was heaviest, it looked as though a record day for the year was to be recorded.

The recovery was entirely in keeping with past experiences when a drastic reaction has occurred after a period of gradual decline. Doubtless a great deal of short covering was put through and the trend indicated that a number of poorly protected accounts had been eliminated on Monday, resulting in a slackening in the output of forced sales. The session produced little material to be used in judging the market outlook for the next few days. It seemed as though the truculent attitude of the railroad organizations had lost some of its force as a bearish influence, probably because Washington dispatches of the morning showed that the legislators were not inclined to be stampeded into hurried action on the wage demand. The Street wondered whether statements like that by one of the Brotherhood leaders that owners of capital be retired from railroad management did not represent brash talk for an effect. Whatever the potency of the railroad embroglio in yesterday's transactions in stocks, the comment of banking quarters indicated that it was working to check new financing in various directions. Bankers evidently desire to acquire an insight of the future situation of existing railway investments before completing comprehensive plans for fresh offerings. Coming at a time in midsummer when the output of new capital issues had reached a vast total, the uncertainty raised by railway workers over the ownership and management of the country's main transportation system promoted caution among underwriters and distributers in their negotiations with potential borrowers. Besides many industrial corporations, which are in the loan market, several foreign funicipal Governments desire to raise money here. A general scheme to provide credits for European reconstruction work continues to be held in abeyance.

The stock market seemed more under the influence of the movement to reduce living costs than anything else. The possibility that a program may be shaped in Washington to limit profits was by no means lost sight of. The cotton, grain, and provisions markets again suffered large declines, largely through the same cause, and dispatches from Argentina told of severe downward swings in grain prices there as agitation to lower prices of necessities gains ground. The field is one which every one realizes will require careful handling, with proper concern for economic facts. And, in view of numerous factors brought about by the war and seemingly unchangeable while the extraordinary war cost is being liquidated, the outlook is being examined with much care by traders in stocks.

Money rates were about the same as the day before, demand loans commanding 6 and 7 per cent. French exchange showed the effect of increased offerings of grain and merchandise bills, receding to 7.52, a new low record for the year. Sterling was steady and German exchange displayed a moderate improvement.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

French Exchange's Low Record.

Pressure against French exchange, which had been in evidence for several days while other rates were fairly steady, assumed greater proportions yesterday, resulting in a new low record for the year. The demand rate of 7.52 francs to the dollar at the close of business showed a decline of 15 centimes from Monday's last quotation. Bankers reported extensive offerings of franc bills, for the most part drawn against grain and manufactured goods. Sterling also weakened in the afternoon, moving down 2⅛ cents to the pound, with a final quotation of 4.33¼ for sight drafts.

$1,419,539,700 in July Charters.

New enterprises incorporated under the laws of the principal States during July reached the huge total of $1,419,539,700, according to the compilations of The Journal of Commerce. The only other month in which this total was exceeded was April, 1901, when the United States Steel Corporation was incorporated, and the total was $1,619,650,000, of which the Steel Corporation furnished $1,100,000,000. In the number of companies filing charters in July the record for all time has been broken with a total of 1,000. Since Jan. 1, 1919, more than $5,125,901,400 has been involved in new concerns incorporated, an increase approaching 500 per cent. over the corresponding 1918 period. Oil and gas companies lead in July, shipping concerns came next, and chemical companies were third; the first with a total of $586,216,500, the second $42,485,000, and the last $11,550,000.

June Freight Traffic Off.

According to the Operating Statistics Section of the Railroad Administration, the volume of freight traffic moved in June decreased substantially from the movement reported in June, 1918. Net ton miles of freight handled totaled only 31,933,366,000, which was a decrease of 15.2 per cent. The decrease in the Eastern District is shown to have been close to 21 per cent., while for the first six months of 1919 the loss, compared with net freight ton miles handled in the corresponding 1918 period, amounted to 14½ per cent.

The French Cities Loans.

While no conferences have been held so far on the question of paying off the $36,000,000 French three cities 6s, which fall due in November, it is generally believed that the issues will be paid. Bordeaux, Marseilles, and Lyons each borrowed $12,000,000 in this market three years ago, on 6 per cent. notes to mature this coming November. In some quarters it has been suggested recently that there was some uneasiness in banking circles over the payment of these notes, but it was asserted positively yesterday that they will be paid off at maturity.

Uncertainty Checking Finance.

Foreign municipalities have been feeling out this investment market in recent weeks, and some substantial financing has been done, but it appears now, in quarters where such loans were being considered, that the general political situation which has developed since Aug. 1 may act as a temporary check on further extensive banking operations along similar lines, until events shape themselves more definitely. That all of the inquiries have not been from European cities and Governments is well known, as various South American borrowers have been here for some weeks, also making tentative proposals to local bankers. As one banker summed up the situation yesterday, "There are a lot of irons in the fire, but the developments of recent days have cooled the flame somewhat."

A Further Cut in Rates.

The announcement by the United States Shipping Board of a sharp cut in ocean freight rates from Atlantic and Gulf ports to Buenos Aires and Montevideo, so that foreign rates to those ports may be successfully met, was approved in shipping circles yesterday, although the approval was not unanimous. Many ship owners still maintain the position that the vital thing at this time is for the Government to provide a specific merchant marine policy, enact the legislation necessary to carry it through, and immediately allocate to private concerns its tonnage for operation on a commission basis. In other words, the majority of ship owners want to see the Shipping Board retire from the field, so that they will not be competing with a Government agency.

The $266,000,000 Rail Deficit.

While June railway earnings indicated some improvement over the trend of the preceding five months, the record for the full half year, based on the preliminary figures available, make it appear that the Railroad Administration faced on June 30, 1919, a deficit of $288,000,000. This is about half of what the standard return of the carriers in the same period calls for. It is believed that during the crop-moving months earnings will keep pace with standard return, and may even be better over a short period, but it is obvious that but little of the Government operating deficit will be made up.

A Large Short Interest.

The break in prices on Monday undoubtedly had its beginning in liquidation of long stock, but when it became evident that a decline was in progress it was hurried along by short selling on a more extensive scale than has prevailed at any time this year. The short side continued to hold attractions yesterday, and stocks, after opening weak, sagged to lower levels. There was not, however, anywhere near the ease in putting prices down that ruled on the opening day of the week. On the other hand, there was not any very extensive covering of short sales, and as a result the market now has the back log of a large short interest. In the parlance of the Street, the technical position has been improved.

Calls for Margin.

Many calls for additional margin were made yesterday by brokerage houses, and all reports point to these having been answered with the cash. Margins are still said to be heavy in the majority of cases, but brokerage houses are demanding a greater amount of security than in former years. Some are insisting that margins be kept as high as 25 points on standard issues, and in the more speculative stocks margins of as high as 50 points have been asked.

Rallying Power Not Great.

At one time during yesterday's trading there was a pronounced degree of rallying power in evidence. Steel common, for instance, moved up to 106. The recovery, taking the list as a whole, did not last long, and there was a downward dip toward the close, which made many issues fall below their close of the preceding day. In the case of Steel this was only fractional, the net change being a decline of ⅛. Interest yesterday centred in the future course of the market. Opinion was divided as to whether the present break would be the termination of the bull market. Those who were still bullish pointed to the fact that there was good buying of the standard issues at the low prices.

Steel Production.

The production of the steel mills of the country is now at about 80 per cent. of capacity, according to the most authoritative estimates which are obtainable. Just what this means is best told by a comparison with the prewar conditions. Most steel men are agreed that the output now at 80 per cent. capacity is the equivalent of full capacity operations before the war. This would mean that there was a 20 per cent. expansion of capacity to handle the enormous war business, which is conservative. Export demand for steel is not yet assertive in the proportion that must become manifest before long, hence it is not improbable that the steel business will be running at capacity well before the end of the year.

BONDS HAVE GOOD SALE.

Many Danes Among Purchasers of $15,000,000 Copenhagen Securities.

The advance offering of $15,000,000 City of Copenhagen twenty-five-year 5½ per cent. gold bonds by Brown Brothers & Co., J. & W. Seligman & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co., and William A. Read & Co. was reported yesterday to have met with a good response. Inquiries from the Danish population of the United States are said to have been received in large quantity.

During the war the possibilities of the development of what is known as the Free Port of Copenhagen were enlarged at a cost of approximately $10,000,000. Increasing business has strained the port's facilities to the point where further expenditures of $15,000,000 are deemed necessary, and it is for this that the proceeds of the sale of the bonds will be used.

The Expansion of Business in America

In order to take advantage of the wonderful prosperity and expansion of business in this country, corporations have found it necessary to borrow money on terms which a few years ago would have been considered prohibitive. This situation makes it possible for investors to place their funds even for long periods on a particularly remunerative basis.

WIDE FLUCTUATIONS IN COTTON PRICES

When cotton futures opened off yesterday there was another sharp break of more than 145 points on Southern and Liverpool selling, and this liquidation, coming as it did on the heels of a 200-point break on Monday, brought out a heavy offering of near and distant contracts. The Liverpool sales followed a sharp break in that market of from 143 to 167 points on the cable information of the market action here on Monday. The break in the local market was followed by a recovery just as sharp, which carried prices above the Monday closing quotations, but there was a subsequent reaction before the close, with the decline ranging between 64 and 85 points.

The general uneasiness in the market was attributed again to the agitation in Washington for a drastic cut in the prices of commodities so that the cost of living may be decreased. Another disturbing factor was the news that railroad labor had assumed an attitude regarding the future operation of the transportation lines of this country which has been generally characterized as serious.

Following the heavy sales by the South and by Liverpool immediately following the opening yesterday, which carried prices down to the low, there was a reversal of sentiment, with Liverpool houses buying heavily on the advance along with local spot houses.

In the early break October contracts, which opened at 31.90, sold down to 30.85, a decline from the high on last Friday of more than 400 points. December contracts broke to 31.05 and January futures were down to 31.63.

Bankers Interested in Results of Federal Reserve Experts' Mission.

Some importance has been attached in financial quarters to the fact that Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank in this district, and Fred I. Kent, Director of the Division of Foreign Exchange of the Federal Reserve Board, have both gone abroad within the last three weeks. While it is known that both Mr. Kent and Mr. Strong are foreign exchange experts, it is not apparent that they were sent abroad to confer with foreign Government representatives in an effort to stabilize the exchange market, although it was admitted in banking circles yesterday that they would probably attend conferences at which the exchange situation will be discussed.

As far as could be learned yesterday Mr. Strong and Mr. Kent are not acting for any banking group, and whether they may be representing the Government abroad through their connection with the Federal Reserve Board could not be ascertained.

At all events the return of these bankers will be awaited with interest, for it is realized that they will have their own reports to make on general conditions as they have found them, and it is not considered improbable that official reports may be sent to Washington by each man.

BUYS PLOT IN PINE STREET.

Bankers Trust Co. Ready for an Extension of its Building.

The Bankers Trust Company announced yesterday that it had purchased the property at 7 Pine Street, at present occupied by a ten-story building, from the Empire Trust Company. Albert B. Ashforth represented the Bankers Trust Company in the transaction and Brown, Wheelock & Co. represented the Empire Trust Company. The plot has a frontage of 21 feet on Pine Street and a depth of 73 feet 2 inches.

The Bankers Trust Company two months ago purchased the seven-story Astor Building at 10 and 12 Wall Street, and by acquiring the Pine Street property has covered its requirements for a site for the extension of the Bankers Trust Company Building.

NIXON RULES OUT BEMIS TESTIMONY

Receiver's Counsel Asserts Fixed Charges Not Deducted from Estimated May Revenue of $225,415.21.

Professor E. W. Bemis, the statistical expert who appraised the property of the New York Railways Company for the city, testified yesterday at the hearing before Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon regarding the application of Corporation Counsel Burr to have the two-cent transfer charge revoked. In his table of figures submitted to the commission on Monday Professor Bemis indicated that the receipts of the company for the ten months preceding May last amounted to $606,315.91, while the total receipts for May amounted to $225,415.21.

Colonel Henry L. Stimson, counsel for Job E. Hedges, the receiver, pointed out that the fixed charges had not been deducted, and that the company had actually suffered a loss of $30,000 in May. Attempts were made to show that the earnings of the company were increasing, and that if the charge for transfers had been deferred a little longer it would have been easy to prove that there was no need for it because of the increased receipts. Commissioner Nixon explained that he had fixed the transfer charge at 2 cents instead of 3 because he knew that the financial condition of the company was improving.

Bemis fixed the value of the property used by the company at $45,000,000, about $25,000,000 less than the company's estimate. Colonel Stimson asked Professor Bemis if he had considered the value of all of the property when he had appraised it, and when the witness replied that he had done so he was asked about the value of the company's power station at Ninety-sixth Street and First Avenue, its equipment, and the value of the real estate. Professor Bemis replied that he had not taken these bits of property into consideration. Colonel Stimson then told him that experts retained by the company to appraise these properties had valued them at upward of $6,000,000. Commissioner Nixon ruled out the testimony of the witness regarding the value of the company's property on the ground that it had been arrived at by guesswork or was merely an assumption.

Colonel Stimson said he thought the commission had full authority to authorize the transfer charge in the way it did, and that the demand of the city that the company give each passenger a transfer charge receipt, so that money might be returned if the courts set aside the commission's order, was unnecessary. The law provides a penalty of $50 for each unlawful charge, and therefore the city, he said, was amply protected.

If the application for a revocation of the order authorizing the charge is refused Mr. Burr will apply at once to the Appellate Division for a writ of certiorari so that the whole proceeding may be reviewed. The hearing was completed yesterday, and both sides have ten days in which to submit briefs.

Unprecedented Oil Conditions

With the oil fields of the European countries demoralized, with the oil stocks of the whole world depleted, with an actual shortage of gasoline and kerosene in this country at the present time, and an unprecedented output of automobiles and tractors, every factor seems reassuring. The future for the industry indeed never seemed brighter than it does today. The fuel oil situation is one considerably complicated, but the demand for gasoline would indicate a probable advance for the best grades of crude used for this purpose.

ASK HOOVER'S HELP ON COAL SHORTAGE

UNITED STATES CANNOT AID

Supreme Council to be Asked to Appoint Commission to Co-ordinate Distribution.

PARIS, Aug. 4. (Associated Press.)—Shipping and fuel representatives of France, Belgium, and Italy conferred with Herbert Hoover, head of the International Relief Organization, here today and decided to urge the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference to appoint a European Coal Commission to co-ordinate the distribution of European coal in an effort to avert what threatens to be a disaster.

The meeting was held as the result of a warning given by Mr. Hoover in an address at the recent conference in London of the Supreme Economic Council. He said that Europe's coal production was 35 per cent. below normal and that the United States could not offer relief because of the shortage of shipping. In his address Mr. Hoover said:

"The fate of European civilization now rests in the hands of the coal miners and coal mine owners of Europe to an equal, if not to a greater, degree than in the hands of the providers of foods and supplies during the next year.

At today's meeting Mr. Hoover declined to accept the permanent direction of the proposed European Coal Commission, stating that he believed the problem to be strictly European and that the situation could not be relieved materially by the slight help which the United States could give.

Mr. Hoover said to the fuel representatives of the various Governments:

"The coal problem, with that of the approaching harvest and the solution of the immediate food pressure, comes to the front as the greatest menace to the stability of life in Europe. This problem is domestic to Europe and is incapable of solution from the United States. Disregarding all other questions, an additional load of 1,000,000 tons monthly on American ports would, indeed, be a large tax, in the face of the trebling of the food exports of the United States above the nomal pre-war level. Furthermore, such a tonnage would entail a tax on the world's shipping which cannot but affect freight rates generally. With a shortage in production of 20,000,000 tons per month, the contribution of even 4,000,000 tons monthly from America would be of little importance."

Only a greatly increased coal production and an improved organization for its distribution could save Europe from disaster next year, Mr. Hoover explained, and he urged that some sort of fuel control be established which would greatly stimulate production and secure such distribution as would maintain essential services on which economic and political stability must rest.

According to figures gathered for Mr. Hoover by experts, England's annual production of coal has fallen from 292,000,000 tons in 1913 to 183,000,000 tons, the present production. Germany's decline is slightly greater. Europe, at the present rate, will produce 443,000,000 tons next year, while the amount needed is estimated at 614,360,000 tons.

PREDICTS COAL FAMINE.

Head of Lighting Concern Fears Serious Shortage.

Ralph Elsman, Vice President of the Kings County Lighting Company, in a statement yesterday said advices received by him indicated there would be a coal shortage, amounting probably to many million tons, in a short time.

He said his information had been verified by Government reports. He quoted a Government official as saying that a coal famine was likely this Fall.

"If these reports are true," read the statement, "the situation is more acute than it was at any time during the world war. We all have vivid recollection of when the Coal Administration found it necessary to suspend many lines of industry, and the hardships worked then were a severe enough lesson.

"I am doubtful if the wartime regulations could be enforced in the present circumstances, and the hardships would fall, in the natural course of events, on the small consumer, including many homes."

UNDERWOOD IS ILL AGAIN.

Erie President Asks Hearing in Ferry Test Case Postponed.

Frederick D. Underwood, President of the Erie Railroad Company, who was arrested Saturday on a municipal ferryboat at Staten Island for refusing to leave the boat at the end of its trip, is indisposed and will not appear before Magistrate Croak in New Brighton this morning to answer the charge of disorderly conduct.

Mr. Underwood yesterday communicated with Thomas R. McGinley, a politician of Richmond Borough, who furnished $500 bail for him, and asked him to try to have his hearing postponed until tomorrow. When the hearing was called Sunday Mr. Underwood was not in court, and the magistrate was about to declare the bail forfeited when a lawyer announced that the Erie President was ill. The magistrate adjourned the hearing until today.

TACONY COMPANIES MERGED

Steel Concern Takes Over Philadelphia Ordnance Corporation.

The Tacony Steel Company of this city and the Tacony Ordnance Corporation of Philadelphia announced yesterday that the latter had been purchased by the former and consolidated with it. The Tacony Ordnance Corporation was organized in August, 1917, and manufactured large-calibre gun forgings for the United States.

The consolidation does not affect the management of the company, as the following officers have acted in the same capacity for both concerns for some time: President—J. B. Warren; Vice President and Treasurer—George Satterthwaite; Secretary—H. T. Stetson, and other Directors, O. W. Bird, Jr., and W. H. Turner. No consideration was mentioned in the announcement of the consolidation.

WEEKLY FOR EX-SOLDIERS.

To Come Out Under Guidance of "Stars and Stripes" Writers.

The Butterick Company announced yesterday that it would launch in September a weekly for the new civilians, dedicated to all those Americans who saw service under the American flag in the great war. It will be called The Home Sector, and will be conducted by the demobilized editorial council of The Stars and Stripes.

It has been found possible to enlist as editors, associate editors or contributors for this new weekly the men who wrote or drew 90 per cent. of the material which appeared in The Stars and Stripes during its sixteen months of existence as the official weekly of the A. E. F.

Harold W. Ross of San Francisco, the private of engineers who became managing editor of The Stars and Stripes, will edit The Home Sector. His staff of artists will include A. A. Wallgren, the incorrigible marine, and C. Leroy Baldridge, who is to sail from Vancouver tomorrow on a three-months sketching tour of the Far East.

Hudson Hawley, the machine-gun private who wrote most of the first issue of the soldiers' weekly and stayed on the job to dash off its final editorial page, has remained in France to represent the new weekly, and in its behalf is now touring the A. E. F. with General Pershing. Such Stars and Stripes tollers as Franklin P. Adams, Charles Phelps Cushing, Grantland Rice and Alexander Woollcott are among the contributors to the first issues.

LAUNCHING AT HOG ISLAND.

Forty-seventh Vessel Put Over on Anniversary of First Event.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—Hog Island today celebrated the first anniversary of its initial ship launching by sending into the Delaware River the 7,800-ton cago carrier Shickshinny, the forty-seventh vessel to leave the ways of the great shipyard. One year ago today the yard launched its first vessel, the Quistconck in the presence of President and Mrs. Wilson.

Including the Shickshinny Hog Island has launched 367,775 deadweight tons in the year, a record never made by any yard in the world.

The Shickshinny was named by Mrs. Wilson. The sponsor was Miss Natalie Beach Crary, who was selected by the Chamber of Commerce of Shickshinny, Penn. The town presented a complete library to the ship.

RECORD GROWTH IN CAPITAL

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—John Skelton Williams, Comptroller of the Currency, announced today that the July growth in national bank capital was the greatest of any month in recent years and seven times as great as reductions and liquidations. Twenty charters for new national banks were granted and fifty-four applications for increases of capital of existing national banks were approved during the month.

The aggregate capital of the new national banks chartered was $760,000, and the increases approved for the fifty-four aggregated $12,680,000, making the total increase $13,440,000.

The total number of national banks going into voluntary liquidation was ten, with a total capital of $1,985,000. Two reduced their capital by $225,000. Total reductions were $1,910,000.

The seventy-four national banks, including those newly chartered and those whose capital was increased, were distributed through thirty-two States, with seven each in New York and Texas, six in Pennsylvania, five in California, and four each in New Jersey and Wisconsin.

"On July 31, 1919," said the announcement, "the number of national banks in operation was 7,829, with applications for 224 charters awaiting approval, with a proposed capital of $15,027,000. There were also 218 applications pending from banks for authority to increase their capital in the sum of $21,613,600, making a total of $36,640,600 new capital applied for, and in addition there were thirty-one applications from national banks desiring to increase their capital, the amount of increases not being determined.

"There has been no failure of a national bank for more than six months, and in the nineteenth months since January 1, 1918, there have been only two small national bank failures in the entire country. This record for immunity from failure has not been equalled since 1870."

Paper Trust Reports $38,006 Surplus

The annual report of the North American Pulp and Paper Companies Trust for last year shows a surplus of $38,006. The operating profit was $985,168 and this with other income brought the total income to $1,486,727. In the preceding year the total income was $1,318,740 and the surplus $45,602. Last year's report shows an increase of about $500,000 in charges for interest, sinking fund and the like over the 1917 figures.

What About Lumber?
Recently we called your attention to the preferred stock of a lumber company with 40% back-dividends. This stock has had a substantial rise.
We now call your attention to the preferred stock of a lumber company with over 100% in back dividends. The lumber industry, like the brick industry, is profiting by the building boom. Surplus lumber accumulated during the last 15 years has been used up. This means more earnings and equities for the stock we have in mind.

INSURANCE COMPANY CLOSED UP BY STATE

The affairs of the New York National Insurance Company of Buffalo, which suffered heavy losses when the North Penn Bank of Philadelphia failed recently, will be liquidated by Jesse S. Phillips, State Superintendent of Insurance, on an order granted yesterday by the Supreme Court of Erie County.

The liquidation order was the outcome of an examination into the affairs of the company by the State Insurance Department. In announcing the receipt of the court order, Mr. Phillips said his investigation had disclosed that a large share of the company's assets had been deposited with the North Penn Bank. In his statement about the liquidation order Mr. Phillips said:

"The Superintendent took possession in order to conserve the interests of the policy holders and all others interested. Because of the inability of the Pennsylvania authorities to determine the extent of the bank defalcation, and on account of the complicated relations between the company and the bank, it is impossible to estimate the amount which may be realized.

"The company was thoroughly examined by the department as of March 31, 1919, on which date its total assets amounted to $657,784, with total liabilities, exclusive of capital stock, amounting to $443,717, leaving at that time a surplus to policy holders of $214,067."

Mr. Phillips said the books of the company showed a deposit in the North Penn Bank amounting to approximately $222,928.

The New York National Insurance Company was organized in 1905 with a capital stock of $200,000. It operated in New York, Pennsylvania, and other States. The officers are James J. Boland, Scranton, Penn., President; Charles Diebold, Jr., Buffalo, and Harry Houch, Vice Presidents; J. R. Jones, Secretary, and N. T. Boland, Scranton, Treasurer.

Clarence C. Fowler, Chief of the Liquidation Bureau of the Insurance Department, has been designated Special Deputy Superintendent in charge of the liquidation.

$1,000,000 FUND IN DISPUTE.

Brattleboro, Vt., Seamstresses Contend for Surplus to Bequest.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Instructions as to the disposition to be made of the surplus income from a fund provided under the will of Thomas Thompson for aiding "seamstresses, needlewomen, and shop girls" of Brattleboro, Vt., and Rhinebeck, N. Y., and for "kindred purposes," were requested of the Supreme Court today by the trustees.

The fund, the trustees said, had grown to more than $1,000,000. Thompson died in this city in 1860, and the fund became available upon the death of his wife in 1890.

"The Society of Seamstresses, Needlewomen and Shop Girls" of Brattleboro set forth that they and beneficiaries in Rhinebeck are entitled to the entire income, but they assert that a considerable portion of the money has been used to exploit a school nurse system in Milwaukee, Detroit, Buffalo and elsewhere, the trustees claiming a right to do so under the "kindred purposes" clause of the will.

POLICE CORPORAL ACCUSED.

Charged with an attack upon Helen Dille, a 20-year-old married woman, living at 302 West 121st Street, Police Corporal Joseph L. Horn of the West Twentieth Street Station was arrested yesterday morning and held a prisoner at his own station. Immediately following his arrest he was suspended by Third Deputy Commissioner August Drum Porter, who is serving as Commissioner in the absence of Commissioner Enright. Later he was arraigned before Magistrate Henry H. Curren in Jefferson Market Court and held in $2,000 bail for a hearing on Aug. 12.

According to information given out at headquarters, Mrs. Dille said she was on her way downtown to meet a friend when she was dragged into an unoccupied building at 117 West Twenty-second Street by the officer.

DEMPSEY QUITS THE B. R. T.

John J. Dempsey, Vice President of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, at a salary of $15,000 a year, resigned yesterday. It was said that he would become Vice President of the Scamans Oil Company, an independent oil concern of this city, at a salary double that paid to him by the B. R. T.

Mr. Dempsey has been with the B. R. T. for twenty years, and for a number of years has been in charge of transportation. He was indicted, along with other officials of the company, for the Malbone Street tunnel disaster, and he has not yet been tried.

Prussian Income Tax Increases.

Reports presented to the Prussian National Assembly by the treasury officials of that State show that the Prussian income tax upon individuals and corporations brought in 944,000,000 marks in 1918, a gain of 226,000,000 over the preceding year. At normal exchange a mark equals 23.8 cents, at present it is worth about 7 cents. Individuals paid 766,000,000 and companies 178,000,000. Of the individual income tax the cities took 548,000,000 and the State 218,000,000. In 1917 the increase over 1916 had been 108,000,000. Income tax was paid last year by 7,777,400 entities out of a population of about 40,000,000.

Burglars Get $3,000 in Jewels.

It was learned at Police Headquarters yesterday that jewels valued at $3,500 were stolen from the home of John Francis Ryan, a former naval officer, at 656 West 160th Street, on Monday afternoon, when burglars entered his apartment on the second floor by jimmying a dumb waiter door into the kitchen. Among the jewels taken were two diamond rings and a diamond bar pin containing ten stones.

Confirm Ship Board Nominations.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The Senate late today confirmed the nominations of John Barton Payne of Illinois, Thomas A. Scott of Connecticut, and Henry M. Robinson of California to be members of the United States Shipping Board.

GERMAN DYEMAKERS READY.

The Baden Aniline and Soda Works of Ludwigshafen wrote off 40,604,428 of its gross earnings of 71,484,229 marks in 1918 and cut its dividend rate to 12 per cent. from 20 per cent. the preceding year, thus paying out only 10,800,000 marks, against 18,000,000 for 1917. It carried over a balance of 2,443,694, compared with 3,357,807 last year. The report does not give the reason for the enormous sum "written off," and the Frankfurter Zeitung complains rather bitterly at the secretiveness of the company, which leaves outsiders ignorant of how the concern functions. General expenses out of the gross earnings totaled 15,365,924 in 1918, practically twice as much as in 1917, mostly because of increased taxes. In 1917 gross earnings were 63,287,300 marks, of which 21,213,487 were written off. Wages and salaries paid in 1918 totaled $1,930,000 marks.

The company's capital stock is 90,000,600 marks and its bonded debt of 17,840,000 was recently augmented by the issuing of 50,000,000 in 4½ per cent. bonds at 96¼ for the announced purpose of enlarging its nitrogen works and buying its own coal mines. The report puts the value of the company's property of all kinds at 385,060,000 marks, an increase of 176,050,000 during the year. Nothing was added to the reserves, which stand at 43,090,000 marks. The general welfare fund amounts to 8,770,000.

TO OPEN MORE ICE DEPOTS.

Mayor's Committee Will Place Eight Free Stations in Queens.

Park Commissioner Albert C. Benninger announced last evening that eight free ice stations would be opened in Queens within the next few days under the supervision of the Mayor's Free Ice Committee. The stations will be open for two hours daily, and ice will be delivered to those who obtain cards from the person in charge at the stations or through churches and fraternal organizations.

The stations will be located as follows: Long Island City, 108 Fulton Avenue, Astoria, and McGraw's store, Seventh Street and Vernon Avenue, Hunter's Point; Maspeth, Atteka Democratic Club, Maspeth Avenue and Willow Street; Corona Heights, James Butler's store, Alburtis and Corona Avenues; Evergreen, 11 Cypress Avenue; Flushing, Corporation yard, Leavitt Avenue; Ozone Park, Rockaway Road and Beaufort Avenue; Jamaica, Ashmead Park.

REAL ESTATE MAN LOSES.

Purchaser Gets Award by City for Streets Cut Through Property.

A decision of interest to real estate men was handed down yesterday in the Queens Supreme Court by Justice Van Siclen in favor of the Fox Film Corporation against Stuart Hirschman, real estate operator.

The Fox Company, in 1915, bought from Hirschman a tract of land at Corona for $100,000, on which to erect a studio. At that time proceedings were pending for the opening of streets through the tract. In these proceedings, awards amounting to $45,000 were made. Hirschman attempted to collect these awards, and he was opposed by the Fox company, which was sustained by Justice Van Siclen's decision. The Justice directed that the money be turned over to the city in payment on assessments against the land for the opening of the streets.

HOBOKEN PIERS BIG ENOUGH

Hurley Says They Can Handle New 1,000-Foot Steamships.

In a letter to Dock Commissioner Murray Hulbert, made public yesterday, Edward N. Hurley, Chairman of the Shipping Board, said the piers at Hoboken, N. J., were adequate to take care of the two 1,000-foot steamships planned by the board. He added that the question of developing port and terminal facilities at Montauk Point never had been seriously considered.

"The naval architect discussed it," Mr. Hurley wrote, "and I just mentioned it generally. There is nothing to be gained in going to Montauk Point, as we have piers at Hoboken to take care of the ships of the size mentioned."

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 7,114 packages. Prices declined quite sharply on nearly all grades of creamy, and the market was unsettled at the lower figures quoted. Ladles and packing stock unchanged, but tone remained firm. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 54½@55c; extras, 92 score, 54c; firsts, 88 to 91 score, 51½@53½c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 49@51c; lower grades, 48@48½c; unsalted, higher than extras, 57½@58c; extras, 56½@57c; firsts, 54@56c; seconds, 51@53½c; State dairy tubs, finest, 53@53½c; good to prime, 50½@52½c; common to fair, 46@50c; renovated, firsts, 50@51c; lower grades, 46½@49½c; ladles, current make, firsts, 48@49c; seconds, 46½@47c; lower grades, 45@46c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 46½@47c; No. 2, 46c; lower grades, 43@45½c.

EGGS.—25,052 cases. Arrivals were more liberal. Trade continued quiet and selective and general market was weak, both on the very finest qualities. There seemed to be demand enough to absorb the limited offerings at unchanged prices. The full range of values was without material change, but the average good and lower grades were weak and many individual lots were selling lower than previously. High grade dirties and checks held steady. Storage eggs were quiet and in some quarters there was an increasing anxiety to sell. Nearby white eggs of the very fanciest quality were sustained. Fresh gathered, extras, a dozen, 54@55c; extra firsts, 51@53c; firsts, 47@50c; seconds, 44@46c; under grades, 35@43c; dirties, No. 1, 39@40c; No. 2 and poorer, 30@38c; checks, good to choice, dry, 34@36c; under grades, 25@33c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, buyer assuming storage, 50c; firsts, 47@49c; seconds, 44½@46½c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 67@70c; fair to prime, 55@66c; gathered whites, common to prime, 50@68c; Pacific Coast, whites, 62@68c; other Western and Southern, gathered whites, 45@66c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby, hennery browns, fancy, 58@62c; gathered brown and mixed colors, graded, fancy, 53@57c; fair to prime, 45@52c.

INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION

The enormous expansion in more than one hundred industrial companies of the United States, covering a four-year period, will be presented in review by Dow, Jones & Co., Publishers of The Wall Street Journal, in a carefully compiled statistical chart which will be distributed to subscribers of the

Dow, Jones & Co. News Services

and will appear in The Wall Street Journal Wednesday afternoon, August 6, and Thursday morning, August 7.

This tabulation will show the increase in working capital, by cash, Liberty Bonds and other securities, and by inventories; also surplus for common stocks, surplus after dividends and actual additions to value of common stocks per share.

While the Dow-Jones News Tickers flash the news by which financial centers over the country are quickly informed on passing events, sound finance is not built by flashes, but from steady reading of Dow, Jones & Co. Bulletins which go to make up The Wall Street Journal and constitute the investor's guide in finance.

The Dow-Jones Bulletins and The Wall Street Journal should be daily read and studied by every man who hopes to be an intelligent investor. These give all the facts and factors upon which fortunes are founded and where these facts and factors are ignored, overlooked, forgotten or not studied, fortunes are lost.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

After a weak opening prices on the Consolidated Exchange enjoyed a substantial rally which lasted until the early afternoon, when the market became very erratic, with quick changes in tone. The net results for the day were not of a positive order. United States Steel common was bid up 2 points from the early low, subsequently falling back and ending at the same figure as on the previous day, while Crucible Steel moved up 2¾ to 132⅝ and Bethlehem Steel B 2⅝ to 87⅞, the last two finishing at 131⅝ and 85⅝, respectively. Mexican Petroleum was bid up 3 points above Monday's final quotation, while Pan American moved up 4 from its early low and Royal Dutch of New York 3⅝. United Retail Stores rose 6½ points, while Central Leather rose 3, United States Rubber 3¾, and United States Industrial Alcohol 1⅞. Saxon Motors rose 5¼ points to a new high record for this year, while Stutz was bid up 4½. Studebaker 4, and Maxwell 4½. Tobacco Products advanced 5⅜ from its early low. The marine issues netted gains for the day, while the copper properties were fractionally changed. Southern Pacific, after falling back 5 points at the outset, rallied 3½, while Texas Pacific moved up 2½ and Reading 1⅝, most of which gains were lost.

I want to sell my suburban home. Business takes me to Europe permanently. If you want a fine, well-built, livable home of your own, cheap, answering this notice will furnish the opportunity. The plot has 100 feet of actual waterfront with riparian rights, running in depth 245 feet to Briarclyffe Road. A beautiful lawn with splendid shading oaks and many flowers and shrubs runs to the water's edge. The house is four years old and in perfect condition. There are 4 big rooms on the first floor, 4 fine bedrooms, 2 large bathrooms and sleeping porch on the second floor, and bath, maid's room and billiard room on the third floor. Electric light, heat, water, parquet floors and all city conveniences are installed. Everything up to date and modern. And it is only a few minutes' walk to the railroad station. Express service. Quick, convenient and easy commuting to heart of Manhattan. The price is less than it has cost me to date—$13,500. Most of this can remain on mortgage. NO ADDICT HOSPITAL IN PELHAM BAY PARK

Mayor Announces That Naval Training Station Site Has Been Given Up.

HEEDS BRONX PROTEST

Patients Will Be Housed at Tuberculosis Institution on Staten Island.

Mayor Hylan announced at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Estimate that the city would not establish a hospital for drug addicts on the site of the Naval Training Station at Pelham Bay Park in the Bronx but instead would use the Sea View Hospital, a city institution at Castleton Corners, S. I., for the purpose. The Staten Island institution is used at present to house tuberculosis patients and these will probably be transferred to some other institution.

The Mayor's decision met with the unmistakable approval of a large delegation of residents of the Bronx, who had appeared to protest against the establishing of a drug addict hospital in their borough. Health Commissioner Royal S. Copeland and Charities Commissioner Bird S. Coler will meet in a few days to discuss the matter and work out a plan for establishing the new hospital, and they will report at a subsequent meeting of the board. The question of reconsidering the offer made by the Rockefeller Foundation that the city use its buildings free as a hospital for drug addicts was put over until the board's next meeting.

The Mayor's decision not to use the Pelham Bay Park buildings was taken at a meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission, and the Navy Department will be advised of the action and asked to restore the station to its original condition, which includes the razing of a number of buildings erected to house the naval reserves during the war period. If the Navy Department is not inclined to do this work it will be asked to turn over to the city $650,000, which Park Commissioner Hennessy of the Bronx figures will be the cost of the work. The city in turn will begin the work of restoration immediately if the Navy Department so requests.

ADDICTS MAY GET DRUGS.

Roper Modifies Rules Governing Sale of Narcotics.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Hundreds of letters from persons suffering from incurable diseases and from aged persons addicted for many years to the use of drugs, pitiful in their supplications that rules governing the sale of narcotics be modified to permit them to make purchases, led Commissioner Roper to issue instructions today to Collectors of Internal Revenue whereby such persons may obtain drugs on prescription by a reputable physician that the drug is needed to maintain life.

Previous instructions had been that persons prescribing, selling, or obtaining drugs merely to satisfy the craving of a drug addict should be regarded as violating the law.

Collectors were warned by Mr. Roper to exercise every reasonable precaution to prevent the aged and infirm from becoming the innocent means whereby unauthorized persons might engage in illicit traffic in narcotics.

Wrecked Machine Found in Gully at Mt. Riga.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Investigation is being made today at Mount Riga, near Millerton, of the finding of a wrecked airplane in a deep gully on the mountainside.

It is thought possible that the plane may be that of Captain Mansell R. James, the Canadian ace, who was lost more than a month ago while flying from Pittsfield, Mass., to Atlantic City.

THE telephone traffic in the City now is the greatest ever experienced at this season of the year. We are striving to handle it with working forces and equipment that will not be fully adequate for the task until our Expansion Program, now under way, is completed.

The situation will be further aggravated by the fact that 1100 of the operators in Manhattan reside in Brooklyn. Owing to the present congested condition it is unpracticable at once to either transport to or accommodate in Manhattan this number of people.

We are doing everything possible to take care of your telephone needs, BUT whether you receive the service you must have in home and business emergency depends largely upon your using the telephone only when it is absolutely necessary.

ELECTRIC SERVICE ALSO HELPS

WHEN the amendment to the Tenement House Law made permissible the alteration of four story and basement houses to hold four families instead of one, electric service was the most important improvement which owners installed.

Without electricity the high class of tenants attracted to these altered residences would not have been obtained, for these people were attracted to the comforts and conveniences of wired buildings.

As if by magic electric service brings to the interior of the most venerable dwelling an atmosphere at once modern, cheerful and attractive. It puts the building in a different class, on a par with the most modern of houses. And then it costs so little to install.

That is how electric service is helping to relieve the housing situation, by attracting the high class of tenants which the owners of these altered dwellings must obtain.

A postal card or telephone request (Stuyvesant 4980) will bring our representative to you. He will tell you how inexpensively and easily your property can be electrified. And if the investment involves a greater immediate expenditure than is convenient, we may be able to arrange terms.

ALL CAR LINES IN BROOKLYN STOP AFTER A DAY OF DISORDER; PROSECUTION OF PACKERS ORDERED IN LIVING COST FIGHT; WILSON GOING TO CONGRESS FOR DRASTIC FOOD LAWS

PALMER ANNOUNCES SUITS

"Prompt Action" Against Big Five Under Anti-Trust Laws.

ASSERTS EVIDENCE IS CLEAR

Laws Broad Enough, He Says, to Cover Civil or Criminal Action.

KRESEL TO CONDUCT CASES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Actions in the Federal courts charging violation of the anti-trust laws are to be brought soon against the meat packing industry as represented by Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Morris & Co., Wilson & Co., Inc., and the Cudahy Packing Company—the Big Five—in connection with the Administration's fight to bring down living costs.

Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer made this announcement today. He would not indicate whether there would be both civil and criminal actions, confining his comments along that line to the statement that the law was broad enough to comprise either, or both, as the situation seemed to warrant.

In a formal statement Mr. Palmer said that investigations made by the Federal Trade Commission and evidence before Congressional committees indicated "a clear violation of the anti-trust laws."

The Federal Trade Commission, in a report submitted to the President, stated:

"Answering directly your question as to whether or not there exist 'monopolies, controls, trusts, combinations, conspiracies, or restraints of trade out of harmony with the law and the public interests,' we have found conclusive evidence that warrants an unqualified affirmative."

Promises "Prompt Action."

In announcing the Government's decision to proceed against the packing industry, Mr. Palmer said:

"The Department of Justice has made a careful review of the evidence developed by the investigations into the combination of packers, both by the Federal Trade Commission and the hearings before the committees of Congress. This review has been made by lawyers specially retained for the purpose, and their report is now in hand. I am satisfied that the evidence adduced indicates a clear violation of the anti-trust laws and prompt action will be taken accordingly. Further proceedings, while under the immediate direction of the Department of Justice, will be in charge of Isidor J. Kresel of the law firm of Jerome, Rand & Kresel of New York, who will be given such assistance as the case seems to warrant."

Mr. Palmer's announcement marks the opening of a new chapter in a long and determined fight which the Federal Trade Commission, and especially Commissioner William B. Colver, have made to bring about court action on the part of the Federal Government to dissolve what the Trade Commission states it believes to be a vicious combination. Mr. Colver's only statement today was that he accepted the Attorney General's announcement as a "recognition of the truth of the allegations against the packers which the Federal Trade Commission has repeatedly made."

Mr. Palmer said that he could not state at this time the jurisdiction in which court proceedings would be instituted or the exact nature of the complaint or complaints which would be made. When asked as to the date set for opening the fight on the packers, he replied: "I can only call attention to the fact that my statement uses the word prompt."

Trusts Kresel as Prosecutor.

William Travers Jerome, former District Attorney of New York County, is senior member of Mr. Kresel's law firm. Mr. Palmer was asked if Mr. Jerome would take part in the prosecution and replied that Mr. Kresel was authorized to call upon any one to act with him.

He added that Judge C. E. Ames, who has been attached to the Department of Justice as one of the anti-trust law experts, would aid Mr. Kresel and that, as Attorney General, he also would have general supervision and a very deep interest in the developments.

Mr. Palmer said that Mr. Kresel had been at the head of the committee of lawyers who have been going over the reports of the Federal Trade Commission concerning the packers for several months. He gave other indications that it would be a matter only of the time required for the physical work of drawing up complaints before an action would be started.

Methods of Meat Control Used by the Packers As Set Forth by the Federal Trade Commission

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The Federal Trade Commission, in its report to President Wilson on the packing industry, makes these specific charges concerning the "manner in which the meat combination works now":

1. That Swift & Co., Armour & Co., Morris & Co., Wilson & Co., Inc., and the Cudahy Packing Company are in an agreement for the division of live stock purchases throughout the United States according to certain fixed percentages.

That this national live stock division is reinforced by local agreements among the members of the general combination operating at each of the principal markets, as at Denver, where Armour and Swift divide their live stock "fifty-fifty."

That these national and local live stock purchase agreements constitute a restraint of interstate commerce in live animals and in the sale of meats and other animal products, stifling competition among the five companies, substantially controlling the prices to be paid to live stock producers and the prices to be charged to consumers of meat and other animal products and giving the members of the combination unfair and illegal advantages over actual and potential competitors.

2. That the five companies exchange confidential information which is not made available to their competitors and employ jointly paid agents to secure information which is used to control and manipulate live stock markets.

3. That the five companies act collusively, through their buyers in the purchase of live stock, their specific collusive activities embracing:

(a) "Split-shipments" purchases, whereby, through the interchange of information, the split lots are made to sell at the same price on different markets regardless of how many packers are involved in marketing the purchase.

(b) "Part purchases," whereby two or more packers join in purchasing the live stock of one shipper or producer, each taking a part of a shipment at the same price.

(c) "Wiring on," whereby a shipper who forwards his live stock from one market to another for the purpose of securing a better price is punished regardless of which packer he sells to in the second market.

(d) Making the daily market, whereby a common live stock buying policy for all the big packers at the principal markets substantially controls the basic prices to be paid throughout the United States.

Late buying, where all the buyers of the big packers stay out of the market for one or more hours after the opening for the purpose of depressing prices, is one of the means in making the market.

4. That Swift & Co., Armour & Co., Morris & Co., and Wilson & Co., Inc., through their subsidiary and controlled companies in South America, combined with certain other companies to restrict and control shipments of beef and other meats from South America to the United States and other countries.

5. That the five companies—Swift & Co., Armour & Co., Morris & Co., Wilson & Co., Inc., and the Cudahy Packing Company—act collusively in the sale of fresh meat, their specific collusive activities embracing:

(a) Exchange of information regarding "margins" realized in the sale of meat;

(b) Inspection of one another's stocks of fresh meats; and

(c) Joint action in underselling independent competitors by a system of rotation, each of the members of the combination in turn assuming the burden of cutting prices to the competitor's customers.

6. That there is a joint combination regarding funds expended under secret control to influence public opinion and Government action, and thus to maintain the power of their combination.

7. That the agreements, understandings, and pools hereinbefore recited are reinforced by the community of interest among the five companies above named through joint ownership, either corporate or individual, of various enterprises. Two or more of the five interests thus have joint ownership or representation in 108 concerns, as far as ascertained to July, 1918.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—President Wilson's program for dealing with the high cost of living problem has been completed and will be presented to Congress next Friday afternoon in a joint address to be made by him giving a general survey of the situation, with recommendations for definite remedial legislation.

The President is confidently expected to ask for an enlargement of the principle of the Food Control act so as to extend its operation beyond the official conclusion of peace and make it applicable to commodities other than foodstuffs figuring in the high cost of living. The Food Control act is broad enough to cover only the foodstuffs situation and does not give legal authority for curbing profiteers and hoarders of other kinds of goods.

With the conclusion of peace, which will come officially whenever the President issues his proclamation to that effect, the Food Control act will go out of existence, unless Congress steps in with supplementary legislation, and its penal provisions would not then be applicable.

Would Strengthen Federal Arm.

As this would force the Attorney General to fall back on the peace time laws of the nation, including the Sherman anti-trust law, and the conspiracy statutes, the scope of the activities of the Department of Justice in its new campaign against hoarding and profiteering would be materially restricted. Consequently, it is understood, the Administration feels that new legislation will strengthen the arm of the Government in attempting to deal with the situation.

While awaiting action by Congress on the President's contemplated recommendations, the Administration will proceed

WILSON HASTENS REPORT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Unprecedented profits taken by producers of hides, tanners, shoe manufacturers, and dealers for which there was no justification are responsible for the prices of shoes, Congress was informed today by the Federal Trade Commission, which recently completed an inquiry into the shoe business for the period from 1914 to 1918.

The commission's complete report was not available, but President Wilson is understood to have ordered a detailed summary printed immediately and transmitted to Congress in connection with the efforts of the Government to combat high living costs. Representative Igoe, Democrat, Missouri, has pending in the House a resolution providing for an inquiry into shoe prices by the commission.

After reviewing profits in each section of the shoe industry, the commission said that some relief from the "intolerable prices" paid by consumers might be had by the following means:

"1. A rigid enforcement of the laws against monopolistic control of commodities.

"2. Legislation forbidding producers of hides from engaging in the tanning business.

"3. The adoption of a device in the distribution of shoes that will acquaint the consumer with the selling prices of the manufacturer."

Tells of Excess Profits.

"(1) Between 1914 and 1917 the prices of hides, the principal factor in the cost of producing leather, greatly advanced, and the differential between country hides and packer hides increased beyond the usual proportion, due to the more marked increase in the price of packer hides.

"(2) Though there was an increase in

WILSON REJECTS ANY CONDITION ON SHANTUNG RETURN

Issues a Statement on Uchida's Reference to Agreement of 1915.

DOES NOT RECOGNIZE THAT

QUOTES JAPAN'S DELEGATES

And Says They Made No Reference to Their Policy as Depending on Execution of Old Agreement.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—President Wilson issued a statement today dealing with the announcement of Viscount Uchida, on the plan of Japan to return to China the full sovereignty of the Shantung peninsula, as soon as the official text of the Japanese statement had been received at the White House.

The President's statement, after noting with "greatest interest" the "frank statement" made by Viscount Uchida and declaring that it "ought to serve to remove many of the misunderstandings" which had begun to accumulate about the Shantung question, proceeds to deal with references by Viscount Uchida to the agreement entered into between Japan and China in 1915.

It is evident from the President's announcement that he looks upon this reference to the agreement of 1915 between China and Japan as capable of misleading interpretations if not dealt with promptly in the light of what took place in the Peace Conference at Paris.

The President now states that he did not agree that there were any conditions whatever attached to the statements made by Baron Makino and Viscount Chinda. The President in his statement of "clarification" asserts that "no reference was made to this policy being in any way dependent upon the execution of the agreement of 1915 to which Count Uchida appears to have referred."

The President's Statement.

President Wilson's statement was as follows:

The Government of the United States has noted with the greatest interest the frank statement made by Viscount Uchida with regard to Japan's future policy respecting Shantung. The statement ought to serve to remove many misunderstandings which had begun to accumulate about this question.

But there are references in the statement to an agreement entered into between Japan and China in 1915 which might be misleading if not commented upon in the light of what occurred in Paris when the clauses of the treaty affecting Shantung were under discussion. I therefore take the liberty of supplementing Viscount Uchida's statement with the following:

In the conference of the 30th of April last, where this matter was brought to a conclusion among the heads of the principal allied and associated powers, the Japanese delegates, Baron Makino and Viscount Chinda, in reply to a question put by myself, declared that:

"The policy of Japan is to hand back the Shantung peninsula in full sovereignty to China, retaining only the economic privileges granted to Germany, and the right to establish a settlement under the usual conditions at Tsing-tao.

"The owners of the railway will use special police only to insure security for traffic. They will be used for no other purpose.

"The police forces will be composed of Chinese, and such Japanese instructors as the Directors of the railway may select will be appointed by the Chinese Government."

No reference was made to this policy being in any way dependent upon the execution of the agreement of 1915 to which Viscount Uchida appears to have referred. Indeed, I felt it my duty to say that nothing that I agreed to must be construed as an acquiescence on the part of the Government of the United States in the policy of the notes exchanged between China and Japan in 1915 and 1918, and reference was made in the discussion to the enforcement of the agreements of 1915 and 1918 only in case China failed to co-operate fully in carrying out the policy outlined in the statement of Baron Makino and Viscount Chinda.

I have, of course, no doubt that Viscount Uchida had been apprised of all the particulars of the discussion in Paris, and I am not making this statement with the idea of correcting his, but only to throw a fuller light of clarification upon a situation which ought to be relieved of every shadow of obscurity or misapprehension.

WOODROW WILSON.

Official Text of the Japanese Statement.

The official text of the statement made to the press in Tokio Sunday by Viscount Uchida, Minister for Foreign Affairs, in regard to the Shantung settlement, as made public by the Japanese Embassy here today, reads:

It appears that, in spite of the official statement which the Japanese Delegation at Paris issued on May 5 last, and which I fully stated in an

King Gives Lloyd George the Order of Merit

LONDON, Aug. 6.—King George today conferred upon Premier David Lloyd George the Order of Merit as a sign of his appreciation of Mr. Lloyd George's war services.

In a letter to the Premier, dated Buckingham Palace, Aug. 5, announcing the award, the King says:

My Dear Prime Minister—Honors and rewards to officers of the army, navy, and air force having been submitted to Parliament, I feel that my people will share with me regret that it is not possible to express the nation's grateful recognition of the persistent services rendered by the Prime Minister, both in carrying the war to a victorious end and in securing an honorable peace. To rectify somewhat this omission and personally to mark my high appreciation of these services, it gives me great pleasure to confer upon you the Order of Merit.

Believe me, yours very sincerely,

SHARP ALLIED NOTE SENT TO RUMANIA

Warns That Ultimatum Served on Hungary Will Not Be Recognized.

EXCEEDS ARMISTICE TERMS

And Violates Pledges Made to New Magyar Government by the Entente.

PARIS, Aug. 6. (Associated Press.)—Information reached the Peace Conference today that an ultimatum had been served on the Hungarian Government by Rumania, making demands far in excess of the armistice conditions.

The ultimatum, which was forwarded to Paris by Lieut. Col. Romanelli of the Allied Military Mission, and Colonel W. R. Causey, U. S. A., of the Relief Administration, now in Budapest, demanded the reduction of the Hungarian Army to 15,000 men, the surrender of 30 per cent. of the harvest animals and farm machinery, 50 per cent. of the railway supplies, a large proportion of the Danube shipping, and equipment and supplies for an army of 300,000 men, together with rations for the Rumanian forces pending a peace settlement. It is said to have expired at 8 o'clock last night.

Soon after the receipt of these advices Nicholas Misu, of the Rumanian peace delegation, was summoned before the Supreme Council, which gave him a communication for his Government, saying that the ultimatum cannot be recognised by the Peace Conference and calling upon the Rumanians to live up to the armistice terms.

Envoy's Explanations Unsatisfactory.

M. Misu said that the Rumanians were taking back supplies which the German Field Marshal von Mackeneen took from them, but his explanations did not alter the decision of the Supreme Council, which was unanimous.

The heads of the British and American military missions in Budapest had already sent a protest to the Rumanian Commander in Chief pointing out that the terms of theu ltimatum were not only in violation of the armistic, but also of the pledges to the Hungarian people made by the Allies when they induced them on Aug. 1 to establish a new Government.

While the French hitherto apparently were inclined to regard Rumanian occupation of Budapest favorably, it was evident at today's council meeting that they have changed their position since seeing the ultimatum and are now heartily in accord with the American and British position, which the Italians have been supporting consistently.

It was made clear at today's meeting that the Rumanian ambitions would cut off the communications of Central Europe and make it impossible to feed large populations, and also would greatly interfere with reparations.

So far, the Peace Conference has not been advised as to what occurred in Budapest as a result of the Rumanian action, but fear is expressed that it will cause the overthrow of the new Hungarian Government.

The Rumanians have not been participating actively in the Peace Conference since Premier Brattano some time ago took exception to the decision of the conference upon the principle guaranteeing the rights of minorities within national borders, and in French circles it is said that the Rumanian Army is not under the command of Marshal Foch, the allied Commander in Chief, the Rumanian General refusing to accept orders from the French.

The text of the ultimatum reads as follows:

"The Rumanian Supreme Command makes the following conditions upon which it will accept the cessation of hostilities requested by the Hungarian Government:

LABOR LEADERS URGE PLUMB BILL TO LOWER PRICES

DENY THREAT OF STRIKE

But Fear General Outbreak if Wages Are Not Raised or Living Cost Reduced.

WEBSTER DEFIES MORRISON

Representative Makes Union Chief Deny Labor Is Trying to Coerce Members of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Warren S. Stone, Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, appeared before the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce today and presented the arguments of organized labor as represented by the railroad unions and the federation organizations in support of the Plumb plan bill, introduced in Congress by Representative Sims, providing for the nationalization of the railroads and a share in the profits for their employes.

While both the union officials read prepared statements, it was in their replies to the questions of the committee that the full scope of the national socialization plans on which labor has centred its present effort was brought out.

Mr. Morrison, for example, revealed that the American Federation of Labor expected to organise the United States Steel Corporation workers and gain an eight-hour day for them. Mr. Stone, in reply to a question as to what concrete suggestions he had for reducing the cost of living, said:

"It might be before we get through we would advocate a firing squad for some people."

Mr. Stone said that labor would not strike to force the enactment of the Plumb Plan bill, but Mr. Morrison, while saying that the organizations did not contemplate duress, admitted that some organizations were considering a strike vote. Both agreed that the campaign for the bill would be one of education and propaganda.

The questions of the members of the committee indicated hostility to the Plumb plan and that it would be dominated by the employes. Mr. Stone admitted that he did not consider the Plumb plan would solve the high cost of living, but would be an "agency in that direction." Mr. Stone accused Congress of being asleep and playing politics when it should have been devising ways to meet the high cost of living situation. He believed some organizations would strike unless wages were raised or the cost of living reduced immediately.

While organizations supporting the Plumb plan measure were interested only in its application to the railroads, he believed its adoption would mean its extension to all quasi public utilities. The panic following the civil war would be as nothing to what the country would face unless the cost of living was reduced at once.

Both admitted that increases in wages at the present time would only increase living costs unless they were accompanied by measures decreasing the cost of necessities.

Webster Challenges Morrison.

Late in the afternoon Representative Webster of Spokane, a former member of the Supreme Court of the State of Washington, who is serving his first term, directly challenged Mr. Morrison. Mr. Morrison failed four or five times to give a direct answer to this question by Mr. Webster:

"Would you not prefer a plan which would afford relief to all the people to a plan which affords relief only to members of your organization?"

Mr. Morrison failed also to reply directly to this question:

"If Congress sincerely tries to reduce the cost of living, can you think of any benefit that would come from a nation-wide strike?"

Then Mr. Webster said:

"As an humble member of this committee, I am willing to sit here all day and night to give as fair consideration as I can. But I want it plainly understood that I will not be dominated or coerced by any threat, however vaguely conveyed, of what organized labor will try to do to me, individually, if I don't do as it says."

A burst of applause startled the room but was checked when Mr. Morrison began an explanation of how political parties such as Democrats and Republicans often differ. When Mr. Morrison completed his statement, Mr. Webster said:

"I challenge the right of organized labor to intimidate me."

"Has anybody done that?" sharply asked a man sitting in the labor ranks.

"If soldiers can die in rat-infested

After an evening of disorder in all parts of Brooklyn, in which loyal B. R. T. crews were pulled from their cars and beaten, the traction company officials, following a conference with the police officials, late last night issued this statement:

Beginning at 10 o'clock tonight, at the suggestion of the Police Department, for reasons of safety, it has been decided to shut down all operation until 5 o'clock in the morning, at which time only those cars having policemen on them will go out of the barns.

HOMEGOING HOSTS HELD UP BY STRIKE

JITNEYS EASE CONGESTION

B. R. T. Plans Two-thirds Service Today if Police Protection Is Furnished.

The test of the effectiveness of the tie-up on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit line came in the late afternoon and last evening when the crowds of workers started to return to their homes. From every direction they poured to the three principal points of crossing to Brooklyn—the Park Row entrance to the Brooklyn Bridge, the Manhattan Bridge and the Williamsburg Bridge.

The crowds grew rapidly after 5 o'clock, and within an hour they had overflowed into the streets and down into the subways and still later the crowds that gave up attempting to cross by the usual channels swarmed to the ferries and the result was congestion on those lines, but in a lesser degree than at the bridge entrances and the subways. There was the heaviest traffic on Manhattan Bridge yesterday of any day since it was opened to the public, and this condition was reflected at the Williamsburg and Queensboro bridges.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company plans to operate two-thirds of all its cars under police protection today, though the officials said last night that they anticipate that the attempt to carry out its maximum program would result in trouble. The company, however, is prepared to go ahead provided enough policemen are furnished to place one on each car as well as enough to protect the stations and terminals.

By far the worst congestion was at the Brooklyn Bridge, where fifty extra policemen were kept busy suppressing disorder, keeping the crowds moving as best they could and getting vehicular traffic out of the tangle afoot. Sometimes it took twenty minutes to get a few vehicles on to the bridge. Lines of young men walked out on the roadway, clung to the rails or hung from the bridge structure. As the police would force a way for a truck through the dense crowd about the entrance these young men would swarm over the vehicle or drop into it from places of vantage.

In most cases the drivers were willing to take passengers, usually for pay, but they could not take all who climbed aboard, and, in consequence, there was a halt while the police straightened out matters. This operation was repeated again and again and each time the situation grew worse, until long after dark when most Brooklynites had either got across to their home borough or had given up the attempt.

Shuttle Service Good.

The bridge shuttle service kept up fairly good headway, but the elevated and surface cars that came in were few and very far apart. Later surface cars stopped coming altogether, but this did not make much difference to most of the crowd because they were far from the platforms and moving forward at a snail's pace. It was 7:30 o'clock when surface car traffic was resumed. Officially it was said the service had been tied up more than two hours. The arrival of the first car was greeted with cheers. After that ten more cars came within fifteen minutes. Each car had a policeman on the front platform, and their coming meant that the extra policemen from Manhattan were being distributed on strike duty as fast as they arrived.

On the elevated platforms of the bridge stations the crowds were tremendous and the lines of those waiting their turn at one time extended down the stairs and into Park Row. When an elevated train arrived it was quickly filled so full that there was no more room for other passengers to get on at way stations. No attempt was made to keep up to the schedule and for a time only the City Line and Lexington Avenue lines were operated from the Park Row terminal.

So serious did the congestion become that between 6 and 7 o'clock the sale of tickets at the terminal of the B. R. T. lines in the Municipal Building was discontinued. There were then thousands

B. R. T. SYSTEM PARALYZED

GARRISON BLAMES POLICE

Says Strike Could Have Been "Squelched in an Hour" if Properly Handled.

OFFICIALS OUTGENERALED

Mobile Forces of Pickets Elude Patrolmen and Beat and Intimidate Loyal Employes.

The strike of Brooklyn Rapid Transit employes, which appeared to be a failure when it began at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, and which could have been "squelched in one hour" by efficient police action, according to Lindley M. Garrison, Receiver of the B. R. T., grew yesterday through intimidation and violence until the entire service was completely tied up last night.

The climax came shortly after 10 o'clock, when all surface cars, elevated and subway trains, were discontinued because of threats and actual attacks by strikers. Announcement was made at that hour that service would be resumed at 5 o'clock this morning with as many cars as there are policemen to guard them.

Prior to this, during the evening rush hour, thousands of persons, among them many poorly-clad working girls, had waited for hours in the rain at terminals in Manhattan and Brooklyn for cars to take them home. Many at last had to walk, though great numbers rode home in the army of motor trucks, vans and other vehicles which did a field day business.

About 1,000 employes walked out at the hour set for the strike to begin, and the service over most of the lines was almost normal through the morning rush hour, but quick raids by crowds of strikers at one point and then at another frightened train and car crews until they refused to take out their cars without police protection.

B. R. T. officials said the company would not use strike-breakers, nor entrust any of their cars to inexperienced or partly experienced men.

Dashing about in motor trucks, the strikers cut trolley wires and bell ropes, dragged conductors and motormen from their cars, pelted them with blocks of wood and stones, and blocked the tracks with heaps of asphalt. They accomplished this with scarcely any interference from the police, who were held in reserve against possible riots and big outbreaks, until a sharp letter from Receiver Garrison to Mayor Hylan resulted in an order to place a policeman on each car or train.

Mayor Reluctant to Use Police.

Mayor Hylan did not issue this order until Receiver Garrison said it would be necessary, for fear of violence after dark, to stop every car in Brooklyn surface, subway, and elevated, unless such police protection were given. Even then the Mayor hesitated and did not issue the order until the evening rush hour was well under way. By that time the situation was out of control.

The strikers had become so aggressive and well organized that they brought car after car to a stop. The service over the B. R. T. lines could carry hardly one-tenth of the normal traffic, and hundreds of thousands of Brooklyn residents walked in the rain from Manhattan and the business part of Brooklyn to their residences, while thousands of others paid fancy prices to be squeezed into vans, motor trucks and smaller vehicles, which organized themselves into regular lines, duplicating the routes of the traction lines which had been held up.

The situation was so far out of control last night, after bluecoats finally had been placed on as guards, that street cars were raided and put out of commission despite the presence of the policemen. Although there was little or no use of firearms, the rioting and violence, which was said to be more widespread than ever has occurred in any labor trouble in Brooklyn, finally forced the police to ask the B. R. T. officials to cease attempting to operate the lines.

Police Admit Their Weakness.

Police Captain Frank of the Brownsville Station reported that he was helpless in the face of the crowds of strikers, who commanded a power of rapid movement by travelling in motorcycles. Other police officials reported the situation growing worse. The decision to ask the B. R. T. to stop operation was reached at a meeting in Brooklyn Police Headquarters.

At this meeting were C. D. Moneely, Treasurer of the B. R. T.; W. S. Menden, Chief Engineer; William Siebert, Superintendent of Surface Lines; Chief Inspector John Daly of the Police Department, Borough Inspector Thomas Murphy of Brooklyn, and the six Brooklyn Inspectors.

Absence of proper police protection was the sole reason for the crippling of the service, according to Receiver Garrison and the B. R. T. officials. They said they had enough loyal employes to keep all the lines in virtually normal operation, but that some of the employes had been beaten and intimidated until they feared to run the cars.

According to B. R. T. officials about 2,000 of the 10,000 employes on these lines were on strike, and 4,000 others were ready to work if they could do so without risking their lives. The leaders of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, who are directing the strike, asserted 6,000 employes had joined them.

Need 2,000 Guards for Cars.

Superintendent Siebert said late in the evening that two or more policemen would be needed on every car or train to insure safe operation on some of the lines. He said an attempt would be made this morning to operate 1,000 of the 1,500 cars of the system, if 1,000 policemen were on duty for them. He added that 2,000 policemen rather than 1,000 were needed to meet the situation properly. Police Inspectors said they did not know whether 1,000 policemen could be found for the purpose.

"There are 112 strikes now in progress in Brooklyn," said one inspector. "They need an average of three policemen on guard at each strike. Our whole force was needed to guard property before this occurred."

Mayor Hylan, in his earlier objections to policing each train and each surface car, said he learned from Police Commissioner Enright that this could not be done because of the shortage of policemen. One of the boasts of Commissioner Enright in public speeches and official reports has been that he has kept down the size of the police force and still has given efficient protection.

One of the contradictions of the situation was that, while Mayor Hylan asserted in a letter to Receiver Garrison that police protection had been adequate, the request for the shutdown came from Police Inspectors after an evening of almost continuous disorder.

Garrison's Plea for Police.

The demand of Receiver Garrison on the Mayor for a policeman on every car or train, with the alternative of a shut-down of all the lines, was contained in the following letter, sent by a messenger who was instructed to wait at the City Hall for a reply:

Aug. 6, 1919.

Mayor, New York City,
City Hall, Manhattan, N. Y.

My Dear Mr. Mayor:

Since writing you this morning I had an interview with Deputy Police Commissioner Porter in the presence of Inspector Murphy. The Commissioner stated that he intended to afford adequate police protection to prevent disorder and protect the operation of cars.

The difficulty with the situation is that holding the police in reserve in the station houses or elsewhere, or placing some policemen here and some there, does not afford adequate precautions against disorder or any protection to the operation of the cars—disorders are continuing, and are growing numerous, and intimidation is driving more of our men into the car barns with their cars, not being willing to go out again unless assured of protection.

It is out of the question for the police authorities, even if they have the entire force at their immediate disposal, or in fact many times the number of the entire force, to patrol the many miles of streets through which cars run. The program adopted by the disorderly element is to go from place to place and molest a car here and a car there—cut the trolley pole ropes, and in other instances doing actions which prevent the operation of the car, and threatening the men in charge with personal violence if they continue to operate, and, in some instances, men in charge of cars have been assaulted.

The source of attack in each instance is a car, and the place of attack is any place along the road upon which such car travels. Disorder is created by attacks made on cars and the men thereon. The place to quell the disorder and to protect the public and the operation of the transportation system is where the car is. Unless the police are where the disorder is, and that is where the car is, their presence elsewhere is futile.

I am fully convinced that unless something effective is done and done promptly, the situation will get out of hand and New York City will suffer the humiliation of being in the hands of an irresponsible and disorderly element and out of the control of the constituted authorities. The only adequate measure of protection is the presence of the police on the cars. There is the place of trouble. There is the place for those whose business it is to suppress disorder, protect threatened property and maintain the supremacy of law and order.

I am apprehensive of the situation tonight. I do not feel justified under the circumstances to subject the men who have loyally stood to their posts, and the public who ride upon the cars, to the great risks attendant upon operation at night without adequate effective police protection. As I have said above, such adequate effective police protection, under the circumstances, can only be afforded by the presence on the cars of policemen.

Unless, therefore, you can arrange for such protection before nightfall I shall be obliged to suspend operation.

You will, I am sure, appreciate my necessity of promptly hearing from you. Sincerely yours,

LINDLEY M. GARRISON.

Mayor Grants Protection.

Mayor Hylan replied by telephone, promising to put a policeman on each elevated or subway train or surface car. After a conference with Public Service Commissioner John H. Delaney and Police Commissioner Enright, he made public this letter:

CITY OF NEW YORK,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
Aug. 6, 1919.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company,
85 Clinton Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.:

Dear Mr. Garrison—I received from you at 4 o'clock today a letter requesting that a police officer be stationed on every car that you are prepared to operate on the lines of your company and notifying me that unless such protection was granted you would be compelled to discontinue service by nightfall. This communication followed one received a short time before in which you requested protection.

When I received your first letter I immediately conferred with the Police Commissioner, and he informed me that he had already taken care of the situation.

On receipt of your second letter I called you on the telephone and you advised me that 1,300 men would be required for the purpose of placing a policeman on each car. I have directed the Commissioner that the protection that you last requested be immediately furnished. The Police Commissioner has instructed Chief Inspector Daly to immediately confer with you and provide the men required.

It was brought to my attention yesterday afternoon that there was liable to be a strike on the transit lines in Brooklyn. I conferred with the Police Commissioner, and he informed me that he had already made preparations to take care of the situation, and that the traveling public would be protected against any violence. The Police Commissioner reports to me that there has been no disorder today and the situation has been well in hand at all times.

The newspapers this morning reported that you declined to meet a committee of your employes and the present situation is a result of such refusal. May I suggest to you that it would be better to take a more conciliatory attitude and meet a committee and see if the points in controversy could not be settled by arbitration in the interest of the general public.

Very truly yours,

JOHN F. HYLAN,
Mayor.

Garrison Promises Service.

After receiving the Mayor's reply Mr. Garrison said:

"The Mayor told me he will place policemen on the surface cars and elevated trains for protection to employes and passengers. I will operate every car on which a policeman is detailed."

Mr. Garrison at once had the following notice sent to every car barn in Brooklyn and Queens:

To the Employes: The management is exceedingly appreciative of the fine loyalty of the employes at this time of crisis. Everything that is possible has been done to insure the safety of the employes and their right to continue work without molestation or injury.

We have just been assured by the Mayor that not only will adequate police protection be afforded the men at the barns and depots, but that policemen will be put upon the platform of every surface car and upon every elevated train, thereby assuring you of immediate police protection in the event of any threatened trouble.

You have chosen wisely in not permitting yourselves to be made use of by those who cannot really serve your interests, and your loyalty to your employment and duty will be noted upon the record of each one of you.

LINDLEY M. GARRISON, Receiver.

Before policemen could be furnished the rush hour was on. Anticipating difficulty in getting home, tens of thousands of persons who live in Brooklyn and work in Manhattan quit work about 4 o'clock. As a result the rush hour came an hour earlier than usual, and it was in progress for fully two hours before the police could be put on all the cars.

The result was the most severe congestion ever known at terminal points and busy stations on the B. R. T. and Interborough lines in Brooklyn and Manhattan. Thousands were packed in dense masses in the rain outside the Canal Street station of the B. R. T. in Manhattan, at the Municipal Building in Manhattan, and at the Borough Hall, Atlantic Avenue, and Flatbush Avenue stations in Brooklyn.

Great Jam at Rush Hour.

Police reserves had to be called out at each place to rescue fainting women and others who collapsed because of the pressure of thousands of closely packed bodies, which made breathing almost impossible.

One of the most dangerous points was the Canal Street station of the B. R. T. in Manhattan. At this place trains during the rush hour were running at the rate of only one or two an hour. This is in the heart of the needle trades section, and in normal times the jam is a menace, because thousands of young girls board the subway here for their homes in Brooklyn.

The subway is a double-decker. Early in the rush hour both decks were so filled that those on the platforms shrieked they were in danger of being pushed off the platform and down on the tracks, if any more shoved their way upon the platform. While thousands were added every few minutes to this jam, they were moved out on the subway trains at the rate of about a thousand an hour.

Seeing no hope of riding home, and fearing injury if they stayed where they were, many on the lower platform tried to get out of the station. They were met by others trying to push their way in. Clothes were torn, several women were injured, and a panic was threatened when the police reserves arrived at 5:30 o'clock and began to restore order.

Chauffeurs Reap a Harvest.

In the meantime, as at all points where crowds congregated, motor trucks, vans, small automobiles and horse-drawn vehicles arrived, offering to carry passengers to different points in Brooklyn, and charging from 75 cents to $3 for a ride. They took away thousands.

Other thousands started on a long walk to their homes. Many girls, with poor shoes and light Summer clothes, badly drenched, were in tears, because they had only a nickel or a dime. Finally, the policemen began to take a hand, and put pressure on the bus drivers to allow on each trip a certain number of girls who were in this predicament to ride with them. Even after 9 o'clock the crowd here still was large.

The worst congestion in Brooklyn was at the Flatbush Avenue Station, where nearly 100,000 people were packed on the streets and sidewalks waiting for a chance to ride home. They were good-natured until the rain began. Then the crowd, which at this time had been passive, began to push about, and hundreds, caught in the cross-currents, had their feet and ankles trampled on and were squeezed almost to suffocation.

Thousands wound up by paying exorbitant prices for rides in trucks, some of which carried from sixty to eighty passengers, all standing. Other thousands, already wet and worn, started on long hikes home in the rain. The situation at Brooklyn Bridge and the Municipal Building in Manhattan was about the same.

Pickets Work Effectively.

At 5 o'clock in the morning, the hour set for the strike, only a few crews quit work on the surface, elevated, and subway lines, and the rush-hour crowd was carried with little inconvenience. Officials of the B. R. T. at that time looked on the strike as a failure.

They had only a brief period in which to exult, because before 8 o'clock reports began coming in that skilfully directed and strenuous picketing was stripping car after car and train after train of employes.

At the outset, most of the pickets were men who had attended strike meetings during the night, but the rush-hour crowds were so great on platforms and in trains that they had little freedom of movement. When the crowds were diminished somewhat the pickets adopted mass tactics. A score or more would appear at a particular point, vociferously demanding that crews of cars and trains join the strike, sometimes threatening, occasionally pulling crews off cars, and in a few cases using missiles.

A number of trolley wires were cut, but most of the men who worked through the rush hour and quit afterward did so in response to shouts and demands of their fellow-employes. The great majority of employes appeared to have no connection with the strike movement. They appeared ready to continue at work if the strike seemed to be a failure, or to quit if the strikers made a strong showing and seemed likely to be successful.

Police Outgeneraled.

The police policy early in the day enabled the strikers to carry out their program of picketing and winning over crews. The strategy of the police at that time was to keep the majority of their force in reserve, ready to respond quickly if disorder or rioting occurred. Policemen were not posted on cars, and the generalship of strike leaders in concentrating large bodies of strikers every few minutes at a different place to threaten and overawe employes who had stuck to their posts proved highly successful and retrieved the strike after it had appeared lost.

A surface car or elevated train would make several stops without the appearance of a striker. Then it would reach a platform or street corner which was alive with pickets, shouting: "Come on. Get off that train. Don't be a traitor." "Come on, Joe; you aren't the kind of a man to be a scab!" "If you try to make another trip, you'll never live through it." "We'll be watching for you next time."

Without paying fares, crowds of strikers made their way, encountering no police resistance, to elevated platforms and on board cars, haranguing motormen, conductors, and guards, delaying trips for many minutes, and frequently exacting promises from employes to quit as soon as they should reach their terminals.

Reports received by B. R. T. officials up to 7 o'clock, it was announced, indicated that less than 10 per cent. of their employes were striking, but in the next few hours the ranks of the loyal 90 per cent. were cut to pieces by the pleading, intimidation, and violence of the highly organized army of pickets.

The police were seldom in evidence. From hour to hour, as the number of strikers grew, the pickets increased in number and in the vigor of their methods. They would wedge themselves in the doorways of elevated cars, so that the doors could not be shut, and the train had to stand still while the guards underwent a volley of abuse.

Intimidate Loyal Employes.

The Brighton Beach trains had been cut from six cars to two cars by 9 o'clock, and the pickets redoubled efforts to stop the line entirely. Rumors that big bonuses and overtime charges had been promised to men who stuck to their posts were received by the strikers, who thereupon accused the men remaining at work with selling out their own class.

"Look here, you," said a picket who blocked the doorway of the Brighton Beach train bound for Manhattan at Church Avenue at 9 o'clock, "if you don't lay off at the end of this line you will spend that $20 that you are getting today in the hospital."

The promise of rough treatment often caused crews that did not want to strike to refuse to take out their trains again without police protection. Company officials discovered that the police plans were playing into the strikers' hands and they demanded more efficient police work.

The results of the aggressive picketing was shown, according to B. R. T. officials, by the reports of traffic on the various lines. Figures from the surface depots at 8 o'clock showed that the strike at that hour had had little effect, some lines running even more cars than usual. This table was as follows:

Service Heavily Cut by Noon.

A statement issued at 1 o'clock showed a big increase in the effectiveness of the strike. It was said that the West End subway was maintaining a fifteen-minute headway instead of seven and one-half minutes. Other lines were operating as follows:

Fourth Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street subways, ten minutes instead of five; Metropolitan Avenue elevated, ten minutes instead of seven and one-half; Brighton Beach and the Jamaica line, which goes to Lefferts Avenue, ten minutes instead of five; Canarsie, ten minutes instead of six; subway to Manhattan, regular schedule, and Sea Beach subway, three trains operating instead of thirteen, the normal number.

During the afternoon the strike became still more effective, surface cars and subway trains running at lengthened intervals, while the size of the subway and elevated trains still in operation was considerably reduced.

The method of the strikers in concentrating first at one point and then at another, acting quickly, and then getting away, made almost worthless the slow-moving police plan of shifting bodies of reserves about where trouble seemed to threaten, so that the police virtually never were on the spot when trouble actually was occurring. The big inroads which the strikers were making by this method led to repeated calls on the police by Receiver Garrison and B. R. T. officials for greater police activity, but their appeals had almost no result until Mr. Garrison threatened to shut down all lines in Brooklyn unless a policeman was posted on every train.

Mr. Garrison sent a letter to Mayor Hylan in the morning, asking for better police protection. At his office, he said:

"I have an abiding faith in the police authorities of this city. I feel confident they will not permit this trouble to get out of hand. There is no police force in the world more vain of its reputation than the New York force, and I do not think they will let a band of disorderly individuals get the upper hand.

"The police can squelch this trouble in an hour if they will take proper measures. If they let these disorderly individuals know that violence will not be tolerated, the situation will be cleared at once, and we will give Brooklyn adequate and practically normal service. We have men in our barns waiting for protection to take our cars out and run on schedules almost normal."

The Mayor at first was reluctant to consent to the demand for a policeman on every train. In his reply to the appeal made by Mr. Garrison on Tuesday he did not commit himself on police policy. He wrote:

Dear Sir:

I have your letter of Aug. 5 relative to the threatened strike of employes on the B. R. T. lines, together with a copy of the correspondence between you and the labor leaders. I have instructed the Police Commissioner to take all necessary measures to insure maintenance of order and protection in the operation of trains.

Very truly yours,
JOHN F. HYLAN.

In a statement later, the Mayor said Police Commissioner Enright had advised him it was impracticable to police every car and train. The Mayor said:

Mayor Warns Against Violence.

"We are determined to preserve law and order in this strike and we will carry out this determination without showing the slightest favoritism to either side in this controversy. Police Commissioner Enright tells me it will be hardly possible to place a policeman on each car, because the size of the police force will not permit. However, the strikers and the company may rest assured that ample and proper police protection will be afforded. No one need have any fear that the police will not be able to cope with any situation that may arise."

The B. R. T. officials policed the car shops and terminals with 600 private guards under ex-Police Inspector Edward Hughes, but they were insufficient in some cases to preserve order. A great crowd assembled in the morning at the East New York shops, where they were joined by several hundred shopmen who quit work. From this point, Superintendent Eagan, at 9 o'clock in the morning, sent the following telephone message to Police Headquarters in Brooklyn:

"Gangs of men are mobbing our men. Get the reserves in a hurry to Livonia Avenue and the Long Island tracks. One of our men has had his head broken down there, and our special policemen cannot handle the situation alone."

Reserves were posted at that point and the trouble was brought to an end. The first arrest growing out of the strike was that of Abraham Moed, 32 years old, of 132 Allen Street, Manhattan, a striker, who was accused by Arthur S. Cassidy of the B. R. T., with creating a disturbance at the Atlantic Avenue Elevated Station, where he was urging employes to strike.

Men Beaten at Work.

Arrests were few because of the pickets' system of descending suddenly on a train or car and then moving to another point before the police arrived. No attacks with revolvers or other weapons were reported during the day. Faithful employes frequently arrived at their terminals with black eyes and cut scalps, saying there had been no police to protect them.

P. J. Shea, Vice President of the Amalgamated Association, and other strike leaders were elated over the success of their carefully planned picketing campaign.

"We hesitated," said Shea, "about calling a strike on the transit lines of Brooklyn because of the many hardships and inconveniences to which the traveling public will be subjected. We have the comfort of the public in mind. A strike was our last resort. It was not called until every fair method to reach an amicable settlement had been exhausted.

"The strike is the result of hardships which the men have suffered for years. The walk-out was not suggested either by the union leaders or the Executive Committee that called on Mr. Garrison. It was demanded by the 5,000 men and women who attended the meetings last night and this morning.

"Immediately upon hearing Receiver Garrison's reply the employes clamored for a strike. Evidence of the good faith of the employes was given when the first motion to strike immediately was amended so that the order should not take effect until 5 o'clock this morning.

"This action is that of the men and women themselves, and will be supported to the end by the Amalgamated Association. The spirit displayed by those who attended the meetings clearly indicated that it is only a question of a short time before we will have won a complete victory and freedom to organize."

BURN CARS IN MUSKEGON.

Riots Over Seven-Cent Fare Stop Traffic.

MUSKEGON, Mich., Aug. 6.—All street car traffic is suspended here today as the result of disorders beginning late last night and continuing until daybreak resulting from the refusal of passengers to pay a seven-cent fare. A mob of several hundred persons attacked street cars during the night, burning two of them and tipping over a score of others. Several rioters were injured when officers, traction employes and special deputies dispersed the mob.

PUT BOULDERS ON TRACKS

Woman Guard Causes Arrest of a Strike Sympathizer—Fights When Police Run Cars.

Cars were damaged and employes who refused to strike beaten in many parts of Brooklyn last night. Three cars were damaged at Third Avenue and Sixty-second Street, where the strikers placed a huge stone on the track at the bottom of a steep grade. Then the strikers drove the crew and passengers off two Hamilton Avenue cars and one Third Avenue car, as they came along. Getting on board, the strikers started one car after another, released the brakes and then jumped off. The first car came to a stop by crashing into the boulder. The next car smashed the rear of the first one and the third speeded into the rear of the second.

At the Twenty-fifth Street station of the Fourth Avenue Subway yesterday afternoon Mrs. Stell Andrew, a woman guard on duty there, caused the arrest of Max Gutkoff, a striking guard, who was alleged to have used abusive language to her in attempting to make her join the strikers.

At meetings of the strikers yesterday some of the strikers expressed indignation because so many women had remained at work, but at many of the disorders women strikers and women sympathizers took a prominent part in the scenes.

Rioting broke out among about 500 strikers and sympathizers, at Church and Flatbush Avenues, last night, when an attempt was made to operate the cars on these lines with policemen aboard. The reserves were sent from the Snyder Avenue Precinct, and the mob was charged. One arrest was made.

The "hobbleskirt" cars were sent out from the Flatbush depot, in charge of inspectors, as motormen, and one with a conductorette to collect the fares. Police were aboard all three of the cars. The first car was allowed to pass unnoticed, but when the second one came along the crowd swarmed upon the tracks, and some one cut the rope and tampered with the air brakes, and the car was sent back to the barns. The next car came along shortly after in charge of Inspector Joseph Welch, who had his wife aboard as well as a conductorette and a couple of police officers. The crowd rushed the car and the police rushed the crowd and several heads were sore when the melée was ended.

The conductorette fainted and the inspector seemed relieved when given the opportunity to start the car back to the barns. The strikers then waited for another car, but none came. John Callahan, 25, of 3,517 Avenue I, arrested for cutting the trolley rope, was locked up in the Snyder Avenue station on a disorderly conduct charge. He says he is employed in the electrical department of the B. R. T.

Other Strikers in Riots.

There was constant fighting throughout the day and in the evening in Brownsville and East New York, where men and women, who were idle because they were striking against other employes, joining the striking carmen made the operation of surface lines practically impossible.

In this section the last car of the Bergen Street Line to attempt to operate in the afternoon was stopped when it found the car line blocked by a mass of stone and asphalt taken from a torn-up street and piled in front of the tracks at Douglas Street and East New York Avenue. When the car came to a halt a mob surrounded it and the car crew, after being threatened and hit by missiles, was taken away under a police escort, leaving the car almost a ruin. Nathan Klein, one of the crowd, was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Many of the cars in this section were attacked with stones and blocks of wood thrown by strikers from trucks which raced past the cars.

At Hancock Street and Myrtle Avenue a car manned by two policemen, which started out in the evening with a crowd of passengers, was attacked by strikers. When the police left the car in an attempt to scatter the crowd, several of the strikers got on board, cut the bell rope, tore off brakes, and did other damage.

Meeker Avenue and Graham Avenue street cars got as far as Fifty-eighth Street and Third Avenue yesterday when they were mobbed by strikers, who compelled their crews to switch and turn back. At Prospect Park circle one of the flying squadrons of strikers in motor trucks descended on a car, routed the crew, took the brakes, switched the car, started it on its backward trip and deserted it. At Ninth Avenue and Twentieth Street this was repeated.

Inspector Taken to Hospital.

Inspector Williams of the B. R. T. was taken to the Brooklyn Hospital badly injured yesterday after he had been manhandled by a crowd of strikers when he tried to operate a Graham Avenue car which was idle at Sands Street because its crew had been driven off.

At 9 o'clock last night six cars were badly damaged and several persons hurt when a crowd attacked the cars, which were stalled, with a fusillade of rocks. Morris Milstein, 54 years old, and Irving Rudolph, and Dennis Gleason were arrested on the charge of throwing stones. Several persons, including B. R. T. employes and bystanders, were treated for bruises and lacerations. Every window was broken in the cars, which were brought to a halt by obstructions placed across the tracks.

The private guards at B. R. T. shops and on other property were increased last night and stores of provisions laid in for a long time in anticipation of the possibility that the strike may be long drawn out and marked by destructiveness.

At a meeting of the striking B. R. T. employes, held last night in the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum and attended by about 3,000, P. J. Shea, Chairman of the National Executive Committee of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, who is directing the strike, told the strikers that 1,800 new members had been enrolled in the union since yesterday morning. His remarks were greeted with cheers by the men and a small number of women present. Mr. Shea, in urging the members of the union to be peaceful in their picketing, said that the situation was satisfactory, especially so since every employe of the mechanical department of the B. R. T. was out.

Declaring that the B. R. T. had no excuse in asking for police protection, Louis Fridiger, attorney for the union, who was the principal speaker, said that Commissioner Enright had assured him that the Police Department was neutral in the difference between the railroad company and its employes. Mr. Fridiger at this point was interrupted by several men, who reported that the police were riding on the cars, and expressed the belief that the Police Commissioner was "putting something over on the union."

"Commissioner Enright said to me when I saw him, 'I told the company that they should inspect myself or the Police Department to run their cars for them,' Mr. Fridiger replied. "We are peaceful law-abiding citizens and not looking for trouble. If the police on the cars are doing strike duty they are in every sense of the word scabs."

This last remark was met with prolonged cheering by the audience. Continuing his talk, Mr. Fridiger said that the Amalgamated had engaged a force of lawyers who would be in every Magistrate's Court in the Borough to defend strikers who might be arrested. Arrangements had also been made with a surety company to bail the men out, he announced. Halls would be hired in different sections of the borough for the use of the strikers, the attorney added.

Mr. Fridiger said that six representatives of the Red Car line employes and five from the Green Car line in Manhattan, who he said were in the hall, had informed him that the members of their organizations had wanted to go on strike immediately. He said that the officials of the Amalgamated had asked them to defer action pending the outcome of the strike today or tomorrow. At the conclusion of his speech, Mr. Fridiger said that the slogan adopted for the strikers was "Tie 'em up, tie 'em up, tie 'em up."

Arthur H. Levin, another speaker, who said he represented the Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines' Protective Association, declared that his organization had passed resolutions congratulating the B. R. T. men on their courage in strike for better wages and working conditions.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Fridiger was asked about a meeting which he had announced was to take place in Manhattan yesterday afternoon with the object of arranging tie up traction from Coney Island to Yonkers. Beyong admitting that the meeting had taken place, Mr. Fridiger would only say that no announcement would be made for forty-eight hours.

of men and women passengers packed on the platforms and stairways leading to the station and there was grave danger that some of them would be swept on to the tracks or injured in a stampede for the cars.

Nixon Surveys Situation.

Public Service Commissioner Nixon went to the Municipal Building to view the situation. He saw there a good natured crowd that was acting in an orderly manner, each person intent upon getting to Brooklyn with a minimum of fault finding. The Commissioner said he had tried to get in touch with someone in authority but had not been able to find anyone.

The crowds on the Municipal Building platforms waiting for the Sea Beach, Fourth Avenue, and the Bridgewood-Canarsie trains were controlled by the ticket sales. When the platforms became too crowded for safety the patrolmen on duty in the station sent word to the ticket booths and the sales were stopped until a train arrived to clear the platforms. Only a forty-five-minute headway was maintained all through the rush hours, but the prospective passengers waited patiently in their rain-soaked clothing while standing in water formed by the dripping of thousands of umbrellas.

The Interborough subway carried thousands to Brooklyn. They pressed down the entrances to the downtown stations and there was much congestion in the rush hours. They were all taken under the river; but it took time, and there was little comfort in that way of traveling.

The peak of the rush hour load on Manhattan Bridge is on ordinary occasions never so high as to bring congestion and discomfort. Yesterday evening there were both. Between 4 and 7 o'clock all sorts of vehicles passed over the bridge and it was estimated that in those three hours 5,220 automobiles of every kind crossed, carrying more than 100,000 passengers. Twenty-nine passed a given point every sixty seconds. This did not include the bridge cars, which were kept running and which took enormous crowds.

The B. R. T. trains to Times Square and to Chambers Street ran at infrequent intervals after 4 o'clock. At 6 o'clock traffic officers stationed near the Manhattan approach of the bridge said that it had been forty-five minutes since a train in either direction had crossed the bridge.

Traffic on the ferries in the late afternoon increased to such an extent that extra boats were pressed into service to serve home-going Brooklynites. At the foot of Whitehall Street, at the entrance to the Hamilton and Atlantic Avenue lines and the municipal ferry to Thirty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, there soon gathered a crowd that filled the ferryhouse to capacity and extended into the street for more than a block.

At the South Ferry terminal of the Thirty-ninth Street ferry to Brooklyn James Mulholland, foreman in charge, said that the crowd was the greatest since the line was operated by the city, with the exception of the time bridge and subway traffic was halted for several hours on Oct. 5, 1918, because of the fear that thousands of tons of TNT would explode following a fire at South Amboy, N. J. To meet this rush, boats running on the Staten Island line were pressed into service. Between 5 and 7 o'clock six boats, each with a capacity of 2,000 persons, were operating from the Whitehall terminal.

STRIKE-BOUND CROWDS GO HOME IN JITNEYS

Every kind of a conveyance known to travel or as a means of locomotion was drafted into service yesterday afternoon in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn in an effort to relieve the congestion of travel. Ice wagons were turned into jitneys, horse-drawn vehicles, mail trucks, ancient victorias, and even baby carriages were commandeered for service.

Motorcycles with side cars were doing a rushing business at "two bits" a ride, and one enterprising young chauffeur rented the back seat on his motorcycle. Some lucky persons rode home among the cushions of a high-powered limousine which the chauffeur was using after he had taken his employer to his office in the city as a "jitney" to relieve the traffic jam of pedestrians.

The Italian driver of a horse-drawn ice wagon threw aside his ice pick and became an impromptu jitney chauffeur. He took sixteen persons, among whom were five women, and started for Flatbush at the evening rush hour. One of the passengers expressed satisfaction when he was informed that he would be landed at home at 9 P. M.

An enterprising undertaker, who took the precaution to remove his name from his automobile hearse, stationed himself in the great jam of vehicles about the Borough Hall, and offered a "comfortable ride" to "any part of Brooklyn" for $1 in his vehicle. He seemed serious in his endeavor to get a "fare," but the best he got was a laugh from those he approached. He remained about the vicinity for two hours and finally gave up.

NIXON TAKES STEP TO END CAR STRIKE

URGES POLICE PROTECTION

Warns B. R. T. Receiver Against Using Inexperienced Men to Operate Trains.

Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon will begin hearings at 2:30 o'clock today concerning the strike on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system, in an effort to obtain a speedy and amicable settlement of the trouble.

The first witnesses will be inspectors employed by the Public Service Commission, who have been assigned to observe the effect of the strike on the operation of the various lines in Brooklyn. Mr. Nixon will question these men as to their experiences in traveling about on the lines, the action of the men in charge of the cars and trains, what service the police is furnishing, and details relating to the conduct of the strikers.

In this way, he expects to learn who are responsible for any disorder, and to correct it by issuing the necessary orders wherever he has jurisdiction, or, in matters outside his control, to ask the Mayor to act.

Mr. Nixon said his first work would be to ascertain whether the service given the public is adequate, and if it is not, to take steps to improve it. If he finds it necessary, he will call on B. R. T. officials to testify.

Notice of the hearing was sent to Lindley M. Garrison, receiver of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit, and a general invitation was extended to the public to attend. It is expected the strikers will have representatives present. If so, an opportunity will be given for them to make a statement.

Mr. Nixon and Deputy Commissioner Barrett kept in close touch with the situation throughout yesterday. They made trips to Brooklyn and visited the points of the traction system most seriously affected by the strike. After returning to his office late in the day Mr. Nixon sent a letter to Receiver Garrison, which read:

"As the employment of any raw operators or inexperienced men on cars of the system under your receivership might lead to accident, I beg to request that, if not already done, you will issue instructions that such men are not to be made use of."

He also sent a letter to the Mayor, in which he pointed out the necessity of adequate police protection at all points along the lines touched by the strike, especially at such congested stations as Canal Street, on the Broadway Subway; Chambers Street terminal Pacific Street, Brooklyn, and Ninth Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street.

The letter to the Mayor reads:

In view of the fact that some of the employes of the transit lines in Brooklyn are now on a strike, and that, as I am informed, strikers are interfering with both the operation of the cars of the companies and those of their employes who have not joined them, I request that you instruct the Police Commissioner to give the situation such attention as it demands, so as to protect not only the interests of the traveling public, but also the property of the public utilities and the persons of their employes.

From reports which I have received I am convinced that in addition to the general policing which is manifestly required at practically all points along the lines affected, the following important points of travel should, in the interests of the safety of the traveling public, be especially and adequately policed, and I therefore particularly request that they be covered during the rush hours, morning and evening, for such period as the strike shall remain in force.

The letter closed with the list of the stations referred to.

ADD BOAT TO CONEY LINE.

Extra Craft Will Run Today to Aid Brooklyn Trolley Patrons.

To accommodate persons inconvenienced by the B. R. T. strike the Iron Steamboat Company will operate an extra boat from Coney Island to Manhattan this morning. The Taurus will leave the Steeplechase Pier at the Island at about 8 o'clock, making a second trip at about 10:30 o'clock, and continuing the service until 5 or 6 in the evening, if there is sufficient demand for it.

This arrangement is the result of numerous requests received at the company's offices yesterday. If the Taurus alone cannot handle the crowds additional boats will be placed in service. The Manhattan landing place will be Pier 1, North River.

LABOR BUREAU NEUTRAL.

Service Agency Will Not Furnish Strikebreakers to B. R. T.

Strikebreakers for the B. R. T. will not be furnished by the Re-employment Bureau for Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines, Major Warren Bigelow, director, said last night.

"If the B. R. T., or any other concern that has labor trouble, sends in a requisition for men we will not send them," said Major Bigelow. "We will, however, post the requisition upon our bulletin board and if any jobless men want to apply there is nothing to prevent them. The Re-employment Bureau is strictly neutral. While we will not send men directly to a place where there is a strike we will post a notice saying there are jobs open there, but that labor trouble exists. In this way we avoid being accused of favoring either employers or unions."

SAYS POLICE HAVE ASKED FOR A UNION CHARTER

B. R. T. Strikers' Attorney Declares Force Already Organized—Denied by Hylan and Enright.

Louis Fridiger, attorney for the B. R. T. strikers, said yesterday that the policemen of the city have organized a union and have applied to the American Federation of Labor for a charter. The organization is to be known, he said, as the New York Policemen's Union, and will ask for a minimum wage of $1,500 for first year patrolmen, to be increased $100 annually until the men are paid $2,000. Sergeants and detectives, he said, are eligible for membership, but no officers of higher grades.

Both Mayor Hylan and Police Commissioner Enright made emphatic denial of Mr. Fridiger's statement.

Applicants for licenses to use or sell non-beverage alcohol, including distilled spirits and wine, who now sign U. S. Internal Revenue Bond Form 738 Revised, will avoid the risk of having to execute new bonds if, as seems probable, the Department requires all licensees, several months hence, to file new bonds on the amended form.

This amended form has been officially adopted, but the Government's printed copies will not be ready for distribution for some time.

We are ourselves, however, printing the form in order to accommodate the trade. We go to press today, and are now prepared to receive applications for bonds to be executed on the new form.

DEMAND WAGE INCREASE NOW

REFUSE PRESIDENT'S PLAN

Calls on Wage Board for Immediate Action and Suggests Increase in Rates.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The demands of the railroad employees on Director General Hines for increased wages as a temporary relief and the adoption of the principles of the Plumb plan of Government ownership as a permanent solution of economic problems were made public today. The demands, in writing, signed by the representatives of the brotherhoods and the shopmen, were placed before Mr. Hines, following his statement, at their recent conference, that he did not have the money with which to increase wages unless Congress made an appropriation.

Mr. Hines has not made formal reply to the written demands and, so far as could be learned, there has been no important change in the situation since the deadlock. The aggregate wage increases asked for are approximately $800,000,000, including $165,000,000 for the shopmen.

Text of Unions' Letter.

"Hon. Walker D. Hines,
"Director General of Railroads,
"U. S. Railroad Administration,
"I. C. C. Bldg., Washington, D. C.:

"Dear Sir: After having given careful thought to all that was said at our conference with you and your associates Aug. 4, 1919, we present the following for your consideration:

"Railway employes have loyally cooperated in the operation of the railroads and are entitled to compensation which will at least re-establish the prewar purchasing power of their wage.

"We do not agree that rates of pay to employes and transportation charges are in any way correlated. Minimum rates of pay should be sufficient to guarantee to the most unskilled employe an adequate living wage, with such additional amounts as will meet the necessities incident to old age, injury, sickness, and death, and higher rates based upon the skill, responsibility, and hazard required and involved. Also these wage rates should be such as will compare favorably to the wages paid for similar service in other industries.

"Transportation rates should be sufficient to guarantee:

"First—To all employes this just and equitable wage.

"Second—Maintain the properties in condition to render adequate service to the public.

"Third—Equitable returns upon the money actually invested.

"We cannot approve of the plan proposed by you for a Congressional committee, for the reason that it means months of delay at a time when the questions involved require immediate settlement.

"You already have in the Board of Railroad Wages and Working Conditions the necessary machinery to dispose of these questions, and we ask that their function be restored and they be allowed to pass upon the questions submitted to them and that their findings be placed before the representatives of the recognized organizations for their consideration and be mutually agreed upon before being issued.

"The moneys with which to pay these increases should, in our opinion, be raised by an appropriation by Congress. This appropriation should be of a sufficient amount temporarily to take care of immediate deficits. In the meantime let the proper rate-making body make a careful study as to what, if any, increases should be made in passenger and freight rates, prompt action in this regard being both essential and desirable. This will only give temporary relief and must be accompanied, or immediately followed, by a determined effort not only to prevent a further increase in the cost of living, but to secure a reduction therein.

"Any permanent solution of the railroad problem must necessarily remove the element of returns to capital as the sole purpose of operation. Therefore, we ask that you urge upon the President the necessity for the prompt passage by Congress of the required Appropriation bill to meet the emergency now existing.

"Also that you indorse the Simms bill (H. R. 8157) now before the House of Representatives and recommend to the President that he use all his influence to secure its immediate passage by Congress as the permanent solution.

"The Simms bill, if enacted into law, will give to the Interstate Commerce Commission its original authority over transportation rates, and employes cannot hope for increases in rates of pay except as they result from economy and efficiency in operation due to their own collective efforts. Any increases to employes under this bill guarantees to the public equal benefits in reduction of transportation charges.

"Capital will be fully reimbursed for all money actually invested. Therefore no one can possibly suffer by the enactment of this bill, unless it be the employes themselves, and they are willing to risk their future."

DECLINE TO CONDUCT WAGE INVESTIGATION

Senate Interstate Commerce Committee Tells President He Has Ample Power.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—By unanimous vote, the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee late today voted to decline to carry out the suggestions made by President Wilson in his letter to Senator Cummins, Chairman of the committee, to conduct an inquiry into the railroad wage situation as related to the high cost of living.

Senator Cummins was instructed to write a letter to the President informing him that it was the opinion of the committee that he and the Director of Railroads have ample authority to adjust the wage problem without further power being vested through act of Congress.

The action came after a brief discussion of the President's letter. The committee had before it a report by a subcommittee comprising Senators Cummins and La Follette, Republicans, and Wolcott, Democrat, who in a conference last night agreed that it was futile for the committee to take up an investigation such as suggested by the President because power for the Executive to handle any railroad wage situation was conferred under the Railroad bill of March 21, 1918, under which the railroad systems were put under Government control. Since the President had asked for it Senator Cummins said he was agreeable to an inquiry, but he was outvoted by the other two.

When the entire committee met today it was apparent that there was a unanimous lack of sympathy with the President's proposal. Administration Democrats were as firmly opposed to it as were Republicans. Senator Cummins agreed with his associates and voted against the investigation.

More than one Senator asserted that the Administration appeared to be trying to "pass the buck" to Congress in handling the railroad wage situation. The President, they said, hoped to convey the impression that the responsibility for working out a solution rested with the legislative body.

Senator Cummins dictated a letter to the President expressing the committee's view, but declined to make it public in advance of its receipt by the President.

Senator Cummins, it is understood, wrote that the committee would consider any further suggestion that the President might have to make as to the railroad problem, but that the wage question could not be taken up.

WILSON REFUSES FOOD CURB DELAY

as vigorously as possible under existing laws against those considered responsible in a large degree for the situation through profiteering or hoarding. And the first official blows were struck today when Attorney General Palmer issued orders for the prosecution of the "Big Five" meat packers under the Sherman law and ordered all United States District Attorneys throughout the country to proceed against hoarders and profiteers.

Here is the text of Mr. Palmer's telegram to the United States Attorneys:

The Food Control act, which is still in force, in Section 6 makes hoarding of necessaries, as therein defined, a crime, and Section 7 provides that whenever necessaries shall be hoarded they may be proceeded against by process of libel for condemnation. There is much complaint in the country about the extensive storage of food products, which in many instances may amount to a violation of the law.

You are hereby directed immediately to employ all facilities at your command and make use of all available sources of information to seek out all dealers guilty of hoarding within the meaning of the act, and to ascertain if in any other respect these provisions of the Food Control act have been violated in your district.

Please proceed with promptness and diligence to make a thoroughgoing investigation of conditions in your district with respect to possible violations of this law and of the anti-trust laws and, when the evidence warrants, see that arrests are made without further instructions.

This is business of prime importance which demands your immediate personal attention. Conditions require a country-wide campaign against hoarders and profiteers, and I desire the Department of Justice to use every legal means available to put an end to their activities.

When the Attorney General handed a copy of his telegram to members of the press late this afternoon he had little comment to make on the action taken, but it was significantly to the point.

"It is my thought," said Mr. Palmer, "that if the United States Attorneys throughout the country properly construe my telegram to them everything else will be sidetracked without a single exception for the present, in acting under the instructions given."

It is possible that legislation will be asked in an effort to control the retail price situation where there appears to be evidence of profiteering. Mr. Palmer, when asked today if there were laws that covered profiteering directly now on the statute books, said that profiteering entered into the retail price question in the minds of many and that it was a subject which he did not feel that he could discuss. If steps are taken against retail profiteering it probably will be as a result of legislation to be recommended by President Wilson.

In response to a question as to how war legislation would be utilized in peace times in dealing with the cost of living situation, Mr. Palmor replied that "these are not peace times. The Food Control act and other war acts are still in force; that the conditions existing throughout the country are part of the wartime conditions, and will be dealt with under both wartime and peacetime legislation."

In the absence of further legislation Mr. Palmer made it quite plain that, pending new legislation, he would proceed under two basic kinds of law:

First—The anti-hoarding provisions of the food control law.

Second—The Sherman anti-trust law so far as it can reach combinations affecting the necessaries of life.

He pointed out that it was possible to bring both civil and criminal proceedings under both of these laws. When he was asked to indicate the character of the legislation that the President intends to recommend to Congress in his message of Friday he replied:

"It would neither be proper nor fair to the President for me to indicate just what he will recommend. I think you will have to await the President's message."

Mr. Palmer said that all his information led him to believe that the hoarder was a prominent figure in the situation, and that hoarding was tied up with profiteering.

The announcement that the President would go to the Capitol on Friday was made at the White House, where the President's private secretary made public this letter from the President to Representative Mondell, the Republican floor leader in the house:

President's Letter to Mondell.

White House,
Washington, Aug. 6, 1919.

My Dear Mr. Mondell:

I am very sorry indeed that I cannot comply with your suggestion of delay in the matter of my address to a joint session of Congress. The situation which impelled me last week to ask Congress to postpone its recess until my recommendations could be submitted is still acute. I have had under very serious consideration the proper action of the Government with reference to the high cost of living, and I feel that it is my duty at the earliest possible moment to present certain recommendations now ready for submission to Congress.

I have, therefore, asked the Vice President and the Speaker to arrange, if possible, for a joint session for Friday afternoon next at 4 o'clock.

WOODROW WILSON.

The President denied himself to callers, with a few exceptions, throughout the day, in order to concentrate on the preparation of the message he will present to Congress on Friday. While the executive departments engaged in the Administration's campaign were actively engaged in carrying forward their plans, neither branch of Congress gave consideration to the cost of living problem in debate today, the Senate having adjourned yesterday until tomorrow noon, while the House was in session just long enough to hear the Chaplain's prayer.

Officials of the Department of Agriculture today began their analysis of reports from Federal agents in all sections of the country dealing with hoarding of commodities in anticipation of a rise in prices. These reports indicated that there had been extensive hoarding in some of the interior cities, among them Chicago, Detroit, and Cleveland.

It is understood that a special investigation will be made covering warehouses in New York and Philadelphia, based on reports that vast quantities of food and clothing had been stored in these cities and withheld from the American market.

LABOR LEADERS URGE PLUMB BILL

trenches for their nation, I can at least forego my political career in that service," continued Mr. Webster.

There was a commotion in the committee room. A. B. Garretson, late head of the Railway Conductors, looked disturbed. Mr. Morrison sat at the witness table, silent. A member of the House went up and shook hands warmly with Mr. Webster. Mr. Morrison asked permission to make a statement.

"We come before the committee with no threats," he said. "Our argument for the election of our men, for office, must not be taken as a threat. It is merely the lawful manner in which great issues are fought out. We want to educate the representatives to our way of thinking. I am sorry it has been injected here that there are threats of a strike, or threats of the decapitation of a Congressman.

"But the fact remains," he shouted, his voice rising high, "that there is great unrest. Great bodies of men have struck in spite of the efforts of officials. There comes a time when the burden is too heavy. And when that time arrives you may expect a revolution to the extent of striking for conditions they desire."

Mr. Morrison insisted that the Brotherhood men must have their wage increase, even if the Plumb plan was adopted. The checking of profiteering would not be a substitute for this payment, according to his testimony. The hearing was apparently almost over when Mr. Morrison said:

"My idea is to increase wages to meet the high cost of living and then to check profiteering."

"Don't you think with the Plumb plan, revolutionary and experimental, taking time to install, and only a part cure, that the country should be afforded an opportunity to express itself?" asked Mr. Webster. "Surely you don't want a remedy appliable only for your organization, when by patience a better plan might be adopted that would benefit everyone."

To this Mr. Morrison replied that little attention had been paid by Congress to plans suggested by labor for reconstruction.

"If a plan can be shown which would reduce the high cost of living and benefit all the people, that would be preferable to a wage raise, would it not?" asked Mr. Webster. "Would you not prefer a plan which affords relief to all to one which affords relief only to members of your organization?"

"We don't believe we should bear the increased cost of living while the plan is being solved," answered Mr. Morrison.

"At the same time telling us you will increase the cost of living by raising wages," replied Mr. Webster.

"If Congress sincerely tries to reduce the cost of living can you think of any benefit that would come from a nation-wide strike?" asked Mr. Webster.

Mr. Morrison said if the Plumb plan was adopted there would be no strike.

Then Mr. Webster repeated this question, also asking what conditions the Brotherhood would impose in case of a strike.

After an evasive answer Mr. Webster made his statement that he did not propose to be "coerced."

"We don't want Congressmen who can be coerced," said Mr. Morrison, and raising his voice to a shout again he cried.

"We don't want autocratic employers coercing our workers into long hours and poor conditions. That we shall resent. We want free men, men who will give voice to their consciences. And if they don't think that way we will try and make them."

Stone Reads Statement.

On taking the stand Mr. Stone read a statement, in part, as follows:

"At the request of these organizations, the Sims bill is now before you. I speak as the voice of these two million men, delegated by them to announce to this committee and to the people of this country that they are supporting this measure with all the strength and all the unity of purpose that can move so large a body of citizens.

"Joined with us and represented by Mr. Morrison is the American Federation of Labor, adding three million and a half men to the body of railway employes who instituted this movement.

"The large number of wage earners now constitutes a large percentage of the people. The extension of industry has changed the nature of the previous struggle. For whatever the worker receives in wages he must spend for the necessaries of life. In addition, he is always compelled to pay to the employer an excessive profit on his own wages. The cost of his living is determined by the sum he earns plus the profit he is charged on his own labor, and, as a group, labor is forever prevented from bettering its lot because of the profits exacted by the employer. The hope of a finer life is never realized. So long as consumers are forced to pay extortionate profits on their own earnings to a third interest there is no solution of the industrial problem.

"We find that this third interest absolutely controls and dominates the management of industry. It fixes wages and controls working conditions. It fixes the prices of commodities without regard to the needs of society or the necessities of producers and consumers. We have a democratic form of Government but an autocratic control of industry.

"The need of mankind for the products of industry must be accepted as the basic interest in all industry. The right of the worker who supplies that need demands like acceptance. This can only be achieved by permitting producers and consumers to share in control of the management of their means of existence. The machinery for attaining this result we believe is embodied in the plan outlined in the Sims bill."

"If this committee does not indorse the Plumb plan, what would your organization do?" asked Mr. Esch.

"Our action would be to create enough public sentiment so that a majority of the House and Senate would pass it," replied Mr. Stone.

Asked how this would be done Mr. Stone said:

"By every effort at our command—the press, organizations, and every other possible channel."

"Would you seek to develop it through a strike?"

"No, Sir, although I am only speaking for the railroad brotherhoods. We have made no threat of a strike. We have told the President that the time had arrived when we could not live and therefore we desired a reduction in the cost of living. I do not believe that other labor organizations will strike to enforce the Plumb plan.

"I do think, though, that some will strike unless there is immediate relief from the excessive cost of living. That is the object of the Plumb plan. We cannot wait long, and that is one of the reasons we objected to the plan proposed by the Director General of Railroads. We cannot live if we have to wait too long for relief."

Mr. Stone said, when asked if his organization had a scheme to reduce the high cost of living, that they were waiting to see what the President and Congress did.

"If they fail some one else must solve the question," he said. "There are many things Congress can do."

To another question he replied:

"It might be that before we got through we would bring some one before a firing squad."

"Don't you think Congress should have a little time to consider this big question?" asked Mr. Esch.

"Congress should have seen this coming. The working men knew it was coming months ago. But Congress arranged to take a vacation instead of doing something. That seemed to me like Nero fiddling while Rome burned."

Says Men Could Make Profit.

Mr. Stone was asked by Representative Doremus of Michigan, Democrat, to suggest plans for stopping waste and profiteering.

"Well, if the Government can draft my boy and take my money in taxes, it should be able to do something to reduce the cost of living and fix the prices of commodities," he answered.

"What can Congress do?" asked Mr. Winslow of Massachusetts, Republican.

"I do not wish to criticize Congress, but I must say that for the last few months it has been too busy playing politics to consider the high cost of living," answered Mr. Stone.

"Well, assuming that we did play politics and that we were boneheads, what could we have done that we did not do?"

"You should have stopped profiteering," was the reply.

"But Congress is not the law enforcing body, but the law making body, and there are laws on the books against profiteering," said Mr. Winslow.

The inquiry was then carried on by Representative Denison of Illinois, Republican, who asked if the Brotherhoods wished to force Government ownership of all public utilities.

"Do you think it wise policy to socialize all industry?" asked Mr. Denison.

"The time has arrived," replied Mr. Stone, "when the Government should retain control of the railroads. Any other plan means a financial panic. If they are turned back next week, within thirty days many roads will be in the hands of a receiver."

"Can you suggest anything to prevent this panic?"

"I believe the adoption of the Plumb plan would be the answer. If you adopt the plan of the capitalists you would subsidize all railroads."

When Mr. Denison asked once more if the plan of socialization should not be extended to all industry, Mr. Stone would not agree to this. He said the "time had not arrived."

"Why should the Government manage the railroads and not other public utilities?" asked Mr. Denison.

"Because the railroads are semipublic utilities and we understand conditions in the railroads and know that they cannot continue. I am not familiar with other utilities. The time may come when the Government will control all national industries and not allow any one set of men to control them."

Asked by Representative Barclay of Kentucky, Democrat, if a profit could be made on all roads, Mr. Stone said, "Yes, on the Governmental system as a whole."

"What do you think is the chief cause of the high cost of living?" asked Mr. Montague.

"The system of profiteering that has grown up; we don't talk in terms of cents any more, but in terms of millions."

"Do you know anybody at all that did not try to get all out of this war they could, except the soldiers?"

"No," replied Mr. Stone.

Predicts Panic, Failing Solution.

When Mr. Watson of Pennsylvania, Republican, compared conditions succeeding the civil war to conditions in 1919, Mr. Stone predicted that a panic would again occur if present conditions were not altered.

"I want to say," he said, "and I say it in no spirit of threat, but as a fact, that unless Congress or some one finds a solution within a few months—not a few years, but a few months—you are going to see the worst time the country has ever known. The people are not going to fold their hands and say 'please' while they are starving."

Railroad wages, he continued, had increased about 37 per cent. since before the war, while living costs had gone up 82 per cent. If the guaranteed wheat price were removed the price would leap to $3 immediately.

"The adoption of the Plumb plan will not solve the high cost of living," said Mr. Stone. "We do not claim that. It will be one of the agencies that will help to solve it."

"Do you look for a reduction of rates?" asked Representative Montague.

"I believe so, under our plan," was the reply. "I cannot say how many years would elapse."

Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, then took the stand. He said he represented "3,700,000 paid members" of the Federation, and with unpaid members a total of four million. He added the Brotherhoods' members to this and said he represented 4,700,000 men and also all unorganized labor. He read a prepared statement in which he maintained that the enactment of the Plumb plan bill would re-establish the theory that the railroads should be operated for public service rather than for private profit.

"In all discussions of this question," he continued, "it would be well to bear in mind that quasi-public corporations are created for service and not for profit. A long line of decisions, from the Supreme Court of the United States down, have invariably held that the fundamental purposes of these corporations is to serve the public and that they are only entitled to a fair remuneration.

"Hardly any one will deny that under private management the railroads have been financial footballs and that they have been directed by interests whose wreckage of numerous railroad systems is common knowledge.

"Aside from the application of democracy in these properties, and their handling by practical railroad men, the Sims bill will squeeze all fictitious value out of these properties. This will affect living costs and reduce charges the public must now meet, for then it will no longer be necessary to compel the railroads to earn dividends on millions of dollars of watered stock.

"The Steel Trust refuses to permit its employes to organize and does not permit them to hold public meetings in Pennsylvania. It is just such acts by representatives of a great corporation that have created unrest in this country, which is now at the danger point. With the present great development of the labor movement, with the steadily increasing membership, I believe we will organize the Steel Trust and establish the eight-hour day."

"Do you believe in socialization of the railroads through public opinion as expressed in Congress?" was the first question put by Chairman Esch. Mr. Morrison said he did.

"There would be no duress?" persisted Mr. Esch.

"That is not our plan," was the answer.

"If the Plumb plan was not adopted by Congress, you would endeavor to have one or the other great political parties insert planks supporting it, and thus submit the question in a referendum to the people at the next election?"

"Probably."

In answer to Representative Barclay of Kentucky Mr. Morrison said that if neither party inserted such a plank, the A. F. of L. would carry on an educational campaign. "The Labor Party would not be discouraged if the parties did not include such a plank; they would just keep on."

"And there would be no resort to violence?" was Mr. Esch's next question.

Dodges Strike Question.

Pressed by Mr. Denison to reply whether he believed a similar plan to the Plumb idea might be applied to the steel industry, Mr. Morrison said:

"I am not authorized to make a statement in regard to that. The mine workers have declared for nationalization of the mines. They want something more than Government ownership; they want some say themselves."

"But you do not think that this plan might be sought to be applied to all industry?" asked Mr. Denison.

"If this plan works out satisfactorily there would be no question about extending it to other quasi-public industries. The position of the A. F. of L. is to leave to the people of the various industries the settlement of the question so far as it concerns them."

Representative Saunders of Virginia, Democrat, asked what would be done in case of a strike under the Plumb plan.

"But there is nothing in this bill that contemplates a strike," said Mr. Morrison.

Mr. Saunders contended that strikes might occur under the plan, just as under other plans of ownership, but Mr. Morrison avoided an answer.

Asked if the plan tended to level the wages of skilled and unskilled labor, he said it would be a "long time" before that came about. Unskilled labor received higher war wages than other classes, some getting the "80 per cent" necessary to cover the increased living costs.

Mr. Saunders contended that the Plumb plan included compulsory arbitration, to which the federation is opposed, but Mr. Morrison would not admit this, saying the employes would be represented on the Governing Board.

"Under the plan," said Mr. Rayburn of Texas, Republican, "five board members would be employes and five officials, and the officials would be elected by the employes. Only five would be appointed by the Government. You would have railway employes represented in the proportion of two to one."

"I think it gives the railway employes five men; officials and employes would not think along the same line when it came to wages," insisted Mr. Morrison.

Mr. Rayburn said he understood the Brotherhood demanded between $800,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 a year. "The last sum would mean $10 for every man, woman, and child in the United States. If the demand is not granted, what would be your advice to your people?"

"The Federation has complete autonomy over wages and hours. Each organization has control over that."

"Have any organizations determined to strike if they do not receive the increase?"

"My information is that no such action has been taken, but I understand some kind of a proposition is being submitted."

In describing what he termed "ideal democracy" Mr. Morrison said he did not see "any reason why wealth should pass from father to son."

Mr. Winslow asked if he considered the railroads could have been operated with better efficiency under private control during the war.

"Unless we had had railroads operated by private control at that time it would be difficult to make the comparison," was the answer.

Mr. Winslow presented two written questions, which, together, asked if it was not true that at the present time labor was better fed, better clothed, housed, entertained, and had more bank deposits than ever. Many questions were asked of Mr. Morrison in an effort to have him answer directly. Finally, Mr. Winslow said:

"Do you want me to assume that you do not wish to answer?"

Mr. Morrison condensed some of his long answers into the statement that it was not possible with the contrast between wage increases and cost increases for labor to be better fed, clothed, &c. But that so far as the financial end was concerned he believed through "Government education" that "our men" had "denied themselves" and invested in Government securities.

Relative to his statement that the Sims bill would "squeeze fictitious values" out of railroad stocks, Mr. Morrison said stock investors should stand the risk when they invested.

Mr. Winslow asked if Mr. Morrison indorsed a statement that if beer was allowed, fears of a strike would cease.

"I don't believe any particular product would have any effect on conditions," was the answer.

PALMER ANNOUNCES SUITS

when Mr. Jerome was District Attorney of New York. He has a wonderful capacity for investigation. I found that out when I was Alien Property Custodian, for in every case in which he was employed he obtained splendid results."

The Big Five have felt for some time that there was danger of action being taken by the Government, and it is said that they have been marshaling their legal forces. Agents of the packers have been in Washington for several days.

Volumes of Evidence Ready.

The situation became tense within the last few days as a result of the repeated publicity given to unofficial statements that the Committee of Three which was named by Attorney General Palmer was prepared to recommend that the packing industry be proceeded against as a part of the Government's campaign against high living costs. The Federal Trade Commission brought heavy pressure to bear for such action and turned over volumes of evidence which had been obtained by its investigators.

The report of the commission on the packing industry, which has been in the course of preparation for months at the request of President Wilson, will make seven large volumes when its compilation is completed and goes into hundreds of phases of the industry since it was founded.

It makes many definite and specific charges which it endeavors to substantiate in part from letters from the files of the packers and in part from searching investigations of the packers' books. The intention of the Trade Commission is to exhibit to the public production costs not only on meats but on shoes and other products of the packing industry, in an effort to demonstrate the huge profits which it is alleged the packers make.

The moral effect which the action against the packing industry will have upon the living cost situation will be large and wholesome, in the opinion of the Government officials. While discussing the Government's attitude today Attorney General Palmer was firm in the attitude he adopted, indicating that he was determined to bring all of the Government's agencies into action in making the fight.

The belief here is general that dissolution suits will be the first step taken and that if criminal action is brought against any individual it will develop from the evidence which is adduced.

It developed that the Department of Justice feels that much valuable information as to production costs and selling costs will be spread before the public as a result of the prosecutions contemplated.

"If you let the American people know the facts," Mr. Palmer said, "they will make pretty effective judges themselves."

Assert Proof Is Conclusive.

These direct charges were made in a letter to President Wilson which accompanied the Federal Trade Commission's report on the packing industry:

"Answering directly your question as to whether or not there exist monopolies, controls, trusts, combinations, conspiracies, or restraints of trade out of harmony with the law and the public interests, we have found conclusive evidence that warrants an unqualified affirmative.

"While we have found and will disclose to you an intricate fabric of monopolies, controls, combinations, conspiracies, and restraints, which would seem to indicate a similarly complex and minute system of legislative or administrative remedies, we believe that an adequate remedy may be more simply arrived at.

"We believe that if the fundamental and underlying evils are rooted out the whole structure of conspiracy, control, monopoly, and restraint must fall.

"If we are correct in this judgment, the task of applying legislative and administrative remedy is greatly simplified.

"It appears that five great packing concerns of the country—Swift, Armour, Morris, Cudahy, and Wilson—have attained such a dominant position that they control at will the market in which they buy their supplies and the market in which they sell their products, and hold the fortunes of their competitors in their hands.

"Not only is the business of gathering, preparing, and selling meat products in their control, but an almost countless number of by-product industries are similarly dominated, and, not content with reaching out for mastery as to commodities which substitute for meat and its by-products, they have invaded allied industries, and even unrelated ones.

"The combination has not stopped at the most minute integration, but has gone on into a stage of conglomeration, so that unrelated heterogeneous enterprises are brought under control.

"As we have followed these five great corporations through their amazing and devious ramifications—followed them through important branches of industry, of commerce, and of finance—we have been able to trace back to its source the great power which has made possible their growth. We have found that it is not so much the means of production and preparation, nor the sheer momentum of wealth, but the advantage which is obtained through a monopolistic control of the market places and means of transportation and distribution.

"If these five great concerns owned no packing plants and killed no cattle and still retained control of the instruments of transportation, of marketing and of storage, their position would not be less strong than it is.

"The producer of live stock is at the mercy of these five companies, because they control the market and the marketing facilities, and, to some extent, the rolling stock which transports the product to the market.

Competitors at Their Mercy.

"The competitors of these five concerns are at their mercy because of the control of the market places, storage facilities, and the refrigerator cars for distribution.

"The consumer of meat products is at the mercy of these five because both producer and competitor are helpless to bring relief.

"Out of the mass of information in our hands, one fact stands out with all possible emphasis: The small, dominant group of American meat packers are now international in their activities, while retaining American identity. Blame which now attaches to them for their practices abroad as well as at home inevitably will attach to our country if the practices continue. The purely domestic problems in their increasing magnitude, their monopolization of markets and their manipulations and controls, grave as those problems are, are not more serious than those presented by the added aspect of international activity. This urgently argues for a solution which will increase and not diminish the high regard in which this people is held in international conity.

"Some show of competition is staged by the five great packing companies. It is superficial. There is the natural rivalry of officials and departments, and this is made much of as indicating the existence of real competition. It is not real. What a sham it is will be fully set out in the accompanying summary and the complete reports.

"Some independent packers exist by sufferance of the five, and a few hardy ones have survived in real competition. Around such few of these as remain the lines are drawing in."

Summary of the Findings.

This indictment is then brought by the Trade Commission in a summary of its findings:

"Five corporations—Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Morris & Co., Wilson & Co., Inc., and the Cudahy Packing Company—hereafter referred to as the 'Big Five,' or 'the packers,' together with their subsidiaries and affiliated companies, not only have a monopolistic control over the American meat industry, but have secured control, similar in purpose if not yet in extent, over the principal substitutes for meat, such as eggs, cheese, vegetables, and oil products, and are rapidly extending their power to cover fish and nearly every kind of foodstuffs.

"In addition to these immense properties in the United States, the Armour, Swift, Morris, and Wilson interests, either separately or jointly, own or control more than half of the export meat production of Argentina, Brazil, and Uruguay, and have large investments in other surplus meat producing countries, including Australia. Under present shipping conditions the big American packers control more than half of the meat upon which the Allies are dependent.

"The monopolistic position of the Big Five is based not only upon the large proportion of the meat business which they handle, ranging from 61 to 86 per cent. in the principal lines, but primarily upon their ownership, separately or jointly, of stockyards, car lines, cold storage plants, branch houses, and the other essential facilities for the distribution of perishable foods.

"The control of these five great corporations, furthermore, rests in the hands of a small group of individuals, namely, J. Ogden Armour, the Swift brothers, the Morris brothers, Thomas E. Wilson, (acting under the veto of a small group of bankers,) and the Cudahys.

"A new and important aspect was added to the situation when the control of the Sulzberger & Sons Co., (now known as Wilson & Co., Inc.,) was secured in 1916 by a group of New York banks—the Chase National Bank, Guaranty Trust Company, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., William Salomon & Co., and Hallgarten & Co.

"The report of the committee appointed by the House of Representatives to investigate the concentration of control of money and credit (the Pujo Committee) states (p. 59):

"Morgan & Co. control absolutely the Guaranty Trust Company. The Chase National Bank, a majority of its stock being owned by George F. Baker, is closely affiliated with the First National Bank. William Salomon & Co. and Hallgarten & Co. are closely affiliated with Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

"Thus we have three of the most powerful banking roups in the country which the Pujo Committee classed among the six most active agents in forwarding and bringing about the concentration of control of money and credit, now participating in the rapidly maturing food monopoly above described. The entrance of the bankers into the packing business, it should also be noted, was not at all displeasing to the big packers. J. Ogden Armour and Louis F. Swift were frequently consulted during the negotiations, and Paul D. Cravath is quoted by Henry Veeder as giving assurance that the final arrangements would be more than satisfactory to Armour and Swift.

Charge Joint Ownership.

"The menace of this concentrated control of the nation's food is increased by the fact that these five corporations and their five hundred and odd subsidiary, controlled, and affiliated companies are bound together by joint ownership, agreements, understanding, communities of interest, and family relationship.

"The combination among the Big Five is not a casual agreement, brought about by indirect and obscure methods, but a definite and positive conspiracy for the purpose of regulating purchases of livestock and controlling the price of meat, the terms of the conspiracy being found in certain documents which are in our possession.

"There are undoubtedly rivalries in certain lines among the five corporations, their agreements do not cover every phase of their manifold activities, nor is each of the five corporations a party to all agreements and understandings which exist. Each of the companies is free to secure advantages and profits for itself so long as it does not disturb the basic compact. Elaborate steps have been taken to disguise their real actions by maintaining a show of intense competition at the most conspicuous points of contact.

"The Armour, Swift, Morris, and Wilson interests have entered into a combination with certain foreign corporations by which export shipments of beef, mutton, and other meats from the principal South American meat-producing countries are apportioned among the several companies on the basis of agreed percentages. In conjunction with this conspiracy, meetings are held for the purpose of securing the maintenance of the agreement and making such readjustments as from time to time may be desirable. The agreements restrict South American shipments to European countries and to the United States.

"Since the meat supplies of North and South America constitute practically the only sources from which the United States and her allies can satisfy their needs for their armies, navies and civil population, these two agreements constitute a conspiracy on the part of the five, in conjunction with certain foreign corporations, to monopolize an essential of the food of the United States, England, France, and Italy.

"The power of the Big Five in the United States has been and is being unfairly and illegally used to:

"Manipulate livestock markets;

"Restrict inter-State and international supplies of foods;

"Control the prices of dressed meats and other foods;

"Defraud both the producers of food and consumers;

"Crush effective competition;

"Secure special privileges from railroads, stockyard companies, and municipalities, and

"Profiteer.

"The packers' profits in 1917 were more than four times as great as in the average year before the European war, although their sales in dollars and cents at even the inflated prices of last year had barely doubled, in the war years, 1915, 1916, 1917, four of the five packers made net profits of $178,000,000.

"Illustrative of how completely effective competition has been eliminated from the meat industry is the fact that there is only one independent packer, Kingan & Co., who slaughters as much as 1 per cent. of the interstate total of cattle, and only nine independents who slaughter as much as 1 per cent. of the interstate total of hogs.

Statements Called Deceptive.

"The big packers, in presenting their case to the public, have given great emphasis to certain figures purporting to prove that the Big Five handle 'not to exceed one-third of the total meat production of the United States.' This result can be obtained only by juggling figures; for example, by omitting from the Big Five's total the animals slaughtered by their affiliated companies.

"Their statement is further deceptive because under 'total meat production of the United States' are included all the animals killed on the farm for home consumption. On this theory monopoly could not be considered to exist in the meat industry, even if every pound of meat consumed in towns and cities were handled by a single company, so long as farmers continued to kill their own hogs and cows.

"Control of the meat industry carries with it not only control of all kinds of fresh and preserved meats but, in addition, a very great competitive advantage in more than a hundred products and by-products arising in connection with their preparation and manufacture, ranging in importance from hides and oleomargarine to sandpaper and curled hair. In all these lines the Big Five's percentage of control, as compared with other slaughterers, is greater even than the percentage of animals killed, because of the fact that many of the small packers are not equipped or have been unable to utilize their by-products."

The report then deals with the extension of the interests of the Big Five abroad and turns from that to a detailed study of the grip which the packers are declared to have obtained on other industries, including canned fruits and vegetables, staple groceries, and grain, fertilizers, hides, leather, and wool.

Taking up the banking connections, the Trade Commission asserts that the packers are represented on the Boards of Directors of the following institutions in Boston and New York as well as in many of the prominent banking institutions of the Middle and Far West:

The commission says under the general designation of "evidence of combination":

"In the first place, these five corporations began as individual enterprises with small capital and, with the exception of Wilson & Co., Inc., have been for two or three or more generations under the management of the same families which established them.

Stock Held in Families.

"Two of these concerns—Armour and Morris—are and always have been close corporations, with stocks almost entirely in the hands of the families. The Cudahy Packing Company was a close corporation until recently. Its stock is now listed for sale to the public, but it is still dominated by the Cudahy family. The fourth, Swift & Co., although having a large number of stockholders, is now and has always been completely under the control of the Swift family. The 20,000 stockholders, widely advertised by Swift & Co., have never had even an approximately complete list of its subsidiaries and affiliated companies.

"The Sulzberger & Sons Company, the predecessor of Wilson & Co., Inc., was also a close corporation, family controlled. Today, as Wilson & Co., it has a large number of stockholders, but the absolute control of the corporation is vested in a voting trust, consisting of Thomas E. Wilson and four New York bankers—Charles H. Sabin, Harry Bronner, A. Barton Hepburn, and Elisha Walker.

"Such concentration of ownership and control of these five companies in a small number of individuals made combination and conspiracy easy.

"Furthermore, the big five are bound together by joint ownership of a large number of companies. In many cases these joint ownerships are not carried in the names of the principals, but, on the contrary, are concealed by all manner of devices. Thus, for example, Armour's and Morris's stock in the Union Meat Company stands in the name of H. A. Chetham and H. J. Nelson, Swift employes, so that even the most careful scrutiny of the stockholders' list would leave the impression that the Union Meat Company was merely affiliated with Swift & Co.

"The purposes of this combination, which for more than a generation has defied the law and escaped adequate punishment, are sufficiently clear from the history of the conspiracy and from the numerous documents already presented, namely:

"To monopolize and divide among the several interests the distribution of the food supply not only of the United States but of all countries which produced a food surplus, and, as a result of this monopolistic position,

"To extort excessive profits from the people not only of the United States but of a large part of the world.

"To secure these ends the combination and its constituent members employ practically every tried method of unfair competition known to this commission and invent certain new and ruthless methods, to crush weaker concerns.

"The early strength and rapid growth of the Big Five was stimulated by the extortion of rebates under one disguise or another, and special privileges.

Methods of Competition.

"Among other well known methods of unfair competition used by the big packers, of which the commission has evidence, may be mentioned the following:

"Bogus independents.

"Local price discriminations.

"Short weighting.

"Acquiring stock in competing companies.

"Shutting competitors out of live stock markets.

"In addition to these recognized methods of unfair competition the Big Five also employ a vicious system of rotation in price cutting. This consists in each of the Big Five, or as many as happen to be represented in a given territory, arranging to cut prices in rotation, a day at a time or a week at a time, so that the burden, distributed among the big packers, will seem light, but will fall with crushing weight on the independent competitor."

These charges also are made by the Trade Commission:

"The live stock market in the United States is dominated by the five big packing companies because:

"1. They control the principal stock yards at which live stock prices for the nation are made.

"2. They buy most of the live stock which is sold at the principal stock markets, and

"3. They have, through their control over the stock yards and the exercise of the control of their buying power, influence over the activities of many of the live stock commission men, who are supposed to represent the interested live stock producers whose agents they are.

"1. They discriminate against and put at great disadvantage independent buyers—independent packers, order buyers and traders—who are their competitors in the market.

"2. They manipulate on occasions the live stock market in such a way as to cause extreme and unwarranted fluctuations in daily prices paid for live stock.

"The principal results of their domination over the live stock market are:

"1. They have eliminated many of their previous competitors at the stock yards and have prevented new ones from coming into those yards.

"They have restricted the meat supply of the nation by manipulating daily live stock prices and thus discouraging the producers of live stock."

The report also states:

"In any comparatively short period of time the big packers are able effectively to regulate the quantity of meat which is offered for sale. If the general prevailing prices are unfavorable to them they may reduce the amount of meat offered by curbing, canning, and freezing a large quantity of their current kill.

"It is not necessary for them immediately to offer for sale the fresh meat which they have in stock. Fresh meat can be kept in the coolers for thirty days without injury to it and if they desire to keep it longer they may, and do, freeze it. To decrease the supply at any one market they only have to reduce shipments to it. By these methods the big packers are not only enabled to prevent gluts, but they are able to temporarily raise the price of meats or temporarily prevent the prices from being lowered."

Because they charged for the wrapping on their hams at the same rate as the hams, John McMaster, manager of the packing plant of Swift & Co. at Jersey City, was fined $125 yesterday by Acting Judge Edward Markley in the First Precinct Police Court.

The case was prosecuted by the Jersey City Department of Weights and Measures, on complaint of James Waldron, a meat dealer at 469 West Side Avenue, who asserted he had purchased four hams from a salesman of Swift & Co., all of which were wrapped in heavy paper, and that he was compelled to pay for the gross weight at the same rate he paid for the hams. McMaster was fined $25 on a charge of not specifying the correct weight of packages of meat and $100 on a charge of misrepresenting the contents of packages.

ARMOUR AND SWIFT SAY THEY WELCOME SUITS

Assert They Can Prove That They Do Not Control the Prices of Meat.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Heads of Chicago packing companies said tonight that they would welcome the suits under the anti-trust laws which Attorney General Palmer announced in Washington would be started against them.

J. Ogden Armour and Louis F. Swift said that the suits would afford an opportunity to show before an impartial body that the packers did not control prices, and were not responsible for the high cost of meat:

"I confidently believe that legal action in any form against the packers will prove that we are not responsible for the high cost of meat and that we are not profiteers," said Mr. Armour. "We welcome this opportunity to prove that we can control neither the price paid for livestock nor the price we receive for our product."

He added that the economic conditions out of which the situation arises "are so deep that no single agency is responsible." This procedure, he continued, "can be made to show the part played in high prices by such basic factors as production costs, wages, freight rates, and high taxes occasioned by war."

Mr. Swift said that he would "welcome an opportunity to place our case before an impartial body of men, which has so far been denied us. The public has been fed up on baseless accusations, and we have been made the innocent victims of economic conditions beyond anybody's control."

He added that the increase in meat prices has been no greater than in most other lines and that profits had been reasonable.

"I know that this suit will prove," Mr. Swift said, "there is absolutely no combination or monopoly, and that the profit of the packers is only a fraction of a cent a pound, and therefore has practically no effect on prices paid for livestock or received from sales of meats."

KRESEL HAS SIFTED FACTS.

Engaged for Months in Studying Packers' Case, Says Jerome.

Isidor J. Kresel, who has been designated by Attorney General Palmer to prosecute the meat packers, took an active part as an Assistant District Attorney of New York County under William T. Jerome, in the traction and insurance investigations. He was also engaged to aid Attorney General Palmer while Mr. Palmer was alien property custodian.

Mr. Kresel had not returned from Washington last night, but Mr. Jerome said that for many months past, at the request of the Attorney General, Mr. Kresel had devoted all his time to the examinations and analysis of the vast mass of material relating to the packers, accumulated from many different sources. The result of his investigation was embodied in a voluminous report made by him to Mr. Palmer.

T. E. WILSON DENIES TRUST.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—At a hearing before the District of Columbia Committee of the Senate, which has begun an inquiry into the high cost of living, Thomas E. Wilson of Wilson & Co., Chicago packers, said today that any insinuation that the packers had an understanding as to meat prices was false. No combination to fix prices, he said, existed.

Senator Sherman of Illinois, who has endeavored to bring out facts relating to profiteering in meat, asked Mr. Wilson how it happened that the packers had "hit upon" a uniform price for their products sold to the middle-men.

"Just uniformity of judgment," replied Mr. Wilson.

"A mere coincident," suggested Mr. Sherman.

"Perhaps so," assented Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson went on to say that "all talk by the Federal Trade Commission that there has been any agreement among the big five packers," was untrue.

"If there had been any such agreement," he said, "all the packers in the country would have known of it and there would have been a great remonstrance against their not being included in it. It would have been impossible to keep such a matter quiet."

"There is a mistake about the power which the so-called 'Big Five' of packers have. It is potential, rather than actual. The fact is that all the packers in the country try to get the most advantageous prices they can. They have agents who are watching for the best prices, but the packers are not making an enormous profit."

Mr. Wilson went on to tell the committee that out of an aggregate business of $1,200,000,000 in 1918 the packers made a profit of $21,000,000. The United States Steel Corporation, he said, made twenty times that profit out of the same volume of business. The packers made one-half a cent a pound profit, he continued, and this meant that each consumer of meat paid 90 cents a year toward the packers' profit, the average consumption per individual being 180 pounds.

As to any profiteering by retailers and middle men, Mr. Wilson told the committee, the President, in his opinion, had power under the Food Control Act to reach it.

Mr. Wilson said he was not opposed to the Government licensing refrigerating cars for meat, as is proposed under bills now in committee.

"I would lease 1,000 of them if the Government took them over," he said. "I would be glad to get them if the Government could supply them."

Upon learning of the decision of the Department of Justice to institute suits against the packers, Mr. Wilson made this statement:

"The facts shown by the Federal Trade Commission do not justify a suit by the Government. The Department of Justice is looking around for somebody to blame, and naturally they intend to make the packers the mark. I don't think the suits are the way to go about it. The Department of Justice will get no satisfaction out of the packers and will do no good in reducing prices."

interview with the representatives of the press on May 17, Japan's policy respecting the Shantung question is little understood or appreciated abroad.

It will be remembered that in the ultimatum which the Japanese Government addressed to the German Government on Aug. 15, 1914, they demanded of Germany to deliver, on a date not later than Sept. 15, 1914, to the imperial authorities, without condition of compensation, the entire leased territory of Kiao-Chau with a view, to eventual restoration of the same to China. The terms of that demand have never elicited any protest on the part of China or any other allied or associated Powers.

Following the same line of policy, Japan now claims as one of the essential conditions of peace that the leased territory of Kiao-Chau should be surrendered to her without condition or compensation. At the same time abiding faithfully by the pledge which she gave to China in 1915, she is quite willing to restore to China the whole territory in question and to enter upon negotiations with the Government at Peking as to the arrangement necessary to give effect to that pledge as soon as possible after the Treaty of Versailles shall have been ratified by Japan.

Nor has she any intention to retain or to claim any rights which affect the territorial sovereignty of China in the province of Shantung. The significance of the clause appearing in Baron Makino's statement of May 5, that the policy of Japan is to hand back the Shantung Peninsula in full sovereignty to China, retaining only the economic privileges granted to Germany, must be clearly understood.

Upon arrangement being arrived at between Japan and China for the restitution of Kiao-Chau, the Japanese troops at present guarding that territory and the Kiao-Chau-Tsinanfu Railway will be completely withdrawn.

The Kiao-Chau-Tsinanfu Railway is intended to be operated as a joint Sino-Japanese enterprise without any discrimination in treatment against the people of any nation.

The Japanese Government have, moreover, under contemplation proposals for the re-establishment in Tsingtao of a general foreign settlement, instead of the exclusive Japanese settlement which by the agreement of 1915 with China they are entitled to claim.

The final paragraph of the statement of Viscount Uchida is regarded as revealing a new policy of the Japanese Government. The announcement of Foreign Minister Uchida that Japan contemplated the establishment of a general foreign settlement at Tsingtao in place of the exclusive Japanese settlement, came as a surprise.

WOMAN KILLS HERSELF IN FIFTH AVE. OFFICE

Mrs. Boblitt, a Widow, Fires Shot Into Brain as Policeman Implores Her to Desist.

In the office of the Briarcliff Lodge Association, dealers in mineral water, on the third floor of 402 Fifth Avenue, Mrs. Sybil Boblitt, a widow, 35 years old, committed suicide last night, after she had threatened to kill Frank Goddard, 42 years old, a salesman for the corporation, who lives at 86 Marble Hill Avenue. Mrs. Boblitt fired a shot from a revolver into her right temple as Patrolman Thomas Carmody of Traffic Precinct B stood in the doorway of the office and pleaded with Mrs. Boblitt not to shoot.

Goddard told the police that he met Mrs. Boblitt three years ago in this city and that she became infatuated with him. He said he entered the army a year ago and had been out of the service but a short time. Last evening, he said, he met Mrs. Boblitt and they dined together at the Hotel Manhattan, when he decided that Mrs. Boblitt should go back to her sister, Mrs. E. H. Forster, of Denver, Col.

Goddard said he excused himself and left the hotel to meet his younger brother, Theodore, to obtain money to pay the traveling expenses of Mrs. Boblitt.

On his way to his brother's office, Goddard explained, he stopped at his own office for an umbrella, and while there he was confronted by Mrs. Boblitt, who had followed him from the hotel. Goddard says that the woman was very much excited and drew a revolver, with which she threatened to kill him.

He ran from the office and down the stairs of the office building, telling an elevator operator, Frederick Jacobs, of the threat against his life. The salesman then ran to the corner of Forty-seventh Street and Madison Avenue, where he met Patrolman Carmody. With Carmody and Jacobs, Goddard returned to his office, where Jacobs opened the door with a pass key. Mrs. Boblitt was standing behind a desk in the far corner of the large room, a revolver in her hand.

Carmody had drawn his own revolver, and as he stood in the doorway he reasoned with Mrs. Boblitt, asking her to be reasonable and put her gun away. Carmody took a step into the room as if to approach Mrs. Boblitt, when she quickly raised her revolver to her head and fired. She fell to the floor behind the desk. A call was sent to Flower Hospital, and Dr. James Brennan, who responded, pronounced Mrs. Boblitt dead. The bullet had entered her brain.

On the desk where Mrs. Boblitt was standing was a note she had written to Goddard after Goddard had escaped from the room. It read:

"Have me cremated. Don't tell my sister, who is all I have."

MISSIONARY'S REPORT ACCUSES OIL MEN

American oil interests are charged with manufacturing propaganda to force the United States into war with Mexico in a report on the Mexican situation made public here yesterday by the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church. The report was prepared by Samuel G. Inman, executive secretary of the American section of the Committee on Co-operation in Latin America, representing the American and Canadian mission boards.

Mr. Inman charges that the American people are being deceived by inspired propaganda, and that "intervention in Mexico is coming just as fast as certain interests can possibly force it." The oil men whom Mr. Inman accuses are declared to have large offices in Washington and New York and unlimited supplies of money.

"They are playing," the report says, "not simply for oil wells in Tampico and Vera Cruz, but for a much larger stake; they have found out that Mexico is full of oil. What they want is the United States to get hold of Mexico so that they can easily obtain these billions of dollars of oil properties which are certain to be developed in the future."

Intervention, Mr. Inman claims, would mean the destruction of all American mission work in Mexico, and in this connection he quotes a "prominent Mexican preacher" as saying:

"Intervention on the part of the American people would set back Christian work in Mexico a hundred years. It is impossible for the people of the United States to realize how deep-seated would be the feeling against them. While Americans might say they were doing this for the good of Mexico, Mexicans would never admit it. They believe that they should have the right to work out their own salvation with spiritual help from their Christian neighbors."

Mr. Inman appeals to mission workers to write letters to their Congressmen and political acquaintances pointing out what intervention in Mexico would mean to missionary work. The report concludes:

"I earnestly appeal in the name of all Christians in Mexico, in the name of our missionary work, to which we have given so much attention and prayer, in the name of fairness to the Mexican people, and in the name of Christian friendship among neighbors, for help at this crucial time."

LUSTGARTEN GETS LONG PRISON TERM

WOUND STRIPE ON SLEEVE

William Lustgarten, former President of the Tax Lien Company of this city, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Crain in General Sessions to Sing Sing prison for from four to eight years. He was convicted by a jury last week of grand larceny in the first degree. Lustgarten appeared for sentence dressed in his uniform of a corporal in the United States Army. With his discharge stripe on his arm there were also a gold service stripe and a wound stripe.

Judge Crain, in imposing sentence, said that the fact that the prisoner had served with the American Expeditionary Force could hardly redound to his credit, when it was considered that he entered the Army under an assumed name after fleeing from the jurisdiction of the authorities and in order to conceal his identity. Lustgarten was convicted of the theft of $20,000 from Robert Schalkenbach, a printer of 216 William Street, in March, 1915. The money was to have gone into a pool to purchase property on the East Side, which Lustgarten claimed could be bought cheap for a profitable and quick turn over.

When Lustgarten heard his sentence he partly collapsed and two court officers assisted him from court and back to the tombs. Isadore Wasservogel, his lawyer, made an appeal for clemency to the Court. He said that if Lustgarten were allowed his liberty he would be able to straighten out the tangled affairs of the bankrupt Tax Lien Company. This was opposed by Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand N. Pecora, who said that besides scores of persons who had lost money in the Lustgarten company, Schalkenbach had lost $110,000 through Lustgarten.

Just before the discovery that his company was in trouble Lustgarten disappeared in August, 1917, leaving a note threatening suicide. Instead of ending his life, however, the head of the Tax Lien Company went to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, where he enlisted in the 9th Engineers and went to France with them. He was honorably discharged. Mr. Pecora said that Lustgarten's victims lost more than half a million dollars.

GIVE BAIL IN GAMBLING CASE.

LYNBROOK, L. I., Aug. 6.—Wilson Mizner, the playwright, and Thomas Neligan, who it is alleged were in the gambling establishment that was raided here a week ago last Saturday night by the Nassau County Association's chief investigator, Neil Vanderwater, were held in bail for the Grand Jury by Acting Police Court Justice E. P. Neu here tonight.

Charles Wysong, counsel for the men, sought to have the complaint against them dismissed on the ground that the "raid" was conducted by other than a police official, and also that the evidence against the men was not corroborated, but Justice Neu denied this.

MANHOLE LIDS BLOWN OFF.

Explosion in Sewer Ties Up Traffic in East 42d Street.

Sewer manhole covers were tossed twenty feet into the air along Forty-second Street, between Second and Third Avenues yesterday when a quantity of gasoline which had accumulated in a sewer exploded, sending sheets of flames up into the street.

Traffic on the Forty-second Street crosstown line east of Third Avenue was tied up, and the police reserves of the East Thirty-fifth Street and East Fifty-first Street Stations established a cordon around the block to protect passersby from the fumes and the possibility of another explosion.

One manhole cover under the Third Avenue elevated station at Forty-second Street tore through the structure above and damaged the ties. The noise caused considerable alarm among patients at St. Bartholomew's Clinic at 217 East Forty-Second Street, and the Hospital for the Ruptured and Crippled near by.

At first it was reported that several persons had been killed. Firemen put out the flames, and a pall of black smoke settled over the neighborhood.

Hugh Roberts of Forty-eighth Street, Corona, L. I., alighting from a car in front of 44 East Forty-second Street, stepped into an open manhole and broke his leg.

THE NATIONAL SERVICE ACT.

The "National Service act," introduced in the Senate and House on July 31 by Mr. CHAMBERLAIN of Oregon and Mr. KAHN of California, respectively, both of whom have been identified with the most progressive army legislation and neither of whom can be suspected of a love of militarism, has excited the disapproval, in fact the resentment, of the National Guard Association of the United States, which is naturally proud of the record of the Guard Divisions in France. The bill prepared by the General Staff at the direction of Secretary BAKER and introduced by Senator WADSWORTH on Monday proposes limited universal training. If the expression may be used; the Chamberlain-Kahn bill does not take merely a long step toward universal training, but goes the whole distance, which causes the National Guard Association to say in its resolutions that the design is to set up "the machinery for "the establishment in America of "that detestable Prussian system "which is abhorrent to the Amer-"ican people." Like any other "universal" training bill, the Chamberlain-Kahn prospectus is a rough draft and will doubtless need amendment, but it is hardly fair to brand it as an attempt to saddle odious militarism upon the country.

Secretary BAKER's bill did not provoke the National Guard Association to pass resolutions of condemnation, yet it provides for a regular army of 510,000 men. The Chamberlain-Kahn measure would fix the strength of the regular army at 225,000 men two years after the ratification of the Peace Treaty, which is perhaps as large a force as could be raised by enlistment. So one must look to the general features of the Chamberlain-Kahn bill to discover why it does not find favor with the National Guard Association. Military training for all male citizens of the United States "upon attaining the age of 18 years, or within two years thereafter," is proposed, and they are to be "in-"ducted into the army or navy of the "United States" for this purpose. Section 11 creates an army reserve, Section 17 a naval reserve, the members of which bodies are to be subject to duty for five years, but not after reaching the age of 30, except in the case of a "national emer-gency," to be declared by the President, when all male citizens (including the reserves) between the ages of 18 and 45 may be summoned for "immediate military or naval serv-ice."

It is obvious that a State Guard could be kept up with difficulty to the strength the association desires if such a measure were to take its place upon the statute book. No one familiar with the achievements of the National Guard in France and knowing its capacity for usefulness at home would like to see it reduced to futile numbers; but would that be the result if the Chamberlain-Kahn measure became law? Is not the association taking too gloomy a view of the effect of such legislation upon the Guard? One thing is certain: if the country is to have universal training on any extensive scale, the militia organizations will not be able to count their complement in hundreds of thousands.

The so-called National Service act is an attempt to assemble in one draft all the intricate details for the organization of an army of the entire man power of the country. It proposes complete and not half-way "universal training." With such a system in existence and quickly operative no Power on earth would dream of invading the United States or attacking its overseas possessions. The Chamberlain-Kahn bill is a very business-like document, but why say that it "places a stigma upon the citizen "soldiery which bore the brunt of "fighting [in France] as shock "troops, and creates a centralized "military oligarchy with dangerous "potentialities"? The plan may be criticised as too costly in the execution, perhaps too cumbrous, and as unnecessarily thorough in view of the promise held out by the League of Nations, but there is no plot "to re-"sort to conscription and to seize "from their homes the youth of "America for service in the regular "army in the Philippines, in Hawaii, "in Porto Rico, in the Canal Zone, "and even in Russia." The ordinary military work in peace times would be done by the regular army, as formerly. The cause of the National Guard will not be helped by denunciatory resolutions in which there is a suspicion of stage lightning. There will probably be half a dozen universal training bills to engage the attention of Congress, and it should accept their best features and mold them into a law that will satisfy public sentiment. Legislation is usually a compromise, and it is likely to be so in this case.

WHEAT AND BREAD.

Mr. BARNES, Chairman of the Grain Corporation, says that he has bought only 15,000,000 bushels of new-crop wheat, and that for four months the farmers have been able to find buyers above his lawful guarantee. Also, the world price for all wheat growers has been $2.46, and the European growers' price has been $3.75. It would be difficult to imagine a completer or clearer answer to those who have been demanding that the price of wheat should be reduced to the world price in an open market. Our guarantee law does not obligate the farmer to sell to the Grain Corporation, but obligates the corporation to buy at the fixed price. It is a one-sided bargain, and the farmer has the better of it. He is either holding above the guarantee or selling above it, and is in danger of seeming little better than the wicked profiteers. Bread, says Mr. BARNES, is the cheapest of our foods, and if flour were supplied to the bakers free the other costs would make the hope of a five-cent loaf small.

Mr. BARNES looks further ahead than those who think chiefly of to-day's price. He is now keeping down the price of flour by ability to sell flour at $10 a barrel where it rises unduly. It is necessary that he shall be able to do the same at the end of the current crop year. There is only one wheat crop for the world, and there is no surplus anywhere except for difficulties of transportation. That applies also to this country, where great accumulations and fair prospects would vanish like the dew before the sun if it were possible to deliver all wanted by the hungry hundreds of millions overseas. For the fiscal year ending with June our exports of breadstuffs increased by a third, and for June increased by a half. It is difficult to believe that we exported last year $954,779,894 worth of breadstuffs without raising prices even higher than they went. It was a great service to humanity as well as one of profit to ourselves, and the work should be finished as it has been carried on.

Instead of less control, and a grain market at the mercy of speculators, there is a better prospect of more control, and perhaps of collective buying and selling by Government bodies on both sides the seas. There is danger of foreign buyers raising the price against themselves, as they did in their panic to supply themselves with munitions, and there is little prospect that our sellers would take a lower price for the sake of feeding their countrymen cheaply by taking a less profit than is offered commercially. Mr. BARNES's policy is the best explanation of the flurry among the grain profiteers, on or off the farms. He is in the best position to manage the market according to facts rather than according to impressionistic ideas of conditions.

THE BROOKLYN STRIKE.

The Brooklyn strikers show inappreciation of the fact that a strike against a public utility corporation in the hands of a Federal receiver needs to be conducted more cautiously than one against a wealthy corporation or one under the disapproval of local authorities. The appeal to the support of public opinion is imperiled when it appears that the jobs the strikers abandon are so desirable that it is necessary to club other workers away from them. Those wishing to ride fail to be sympathetic when they learn that the wages paid are the highest ever known in this neighborhood for that class of workers, so high that the corporation would be able to find willing workers enough if threats of violence did not deter them from working. When the strikers make recognition of their union their first demand it appears that they are putting the increase of their powers of offense against the community and their employers over betterment of working conditions, and are reckless about the manner in which they press their demands. A strike of that sort becomes more difficult to win in proportion that it results in disorderly conduct, and inconveniences the community, without whose support strikes are predestined to failure.

The time will never come when demands for a fair wage should not have every consideration. But the time has passed for conceding higher wages by comparison with wages paid on the standard established for Government work when winning the war was more important than economic considerations, or by comparison with excessive profits. If profits are excessive, they should be reduced for the benefit of consumers, not divided with wage earners by combination against public interests. There can be no justification of any demand that all wages shall level up to the maximum anywhere, under dissimilar living conditions. The public utilities are more beneficial to community welfare than the activities of unions which have fallen under public censure for the presentation of demands repeatedly rejected on the merits. The leader of the telegraph strike which failed has retired to private life, but the leaders of this strike have shown no perception that similar conduct would become them. The unions which retain the leaders of unsuccessful strikes fail to enforce that sense of responsibility which would be a great asset for unions of the sort which deserve public recognition.

Current events include many cases in which strikes are declared against the advice of union officers or in which contracts made by them are repudiated. Also, there are many cases in which union officials have protested against such disrespect to them, with the result that well-wishing employers can feel no confidence in their labor engagements. There is no presumption against unionists as such, but there is a prejudice against acts of too many unions that react against the whole interest of labor.

REPUBLICAN SLACKERS.

In Congress the Republicans continue their policy of doing nothing and raging at the opposition. In the House Mr. IGOE, the persistent St. Louis Democrat who wants to have the Federal Trade Commission investigate the price of shoes, cannot yet attract the discriminating eye of Speaker GILLETT.

This week as last week a proposal to inquire into a subject of universal public interest is frowned upon by the Republican masters of the House. Speaker GILLETT implacably refuses to see the troublesome Missouri Democrat, who insists on being interested in what the people are interested in.

When Mr. CHAMP CLARK, the Democratic leader in the House, tries to call up the Igoe resolution the Speaker, repeating his curious behavior of last Saturday, consents to admit visually Mr. CLARK's presence, but will not permit him to put the forbidden motion. A three-day recess is the one indispensable purpose of the Republicans. Mr. IGOE and Mr. CLARK must remain taboo.

It is impossible to impute unworthy motives to a man of Mr. GILLETT's tried uprightness, but the suspicious and wicked, boiling with wrath at their shoe bills, will be all too likely to remember that the shoe industry, so sacred to the House Republicans, is a great industry of Mr. GILLETT's State. Motives aside, what must the public think of this deliberate Republican waste of time, this continual postponement of a cardinal public question to a cankered spirit of partisanship? Confronted by so many instant problems of national concern for whose solution the most pondered impartial judgment is necessary, why will the Republicans persist in petty political bickerings? If they are careless of the common welfare, at least they might have a regard for the welfare of the Republican Party. Their recent course, their present course, is not only unpatriotic, but it is politically foolish. It is wearying and disgusting thoughtful Republicans and Independents. The ineffectual and intolerant Republican leadership in the House is leading the Republican Party straight toward disaster.

In the Senate the Republican disposition and behavior are even worse. It is wrong, perhaps, to attribute any leadership, any settled policy or plan, to the Republicans of the Senate. In their wearisome, aimless fight against the League of Nations, their vain resistance to the overpowering sentiment that demands it, they are split into coteries, little groups and sections, that cannot agree among themselves, and are only agreed in regarding Mr. WILSON as the unpardonable sin. Long ago they ought to have ratified the Treaty and made preparation for the work of reconstruction, for reducing expenses, for dealing with the high cost of living. In what of their divided and perturbed attention they are able to give to these things, and to the strange demands of the railroad Brotherhoods, they exhibit one ruling feeling, a partisan irritation and anger against Mr. WILSON. He is their King Charles's head. They can't keep him out of whatever subject they discuss.

Are they going to stick to this monstrous prepossession, hallucination, fixed idea? As they have done on the League of Nations are they to do on the domestic policies in which every American is vitally interested? The public considers these in a far different mood. They are matters of finance, of political economy, of trade and industry and agriculture, of the unimpaired existence of democracy untainted by Socialism and class rule. They are not Republican nor Democratic. They concern every American. If the Republican Party is not to prove beyond any hope of forgiveness its incapacity to legislate and to rule, its leaders in Congress must have a great and instantaneous change of heart.

BROTHERHOOD MILLIONS.

The four Brotherhoods of railroad employés, in their manifesto of Aug. 2 demanding Government ownership of the railroads on a profit-sharing basis with employés, said:

> Labor faces a persistently serious situation due to the cost of living and the impossibility of wages keeping pace with the depreciation of money. No fundamental changes are being advanced to save workers from continual defeat in the economic struggle of life. The railroad employés are in no mood to brook the return of the lines to their former control, since all the plans suggested for this settlement of the problem leave labor essentially where it has stood and where it is determined not to stand.

On Aug. 5 divers Brotherhood officials or spokesmen, including Mr. GLENN L. PLUMB, designer of the Plumb Plan, told a surprised public that they expected to raise "at least" $2,500,000 by Labor Day as a campaign fund to "educate" a benighted country to comprehend the merits of Mr. PLUMB's plan for the nationalization of the railroads. By Labor Day the fund "might be considerably greater" than $2,500,000. There was a report in Washington that $10,000,000 was the sum which these educators of the public in the art of biting off its own nose expected to collect for use in the next Presidential election, if Congress has not been educated to the proper facility before then. In answer to inquiries about this modest campaign-of-education fund, Mr. PLUMB said he didn't think it "prob-"able that we shall get that much, "but it is not impossible. We are "going to do our best in this educa-"tional campaign."

It seems clear enough that these millions, apparently a mere trifle, in the estimation of these hopeful educators, must come solely from the Brotherhoods themselves. The public in general, sympathizing with itself, does not sympathize with the efforts of an already highly favored class to make itself still more highly favored at the expense of the taxpayers. The millions of owners of railroad stocks and bonds, the growing multitude of owners of $100 bonds, the depositors in savings banks whose money is invested in railroad securities, will not give a cent to that fund. Farmers, merchants, workmen, clerks, men and women of every occupation who have suffered loss and inconvenience under Government control of the railroads will not give a cent to perpetuate its abuses under Government ownership and mixed control by politicians and employés. Americans who detest all plans for aggrandizing the power of the central Government, for the subjection of our industries to the fatal sway of Socialism and Syndicalism, will not give a cent. They would willingly give to the campaign fund of the party that opposes absolutely, without compromise or equivocation, this and every other policy of class favoritism, class government, national extravagance, and national disaster.

It must be the Brotherhoods themselves that are going to raise this $2,500,000, this not less than $10,000,000. Persons with pocketbooks so fat, persons so able to give and so generous in giving, can't be suffering deeply from that high cost of living which they are so eager to increase. The Brotherhoods have unconsciously bewrayed themselves.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Prices Cut Down for the Asking!

In several of the French cities, and notably in Paris, the part of the people who buy food to eat instead of to sell it do not show the inability to do anything except growl and appeal to the politicians for help that is manifested almost everywhere else. They do growl, indeed, and they do try to get the politicians into action, but in addition to those ordinary and apparently inevitable evidences of human weakness they also have devised a means of self-help which, according to the cable dispatches, has been amazingly successful.

They begin by appointing representative committees of their own to investigate the cost of food and the increments that its cost acquires as the food makes its way through several hands to the consumer. Then the committeemen go to the retail dealers, one after another, and in a tone that combines firmness with suavity tell each of them the prices that in the committee's opinion will give him a reasonable profit.

The remarkable—the almost unbelievable—result is that the food retailers in Paris are reducing prices by a considerable percentage, doing it sometimes as soon as the representatives of the consumers appear in the shops and sometimes before they arrive. There has been no resort to violence—no wrecking or looting of shops—and their keepers yield to the demand for lower prices with a readiness from which can be deduced their preference for doing business at a moderate profit as the alternative of the boycott that would follow a continuance of exorbitant charges.

Responsibility Removed to a Distance.

Why this French method of controlling prices has not been adopted elsewhere is explicable in several ways. In the first place, its use requires the taking of some trouble to find out just what the retailer pays for the foods he sells. That is a task which, over here, is either left undone—perhaps because of a curious reverence for "trade secrets"—or it is intrusted to Congressional and legislative committees. Those committees always spend a lot of money, but so rarely do they effect any real reforms that they have come to be, to put it charitably, viewed askance by everybody except their own members.

Moreover, the tendency here is to ascribe all exploitations of the public to certain great corporations with which consumers never come in direct contact. That those corporations do an enormous business, and that their aggregate profits are also sometimes enormous, everybody knows; that it is the ultimate distributer, the retailer, who gives prices their last and biggest hoist is suspected rather generally, perhaps, but he is a neighbor, and to accuse him of ruthless profiteering is unpleasant, while to denounce "the interests," far away and impersonal, involves nothing of troublesome responsibility.

The Parisians have attacked the universal problem of living cost from the other end, and the fact that the shopkeepers upon whom their pressure is exerted reduce prices instead of shutting their doors is proof enough that in France, at least, the retailers are the fellows who should be brought to book first. Possibly it is different in this country, but who has not noticed, and been mystified by, the sluggishness of response in retail prices to wholesale reductions? Wholesale advances, on the contrary, appear instantly in retail prices—and often are multiplied there.

Let London Have Them All!

One sentence in Mayor HYLAN's letter to the Board of Estimate about motor buses is an astonishing one. It is that in which he wrote: "It seems to me that the only quick solution of the problem lies in the city entering the transit field." Does he not know, or has he forgotten, that the city entered that field some years ago to the extent of assuming financial responsibilities amounting to a good many million dollars, and that it is deeply interested in the profitable operation of the very transportation system which his bus lines, if started and successful, would deprive of their best patronage? By only a little inquiry the Mayor can find out that such is the case, and it may be that the discovery will form one of several reasons for going slowly with the execution of his new scheme.

That motor buses as a means of urban transportation have their uses in some circumstances is true. In London, before the war, they seemed to be meeting a real need, though the references to them in the London papers always indicated that they were tolerated rather than liked. But London is not New York, and it is nothing less than appalling to think about what the condition of New York's streets would be if to their present traffic were added enough motor buses to do even an appreciable part of the work now done by the elevated and the subway lines and the surface cars.

Hardly less alarming is contemplation of what it would cost to buy and run as many motor buses as that. As for the resulting increment of street accidents and fatalities—but there! The Mayor wasn't—he couldn't have been—serious in his proposals or the Board of Estimate in granting his request for an investigation of the plan's practicability. One glimpses, not motor buses, but a hankering, somewhere, for the municipalization of all public utilities.

Destruction Really an Economy.

That ancient truth about the goodness of one story until another is told has been again exemplified in regard to the burning of American airplanes over in France. The first account of that great bonfire gave pain to everybody who read it, and rage to not a few, but it now seems that while a considerable number of those expensive machines really were burned, their destruction was neither the dreadful waste it appeared to be nor was it done to prevent breaking the airplane market in this country—a market, by the way, which has in it more of hope than of present substance.

Colonel PATRICK's explanation of the much-discussed incident, as printed yesterday, was entirely plausible, and there is no excuse for doubting that the facts are exactly as he stated them.

Again, as has happened so often since the war began, the soldiers who did the work told what they saw with accuracy, but when they drew deductions from their observations they went innocently but far astray.

GERARD AND GERMANY.

What He Said Not What Tirpitz Said He Said.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A statement has been printed (not in your newspaper) to the effect that Very Much Ex-Great Admiral von Tirpitz writes in his book that I stated "before the Bremen Chamber of Commerce that strong opposition to a declaration of submarine warfare need not be expected from America."

Of course, those Germans who, in fear of trial and justices, already feel the halter settling about their necks, will endeavor to offer any excuse to save their thick skins or their thin reputations.

There are many, very many, Germans and pro-Germans who would like to involve me in their excuses.

I never was in Bremen, I never addressed the Chamber of Commerce there, I never made such a statement publicly or privately; but, on the contrary, I constantly warned the Germans that a resumption of what they themselves called "ruthless submarine war" in my opinion would rouse the people of America against them.

I was right!

JAMES W. GERARD.
New York, Aug. 6, 1919.

In Support of Mr. Underwood.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Many, many people are with Mr. Underwood in the stand he has taken in regard to leaving the Staten Island ferries, whether one has a return ticket or not. The rule works genuine hardship. Many a tired mother with a baby in arms and youngsters clinging to her, who is taking the trip for the rest and sea air, is obliged to leave her good seat, enter the ferry, and go through the turnstile in the rear of the crowd already assembled. This means a poor place or none at all—as seats are fewer than people during Summer heat. Good luck to Mr. Underwood.

A SUFFERER.
New Brighton, S. I., Aug. 5, 1919.

TO NEW YORK CITY.

Oh, many-towered Camelot,
So fair and stately in thy pride,
How many men for love of thee
Have toiled and sorrowed, dreamed and died!

The cup of promise, held so high
By thy strong hands, we fain would drink,
And from the black drop in the lees—
Our hearts are brave!—we do not shrink.

In many tongues thy praise is sung,
From many lands we come to woo;
Oh, gracious lady, hear our prayers—
As thou art great, be kind and true.

We lay our treasures at thy feet!
Touch and accept the gifts we bring—
Ambition, the high hopes of youth,
And love, and faith's true offering.

For having gazed into thine eyes
Our hearts would serve no gods but thee!
Oh, mighty city, grant us grace
In thy fair island by the sea!

SCHEIDEMANN OFFER TO ITALY REPORTED

STORY OF A TRIP TO ROME

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 5.—Ever since Scheidemann's resignation and journey to Switzerland, persistent rumors are current in Berlin to the effect that he is intrusted with the special mission of bringing about a secret agreement between the new German Empire and Italy. It is even stated that the ex-Premier had an interview in Switzerland with Signor Orlando. Finally, a few days ago, the Bavarian Socialist organ, the Munich Post, published a sensational dispatch from its correspondent in Zurich purporting to reveal the mystery of Scheidemann's diplomatic activity. I have tried to obtain authentic information concerning the Post's allegations. My investigation enables me to state authoritatively that while many important details either are grossly exaggerated or entirely erroneous, the facts related by the Munich paper are not utterly without foundation.

According to the Post, Scheidemann left for Rome about ten days ago accompanied by "Parvus," the famous and mysterious German agent in Switzerland, in order to offer to the King of Italy in the name of the President of the German Republic, an offensive and defensive alliance with Germany. King Victor Emmanuel called the Socialist leaders, Tunati and Treves, and asked their advice after having carefully examined all the arguments for and against the German proposal. He decided in accordance with his Socialistic counselors to submit the question to the Pope on July 21. Scheidemann and Parvus had a long interview with Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State, in the presence of Cardinals Jacobini, Franchi, Galimeserti, and Rampolla.

The Munich paper goes on to say that it is stated in political circles of the Vatican that envoys from Lenin and Bela Kun were expected to arrive likewise in a few days in order to discuss with the Pope a defensive and offensive alliance of the new confederation of States extending from the Mediterranean to the Volga and the North Sea. The only serious obstacle to the realization of this plan, adds the Munich Post, is the so-called "Roman question," but the Pope has been offered territorial compensations which will probably induce him to give up his attitude of protest toward the Italian Government. After their reception by the Cardinals, Scheidemann and Parvus were entertained at dinner by Signor Tittoni in his castle of Santa Severa.

I am able to state definitely that this story, so far as it tends to implicate King Victor Emmanuel and Tittoni, is a German invention born of the desire to create trouble between the victors of the war. Nor can I obtain any confirmation of Scheidemann's journey to Rome, nor indeed of his ever having left Switzerland. The interview between the two German Socialists and the Roman Church dignitaries, however, really took place, but, according to my information, not in Rome but in Lugano on the Swiss-Italian frontier. It is also true that Parvus, who has entertained extremely intimate relations with Italian Socialists for years, has urged his friends, Tunati and Treves, to exploit the present menace of unrest in Italy by bringing pressure to bear upon the King in favor of a German-Italian alliance. It is possible that the two Italian Socialist leaders have attempted to do this in an interview with King Victor Emmanuel.

Furthermore I can confirm the seemingly fantastic story of the attempts on the part of Lenin and Bela Kun to approach the Pope and to obtain his protection. The Russian and Hungarian Soviet dictators have promised the Pope through the Italian Socialists to obtain from the Italian Government the recognition of the Vatican as his private property. As for the confederation extending from the Mediterranean to the Volga it is but a new edition of Mitteleuropa, an alluring German-Bolshevist plan which has existed for some time, although purposely exaggerated and misleading in details.

The sensational revelations of the Munich Post prove that Germany is now making a great effort to exploit the dissatisfaction prevailing in many Italian quarters with the decisions of the Paris Conference.

SEEKS MEN FOR SIBERIA.

Recruiting Service Pushes Drive to Get Enlistments Before Winter.

An intensive campaign to enlist recruits for the American Expeditionary Force in Siberia was started yesterday by the Army Recruiting Service. The campaign is in furtherance of instructions, received yesterday, from Adjt. Gen. Harris.

The immediate enlistment of recruits for service in that distant and interesting country is imperative, owing to the difficulties which would be experienced in transporting troops to Siberia once the early Winter season, with its ice and snow has made its appearance. Aug. 12 is the date that men desiring to see service in Siberia must reach the assembling point of the Siberian replacement detachment at Presidio of San Francisco.

> It is desired that efforts to secure recruits for Siberian service, in accordance with present instructions, be continued vigorously. All men enlisted to date for this service, not authorized to make furlough, will be sent to the Siberian Replacement Detachment, Presidio of San Francisco, so as to arrive not later than Aug. 12.

"The chance to win the gold service stripe for overseas service, opportunities for big game hunting, the thrilling Winter sports of the country, and the possibility of learning the language and customs of a land that seems bound to take first place among the nations in the production of wheat, grains, and metals are some of the inducements that Siberian service offers to the recruits desiring to visit that remarkable land," reads a statement issued by the Recruiting Service.

HIT BY ITALIAN EMBARGO.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Aug. 5.—The embargo decree of the Nitti Government, which covers a very large variety of foreign imports, will seriously affect a number of formerly flourishing branches of Anglo-Italian trade. For instance, the introduction into Italy of hats, caps, gloves, and umbrellas is wholly forbidden, so too, are threads, textiles, and all semi-manufactured goods, whether in wool, linen, cotton, hemp, or jute. The same applies to agricultural machinery and to all parts thereof, also to fertilizers.

This sweeping decree is provoking a general outcry in the Rome Parliament and the Italian press generally. A petition of Deputies against the measure taken without consultation with Parliament was signed by 150 members of the Legislature in the space of one hour.

The Milan Corriere della Sera prophesies that the principal outcome of the measure will be to force inferior goods upon the consumer at a far higher price, besides damaging grievously prospects of Italian foreign commerce. Already Bohemia has retaliated on the shutting out of her glasswares by imposing a steep tariff of 200 kronen on Italian wines. A heavy blow, it is pointed out, is dealt to the Italian autocar industry through the stoppage of all partly manufactured pieces in iron and steel from the United States.

A crisis is threatened in the paper industry, for Sweden has made its promised supply of pulp dependent upon the liberty to import into Italy a quantity of paper goods at exceptionally attractive prices. Now, however, all foreign paper and cardboard goods are taboo, though the prices prevailing in Italy are three times more than anywhere else in Europe.

GERMAN ON TRADE MISSION.

Former Attache During U-Boat Expose Reaches Buenos Aires.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 5.—Baron von dem Bussche-Haddenhausen, former German Minister to Argentina, and German Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs at the time of the exposé in the case of Count von Luxburg, the German Minister to Argentina, who was dismissed because of his objectionable activities in connection with Germany's submarine warfare, has arrived at Buenos Aires.

The Baron stated that he had come to Argentina for commercial purposes. Several other prominent Germans also have arrived here.

SEE STIFF PRIMARY FIGHT.

With the filing of the nominating petitions for primary candidates, the regular organizations in Queens yesterday settled down for what promises to be one of the liveliest contests the borough has seen. The Democratic organization, under the leadership of Mason O. Smedley, has succeeded in eliminating all of the contests at the primary with the exception of two, but they have postponed what appears will be a life and death struggle for the present organization leaders who are allied with Borough President Connolly at the November election. The Republican managers, on the other hand, have thrown their primary open for a free-for-all for all aspirants to office.

In the Democratic ranks Assemblyman William H. O'Hare will endeavor to get the nomination for Municipal Judge in the Third District over State Senator Frank F. Adel, and in the Fourth District Lawrence Gresser will endeavor to defeat Judge William E. Kennedy. In the Republican ranks R. Leslie Smith and Captain William G. Johnson, late of the 77th Division, will fight for the municipal judgeship nomination in the Second District, while in the Fourth District, Assistant District Attorney Edgar F. Hazelton, Elmer Ashmead, and E. C. Hunt will contest for the Municipal Judge nomination.

John Karle and William J. McGahie are fighting for the nomination for State Senator. Alderman C. Augustus Post, who has represented the Flushing District for the past four years, is being opposed for renomination by Lieutenant D. Lacey Dayton, who recently returned from France.

Assistant District Attorney James F. Barry of Long Island City and Thomas Kohlweiss, clerk of the Third District Municipal Court, are leaders of the proposed third party which is being planned by Brooklyn independents. Barry will be the candidate of the party for Municipal Judge in the Long Island City District, according to present plans.

COURT RULINGS ON BEER.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Attorney General Palmer today challenged the assertion that more than half of the Federal Courts so far passing on the question of whether the wartime prohibition act prohibits all beer containing as much as one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol had decided against the Government's view that it does.

"The Government's contention," said Mr. Palmer, "has been sustained by the United States District Courts at Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Hartford, Conn., and Chicago. No court has held that 2¾ per cent. beer is not prohibited. But it has been held at New Orleans, Boston, San Francisco, and Providence, R. I., that the law applies only to beer which is in fact intoxicating.

"In New York City the District Judge held against the Government contention and enjoined the District Attorney, but the Circuit Court of Appeals dissolved the injunction upon the ground that there was no jurisdiction to grant it, expressing incidentally, however, the opinion that the District Judge had properly construed the act.

"At Baltimore the District Judge expressed his own opinion as favorable to the Government's contention, but felt constrained to follow the opinion of the Judges in New York."

FEIGENSPAN TRIAL SOON.

Beer Test Case to be Called Next Month.

Christian Feigenspan, a corporation, of Newark, conducting one of the largest breweries in New Jersey, yesterday pleaded not guilty to charges brought in the United States District Court at Newark of manufacturing and selling beer containing more than one-half of 1 per cent. alcoholic content.

Harrison P. Lindabury, counsel for the corporation, and United States Attorney Joseph L. Bodine told Judge J. Warren Davis they wanted a speedy trial. After a conference of the lawyers Mr. Bodine announced that the case would be brought up next month.

The defense will contend that 2.75 per cent. beer as made by the Feigenspan brewery is not intoxicating and does not violate the wartime prohibition law, while the prosecution will contend that beer containing more than one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol is illegal. Experts on intoxication, including brewers, physicians, chemists, and ordinary beer drinkers, will be called by the defense.

Denies Referendum in Maine.

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 6.—A referendum vote cannot be taken in Maine on the national prohibition amendment, according to a decision by the State Supreme Court, announced today. The court decided at the same time that the act of the last Legislature giving women the privilege of voting for Presidential electors might be submitted to the voters at a special election.

GUARDSMEN DRAFT NEW MILITARY BILL

TO ANNOUNCE PLAN TODAY

American Legion Invites Gen. Foch to Attend Convention in Minneapolis in November.

The National Guard Association of the United States, now in convention at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, Thirty-fourth Street and Park Avenue, is drafting a military program for the United States, the adoption of which the association will urge in place of the Chamberlain-Kahn bill, which bill the association denounced on Tuesday as "the swan song of the General Staff" and as "nothing short of conscription under the guise of universal service." That the guard organization will put up a strenuous fight to prevent the enactment of the Chamberlain-Kahn bill is certain.

It was stated yesterday at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory that the association had received numerous telegrams from all over the country indorsing the stand it has taken in the matter of the proposed law. The plan which is now being prepared is described as a "constructive program" which it is said will prove to be a "feasible solution" of the military problem of the country. The association expects to make its plan public today.

The National Executive Committee of the American Legion, which is the organization of the officers and men who fought against Germany, also met yesterday for the purpose of formally extending an invitation to Marshal Foch, the Allied Commander in Chief, to attend the national convention of the legion, which will be held in Minneapolis next November.

Ask Foch to Visit Here.

The invitation was forwarded yesterday through Jules J. Jusserand, the French Ambassador to the United States. The letter of invitation reads as follows:

> The Ambassador of France to the United States:
> Sir: The first national convention of the American Legion will be held in Minneapolis on the 10th, 11th, and 12th of November, 1919. These dates have been chosen in order to celebrate the anniversary of the glorious armistice.
> Delegates representing the four million soldiers, sailors, and marines who served under the American flag between April 6th, 1917, and Nov. 11th, 1918, will meet at this convention.
> The American Legion feels that the American soldiers who have served in France can—better than all others—give evidence of the glorious role played by France during the great war, and that no one understands better the necessity of the perpetuation of the feeling of friendship between the republics.
> The American Legion is convinced that if the Commander in Chief of the Allied Armies, Marshal Foch, would consent to take part in the convention in November, and carry a message of good-will from the French Republic to the convention, this sign of friendship would touch the hearts of the American people in a most remarkable manner and be a splendid evidence of the great and permanent friendship between France and the United States.
> The American Legion respectfully requests the Ambassador of France to the United States to use his good offices in the procurement of the event so earnestly desired.
> At the same time that the convention of the Legion will be held in Minneapolis Nov. 11th, the first anniversary of the signing of the armistice will be celebrated as American Legion Day throughout the United States. The Legion expects to have enrolled by that time more than 1,000,000 of the 4,800,000 men and women who served in the army, navy, and Marine Corps in the great war. Already more than 2,500 local posts have been organized in the United States with an approximate membership of 350,000.

Seek Citizenship for Service Men.

Announcement was made yesterday at the headquarters of the American Legion, 19 West Forty-fourth Street, that legislation is to be pushed by the legion for the purpose of restoring to citizenship, automatically, native-born Americans who served in the military and naval forces of the Allies prior to the declaration of war by the United States. If the Immigration Committees of the House and Senate do not contemplate such legislation the Legislative Committee of the Legion, of which former Congressman Thomas W. Miller and former Senator Luke Lea are joint Chairmen, will prepare a bill and have it introduced.

The statement in behalf of the legion said: "It was the unanimous opinion of the soldier, sailor, and marine delegates at the St. Louis caucus of the American Legion, confirmed by recent reports from State branches, that the Government is visiting an injustice on native-born Americans who served with the Allies by requiring them to take again their oath of allegiance to the United States and that, regardless of their present legal status, legislation should be passed immediately which would restore them automatically to the full benefits of citizenship."

PREPARE 2D'S WELCOME.

Officers Will Be Officially Received by Mayor Today.

Officers of the 2d Division will assemble at the Hotel Astor this morning, and with an escort of mounted police will proceed to the City Hall, where they are to be officially received in the Aldermanic Chamber, which has been decorated with American and allied flags, by Mayor Hylan and Rodman Wanamaker, Chairman of the Mayor's Reception Committee.

Among the officers who will be in the party are Major General John A. Lejeune, Division Commander; Brigadier General Wendell C. Neville, Commander of the 4th Marine Brigade; Colonel H. B. Myers, Chief of Staff; Lieutenant Colonel Hugh Matthews, Lieutenant Colonel William E. R. Covell, Major Ralph B. Keyser, and Colonel Hanson E. Ely, Commander of the 3d Marine Brigade.

It was announced at the headquarters of the Mayor's Committee in the Hall of Records that a special room had been engaged in the Hotel Astor, where former members of the division, who are now in civil life, may register. This room is also to be used as an information bureau for the benefit of the men who have been given leaves of absence.

DENIES PRICKEN'S CHARGE.

Warehouse Official Testifies in Income Tax Case.

F. A. Page, Treasurer of the Coastwise Warehouses, Inc., testified yesterday in the Government's suit against Morris Rachmil and Abraham Lincoln Samuelson of the Sterling Accounting and Audit Company, and Bernard Joffe, an accountant, charged with accepting a bribe to prepare a false return of the income of the Coastwise Company. He told again the story of the offer made to officials of his company to prepare a false return and have it passed by Morris Rosenblum, an agent of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, which would save the Coastwise concern $65,000 in Government taxes.

The witness denied the statement on Tuesday of Adolf Pricken, Vice President of the concern, to the effect that he had transferred to him two of the warehouses to save them from possible seizure by the Government because Pricken was an enemy alien.

Thomas F. Mullins, an accountant connected with the Bureau of Internal Revenue, testified that an item of $73,500 for general expenses which appeared in the return of the Coastwise Company was $39,000 too much, and that while the books showed the concern owned $18,500 worth of Liberty bonds, the return made the amount $6,500. The trial will be resumed this morning.

WAR CRIPPLES CHARGE INJUSTICE

OPPOSE PRECEDENCE RULE

Assert Remunerative Positions Have Been Found for Only Eleven Disabled Soldiers.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—Hundreds of war cripples throughout the country are registering complaints against the Federal Board for Vocational Education, the Government agency charged by Congress with retraining disabled soldiers for lives of usefulness, according to a statement issued today by the Association for Disabled Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines.

The Federal Board for Vocational Education, with headquarters at Washington, is under the Chairmanship of Secretary Houston. Secretary Redfield, Secretary Wilson, and Commissioner of Education Claxton are members of the board, while James P. Munroe is Vice Chairman. The Director is Charles A. Prosser. The Association of Disabled Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines, with headquarters in Philadelphia, was organized in June. The statement of the association in part follows:

"After waiting patiently for many months for the Federal Board to make adequate provision for the scores of cripples who were barred from returning to their old jobs because of disabilities incurred in service, and after urging President Wilson to veto the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill so that the Federal Board might receive $14,000,000 to carry on its work unimpeded, the association has reached the point where it feels that the public ought to be informed of the situation regarding the disabled soldier, so that the cause of the failure to insure his successful reentry into civil life may be ascertained.

"Investigation of the work of the Federal Board and actual contact with thousands of war cripples have revealed to the association the following instances of injustice to the disabled soldier:

"According to a report to the Federal Board under date of June 21, 1919, only eleven men have been placed in remunerative employment after completing courses of training. This would indicate an alarmingly low figure, considering the number of disabled soldiers who have completed training courses.

"Hundreds of men have complained that they were compelled to wait from six weeks to six months without pay and forced to depend on the help of friends or charity before their cases were finally acted upon by the board.

"It has recently come to the attention of the association that the Federal Board has issued to its fourteen district vocational officers an order that precedence be given to cases of seriously disabled men over those with minor injuries. Such a ruling is resented by the thousands of soldiers who have suffered less conspicuous disabilities, but who, nevertheless are prevented from returning to their old jobs and who need retraining just as much as the men who have given an arm or a leg in battle.

"Another grievance of the association is that it has not learned of a single disabled soldier among the 1,690-odd employes of the Federal Board. Australia points proudly to its Department of Repatriation, which has 90 per cent. of returned disabled soldiers in its employ.

"In general it has been the experience of the Association for Disabled Soldiers, Sailors and Marines that the Federal Board for Vocational Education has shown a decided unwillingness to cooperate with existing agencies that have offered freely and generously their facilities for training and absorbing into employment disabled soldiers; that it has acted in a bureaucratic fashion by demanding for its headquarters in Washington absolute power and by depriving its district vocational officers of any initiative, and that the Federal Board has failed to be guided in the administration of its work by the sound scientific principles evolved by other countries that have been recognized as the pioneers in vocational re-education."

CANDIDATE SUES HIS RIVAL.

Prosecutor Garven Alleges Slander Against Charles V. Finch.

Prosecutor Pierre P. Garven of Hudson County has brought suit in Jersey City against Republican State Committeeman Charles V. Finch for $200. He alleges slander, in connection with the charges said to have been made by Finch that $5,000 was given to Garven last Fall by a railroad corporation as a campaign contribution for United States Senator Edge.

"I want the public to have all the facts. This is the one way, at this time, to force this man to produce, under oath, any proof he may have to sustain his charge," he said. "The charge is maliciously made and absolutely false."

KOLCHAK DEFEATED, 4,000 MEN CAPTURED

LONDON, Aug. 6.—A Bolshevist official communication, dated Tuesday and received today by wireless, says:

"After our capture of Cheliabinsk the enemy concentrated his forces and made a fierce attack. After five days of fighting, in which Admiral Kolchak personally directed his men, the enemy was obliged to assume the defensive. Our troops made a decisive advance, which proved successful.

"We captured over 4,000 prisoners, 50 machine guns, and an armored train. Our troops already are 27 miles eastward of Cheliabinsk and are advancing unopposed.

"In the region of Minsk fighting is proceeding on the whole of the front. In the direction of Poltava our troops were forced to retire ten miles. During the fighting around Kamyshin Aug. 2 and 3 we captured 16 machine guns and large quantities of military stores."

A war office communication issued tonight admits that the Bolsheviki hold the town of Onega, on the North Russian front, west of Archangel, strongly. "An American Young Men's Christian Association representative who has returned to headquarters on parole," the communication adds, "says that all the British personnel captured in the recent mutiny of the Russians have been well treated and are now at Vologda.

"In Southern Russia the Bolsheviki have recaptured Vladimirouka, but they are rapidly retreating north of Kamyshin. The Bolsheviki claim to have occupied Aleshki, five miles east of Kherson, but it is believed the town is still in the hands of the volunteers."

WANT SEMENOFF OUSTED.

VLADIVOSTOK, July 26, (Associated Press.)—A second formal protest against the interference of General Semenoff with the operation of the railways in the trans-Baikal section was made today by the British, French, Italian, and Chinese Governments. The protest was signed also by the American and Japanese members of the Inter-Allied Railroad Board.

The protest, which was sent today to the All-Russian Government at Omsk, asked that immediate and, if necessary, radical steps be taken to eliminate General Semenoff's interference.

John F. Stevens, head of the American Railroad Commission to Russia, has withdrawn all American inspectors from the Japanese guarded sector, where General Semenoff is active, until adequate protection is guaranteed.

General Rozanoff, it is unofficially reported here, has been designated to replace Lieut. Gen. Horvath as Commander of the All-Russian Government Army in Eastern Siberia.

HEARS REDS HAVE ARCHANGEL

Stockholm Paper Also Reports American Ships at Petrograd.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 6. (Associated Press.)—The Social Demokraten reports that Archangel is in the hands of the Bolsheviki, who, it says, have succeeded in cutting the connections between the Kurman and Archangel coasts.

The newspaper adds that two American ships have arrived in Petrograd with foodstuffs destined to the Soviet Government.

The report of the arrival of American ships in Petrograd with foodstuffs for the Soviet probably is erroneous. There have been no reports of American blockade runners in North European waters. At last reports the Allies were in control in Archangel.

THINK O'BRIEN IS SANE.

It was announced yesterday by Judge John F. McIntyre in General Sessions that Edwin E. O'Brien, the 18-year-old boy who is under indictment for the murder on July 11 of Gardiner C. Hull, the Fulton Street stationer, would have to stand trial. Edward Paige, the 19-year-old co-defendant on the murder charge, will have his sanity investigated by a lunacy commission. Judge McIntyre said he was acting on the reports of Doctors Frank A. McGuire and Perry M. Lichtenstein of the Tombs.

The Judge said that he would deny the application of a lunacy commission made by O'Brien's counsel on the ground that O'Brien appears to be sane in every way.

Judge McIntyre asked the Tombs physicians to report to him regarding Paige and O'Brien, after attorneys had asked that such commissions be appointed, claiming the defendants were not sufficiently sane to advise with their counsel in the preparation of their defense.

In his report Dr. McGuire says that Paige has the mentality of a ten-year-old child, and has been dominated by the stronger personality of O'Brien. "He is not up to the type of legal sanity defined by the penal law," the report concluded.

STRIKE ON C. & O. STOPS COAL MINES

Output of 125,000 Tons Daily Halted and Thousands of Workers Made Idle.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 6.—E. L. Bock, Division Superintendent of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, officially announced tonight that beginning tomorrow all passenger as well as freight traffic on the C. & O. west of Clifton Forge would be discontinued.

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad hauls an average of 125,000 tons of coal daily. Suspension of service to the mines automatically will stop production and throw thousands of miners out of work.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Efforts to draw the electricians operating railway switches and signal towers into the strike of the railway shopmen, which union officials asserted would effectually tie up the yards of the Chicago district, marked the advance of the rail strike today.

Assistant United States District Attorney N. A. Milroy says that prosecution for delaying the mails may grow out of the efforts of members of the District Council of the International Association of Railway Shop Employes to bring about the strike.

President Hawver, of the Chicago District Council of Allied Railway Craftsmen, declared today that the order calling the electricians on sympathetic strike has already been issued.

He declared today that more than 275,000 members of his organization have obeyed the strike order issued last Friday.

Word was received at union headquarters that all shopmen on the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain Railroads, represented by A. O. Wharton in the conferences with Government officials at Washington, had walked out. A message stating that all shopmen employed by Florida railroads had joined the strike also was received in Chicago.

Two hundred Baltimore and Ohio shopmen who returned to work yesterday in Chicago in response to appeals from the Grand Lodge, again joined the ranks of the strikers today, according to reports received by union leaders.

Effects of the strike on traffic were seen today in the embargo placed by several lines in the Southwest on all freight shipments except carload lots of livestock and perishable goods.

As the strike begins to loom in proportions which threaten to tie up rail traffic throughout the entire country, prosecution of those responsible is being suggested by Railway Administration officials.

The marriage of Captain John B. Harper, 11th U. S. Cavalry, Presidio of Monterey, and Miss Margaret Barrette, a daughter of Brig. Gen. John D. A large assembly of army folk and the cottage colonists attended.

Miss Katharine Biddle Barrette was her sister's maid of honor, and the Misses Helen Townsley, Mary Lydia and Elizabeth Biddle Barrette and Helen Kerr were the bridesmaids. The young Misses Louisa B. Barrette and Margaret Mary Harper were the flower girls.

Captain John Parke Leavenworth was the best man, and the ushers included Lieutenants Wortman, Harvey, and Bethea of Fort Wright and William Allen Adriance, Jr.

the cost of hides to the tanner, the prices of his product—leather—advanced to a point that could not be justified by the cost of producing it. This conclusion is supported by the high rates of return on investment received by tanners.

"(3) The cost of manufacturing shoes increased greatly between 1914 and 1917, but, as evidenced by the high rates of return on investment, not to an extent that warranted the prices at which manufacturers sold their product.

"(4) The absolute margins of profit taken by retail shoe merchants per pair of shoes grew wider as their costs of shoes increased because their rate of profit remained substantially without change.

"(5) As a result the public had to pay prices for shoes that could not be justified not only because retail shoe dealers took too much profit, but because the dealer had to pass on to the consumer the excessive profits received by butchers for hides and also the excess profits of tanners and shoe manufacturers."

Advance in Packers' Prices.

"There are," says the report, "two well recognized classes of domestic hides, i.e., packer hides and country hides. Packer hides include those taken from cattle in regular slaughtering establishments, while country hides include all others, such as are taken off by small butchers and farmers. The quality of country hides, as a class, is generally considered not as good as packer hides, and there has always been a differential in price in favor of the latter.

"Between 1914 and 1917, there was a remarkable advance in the prices of hides. From 1914 to 1917 the price of heavy native packer cow hides advanced more than 68 per cent., while the corresponding grade of country hides increased less than 42 per cent. The actual increase in price of packer and country cow hides in the two years was 13 cents and 7 cents per pound, respectively. A comparison of these actual increases with the percentage of increase indicates that the differential between packer hides and country hides widened beyond the usual proportion.

"More than 75 per cent. of the cattle and 65 per cent. of the calves killed by wholesale slaughterers in the United States are killed by five large meat packers."

While noting that because of the increases in the costs of material during the war period "prices were bound to advance considerably even though no large profits were obtained," the commission says that leather manufacturers, shoe manufacturers, and retail shoe merchants all made "unprecedented profits."

Tanners' Earnings Increase.

"Even in 1914 the tanning industry was prosperous," says the report. "In perhaps a majority of cases earnings were 10 per cent. or more, and only a few suffered losses. By 1916 and 1917 it was rather unusual for a company to earn less than 20 per cent. A similar comparison for manufacturers of shoes shows that more than twice as many made a profit of 20 per cent. or more in 1916 and 1917 as in 1914.

"The rate of return on investment to shoe merchants cannot be stated, but it is evident from the volume of business they had and from the gross margins of profit they secured per pair of shoes that their business was very profitable.

"Taking into consideration all the circumstances, especially the circumstance that the United States was engaged in war, the large profit taken by slaughterers for hides, by shoe manufacturers, by retail shoe dealers cannot be justified, and there is consequently no justification for prices that consumers have been compelled to pay for shoes."

Cites Retailers' Margins.

Concerning the profits of shoe merchants, the report says:

"The gross profits of wholesale shoe merchants generally ranged above 20 per cent. of the cost and they were somewhat greater in 1918 than in previous years.

"There was a heavy increase in the price of shoes to consumers between the years 1914 and 1918. The retailers' gross profit is around 50 per cent.—sometimes more and occasionally less. In 1914, the retail merchants' rate of profit was somewhat lower than it was in 1918. The absolute amount of profit per pair of shoes was very much greater in 1918 than in 1914.

"A good work shoe for men that cost the dealer $1.75 in 1914 and retailed for $2.50, cost him $2.75 in 1918 and retailed for $4. In this instance the retailer took a margin of 75 cents in 1914, or 42 per cent. and in 1918 a margin of $1.25, or 45 per cent. In a group of shoes that cost the retailer from $2 to $2.50 in 1914, a large proportion of them retailed for $3.50 with a percentage of gross profit ranging from 40 to 64 per cent. The same shoes in 1918 cost the retailer from $3.05 to $4.45 per pair and retailed at from about $5 to as high as $7 per pair, with the percentage of profit ranging from 39 to 69 per cent. In 1914 the retailers' absolute gross profit for this group averaged a little more than $1 per pair, while in 1918 it averaged more than $1.80 per pair."

A DISCOVERY THAT BENEFITS MANKIND

Two discoveries have added greatly to human welfare.

In 1835 Newton originated the vacuum process for condensing milk with cane sugar to a semi-liquid form.

In 1883 Horlick at Racine, Wis., discovered how to reduce milk to a dry powder form with extract of malted grains, without cane sugar.

This product HORLICK named Malted Milk. (Name since copied by others.) Its nutritive value, digestibility and ease of preparation (by simply stirring in water) and the fact that it keeps it, any climate has proved of much value to mankind as an ideal food-drink from infancy to old age.

BREAK WITH ACTORS' EQUITY

Its Refusal to Leave Labor Body Ends Negotiations—General Strike May Result.

All negotiations between the actors and the theatrical managers came to an end abruptly yesterday afternoon, and the most serious clash in the history of the American theatre is now impending. The managers, following the breaking off of relations, took immediate steps to prepare themselves by forming a national association with the vaudeville, burlesque, and motion-picture producers. It is between this organization and the American Federation of Labor, to which the Actors' Equity Association belongs, that the clash will come.

Following their organization meeting the managers issued a brief statement announcing their step—giving some hint of the struggle which is now certain to come, but going into no details as to the plan which will be pursued. This meeting was held late in the afternoon in offices in the Times Building, and was attended by a large proportion of the membership of the Producing Managers' Association, the Vaudeville Managers Protective Association, the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, and the Columbia Amusement and Burlesque Interests of America. The meeting was presided over by William A. Brady.

The resolution adopted by this meeting was as follows:

"That it is the sense of this meeting that this association is prepared to affiliate with a national organization of producing managers of the legitimate theatres, vaudeville theatres, burlesque theatres, and producers and distributers of motion pictures, to the end that such an association will aid in protecting the actors of the stage and screen from inequitable and unfair contracts, and assure to the employers thereof a continuance of the privilege to deal with them individually as artists."

Challenge to Actors' Equity.

A direct challenge to the Actors' Equity Association is contained in the determination of the managers, reached some weeks ago and now repeated, not to recognize the association in its dealings with managers, and the fact that all the other amusement interests have now committed themselves to a similar policy leaves ground for considerable speculation as to the form which will be taken by the fight between the two factions.

The actors' organization, following the banding together of the managers, issued the following statement:

"The actors of this country recently affiliated with the American Federation of Labor to the end that their international union should aid in protecting the actors of the stage and screen from inequitable and unfair contracts, and assure to the actors the privilge of being fairly dealt with and dealing fairly by the managers. All branches of the actors' profession are organized into this association, which is called the Associated Actors and Artists of America.

"The Actors' Equity Association is a branch of this union, and is out to see that its members are given just treatment by the producing managers. We have tried in every way possible to come to an amicable agreement with them, and if this announcement of the managers means that we cannot do this, then we have been given full power by our members to use such means as may seem fit to obtain what is justly due us. It seems that, by a strange coincidence, the actors of this country welded themselves into a huge organization and affiliated with the A. F. of L. but a few weeks before the managers formed their union."

Actors to Debate Next Step Today.

The actors' next step will be debated at a meeting of the association at the Hotel Astor at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. Although this meeting probably will not take decisive action, it is now felt that there is no way out of the present situation except by the calling of a general strike. Whether the actors would have the full support of union stagehands and musicians in such a strike is yet to be determined, but, even without such aid there is no doubt that they could hamper stage production to a great degree, if not entirely tie it up. Already the isolated instances of holdouts among the actors is keeping a large number of attractions from going into rehearsal.

William McCarthy, International Secretary of the International Alliance of Billposters and Billers of the United States and Canada, said yesterday that that organization would "unhesitatingly throw its whole strength and financial resources in the fight."

Details of the final break between the actors and the managers were not available, but it was understood that the insistence of the managers upon the actors withdrawing from the American Federation of Labor was a determining factor. The managers asked the elimination of Harry Mountford and James William Fitzpatrick, heads of the White Rats, from the negotiations and objected also to Francis Wilson.

Yesterday's meeting between the actors and the managers, held in the office of Sam H. Harris, was brief and consisted of little more than Mr. Harris informing the actors that negotiations were at an end.

ERLANGER, DILLINGHAM, ZIEGFELD JOIN FORCES

Associated for the Production of Plays and the Operation of a Chain of Theatres.

The alliance of A. L. Erlanger, Charles B. Dillingham, and Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., for the production on a large scale of plays and musical comedies, was made formally public yesterday. In addition to producing many attractions, the new firm expects also to operate a chain of theatres all over the country. Included in these are the twelve theatres for New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, and Detroit, which Mr. Erlanger announced a few days ago.

The new alliance is, of course, an outgrowth of the breaking up of Klaw and Erlanger, but Messrs. Dillingham and Ziegfeld are not taking over the interests held by Marc Klaw. The only exceptions to this are in the cases of a few theatres, hitherto controlled by Klaw and Erlanger, whose leases have expired or are about to expire. In this class was the Colonial Theatre in Boston, the lease upon which has been renewed for ten years by the Messrs. Erlanger, Dillingham, and Ziegfeld, instead of Klaw and Erlanger.

The three producers have been associated to a degree in the past, having been joint producers of the second of the "Hitchy-Koo" series. Mr. Dillingham and Mr. Ziegfeld also were associated in the management of the Century Theatre for two seasons. Although the new firm plans to be particularly active, the three men will also continue to produce as individuals.

"The Red Dawn," by Rev. Thomas Dixon.

Every once in a while—once or twice a season, perhaps—a play comes to town which, though written in deadly earnestness, is so hopelessly clumsy and preposterous that the first night audience, instead of sitting through the agony of sympathy which usually attends theatrical misfortune, gives way to helpless and honest merriment. So it was last evening at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre at the first New York performance of "The Red Dawn," a violent and incredible play by the Rev. Thomas Dixon. Mr. Dixon is best known to present-day America as the author of the book from which the scenario of "The Birth of a Nation" was derived.

"The Red Dawn" unfolds on an island a hundred miles off the California coast, where a wealthy young dreamer has founded a colony to prove that the theories of socialism are workable. The play deals with an attempt to gain control of this stronghold of radicalism in behalf of the "Central Soviet of Northern Russia. The Central Soviet, according to its evil-looking emissary, wants to use it as an outpost in a contemplated universal revolution, said to be at hand. Money? Why five billion counterfeit dollars will form the exchequer. Troops? Why there are one million ex-convicts, three million laborers offended at prohibition (this is a conservative estimate) and ten million negroes. The negroes, according to the Dixon drama, are all the more primed for it because the negro troops in France were incited on to bayonet practice by using as dummies not the familiar figures of German soldiers, but the more tempting figures of American whites. This is actually trumpeted in "The Red Dawn."

This familiar Dixon touch, this effort to distill all the poisons of hatred and fear, makes it difficult to let the new play pass on its way with no other record than that of the snickers which greeted its first performance. It was this sort of thing which made last night's audience receive with a feeling of resentment rather than a tolerant smile the author's brandishing of General Pershing to win applause for the finale of his lurid second act.

However, there is nothing much to worry about. "The Red Dawn" is a play, not a movie. This time Mr. Dixon has not the genius of David W. Griffith to help him spread his state of mind.

SOCIALIST FACTIONS NAME TWO TICKETS

BROOKLYN SPLIT COMPLETE

Urge Democratic Designation on Newberger—Citizens' Union Joins Fight.

For the first time in its history the Socialist Party in the city is faced with a serious split in the election this year. The Right and Left wings have each filed separate petitions in a number of close districts where the party has been successful, and a lively fight is expected in the primaries. Whichever wing is defeated on primary day, it is said, will carry the contest into the election in November. While the split is confined in Manhattan and the Bronx to one Municipal Court District and about a Dozen Assembly and Aldermanic Districts, it is complete in Brooklyn, both wings having filed separate tickets for all the offices to be filled there.

It was predicted by politicians yesterday that the division in the Socialist ranks will make it impossible for them to elect any candidates this year, although they have one Municipal Court Justice, two Assemblymen, and seven Aldermen now. In the districts where the Socialist vote is large, the Republicans and Democrats have agreed upon fusion in order to give the Socialist candidates no chance of winning, but with the Socialist vote divided, it is thought that the prospect of a Socialist's election becomes even more remote.

There is no contest in the Socialist Party ranks for President of the Board of Aldermen, Supreme Court, City Court, or Surrogate, the Right Wing having the field to themselves. The candidates designated for these offices are: President of the Board of Aldermen, James Oneal; Justice of the Supreme Court, Adolph Warshaw and Irving Ottenberg, City Court Judges, Henry Gilbert, Jacob Heenefield, and David Pantiel, and Surrogate, Isaac M. Sackin, counsel to the Rand School. For Municipal Court Justice, the Left Wing has designated only one candidate, Mrs. Fannie Horowitz, a lawyer of 299 Broadway, who will run in the Second District.

Names Hillquit's Brother.

In the First Assembly District the Right Wing candidate for the Assembly is Abraham Zucker, and his opponent Harry Winetzki; Second District, Abraham Tuvin and Elias Marks; Fourth District, Jacob Axelrad and Leo Barfuss; Eighth District, Lewis Weldman and Borris Liphschitz; Eighteenth District, Isidore Polstein and Fred Caiola.

In the Seventeenth Assembly District August Classens, the present Assemblyman, was redesignated by the Right Wing. In the Twenty-first District the Right Wing candidate is Miss Grace Campbell, a negress, head of the Harlem Negro Settlement House. In the Twenty-third District the candidate is Mrs. Mary McVicker, a grandmother.

In the Second Aldermanic District the contest is between Mrs. Rachel Panken, wife of Municipal Court Justice Jacob Panken, the Right Wing candidate, and Rose Pastor Stokes, who now belongs to the Left Wing, having left the regular organization last year. Mrs. Stokes is on bail pending an appeal of her case in the Kansas City court. In the Fourth District the Left Wing candidate, Alderman Adolph Held, is being opposed by Mrs. Rose Spanier. In the Eighth District the Right Wing candidate is Algernon Lee, present leader of the Socialists in the Aldermanic Board, and his opponent is Carl Brodsky. In the First Aldermanic District the Right Wing candidate is Mrs. Anna M. Sloan of 83 Washington Place, wife of John Sloan, the artist. There is no contest in this district. In the Twelfth District the candidate is Mrs. Bertha Mailly, Secretary of the Rand School, while in the Twenty-fifth District Mrs. Theresa S. Malkiel, a prominent Socialist worker, is the candidate.

John Godfrey Saxe, a member of the Executive Committee of the Joint Committee of the various Bar Associations, who have designated Justice Joseph E. Newburger in the Democratic and Republican primaries, and who is also a member of the Tammany Committee to Fill Vacancies, declared last night that in case Justice Newburger should decline the Bar Associations' designation for the Democratic primaries, he could not make any designation "which would be more pleasing to the Democratic organization than it would to the Bar Association." He said that the suggestion that he would favor Tammany Hall was "absolutely unwarranted," and that the other members of the Committee to Fill Vacancies, Senator James A. Foley, ... Gorman, ex-Justice ... and John H. Stanchfield, ... the same way about it ...

The Citizens Union, through its Chairman, William Jay Schieffelin, announced that it would take an active part in the fall campaign, and in addition to recommending candidates approved by its Committee on Candidates would form a large Campaign Committee for the purpose of taking part in the fight for the re-election of Justice Newburger. It will also probably enter actively into the campaign in behalf of some other candidates.

HOLD TWO IN COHEN CASE.

Police Find One Man and Other Surrenders Himself.

Max Baron, who was with Joseph Cohen, the furrier, when he was shot dead at Coney Island on Sunday, and who disappeared immediately after the killing, was found yesterday by the police. Another man who was wanted in connection with the same event, Benjamin Sugar, surrendered himself yesterday. Both men were questioned by District Attorney Lewis. Sugar was accompanied to the District Attorney's office by his lawyer, F. X. McCaffry.

Baron told the District Attorney that he, Harry Korman, who was wounded and is in the hospital, and two other men whose names he does not remember went to Coney Island early Sunday morning. There they had an altercation with Sugar and Sugar was beaten up.

Shortly after noon Baron, Korman, the two unidentified men, and Cohen, at Cohen's invitation, started for a restaurant on Mermaid Avenue. A short distance from the restaurant they met Sugar and some friends. A fight started and then Baron says he heard shooting, but did not know who did the firing.

Baron, Korman, Sugar, and Jack Horodner will be arraigned in the Coney Island Court this morning.

FRENCH DECORATE CRAVATH

Legion of Honor Cross Is Awarded for Services in the War.

At a luncheon held yesterday at the Midday Club, at which plans for the newly organized Federation of American Agencies for Relief in France were discussed, Paul Cravath, Treasurer of the federation, was decorated with the Cross of the Legion of Honor. The decoration was awarded by Minister Plenipotentiary Casenave, head of the French High Commission in this country, in honor of Cravath's services to France in the war.

M. Casenave made a brief address extending the felicitations and appreciation of the French Government to Mr. Cravath. He also spoke of the projected work of the Federation of American Agencies for Relief in France, which has just been organized under official direction of the French Government. This federation is to include practically all of the numerous Franco American war relief organizations with the aim of co-ordinating their work and securing greater efficiency without affecting the independent existence of these organizations.

Education Notes.

The Board of Examiners was directed yesterday by the Board of Education to issue a regular license as a teacher of ungraded classes to Miss May De Haas Schmure, who was refused a regular license because she had passed the age limit for the position, but who has acted as a substitute for fourteen years. Mrs. Ruth F. Russell reported that in 241 ungraded classes there were only 48 persons who had regular licenses.

The Board of Education approved the organization of evening schools for the season of 1919-'20. It also approved of the organization in Sunday school buildings, to be known as annexes of various evening schools, of classes in English to foreigners and industrial classes for the purpose of furthering the work of Americanization.

A request was received from Henry R. Linville, President of the Teachers' Union, asking permission to use school houses for meetings of that association. The motion was referred to Frank D. Wilsey. The desired permission will be granted if the Teachers' Union agrees to live up to the rules and regulations of the Board of Education.

A letter was received from the Brooklyn Heads of Departments Association protesting against the exclusion of women from the examination for license for Principal, to be held Nov. 28. It was said that this would be the fifth examination for men only. George J. Ryan spoke against this practice. The matter was referred to a committee, consisting of himself, Mrs. Ruth F. Russell, and Joseph Yeska.

Gray Goods Drag Badly.

Gray goods business dragged badly in this market yesterday. First hands again figuratively rested on their oars, and buyers largely took their cue from them. Second hands were more liberal in their offerings and more anxious to sell goods than they were a week or so ago, and quite a little business from these sources was reported yesterday at "confidential" prices. These were said not only to be well under the mill quotations for the goods concerned, but also lower than recent sales of them from second hands. Second-hand nominal asking prices were based on 23 cents for 39-inch 72-76s and 15 cents for 38½-inch 60-48s, but sales were made lower than this for shipment during the month. The rest of the market was quiet and featureless.

American Fashions for Paris.

An interesting reversal of trade conditions is indicated in a transaction made a few days ago in the Women's Wear Department of the Bush Terminal Sales Building. The representative of one of the famous French fashion houses ordered a line of samples, consisting of coats, suits, and dresses, which will be shipped to Paris. From the office of the firm in that city, commissioners will be delegated to offer the line throughout Europe. That a French house should undertake to sell American fashions abroad is considered a tribute to the styles produced in this country.

Tendencies in Women's Wear.

Tendencies in woman's wear for the Fall were summed up as follows by one large operator: "In suits the trend is towards the new flare model. The straight lined velvet model is meeting an exceptionally good demand in the coat trade. The loose back coat, belted in front, has been a ready seller. Fur trimmed suits and coats continue to hold a prominent place in present operations. Beaver, Hudson seal, and nutria are the trimmings chiefly used in garments, and skunk, opossum, and raccoon show up well in coats."

Drug Sales Are Active.

Business in drugs and chemicals is steady and active, Drug and Chemical Markets will say today. There is a good demand for export, and the most significant price changes have been upward. Glycerine is higher, and mercurials have advanced in sympathy with quicksilver. In heavy chemicals there has been an upward movement, owing to depletion of stocks. The aniline dye market is active, and stocks of some products have been heavily reduced. The price tendency is upward. In natural dyestuffs the trading is largely routine. A feature of essential oils was the receipt from the Grasse district in France of reports that the crops of lavender, rose, and other flowers are small.

Has Some Novel French Hats.

Among the novel French hats which a local manufacturer imported for copying purposes is one that is made of velvet and "skiver skin," a very shiny leather, and that is elaborately embroidered in various colors. The lines and colors of all of the imported hats are attractive, and the copies are said to be quite as good looking as the originals. This manufacturer also is going to copy some imported French mourning hats. While the originals are for the most part made of crêpe, it is the intention of the manufacturer to reproduce them in the various mourning silks that are used in this country. These hats are somewhat out of the ordinary, and are less conservative in their "lines" than those ordinarily seen.

Silk Shirts Are Scarce.

The long and heavy demand on silk shirts has finally resulted in the scarcity predicted by sellers. Despite the high prices asked, shirts formerly selling for $68 a dozen being quoted now at $120, the retailers have cleaned the manufacturers out of practically everything salable. The shirt manufacturers are slowly getting behind in deliveries and, where a few months ago small purchases might be made from stock carried in the local showrooms, now it is said to be impossible to get even a few much-needed dozens.

St. Louis Fur Sale Date Changed.

The opening date of the Fall auction sale of raw furs at St. Louis has been advanced from Sept. 15 to Sept. 10. This has been done, according to a statement made by Funsten Brothers & Co. of that city, because of the requests of a number of buyers and because of the dates on which the Jewish holidays fall this year. It was further announced that the change will give more time for dressing, dyeing, and preparing the furs for the retail trade. All shipments of furs intended for the sale must be in the warehouse of the company in St. Louis not later than Aug. 25. After telling of the continuance of the strong demand for furs, the statement says, in part, that "the available stocks, particularly of the American staples, are probably the smallest ever known in the history of the trade."

Did Not Pass Resolution.

In the account of the meeting of the American Association of Woolen and Worsted Manufacturers, which appeared in THE TIMES of yesterday, it was stated that a resolution was passed pledging the organization to ask Congress that the hours of work of mill employes be increased. This was an error, as the resolution was offered to the meeting but failed to be either seconded or passed.

Manufacture Before Selling.

The sentiment seems growing in the clothing trade that, if labor and materials continue to increase in price after orders are taken, the industry will have to return to its former method of operation when goods were made before they were sold. On the orders taken last April for Fall clothing one of the prominent manufacturers professes to have lost $2 a suit. Unless advances are asked on original prices the manufacturers see no way of guarding themselves against such losses, except possibly to put high prices on their merchandise and then make rebates at the end of the season.

Gray Goods Drag Badly.

Gray goods business dragged badly in this market yesterday. First hands again figuratively rested on their oars, and buyers largely took their cue from them. Second hands were more liberal in their offerings and more anxious to sell goods than they were a week or so ago, and quite a little business from these sources was reported yesterday at "confidential" prices. These were said not only to be well under the mill quotations for the goods concerned, but also lower than recent sales of them from second hands. Second-hand nominal asking prices were based on 23 cents for 39-inch 72-76s and 15 cents for 38½-inch 60-48s, but sales were made lower than this for shipment during the month. The rest of the market was quiet and featureless.

American Fashions for Paris.

An interesting reversal of trade conditions is indicated in a transaction made a few days ago in the Women's Wear Department of the Bush Terminal Sales Building. The representative of one of the famous French fashion houses ordered a line of samples, consisting of coats, suits, and dresses, which will be shipped to Paris. From the office of the firm in that city, commissioners will be delegated to offer the line throughout Europe. That a French house should undertake to sell American fashions abroad is considered a tribute to the styles produced in this country.

Tendencies in Women's Wear.

Tendencies in woman's wear for the Fall were summed up as follows by one large operator: "In suits the trend is towards the new flare model. The straight lined velvet model is meeting an exceptionally good demand in the coat trade. The loose back coat, belted in front, has been a ready seller. Fur trimmed suits and coats continue to hold a prominent place in present operations. Beaver, Hudson seal, and nutria are the trimmings chiefly used in garments, and skunk, opossum, and raccoon show up well in coats."

Drug Sales Are Active.

Business in drugs and chemicals is steady and active, Drug and Chemical Markets will say today. There is a good demand for export, and the most significant price changes have been upward. Glycerine is higher, and mercurials have advanced in sympathy with quicksilver. In heavy chemicals there has been an upward movement, owing to depletion of stocks. The aniline dye market is active, and stocks of some products have been heavily reduced. The price tendency is upward. In natural dyestuffs the trading is largely routine. A feature of essential oils was the receipt from the Grasse district in France of reports that the crops of lavender, rose, and other flowers are small.

Has Some Novel French Hats.

Among the novel French hats which a local manufacturer imported for copying purposes is one that is made of velvet and "skiver skin," a very shiny leather, and that is elaborately embroidered in various colors. The lines and colors of all of the imported hats are attractive, and the copies are said to be quite as good looking as the originals. This manufacturer also is going to copy some imported French mourning hats. While the originals are for the most part made of crêpe, it is the intention of the manufacturer to reproduce them in the various mourning silks that are used in this country. These hats are somewhat out of the ordinary, and are less conservative in their "lines" than those ordinarily seen.

Silk Shirts Are Scarce.

The long and heavy demand on silk shirts has finally resulted in the scarcity predicted by sellers. Despite the high prices asked, shirts formerly selling for $68 a dozen being quoted now at $120, the retailers have cleaned the manufacturers out of practically everything salable. The shirt manufacturers are slowly getting behind in deliveries and, where a few months ago small purchases might be made from stock carried in the local showrooms, now it is said to be impossible to get even a few much-needed dozens.

St. Louis Fur Sale Date Changed.

The opening date of the Fall auction sale of raw furs at St. Louis has been advanced from Sept. 15 to Sept. 10. This has been done, according to a statement made by Funsten Brothers & Co. of that city, because of the requests of a number of buyers and because of the dates on which the Jewish holidays fall this year. It was further announced that the change will give more time for dressing, dyeing, and preparing the furs for the retail trade. All shipments of furs intended for the sale must be in the warehouse of the company in St. Louis not later than Aug. 25. After telling of the continuance of the strong demand for furs, the statement says, in part, that "the available stocks, particularly of the American staples, are probably the smallest ever known in the history of the trade."

Did Not Pass Resolution.

In the account of the meeting of the American Association of Woolen and Worsted Manufacturers, which appeared in THE TIMES of yesterday, it was stated that a resolution was passed pledging the organization to ask Congress that the hours of work of mill employes be increased. This was an error, as the resolution was offered to the meeting but failed to be either seconded or passed.

Manufacture Before Selling.

The sentiment seems growing in the clothing trade that, if labor and materials continue to increase in price after orders are taken, the industry will have to return to its former method of operation when goods were made before they were sold. On the orders taken last April for Fall clothing one of the prominent manufacturers professes to have lost $2 a suit. Unless advances are asked on original prices the manufacturers see no way of guarding themselves against such losses, except possibly to put high prices on their merchandise and then make rebates at the end of the season.

MEXICO WILL PASS NEW OIL LAWS SOON

Congress Will Take Up President Carranza's Proposals the Middle of the Month.

NO PERMITS TO JAPANESE

Chief of Oil Bureau Doubts That They Could Get Much Oil Land Now—Permits Explained.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5.—Oil legislation will be taken up about the middle of this month by the extraordinary session of the Mexican Congress, which will base its consideration of the subject on the message sent to Congress last November by President Carranza, according to a statement made today to The Associated Press by Leon Salinas, acting head of the Department of Industry and Commerce, and also chief of the oil bureau of that department. Señor Salinas declared that, in so far as his department was concerned, the question of new oil legislation was closed, saying that the department, in issuing provisional permits for oil interests to sink wells, had turned the whole question over to Congress for final disposition.

Discussing the reports that Japanese interests are securing oil lands on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Mexico, Señor Salinas declared that his department had no official record of such transactions, and that Japanese oil men had made no inquiries at the department. He admitted, however, that it would be possible for them to secure holdings from private individuals, and that his department would not be advised as to these deals. Since most of the oil territory along the Atlantic coast is held by American, British, or other interests, Señor Salinas said it seemed hardly probable that any newcomers could acquire important holdings by purchasing small tracts from Mexicans.

Referring to "Circular No. 9," giving permission for the sinking of oil wells, which was issued under date of Aug. 1 by the direction of President Carranza, the acting head of the department said:

"This circular is intended to be a temporary solution of the fuel problem. Oil companies have complained that their supplies were running low and that they could not fill their contract because they were not permitted to drill wells as a result of the non-compliance with the provisions of the decree of July 31, 1918. The Mexican Government, for the purpose of showing its helpful disposition, gives permission for companies to drill wells, providing they subject themselves to the law which will be enacted by the Mexican Congress."

Nothing is as yet available regarding the attitude which oil companies will take with regard to "Circular No. 9." It is understood they have contended that if they accepted the conditions contained in the decrees prior to the issuance of "Circular No. 9" they would, in effect, accept the nationalization of their property. The decrees have provided for the payment of royalties on production and such payments would be, it is held, in substance a recognition of nationalization.

Señor Salinas said the Mexican Government had full knowledge concerning oil companies which were "leading a campaign against the Mexican Government," but that "despite this fact the Mexican Government is not using this knowledge to hamper the companies' operations, although this could be easily done."

Luis Cabrera, Secretary of the Treasury, stated today that should the American State Department present claims of Americans for damages suffered during the revolution, they would be placed in the hands of a commission for investigation, according to newspapers here. He added that the findings of the commission would be submitted to the Mexican Government as a basis for negotiations. Señor Cabrera stated that he did not believe American claims would be presented through diplomatic channels, but would be turned over to the recently organized commission on reclamation for settlement.

Señor Cabrera's statement was made in connection with a discussion of special dispatches received here saying that the American State Department would present claims against the Mexican Government for about 27,000,000 pesos.

ALLIES POOL PORK BUYING.

Will Purchase Jointly Through One Agency in America.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—The allied Governments, as represented at the conference of their representatives in London, have agreed to undertake the joint purchase of pork products through a common buying agency in the United States. It is expected the arrangement will go into effect on Aug. 8.

Germany, through the Reparations Commission, will probably be required to buy its pork products through the same agency in order to avoid competition.

LIFTS BAN ON POTASH.

War Trade Board Allows Importation from Germany.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—German potash may be imported into the United States under a ruling today by the War Trade Board, which removed the commodity from war-time restrictions.

The American potash industry has asked for protection for several years, but farmers' organizations have requested that importation be permitted as a means of lowering the cost of living. Legislation now pending in Congress levies a new and higher tariff on potash.
